The House That Love Built

It takes a lot of love for anything to last, so they say.

If that axiom proves true a house that last week became a home at 414 Benson Dr., Groveport, just might outlast the best of California's Redwoods.

THE HOUSE is not just any ordinary house. It was built by the Eastland Joint Vocational Center electricity and carpentry classes with assists from the adult education plumbing classes and a host of suppliers who provided services and materials.

Even Mr. Blanding's dream house would be rivaled by this lovely four-level, three bedroom, one and a half baths and full garage residence.

The new owners are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Groves who purchased the house for $23,700 through the FHA. That was the pre-appraisal price by FHA standards. The house could have been marketed for more than $26,000 today but an agreement is an agreement and Eastland is a school with honor.

A RIBBON-cutting was the fitting climax to the many hours of labor by the classes and others who put the love of construction from their hearts into every nook and cranny of the house.

The project started last year and with almost perfect construction late into the year the workers were able to make 'hay' while the sun shined.

The Associated Builders and Contractors were the guiding force behind the project. They arranged for the lot purchase and material flow to enable the class to get the project completed on time.

Executive Director Sam Hebdo said, "This is another example of what technical and vocational education can mean to a youngster. They worked hand in hand with experienced men and frankly, learned together, with the students adding much knowledge to some of the servicemen who contributed."

"IT WAS a team effort", said Dwight Swepston, president, Central Ohio Chapter, ABS. "The results of their combined efforts shows in the excellent workmanship."

Powell added, "I'm real proud as can be of all those who had anything to do with the house. It is combined efforts that were responsible."

Smith said, "It's gratifying to know that what you hoped you were teaching, not only has been absorbed, but put into such a beautiful house."

AMONG firms that contributed services and materials were: Columbus Automatic Sprayer; Venetian Marble; Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning Co.; Henderson Supply Co., Westwater Supply Co.; Eastway Supplies Co., Parsons Floor and Cabinet Co.; Virginia Homes, Construction Electric Co., C.V. Perry and Co., James W. Fox Co., Hockaden-Lipes-Rousculp, Inc., Ace Portable Toilets and Honeywell, Inc.

Eastland Courses Scheduled

The Eastland Vocational Center will offer summer school courses for high school students and adults.

Classes will begin June 12 for adults and June 19 for high school students.

A list of classes being offered and fee schedule will be published next week.

In most instances there must be a minimum of 20 students enrolled to assure that the course will actually be held.

Bexley Resident Studies Ant Life

Larry Pullin of 2523 Sherwood Rd., has ants--but he likes it that way. In fact he's raised a whole colony.

As part of his master's degree research at Ohio State University, Pullin established a laboratory colony of ants, and discovered that each ant had its specialized role and performed its duty to the exclusion of any others.

"If you watch them for a while," he said, "you can see each ant doing exactly what it's supposed to. The queen is the only one that can lay eggs, so she's necessary to the survival of the community. The soldiers' protect the garden by tearing apart any intruders with their oversized mandibles. Those are the two tooth-like structures protruding from the front of their heads," he said.

The queen, who is about one inch long, rarely ventures far from the seclusion of the garden. Fuzzy white fungus, growing on bits of leaves deposited in sponge-like material in the "garden," is the sole source of food for the community. Besides the garden chamber are two others, one containing oak and maple leaves, and the other, trash.

"You can see smaller ants moving towards the leaf chamber. When they get over there, they systematically cut off the right size of leaf with their mandibles, and carry it back to the garden. Then the fungus grows on these little pieces of leaves."

He explained the interdependent relationship between the ants and the fungus as "symbiosis." The fungus is the ants' only source of food, and is only grown as a result of the ants' activities.

Pullin has dubbed another group of ant workers as "fungus tenders." Their only purpose is to prune the white fuzz.

The final group of medium-sized ants are the "trash haulers." They can be seen moving along a tube, carrying remnants of dead leaves to the community dump.

Pullin began the project at the suggestion of his advisor, Dr. Charles A. Triplehorn, professor of entomology at Ohio State. The Columbus Zoo helped initiate the study in June, 1971, by providing the funds to acquire the ants.

Pullin's ants were dug up in the sandy Louisiana soil, the only place they are known to exist in the U.S. besides Texas. Commonly known as "Texas leaf-cutting ants" or "town ants," they are regarded as pests for their ability to ruin the area's supply of pine trees.

"And they've actually been known to defoliate an apple tree overnight," Pullin said.

In spite of the ants' notoriety as pests, Pullin said his study was not made in any attempt to learn to control them.

"It was really to establish a technique of rearing them in a laboratory," he said.

Pullin received his master's degree in entomology from Ohio State last month, and is now a full-time instructor in beginning biology. He was granted a BS in pharmacy from Ohio Northern University in 1966.

'YOUTH WITH A PURPOSE'

Eastland FFA Honors Parents, Cooperators

"FFA, Youth with a Purpose" was the theme of the Eastland Future Farmers of America parent, son, daughter, and cooperator banquet held May 4, in the Eastland Vocational Center Cafeteria. It climaxed an active and rewarding year for the Center's Future Farmers of America members.

Robert Williams, Groveport Implement Company, was presented the Honorary Chapter Degree Award for the counsel and material support he has provided the Chapter.

Williams was especially helpful with the Chapter's "No-tillage" corn project. He made available the specialized equipment needed for the successful demonstration of this new method of corn growing and also spent many hours with the students and their advisor in the planning and implementation of the project.

CHAPTER members receiving recognition for the specific program areas were: Kristy Gutridge, Whitehall, Horticulture; Gary Fenice, Pickerington, Agricultural Mechanics; and Richard Clifton, Ashville, Agricultural Business. Each of them received an attractive plaque designating their selection as the outstanding student for 1971-72 in their instructional program at the Center.

Speakers for the banquet program were David Branham, President, Ohio FFA Association, and Dr. Earl Kantner, Executive Secretary, Ohio FFA Association.

Student officers for 1972-73 are Gary Fenice, president; Bob Elam, vice president; Becky Moorehead, secretary; Lloyd Barton, treasurer; Larry Woodward, reporter and Dan Wilson, sentinel.

The program was as follows: Toastmaster, Gary Fenice; invocation, Marcia Eppley; welcome, Darrell Lemons; summary of activities, Bob Elam; introduction of special guests, Gary Fenice; "My Four Seasons At Burwell's" by Kristy Gutridge; special music, Groveport High School musical aggregation; agricultural mechanics awards, Wilbur Stevenson; horticulture award, Gene Houser; agricultural business award, Clyde Keathley; recognition of FFA Queen, Gary Fenice; honorary member awards, Franklin Miller; recognition of agricultural business cooperators and advisory committee, Sandy Ratliff; recognition of horticulture cooperators and advisory committee, Linda Edwards; recognition of agricultural mechanics cooperators and advisory committee, Elwood Ziegler; Camp Scholarships: Warren Weiler (Darrell Lemons), Robert Blades (Kristy Gutridge); Arthur Fenice (Larry Woodward), Nathaniel Woodward (Gary Fenice) and Eastland FFA (James West).

Advisory committee members in the community are: Agricultural Business - Dick Brown, Wayne Eckert, David Green, Ted Keller, Ray Rutherford, Joe Sanderell, Richard Stafford and Jack Wynkoop; Agricultural Mechanics - Peter Blades, Kenton Eubanks, Larry Heaton, William Niday, Ralph Smith, Gale Taylor and Robert Williams. Horticulture - Robert Cuthbert, Eve Genereux, Ray Schuler, Howard Warwick, Vivien Hickman, Wolfgang Matzke, Ray Sims, Lou Viereck and Paris Fracasso.

The FFA is an organization of students preparing for careers in agriculture or agri-related fields. Members are involved in learning modern business and production techniques. The knowledge they are gaining will enable them to become part of the labor-management team required to feed, clothe, and house the rapidly expanding world population.

EASTLAND FFA members are students in the Center's three vocational agriculture programs. Today, Vo-Ag has been broadened to include instruction in off-farm training programs. These non-farm areas include Horticulture, Agricultural Business, and Agricultural Mechanics. It is estimated that by 1980 there will be a 25 percent increase in employment opportunities in these off-farm areas of agriculture.

As one of 12 officers in charge of the Ohio FFA Association, Gary will have a major responsibility in the development and implementation of programming involving more than 16,000 Ohio members.

VOCATIONAL education in agriculture is experiencing continued growth in Ohio. Specialty programs such as Agricultural Mechanics, in which Gary is enrolled at the Eastland Vocational Center, are preparing students for the employment and leadership needs of the various segments of the agricultural industry. The FFA is a vital, intracurricular part of these programs.

THE KISSING BANDITS were loose at the Eastland Future Farmers of America (FFA) banquet and awards program last Thursday at the Vocational Center. For one brave soul it was an admission of a "first kiss for a queen" since he became State FFA president. That would be David Branham, far right bottom, who took a deep breath then let it all out by planting a kiss on Eastland FFA Queen Miss Kristy Gutridge. David was given the honor of presenting Miss Gutridge a bouquet of roses while Eastland FFA president Gary Fenice, second from left, placed her crown. At far left is Eastland FFA advisor Clyde Keathley. The photo at top right shows Mrs. Arthur Fenice being double-pecked by her husband and son in recognition of just being a fine mother and wife. Opposes Closing Mound Street

To the Editor:

The citizens have built and maintained Mound Street with their tax dollars. Capital University pays no taxes.

The recent closing of Mound Street between Pleasant Ridge and College Avenues, at the request of the University, has arbitrarily abrogated the rights of its citizenry. I petition the Mayor to reopen the street immediately.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Once upon a time, a long time ago, George Manker Watters and Arthur Hopkins wrote a play about backstage burlesque and, strangely enough, called it "BURLESQUE."

In looking through the program for the Worthington Players production (they call theirs "BURLESK") last Friday night, I failed to see the authors mentioned. However in type large enough to knock your eye out, was the name of the director, Hez Diefenthaler. As it turned out, some of the more enjoyable moments in the vehicle were penned by Hez - such as the "Burlesk Show" at the end.

In the first third of this century the word Burlesque held a different connatation than it does today. Some of the finest talents, legitimate actors as well as comedians, got their start doing "two a day" - sometimes three - in the larger cities all over the country. The boards of the Roxy in Cleveland were trod by some of the best of them.

Mr. Diefenthaler has attempted to bring back some of the pathos and humor of that time. I just wish he had cut a little more of the original script and substituted his marvelous memories in its stead.

Roger and Bonnie Curley played the husband and wife troupers Skid and Bonnie. I don't know where Roger learned his double takes and clownishness, but he certainly came out a winner in my book. Ron Fox dredged up a good characterization as the naive but rich southern cattle rancher in love with Bonnie. He underplayed it just enough to appear sincere and extremely comical.

Maybe I'm a little predjudiced when it comes to Bob Ratusz, who romps through the role of Bozo, but I think he was a top banana. You see, I've watched him grow up in the last five years - from life guard at Mt. Air pool to fledgling to actor - and I must admit to more than just a bit of pride in watching him perform.

The technical side of the show could have been a bit more authentic, costumes were mixed as to period. But then Marty Snyder, who portrays Maizie, would look good in just about anything you threw her way. And I'm a girl, so what do you suppose the fellas think?

Why not drop in and see for yourself at the theater of the Josephinum College on N. High Street in Worthington, just 500 yards north of 270, May 26 and 27 at 8:30 p.m.

In order to promote their "Street of Yesteryear", the Center of Science and Industry has asked ACT Columbus to produce a melodrama at the Center July 21, 22, 28, 28, 29 and 30. Jean Ann Weaver will direct "For her child's sake or her first falst step." Tryouts are set for May 26, 29 and 30 at 8 p.m. at COSI, 280 E. Broad St.

HOLIDAY INN-REYNOLDSBURG

Susan Lambi, a pretty thing with a lovely voice, is in her third week at the Holiday Inn-Reynoldsburg. In today's market, Susan is not only an unusual act but, to me, a welcome relief. Her act is built around good music, that is soft, quiet and easy on the ears.

Susan accompanies herself on the organ. It is a brand new-model Hammond (for you organ buffs, an XPT). It is really something different.

While Susan's voice is a great credit to her act, her keyboard artistry at the electric organ leaves a lot to be desired. She simply is weak in this department. Basic chords, no riffs and an almost total lack of feeling is the best way to describe her keyboard talents.

What she lacks in this department, Susan more than makes up for in the vocal arena. This gal comes on with a deep, beautiful voice that reaches the point of being clear as mountain water. Besides having good tonal quality, Susan knows what to do with what she has. This blond, sexy vocalist is a true stylist. I could listen to her sing several sets and not be bored.

I, for one, am glad she is such a strong vocalist. It covers up her inadequacy with the electric ivorys. Her rendition of, "I Don't Know How To Love Him" stops practically everyone in their tracks.

Yet, on the whole, Susan's act can not be described as a dynamic, powerful act. It is designed basically as background music, so that you may sip your favorite beverage and conduct conversation. But there are times, as I said, when this gal makes you stop and listen.

So get out to the Holiday Inn-Reynoldsburg soon. Even if you are deaf, I'm sure you men will appreciate her. Just sit and look.

RAMADA SOUTH

Continuing with its policy of country and western entertainment, The Ramada Inn South has brought another very fine act to Columbus for the next three weeks. It's the Marty Martel Show. Now, if this name sounds familiar to you, it should.

Marty played a club where I reviewed him about four years ago. It was the old Sands (now Jim Otis' Time Out). At that time I think it was called The Grand Old Opry. Also Marty had a number one record on the WMNI charts last fall as well as playing a show at the Veterans Building last year. So, you see, he is no stranger to local Country and Western fans.

Marty, along with three other men, present one of the nicest sounding, most solid C & W groups I've heard in a long time.

His vocal quality and style are superaville. I am not a fan of this type of music, but this boy I love to hear. He takes the cream right off the milk with his handling of the ballads. Marty is not only a singer, but a real showman in every sense of the word.

The three men backing him up are no slouches either. Besides Marty playa the rhythm guitar and Pat Deer does a terrific job on the electric guitar. He just doesn't pluck the thing, he plays it for all it's worth. Pat gets a host of fine chords and harmonic sounds. Yep, a real artist. Then there is Pat's brother, Bob, on the electric bass. He is about average. But wait until you hear him sing. Bob has a very rich, full voice, that's rather deep. He is another goodie. Drummer Eddie Chambliss is a showy type performer with the sticks who plays plenty of good riffs. This fellow is by no means the typical C & W type of drummer.

Put them all together and they spell plenty of strong entertainment. If you are a country and western fan, then this act is an absolute must for you. Even if you have not been a great lover of country music--try them, you'll like them. The name again is Marty Martel. The place-Ramada Inn South.

Jimmy Rea, director of the Free Christian Drive-In Theatre tells me that this unique theatre opens its 23rd season this Saturday and Sunday. Located one block south of 1900 W. Mound St., The Free Christian Drive-In is just that - free. There is no admission charge.

Donations are accepted. This is the only theatre of its kind in the central Ohio area. All films are of Christian nature with a religious theme or teaching as the basic plot. Needless to say, it is suited for the entire family.

Rea says that the grounds are in better shape than ever. There is more parking area, more lights and a new public address system with a lot more speakers. Also, there is more seating for those of you who do not care to sit in cars.

Following his traditional policy, Jimmy Rea will give free soda pop to all kids 15 and under. As in the past, prizes will be presented to the church group having the greatest number present each weekend. A brand new tape recorder is the prize for this week.

Churches or individuals interested in receiving a list of films scheduled to be shown at the Free Christian Drive-In, can obtain one by writing to: Interdenominational Drive-In Christian Film Association, 540 W. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio.

To me, this is an excellent place to take the family some Saturday or Sunday evening. Let's pack the place, starting this weekend.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

A couple or three years ago I told you about a really fine place to dine. Since then, nothing has changed, except the owners have gotten a little older. The place I'm referring to, is Kuenning's Restaurant at 3015 E. Main St. After hearing a couple of rumors Around Town that the spot is for sale, I dropped in the other day. After fighting my way through the crowd and sitting down, I figured anybody selling this place had to be out of his mind. And I was right. The rumors are completely untrue. According to Ralph Kuenning, Jr., the restaurant is not for sale - and never has been. I was glad to hear this because I, like hundreds, love to eat there. Will tell you more about the food later... The highly entertaining Keith - Charles Duo has been held over again at the popular Lincoln Lodge. This twosome is one of the most classy, professional duos I've seen or heard in a long time. I think the proof is in the pudding, judging by the crowds that have been flocking to the Lodge...Opening next Monday at the Olentangy Inn is the Bill and Glenn Duo. These two are just about the funniest duo in show biz. Besides being good instrumentalists and vocalists, their comedy reigns supreme ... Attention Bob Braun fans! Bob brings his 50-50 Club to the Veterans Building next Friday. Bob, along with his entire cast, will be here for their live telecast of the 50-50 Club. Be sure to watch... Don't forget the VIP Restaurants. These places continue to serve darn good food in a very pleasant atmosphere. The VIP East (on Hamilton Rd.), also serves your favorite cocktails. Don't forget their fun time cocktail hour with special reduced prices... Starting tonight, The Columbus-Springfield Dinner opens with the hilarious comedy "Pajama Tops." Take my word, based on past performances of the Columbus - Springfield Dinner Theatre, don't go to this one unless you are in perfect condition. You'll laugh yourself silly... Last, but not least, don't forget the Giner's Sherwood Inn. There is always plenty happening there. There is nice dinner music during the week, then on Friday and Saturday Ed Hix and The Townsmen take over.

Three Sections Worth

THE 11TH annual Summer Arts Festival to be presented in the Capitol Square area of downtown Columbus will feature a huge painting by Roger Williams. Williams, noted Columbus artist and winner of last's year's Juried Show, was asked to display a painting which would be displayed on the Columbus Recreation Department's Showmobile. Somewhat of a mystery in its present development, this original painting of Williams must, because of its huge size, be created in three separate sections, each measuring six by 12 feet. The total painting when completed will be 12ft by 18 feet. Dramatic not only in size, the visual impact of form and color should provoke a stimulating experience for all who view it at this year's festival, June 2 through June 5.

Postal Employees Charge 'Foot-Dragging', Will Picket

Employees will throw a ring of pickets today around Columbus postal installations as part of a nationwide union protest over "foot-dragging" by postal managers and Congress on bargaining rights and political freedom.

William Tullos, General President of the Columbus Local of the American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO, said "union members are just as fed up as the public is over deteriorating mail service – but we know where the blame lies and how to correct it.

"SERVICE to the public," he said, "is only one casualty of postal management's continuing failure to bargain in good faith. Employee morale has also been damaged. And the two are interdependent."

Tullos explained that the information picketing today is designed to focus public attention "on the failure of Management to bargain in good faith on local issues here and across the nation." He said literally thousands of bargaining impasses have resulted.

"The picketing," he continued, "is also aimed at dramatizing the failure of Congress to give us political rights the equal of those enjoyed by workers in private industry – namely, the right to strike and the right to participate in political action."

TULLOS CHARGED that Postal Management and Congress "have seized on so-called postal reform to suspend us in political limbo."

"Today we are neither public nor private employees," he continued, "neither fish nor fowl. We are strikeless hybrids entitled to the worst of both worlds while subject to the whimsical abuse of enormous management powers from the top to the bottom of the postal pyramid.

"In short, we are outrageously restricted by the Hatch Act, an outstanding example of legislative overkill, and outrageously restricted by postal reform in terms of equality at the bargaining table.

"THE BRIGHT promise of postal reform is yielding us no more in terms of basic rights than it is the public in terms of better service. Only the cost goes up and up."

The local demonstration coincides with similar protests in most other American cities and a Giant Protest Rally on the Mall adjacent to the Washington Monument in Washington where key members of Congress have been invited to speak.

Arts, Crafts Scheduled

The Columbus Recreation Department's Adult Arts and Crafts Center will open its classes to teenagers during the summer session which begins June 19.

Teenagers can enroll for the eight-week term in courses that are taught by professional craftsmen on a studio-workshop basis.

The hours for the summer will be in the mornings from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and in the afternoons from 1 to 4.

Adults or teenagers may enroll by calling the Art Center at 221-8802, or by stopping at the Center, 734 Oak St. for an application blank.

State Income Tax Deadline June 15

Ohio Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar has announced plans for a concentrated educational and taxpayer assistance program designed to increase compliance in the filing of individual quarterly estimated personal income tax returns.

Noting the second individual quarterly estimated return is due on or before June 15, Kosydar said his department will have tax agents located at various points in all 88 counties from June 1 through June 15 to provide taxpayer assistance.

THE COMMISSIONER said the added emphasis with respect to the filing of quarterly returns is being made as less than one-half of the estimated quarterly taxpayers filed returns for the first quarter which were due Apr. 15.

Although the law provides for a penalty of five per cent per month (up to a maximum of 25 per cent) plus six per cent interest for not filing estimated returns, Kosydar said the department will allow Ohioans liable for quarterly payments to file their first quarter payment along with the second quarter payment up through June 15 without penalty.

"This will be the limit however," Kosydar said, "as we feel everyone required to file quarterly estimates should be aware of the provisions of the new tax after six months and after June 15 we will definctely begin to assess the penalty."

KOSYDAR announced there will be Tax Department personnel in the County Auditor's Office during the usual working hours to assist taxpayers in the preparation of the Ohio Individual Estimated Income Tax return.

In addition, Agents will be available at the following locations in Columbus: Ohio National Bank branch offices at Great Southern, Beechwold, Great Western and Broad-Hamilton and in tax offices located at 68 E. Gay St. and 741 E. Broad St.

The Outlook Wasn't Brilliant Etc.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON on Whetstone's diamond was one ball game Eastmoor's Warriors would gladly like to wipe off the record books. The handwriting was on the scoreboard early in the District tourney finale in the form of three Upper Arlington runs. Things didn't get any better as the normally slick-fielding defending District champs coughed up seven errors and were held at bay on the offensive side by the shutout mound work of UA hurler Jeff Feusner. Anguish tells on the face of E-M cleanup hitter Ed Shipp (top right) as he heads for first base after a 3-2 offering only to hear "strike three" from the umpire. Warrior skipper Ron Golden (7) signals silence from the E-M dugout (bottom right) as catcher George Foster disputes a close call by plate umpire. Glum-faced Warrior outfielder Richie Heim walks off the field with runnerup trophy (picture at left) following 9-0 setback. Second-place wasn't what the Warriors came for. Hawks Hijack CCL Lead

Waterlooed E-M Wary; Scots Plot Friday Coup

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator sports Editor

There was plenty of prep diamond action poppin' among Eastside schools last week--and a whole lot more is on tap before most area leagues call it a season this Friday.

Biggest news was the demise of defending District kingpin Eastmoor--as the Warriors suffered a disastrous seven-error lapse and paid with a 9-0 drubbing in Friday's title tilt against Upper Arlington.

Earlier last week the CL South co-leaders wiped out the only other Eastside tourney survivor, Hartley, with a five run sixth inning explosion to win 7-4.

EASTMOOR--Caught in a tight City League divisional race and striving to match or better last year's tournament record, Ron Golden's Warriors came into last Friday's District showdown a trifle tight.

Year-long mound stalwart Monty Corron got the call with only one day's rest--and just wasn't the buzzsaw he can be with a loose arm. The classy Warrior inner defense cracked badly--and UA isn't a fly-by-night outfit by any stretch of the imagination.

Result: a bitter 9-0 mauling that wipes out future tourney ambitions--and sends Golden's group into this week's crucial league finales with something to prove.

While E-M was busy elsewhere Friday, top challengers Marion-Franklin and Walnut Ridge met to settle on a final-week stretch foe for the Warriors.

The Devils broke open a tight pitching duel between Scot ace Carl Rankin and their own Randy Harris with three runs in the sixth, to win 4-1 and match Eastmoor's 8-2 league record.

THEY MET RUGGED West Tuesday while the Warriors visited South; but (assuming both won Tuesday) will only have to contend with doormat Mohawk in Friday's final outing while Golden and Co. take on archrival Ridge at home.

Scot boss Jack Stephenson will doubtless save Rankin for the big grudge match, and that should make it some kind of finishing challenge.

After being out front all alone since opening day, the Warriors find themselves in a "must win" situation as the clock strikes 11. It's a tough hand to play after Friday's big disappointment"but it's also the only game in town.

HARTLEY--The Hawks bounced back like a handball after bowing out of tourney contention Wednesday, as Larry Woerner fired seven goose eggs at erstwhile Catholic frontrunner Watterson and his mates responded with eight runs on nine hits.

The big win left Jack Ryan's jubilant club a half game up on the Eagles with two to play: a crucial road test against Wehrle Tuesday and a make-up battle with DeSales later this week.

Woerner gave Watterson hitters nothing but misery Friday--striking out 11 and allowing but two harmless singles. Meanwhile his buddies were getting the leadoff man on base every time up--but having trouble moving him around till a six run explosion in the top of the seventh put it in the sack.

WALNUT RIDGE--After Friday's tough loss to M-F, the Scots must rely on West to knock off the Devils while they upend Eastmoor Friday. That's if they're to earn a shot at the new City Divisional playoffs (or rather a tie for that shot).

All this presupposes that Jack Stephenson's crew handled Central Tuesday. A win over the Bucs would make 'em 8-3, and a win over the Warriors Friday would finish the loop campaign at 9-3.

That wouldn't be good enough if somebody doesn't knock off M-F--but all you can do at this point in the season is win, and hope.

BEXLEY--Rick Clowson wasted a two-hitter last week, as his teammates stranded eight runners and Marysville stuck a 1-0 bramble under the Lion mane.

But Rick didn't get too upset. He came back Monday to fire a one-hitter at loop leading Hilliard--and this time the Lion stick men contributed six runs, which was four more than he needed in a 6-1 triumph. Bill Seas was the hitting hero.

At 7-3, they trail the 9-2 'Cats by a game and a half with four to go--and only about a week to play 'em in. Only sure date at press time is a road trip to Grove City Friday--where one or the other club will bow out of further contention.

HAWK GROUNDED -- Hartley batsrunner Jim Chellis reaches for a corner of first base as the Hawk dives back to thwart attempted pickoff from Watterson pitcher Jeff Schoener to Eagle first-sacker Pete Bursik Friday. Hartley exploded for six seventh-inning runs to back up Larry Woerner's two-hit pitching and take over CCL lead from Eagles, 8-0. (Spectator photo by Denny Whalen).

UA Cops District Title; But Devils Eye State Gold

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Despite sending only high jumper Kim Taylor on to State competition this weekend, Upper Arlington's Golden Bears used strong balance to walk off with the '72 Central District "AAA" cinder crown at Worthington Saturday.

Marv Crosten's UA thinclads tallied 62 team points to 48 for runnerup Marion-Franklin, even though the Devils copped three firsts and two seconds and will thus advance five entries to Ohio Stadium.

BIGGEST UPSET of the day had to be Tom Pinckney of Linden topping M-F's Wayne Harris in the shot put with a 58'11" heave. Harris, defending State champion, earned a chance to redeem both the upset and his Ohio schoolboy crown by finishing second--and also copped District discus laurels by outthrowing Pinckney 170'3" to 162'10".

North's Tom Byers edged Devil distance standout Jerry Mounts in the 880 with a District record 1:56.7 effort, but Mounts came back in the mile to set a new meet standard of 4:23.3--and nabbed himself a second State assignment in the process.

Defending team King Worthington could do not better than third behind the Bears and M-F, but did get District title performances from Dan O'Rourke in the low hurdles and the mile relay contingent of Pete Kight, Bob Mingo, Dave Bopp and Don Janssen.

WESTLAND POLE VAULT star Tom Rice bucked some strong head winds to cop the "AAA" crown with a personal best of 14'3". Reynoldsburg's Chuck O'Morrow earned the other State assignment by edging UA co-favorite Andy Horn and Whitehall's Tom Baker at 13 feet.

It was odd-man-out in the high jump, and Franklin Heights standout Doug Baer was the loser in a three man battle for two State berths. Arlington's Taylor cleared 6'6" to win, and Whitehall flash Terry Burris grabbed the other slot with a 6'5 leap after posting Ohio's top effort of the season (6'7½") earlier in the week at the OCC Championships.

Other top efforts included a record :14.4 in the high hurdles by Westerville's Roger Retherford, that coming after he lost by an eyelash in the lows to O'Rourke's record-tying :20 flat. Ernie Watts (Mar. Franklin) ran a blazing 9:35.8 to nose out Whetstone's Bob Taylor in the two mile and earn his school a fifth State Meet entry.

West's 880 relay quartet of Gary Roberts, Lamonte Dixon, Tony Poole and Harold Lee ripped off a 1:30.7 to nip Central, but Buc anchor man David Jones earned the District 220 title with a record :22.3. Both Jones and Cowboy star Lee got short shrift in the 100, where Hartley stampeder Art Best won a cavalry-charge verdict over Delaware's Jerome Bohabna (with Lee and Jones less than a tenth late.)

The format calls for "AAA" high jump competition to lead off field prelims at 2 p.m.--and local chances for a first are excellent with Burris and Taylor both having done 6'7" or better.

All running prelims for the big schools also will be held Friday (starting with the high hurdles at 2:00).

SATURDAY'S PROGRAM calls for finals in all the field chores to occupy a morning session--starting at 9 a.m. and continuing till champs have been crowned.

Two-mile finals in Class "A" will commence at 1 p.m., to be followed immediately by "AA" and "AAA" championships in that event. Then, at 2, all the rest of the footrace titles will be settled starting with the highs--lows proceeding in the same A-AA-AAA order right through the concluding mile relay.

Despite his setback last weekend, Harris still has to rate the shot put favorite tag, as well as a strong chance in the discus.

RICE SHOULD BE right up among the pole vault elite too, in short Central District field men have an excellent chance to bring home lots of gold.

Top running prospects would seem to be Central's Jones in the 220, a healthy O'Rourke and Retherford in the low hurdles and Retherford again in the highs; either Mounts or Byers in the 880 and Mounts in the mile.

Here's a rundown of the local "AAA" State entries in each event; District champs are listed first and times and distances are from District meet (not necessarily '72 best).

The Only 'Live Wire' Was Terry

100 Diagnosis: 'All Good, Some Better, Art Best'

IT WAS TOUGH for the human eye to line up the finishers as the AAA District's swiftest sprinters turned on the tail-burners for honors in Saturday's 100-yd. dash finale. Thanks to the speed of the camera lens, the judges were proven right again. The winner -- in 10 flat -- is Hartley's Art Best (second from right). Other finishers (from left) were: Central's Dave Jones (fourth, 10.2), Eastmoor's Ray Griffin (fifth, 10.3), Delaware's Jerome Bohanna (second, 10.1), West's Harold Lee (third, 10.1 plus), Best and Worthington's John Madry (sixth, 10.3 plus). Upper Arlington, although it had no competitor in this event, easily nabbed team honors with 62 points. (Spectator photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

Largemouth bass are being taken from the shallow portion of the lake using artificial lures. Bullheads and bluegills are being caught by bank fishermen using wax worms and nightcrawlers as bait. Good catches of white bass are being made from the south bank area and below the spillway using spoons and spinners as bait. Outlook - good to excellent.

KISER LAKE - Excellent catches of crappies continue to be made all over the lake on minnows and small spinners. Fair catches of bluegill and bullheads are also being taken on red worms or nightcrawlers. Most productive areas for all species include waters adjacent to fishermen access piers and near the brush pile fish attractors. Outlook - Good to Excellent.

HOOVER RESERVOIR - Good catches of white bass are being taken in the Galena area. A few walleyes are being taken by both shore and boat anglers on live and artificial baits.

MAD RIVER - Rainbow trout fishing remains excellent with many measuring 14 to 17 inches in length. Perferred baits are salmon eggs, nightcrawlers, small spinners and cheese. Fishing the deeper pooled areas and undercut banks are most productive. Outlook - good.

CENTRAL OHIO STREAMS - Rising and slightly muddy at 58 - 65 degrees. Anglers are taking bullheads on nightcrawlers, sunfish, rockbass, crappies, largemouth bass and smallmouth bass on both live bait and small spinners. Outlook - fair and improving as waters clear.

HARGUS LAKE - Above normal and roily at 65 degrees F. Very good numbers of crappies are being taken on minnows near the area of tree tops. Rainbow trout are being taken by bank fishermen using cheese, nightcrawlers and salmon eggs as bait. An occasional muskie and a few largemouth bass are being taken on artificial lures. Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.
The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

Cards, Broncos, Stallions Annex Loop Thin Titles

Last week's league championship cinder showdowns were tailor-made testaments to the old axiom that stars make headlines, but balance wins titles.

WEST'S COWBOYS got only two first-place finishes in the City League Championships, but parleyed five seconds and a couple thirds into the first Bronc team crown since 1964.

Marion-Franklin stars Wayne Harris and Jerry Mounts lived up to their advance billing—Harris winning the shot and 100 and taking second in the discus while Mounts was copping both the mile and 880. Unfortunately for Roger Graves' defending champs, Wal was just about all she wrote and the Devils could do no better than fourth in the team standings.

Harold Lee, who's come on like gangbusters late this Spring, took first in the 220 for one West victory, and teammate Tony Poole not only outpaced the high jump field—he edged the meet record by an eyelash with a 6'4" effort. Old standard (6'3⅝") was set 17 years ago by West's Dick Furry (later an OSU cage stalwart).

Only other existing City record to fall was the two-mile, where Brookhaven's Tom Bachtel chugged out a 9:42.1.

Final totals had West trumping surprising East 86-76, with Linden and M-F not too far back at 69 and 67 respectively.

IT WAS BUSINESS as usual in the '72 OCC confrontation, with perennial kingpin Worthington riding depth and balance past strong individual performances from Gahanna and Westerville tracksters.

In fact Westerville won five events to three for Worthington, and got the meet's only double-win performance from hurdler-extraordinaire Roger Retherford, but it wasn't nearly good enough to compensate for Cardinal "in-the-money" finishes in nearly every event.

Les Eisenhart's thinclads wound up with a healthy 68½-37 margin over co-runnersup Gahanna and Westerville. John Madry was the top Card point-getter, winning the 220 and taking second in both the 100 and long jump. Not too shabby for a sophomore.

Speaking of sophomores, know about Whitehall's Terry Burris? The 6-6 cage standout merely came up with Ohio's top pre-District high jump effort (6'7½") to shatter the meet mark and set a school record.

HARTLEY'S ART BEST put on what had to be the year's top individual effort at last Wednesday's Central Catholic League Championships; but again it was overwhelming team strength that won the day for DeSales.

The Notre Dame-bound Hawk flyer won the 100, 220, 440 and long jump; and the Stallions won the team crown by a whopping 102-52 margin over Hartley.

DeSales distance standout John O'Brian shattered meet records in both the mile and 880 with times of 4:24.5 and 1:57.4; and other new standards were set in the pole vault (13'6½", DeSales' Chris Wanner) and high hurdles (:15.2, Wehrle's Bill Coleman).

Down -- But A Long Way From Out

DeSales 'AA' Cinder Champion

Despite a very painful disqualification in the low hurdles, DeSales successfully defended its '71 Central District "AA" track title at Walnut Ridge Saturday, topping Ridgewood N. Union 56-47.

Stallion hurdling standout Bill Hairston, who had already won the highs, lost a second State Meet berth when his second place photo-finish in the 180 lows was disallowed because he finished in the wrong lane.

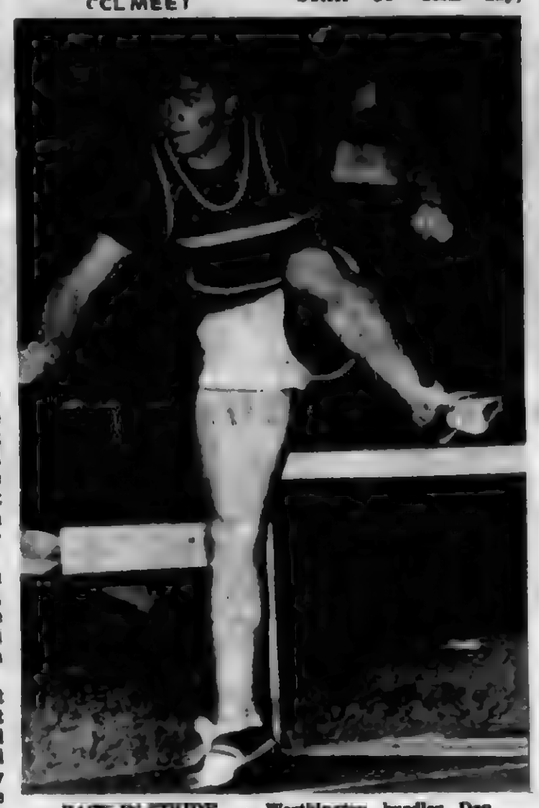
STAR OF THE day, however, had to be Stallion miler John O'Brien. The sturday distance runner parleyed excellent pacing and a third quarter "rabbit" into an eye-popping 4:19.9 title performance—fastest for any prep trackster in Central Ohio this year.

Grandview's Tom Brumfield stayed on O'Brien's shoulder through the first two laps, then tried to mess up his pace with a quick spurt into the lead. John sped up just enough to stay within three or four strides of Brumfield—and then turned on a brilliant gun-lap "kick" to finish 60 yards in front with only a roaring crowd to spur him on.

Teammate Kent Blackmon also earned a State berth by copping second in the 440; Marc Tyler got third in the shot, and pole vaulters Rick Smith and Chris Wanner finished third and fourth respectively to boost the winning DeSales point total.

BEXLEY EARNED a pair of Ohio Stadium assignments for this Saturday; as high jumper Russ Kessler tied his own school record with a 6'2" winning leap and Carl Kraft took second in the long jump with a 20'4" effort.

Kraft, who narrowly missed out on a State berth last year, fell heartbreakingly short in the high jump again this time with a third place finish—then had to wait almost a half hour until a top challenger (busy elsewhere) could take three unsuccessful cracks at his second-best standing. Lions Dave Carruthers and Bill Whitlock took fifth and sixth respectively in the high hurdles.



Mifflin sprint star Larry Jackson owned the dashes, winning the hundred in :09.8 and the 220 in :22.4—then making up 20 yards in the anchor leg to carry the Cowpuncher 880 relay quartet to victory.

Running prelims and field event eliminations get underway at 2 p.m. Friday on the Ohio Stadium track. Field event finals begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, and are followed by the two mile championship heat (1:15) then the rest of the footrace finals beginning at 2:00.

All running chores will be contested with the "A" field leading off, followed by "AA" then "AAA" entries in the same event.

Admission is $1 for prelims, $2 for finals.

BACK IN STRIDE - Worthington hurdler Dan O'Rourke touches down after final obstacle and heads for the finish tape in Saturday's AAA District lows competition on the home oval. O'Rourke showed little effect of muscle pull which has sidelined the Card ace, equalling District mark (:20.0) he set last spring.

featuring recipes submitted by you, our Spectator chefs

EDS. NOTE: Beginning with today's Spectator edition, we will be presenting recipes we hope our neighborhood cooks will enjoy trying. Don't keep your special taste-treat under wraps, share it with your 72,000 fellow Spectator readers. You may be delighted to see what you might get in exchange.

Local Fisher Employe Wins Contest Car

When Juanita M. Wells, an inspector and packer at the Columbus Fisher Body plant for 24 years, decided to increase her purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds this year through the payroll savings plan, little did she realize that it would pay her such handsome dividends so fast.

Her decision to continue as a regular bond buyer paid off last week when she was handed the keys to a 1972 Chevrolet Nova by Plant Manager John B. Findling.

BY BEING a bond buyer during the plant's recent annual Savings Bond Campaign, she became eligible to enter a contest in which a number of prizes were awarded.

The grand prize for the Fisher Body Division of General Motors, which includes some 85,000 employes in 26 installations, was the new car.

"It's the first thing I've ever won in my life," Mrs. Wells exclaimed when she received the exciting news last week.

SHE HAD given up driving a few years ago and owned no car. But she now intends to take early retirement later this year and the car will be "just the thing" to enjoy the leisurely years ahead.

Frank Brockmeyer of the AFL-CIO, who headed up the Building Needs Team, held out some hope to taxpayers of big cities when he cited the need to turn to the legislature for relief.

He spoke of the need to legislate away the inequity of the burden of tax - exempt lands centered in metropolitan areas.

Speaking of the $86,000,000 proposed for construction, Brockmeyer tagged it the "magic figure", but contended it will only cost the average homeowner $1.50 a month.

He also suggested a new concept in school planning such as the "School Parks" as new areas are opened up for development.

At the conclusion of the presentation the team chairmen were presented "Gold Apples" by the Board of Education, plaques by the Columbus Education Association, and assurance their reports would not be "shelved."

Rediscover Car Travel Pleasures

THEY ALSO SERVE—While it is hardly likely that you'd take your favorite service technician on your vacation with you (unless you are married to him), there's no one more important to a happy trip than he is. By getting your car in shape, he can assure you that your journey will be as safe and pleasurable as a well-maintained auto can make it.

This summer why not take your car on a second honeymoon? Certainly, bring the spouse and the children along but also rekindle that special feeling you once had with your automobile.

As you're traveling to interesting places along adventure-filled highways, it's not hard to do.

UNDOUBTEDLY, it was love at first sight when you purchased your car. Then, probably, the feeling began to wear off with one too many trips in bumper-to-bumper traffic and with those all-too-frequent reminders that the car was growing older.

But with the coming of the vacation season, you can rediscover the pleasures that come from traveling by car. Moreover, that discovery will be even more enjoyable when your car is in its optimum condition.

Start by visiting your favorite service facility.

ASK YOUR service technician to check over key components of your car for safety and performance.

Then have him perform the services necessary to assure a trouble-free trip.

One such service is a tune-up that provides better gasoline mileage, peppier performance and an important extra benefit. That is a reduction in harmful exhaust emissions, thus helping keep the air clean.

GETTING your car ready for that second honeymoon is more than merely a matter of personal choice. It's a matter of living as a concerned citizen on this planet.

Look at it this way.

If your car won't start on your driveway, then it's you and you alone who suffers.

IF THAT same untuned car stalls and can't start on a crowded expressway, then you are inconveniencing hundreds of other motorists behind you.

Or, if you experience a blowout due to a worn tire on a sparsely traveled road, it's your misfortune.

Transfer that blowout to a fast-moving freeway and cause an accident, then you may be inviting a real tragedy to yourself and some innocent fellow motorist.

OF EVEN further-reaching consequence if your car is a polluter, you are affecting everybody in your community.

So, getting your car in shape is an invitation to joy. It is also a sign that you care about your fellow man as well as your own family.

The pages of this section can help you discover the hows and wheres and whys of good car care. Read on, and happy motoring this summer.

Low Emission Devices Head Pollution Battle

People who yearn for the "good old days" when air pollution was not considered a problem may have their wishes fulfilled.

Despite the growing number of cars on the road and the headlines about the air pollution problem, an encouraging fact remains: Pollution from automobiles is at a lower level than a decade ago and is dropping each year.

IN FACT, estimates the National Air Pollution Control Commission, by the end of this decade hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions will be at 1940 levels. Back then there was little need for concern over automotive air pollution.

The reason for this decline is the pollution-combatting mechanisms developed by the auto industry. Items like the positive crankcase ventilation system introduced in 1963 and the gasoline vapor burning system new on 1971 models have already achieved great reductions in pollution levels.

Indicating the effectiveness of the new system, 84 percent of present-day pollution comes from cars not equipped with the latest pollution devices.

TODAY, total amount of pollutants from cars is about 78 million tons. By 1980, the annual figure will be about 25 million tons, approximating pre-World War II levels.

While current and impending anti-pollution devices will be chiefly responsible for the reduction, much of the improvement in cleaner air will continue to depend on conscientious maintenance.

For example, a University of Michigan study reveals that at idle an average 55 percent reduction in pollution levels can be achieved by a tune-up.

Hot-Running Cars Need Coolant

In designing cars to fight air pollution, car manufacturers are building hotter-running engines that help make combustion more efficient. In addition, the growing popularity of air conditioning and other power demanding accessories tends to increase engine heat.

Therefore, use of permanent anti-freeze as a year-round coolant is recommended to avoid overheating -- even in warm weather areas.

Take Your Tail Pipe's Advice

A dry, sooty deposit on the inside of your car's tail pipe is the tip-off that the engine is wasting gas. It's not burning the fuel-air charge in the combustion chamber the way it should, and it shows in the exhaust.

Also, an oily, black deposit is a sign of burning oil, through worn rings, valve guides or other causes.

A normal exhaust pipe should show a crisp, grayish deposit. Soot, except under conditions of excessive choking or city driving, is a sign of wasted gas and the trouble may lie within the carburetor, ignition system or both.

LIGHT COUNT

The average car has 38 light bulbs. Every one is important. Be sure they all work.

Check-Up Definition: Carefree Vacation

In Webster's "New Twentieth Century Dictionary" there are 38 different difinitions for the word "check." (You can check that if you like.)

But one definition of the word is vital to a trouble-free motoring vacation this summer. That is a thorough check of various safety and performance components. Clip this article and take it to your favorite service outlet.

THEN HAVE your serviceman look into the following for good operating condition:

A tune-up will give you sure starting, peppy performance and good gasoline mileage. It also will reduce harmful emissions. The tune-up should include new spark plugs, points, condenser, distributor and wiring check, setting timing, compression test and servicing of anti-pollution devices. Battery, electrical system and carburetor checks also should be included.

Lubrication to prevent premature wear of vital moving parts. This should include an oil change plus filter, chassis lube and check of all hydraulic fluid levels.

COOLING system should be cleaned and flushed and refilled with a good permanent type anti-freeze plus rust inhibitors. Also have the thermostat, fan belt, water pump, all hoses and radiator cap checked for sound condition.

Brakes. Have brake linings inspected, adjustments checked.

Tires and Wheels. Check tires for general condition and have them rotated. Also check wheel alignment and balance to prevent premature tire wear.

SUSPENSION. Check shock absorbers to prevent potential loss of control while driving.

With all these items in good condition you can forget about another kind of check. That's a bank check you won't have to write for expensive repairs on the road.

Frank Brockmeyer of the AFL-CIO, who headed up the Building Needs Team, held out some hope to taxpayers of big cities when he cited the need to turn to the legislature for relief.

He spoke of the need to legislate away the inequity of the burden of tax - exempt lands centered in metropolitan areas.

Speaking of the $96,000,000 proposed for construction, Brockmeyer tagged it the "magic figure", but contended it will only cost the average homeowner $1.50 a month.

He also suggested a new concept in school planning such as the "School Parks" as new areas are opened up for development.

At the conclusion of the presentation the team chairmen were presented "Gold Apples" by the Board of Education, plaques by the Columbus Education Association, and assurance their reports would not be "shelved."

My Brakes Shot? That's Impossible!

By CHARLES BARUCH

"What do you mean my brakes are shot? The car stopped, didn't it?"

The motorist's reaction was considered not unusual by Officer Frank Blankwell. Officer Blankwell (not his real name) was completing a long, tiring day on a spot-check vehicle inspection lane near a major city. He had been listening to alibis ranging from the ridiculous to the less than sublime.

MISALIGNED headlights? "It's the manufacturer's fault. They should make them so they don't go out of whack," the owner said.

Bald tires? "I was going to get new ones but I haven't had time."

Bad shock absorbers? "Shock absorbers! What are they?"

AS OFFENDING drivers were handed a violation notice, requiring them to have the trouble repaired and bring the car back in 10 days for a recheck, Officer Blankwell was often greeted with a scowl or muttered comments like, "Why aren't you guys going after muggers?"

Since vehicle inspections were introduced, better than 50 percent of all cars tested have failed in at least one critical safety area.

New Sign Language

NEW ROAD SIGNS CUT CONFUSION -- A vacationing traveler has complained that somehow his appetite was often dulled by the road signs that told of accommodations off the road. The sight of a sign reading: GAS -- FOOD turned his hunger pangs into a queasy feeling. Perhaps that's one reason why a committee of government agencies is developing a series of picture road signs. Not only will the signs provide a uniformity of information on facilities, but will assist foreign travelers in locating needed services. See if you can identify the facilities from the signs.

V-Belt Inspection Avoids Breakdown

By ROD McKINNON

Summer ushers in vacation time for most families--and this means many miles on the family car--usually with the air conditioner running full blast.

All the belt-driven accessories on modern cars take varying amounts of horsepower to drive and if the belts aren't installed and tensioned properly, belt failure can occur. Costly, time-consuming road breakdowns can ruin an otherwise pleasant family vacation.

YOU CAN save time and trouble by getting your serviceman to check the belt drives at the start of summer - vacation trip or no vacation trip.

The tension required for belt drives depends, principally, on drive geometry, belt speed and horsepower transmitted. These factors vary widely in automotive accessory car factory drives, from make to make, and even from model to model.

Therefore it is impossible to adjust the belts on all original equipment alternator, power steering, or air conditioning drives the same. You need help from someone who has the knowledge of the tension ranges needed for different drives, to measure the tension.

AFTER-MARKET air conditioner compressor drives are somewhat different. Certain tension ranges will adequately serve well over 90 percent of all like drives. Yet, even here, experience, knowledge, and special gauges are needed to tension the belts.

Remember, before the vacation season starts, ask your serviceman to check the tension of all V-belts on your car as well as the condition of these and other under the hood replacement parts. It's good, "happy vacation" insurance.

Tests on cars with high emission levels show that an engine tune-up can substantially reduce pollutants. By more than 50% on the average.

So there is something that you can do to fight pollution. Have your car's exhaust emissions checked. If your car needs a tune-up, get one. At least once each year or every 10,000 miles. And urge your friends and neighbors to do the same.

Replace Transmission Filter For Preventive Maintenance

When your automatic transmission begins to slip you can be in deep trouble.

Ironically, the reliability of the automatic transmission has often resulted in its being ignored - and neglected - until too often it's too late, say Fram Corporation engineers.

day. He and his crew had checked better than 50 cars and 29 of them had defects.

BRAKES and tires were the most common failings with steering and misaligned lights ranking next. Some of the cars inspected looked like refugees from a scrap yard. Officer Blankwell said:

"We're accused of discriminating against the poor man who can't afford a new car but needs transportation to get to his job. And it bothers me to tell a man he can't drive.

"But it would bother me even more to pull him out of a wreck caused by a tire failure at high speeds.

"AND IT would bother me a heck of a lot more to see some child run down because someone with a faulty brakes couldn't stop in time."

SCCA- More Than A Racing Giant

In Boston, Mass. on Feb. 26, 1944, a small-but-devoted group of sports car owners met to band together in support of their mutual love for excellent cars.

It was beyond their wildest dreams to imagine that someday their small organization would become one of the largest automobile clubs in the world – actively involved in almost all aspects of auto competition.

BUT TODAY, the Sports Car Club of America, Inc. (SCCA) conducts more races than any other single racing organization in the world.

Nonetheless, despite all the rapid expansion and professional racing excitement and glory, the original concept set forth some 28 years ago has endured.

The concept – that the organization be a participating membership club – is even more evident in SCCA today.

MEMBERS can select from a variety of activities with varying degrees of involvement. Club racing, considered SCCA's backbone, offers members the opportunity to race all types of cars without the commitment of becoming a professional race driver.

At the conclusion of each season, the top drivers from each class (production, sedan, sports racing and formula cars) then battle for the National Championship at the American Road Race of Champions.

Of course, it's necessary to learn how to drive competitively, so SCCA also offers drivers schools to sharpen skills and prevent unnecessary track risks.

LAST YEAR 64 driver's schools were conducted, producing hundreds of novice racers who went on to gain their regional and national competition licenses.

For the enthusiast who demands more involvement, SCCA offers pro racing series. World championship events include Daytona, Sebring, Watkins Glen and the U.S. Grand Prix.

The North American series includes the Canadian-American Challenge Cup, the Continental 5000 Championship and the Trans-American Championship. It is here that many a club racer has blossomed into another Dan Gurney or Jackie Stewart.

IF YOU'RE wondering where SCCA finds all its personnel to conduct races, the answer is SCCA club members. The organization offers a complete training and licensing program for race officials as well.

And, if you're not quite ready for all-out race competition yet, there's SCCA's solo program.

The closest thing to actual racing, SCCA soloing pits car against clock. The events, held all over the country each weekend by local SCCA chapters, are run everywhere from race tracks to shopping center parking lots.

Record Qualifying Times Hike Indy Anticipation

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. – The greatest practice and qualifying speed surge in the history of the venerable Indianapolis Motor Speedway has added new spice to the nation's greatest sporting event–the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race.

Bobby Unser climaxed the blazing pre-race speed binge when he put his Olsonite Eagle-Offy almost surely on the pole with a record speed of 195.940 miles per hour.

That was an almost incredible 17 miles an hour faster than the old record of 179.354 set by Peter Revson in winning the pole in 1971.

NEVER BEFORE has the qualifying record for the Speedway jumped by such a large figure, although the 500 dates all the way back to 1911.

Most observers are giving credit for the huge increase in speed to the wings which hold down the cars and make them "stick" in the turns and to the new "smoothie" treadless racing tires produced by both Goodyear and Firestone.

Barring any unexpected speeds by Revson or by Mark Donohue, (who both still had guaranteed shots at the pole coming up after presstime), Bobby Unser will lead the 33-car pack away from the starting line at noon (Columbus time) Saturday as racers battle for more than $1 million in prize money. The crowd will be about 300,000.

Two participants will be seeking unprecedented achievements.

Al Unser, Bobby's brother and winner in both 1970 and 1971, will be seeking to become the first man ever to win three in a row.

A. J. FOYT, winner in 1961-64-67, will be seeking to become the first man ever to register four "500" triumphs.

The other ex-winner is Mario Andretti (1969) who recorded the third fastest speed (187.617) on the first day in which qualifications took place.

Other highly regarded drivers in the field include:

- Gary Bettenhausen, son of a former two-time National Driving Champion who never won the Indianapolis race and was killed in a 1961 practice accident. Gary was the second fastest qualifier at 188.877 in a McLaren-Offy.

- MARK DONOHUE, Gary's teammate, in National Trail To Host NHRA Spring Nationals

The third of eight national events on the National Hot Rod Association's '72 schedule – the Spring Nationals – will be held this year at Columbus' National Trail Raceway.

Taking place June 9-11, the event will feature elimination titles in Top Fuel, Funny Car, Pro Stock, Competition, Modified and Super Stock classes.

ELAPSED TIMES in the six-second bracket and speeds in excess of 225 mph are expected from the 400 entries of drag racing's top stars who will be competing for the anticipated $200,000 cash purse.

This will mark the first time championship drag racing has come to Ohio. Ranking second only to California in volume of numbers, Ohioans will be happy to know that the Spring Nationals will be here for at least the next five years.

Track owners Ben and Clark Rader Jr. are equally enthusiastic about NHRA's decision. A $150,000 improvement program is already well underway at National Trail Raceway.

SPECIFIC projects include paving of the existing quarter-mile track, additional guardrails and grandstands, a

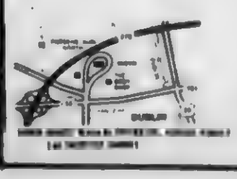
The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.

It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)

The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.

A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.



And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.

We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.

We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.

And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look:

Bill Mylett, chairman of the Urban Resources Team reiterated the conclusions that Columbus schools are not integrated, and that integration is necessary for quality education.

Development, Dr. Bill Hitt stated his group explored the staff challenge in the light of selective recruiting and assignment, orientation of new employes, in-service training and a system of evaluation and awards.

He emphasized that the team would resist further bureaucracy at the "Big House" (central offices.) Confused About Right Tires? Try This Quiz

Are you confused about the various types of tires being advertised? How can you intelligently select the right tires for your car when you purchase replacements?

Firestone Tire & Rubber Company has prepared a quiz to help you make the right decision. Answer these questions, add your point total and find out what you should buy.

1. HOW fast do you drive? Seldom over 60 (1 point); frequently over 60 (2 points); mostly over 60 (3 points).

2. How often do you drive on rough roads? Seldom (1 point); frequently (2 points); mostly (3 points).

3. How often do you drive on expressways? Seldom (1 point); frequently (2 points); mostly (3 points).

4. HOW often do you drive with heavy loads? (Two or more adult passengers, heavy cargo or both.) Seldom (1 point); frequently (2 points); mostly (3 points).

5. How many more miles do you plan to drive your car? 10,000 miles or less (1 point); 25,000 miles or less (2 points); 40,000 miles or more (3 points).

6. What kind of driver are you? Easy (1 point); average (2 points); hard (3 points).

IF YOU total nine points or less, you can use bias-ply tires in the lower price range.

If you score between 10 and 13 points, you should buy a bias-belted or high performance bias-ply tire.

With 14 points or more, bias-belted or radial tires are recommended.

THE BIGGEST advantage to the solo program is that you can compete with your own regular auto – providing, of course, that it is outfitted with the proper safety equipment.

If you are looking for a fun afternoon, SCCA Rallying could well be the answer. Rallying does not depend on speed but is a demanding, competitive game relying on navigational skills – that is, finding your way over an unknown route at a prescribed average speed.

Any member, in any type of car, is eligible to enter rallying competition.

IF YOUR appetite for sport car competition has been whetted, you don't have to head off for Boston with a group of your friends.

Have Mom Prepare Vacation Accessories

By JODY CARR

This is the time when you and your family are finalizing plans for your first long weekend trip of the summer, if not your big vacation trip.

You probably will be traveling by car and under circumstances that are quite different from the short hauls you've been making since last summer.

Your plans undoubtedly include having your car properly checked over and serviced for the journey. But have you considered some of the safety and convenience devices available to you to make your trip a better one?

For example, an extension lamp that plugs into your car's cigarette lighter socket is great for reading maps, searching for Junior's frog under the front seat or even more stringent emergencies.

Speaking of emergencies, can you be seen if you have one on a lonely road? Newer cars are equipped with emergency flasher lights. Check to see how yours work. In older cars, carry flares. These are vital if your car should be disabled at night. The small flashlights with blinkers may not do the job if another car is approaching you at 70 miles per hour.

Do some browsing in your neighborhood auto supply store for these and other items you may want to include. A multi-purpose dry type fire extinguisher, for instance, of at least 2½-pound capacity...Underwriters Laboratory Approved...will give you some peace of mind.

Do you have any kind of tool kit to take along? In the good old days, cars came equipped with a fairly good supply of basic tools. Today you could do little more than change a tire with the tools that come in your car.

Your auto supply counterman is an expert on what you should carry with you. But he may not think of one item that deserves a place in your travel paraphernalia, because it isn't in his line.

This is a first aid kit. It is smart to carry one, and your druggist can help here.

Drenched Road, Worn Tires Can Lead To Hydroplaning

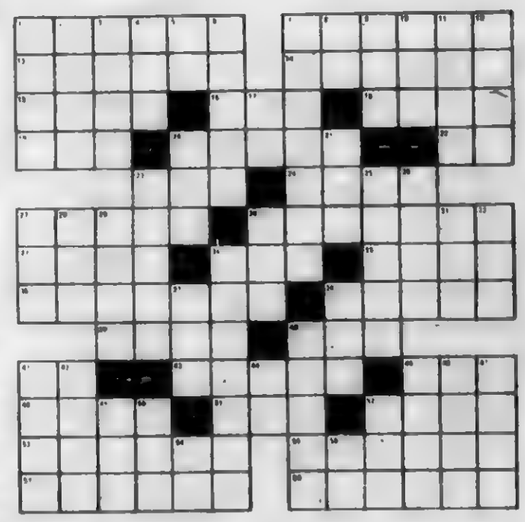
Water standing on a highway can lead to hydroplaning, a condition where the front wheels lose contact with the road surface and actually ride on top of the water. When this occurs, you lose control of brakes and steering and the end result is the same as driving on ice.

The most common cause of hydroplaning is when the depth of your tire grooves is less than the depth of water standing on a highway.



The best safeguard against the hydroplaning phenomenon is to replace worn tires with new ones and to decrease driving speed when there is evidence of water standing on or running across a highway.

Speed Creates More Pollution

If you speed, you do more than run the risk of a traffic ticket. You also add to air pollution. According to Shell Oil Company, the faster you go the more fuel you burn and the more pollution you create.

Jack Rabbit starts or driving with your foot riding the brake pedal also consume more fuel and create additional pollution.

UNITE REPORT WARNS:

Little Tax Relief Seen For Schools

Financing for a proposed $96 million building program for Columbus Public Schools and its operating expenses, foreseen to climb at the rate of $10 million a year, must largely come from real estate taxes.

This harsh fact was emphasized Tuesday when the chairmen of the Search and Solve teams of Project UNITE made their final reports to the Board of Education.

According to Schenk, state aid for education is handicapped students and development of alternative educational programs.

The building priorities were those of three vocational centers and the Metropolitan Career Center, replacement of Neil Avenue and rennovation of Fairfax, improved facilities for the deaf and visually handicapped, alternative schools, larger classrooms for grades 4, 5 and 6 in new buildings, and libraries in every elementary.

Bill Mylett, chairman of the Urban Resources Team reiterated the conclusions that Columbus schools are not integrated, and that integration is necessary for quality education.

The Thermostat -Your Engine's Warmest Pal

Some motorists seem to think that the main function of an automobile thermostat is to allow the car's coolant to get hot enough to provide warmth through the heater to the passenger compartment in cold weather.

"Not so," cautions The Gates Rubber Company. The thermostat is a delicately calibrated instrument which is designed primarily to allow the engine to heat up to its optimum operating temperature quicker, and to maintain the temperature within a very narrow range for the most efficient operation.

THE DANGER of the first concept is that the motorist may think he doesn't need the services of the thermostat in the warm summer months. Thus, he may neglect maintenance of this important item. Or, he could even decide to remove the stat, or have some amiable serviceman do it for him.

Operation of the cooling system with a faulty stat, or none at all, is uneconomical at best. A cold-running engine burns more gasoline, increases oil dilution, has more sludge and rust formation, plus increased piston ring wear. These can lead to shortened engine life, or even premature breakdown. And lost time and trouble during vacation travel months really hurts the pocketbook and spoils your fun.

WHAT TO do? See your serviceman. Have the stat, plus other vital cooling system parts, such as radiator cap, radiator hose, heater hose and V-belts, checked every spring and fall.

Don't Just Buy Fuse

The next time you are faced with a burned out fuse in your home or your car, don't fix things up with a heavier rated fuse.

Refuse to re-fuse until you have found out what made the old fuse blow. A blown fuse, like a fever, tells you something is wrong. Find out what.

FOR EXAMPLE, suppose your turn signals stop working due to a blown fuse. You may put in a new one, and you are back in business...for a little while.

After a couple of repeat performances, you decide to ask your mechanic. His experience, like an electrican's tells him to look for overload on a wire.

In the case of your turn signals, the bare wire would touch metal only when your car jiggled a certain way. That is when sparks would fly.

Merely replacing the fuse is an invitation to a fire, because a hot wire touching metal heats up like the coils in a cigarette lighter. If this doesn't start things burning, the sparks probably will.

Respect the fuse in your car as well as in your home. Keep spares on hand, but use them only after you have found out why the old one burned out...and after you have corrected the trouble.

'Cycle Craze' On The Rise

Almost every summer weekend you can find groups of cyclists touring the country roads and highways.

Men and women of all ages have started rediscovering and enjoying this fast-growing recreational sport and participating in both one-day and extended trips.

THE REASONS for all this activity? Exercise, fresh air and enjoymet of the outdoors.

Local and national clubs have helped spur enthusiasm by organizing and sponsoring trips. Maps, food stops, camping sites and rest areas can all be obtained through local clubs in advance.

Two of the biggest advantages of bike touring are the low cost and ease of participation.

ALL AGE groups are welcome and you don't have to be an all-star athlete to enjoy yourself. All you need in equipment for a one-day ride is a bike. For extended tours, basic camping equipment is also necessary.

John McJunkin and Jim Britton, long-time outdoor enthusiasts and new owners of Bexley Bicycle Sports, are equally excited about the increased interest in bike touring.

In addition to their present large selection of touring bikes, they have recently added a line of ultra-lightweight camping equipment for the touring enthusiast.

IN THE NEAR future they also hope to be organizing their own bike tours in conjunction with American Youth Hostels.

bigger burden on the automatic transmission. This burden is compounded further during hot summer months, heavy traffic or trailer towing conditions.

Transmission fluid performs under heat and pressure and must be kept clean by a filter.

Excessive heat creates a varnish, restricting the vital fluid flow and possibly causing expensive transmission repair or replacement.

YOU CAN avoid all of this by simple preventive maintenance. Invest in a new transmission filter and a change of fluid every 12,000 miles or every two years.

Keep Your Head Down!

THE ABSOLUTE concentration of a Jack Nicklaus might not even be enough to keep one's mind on one's tee shot at the city's Airport Golf Course when a giant jetliner makes its approach to adjoining Port Columbus. This golfer, preparing to tee off on number 18 Sunday, simply paused to block out the rear of an airborne intruder. (Spectator photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

UNITE REPORT WARNS:

Little Tax Relief Seen For Schools

Financing for a proposed $86 million building program for Columbus Public Schools and its operating expenses, foreseen to climb at the rate of $10 million a year, must largely come from real estate taxes.

This harsh fact was emphasized Tuesday when the chairmen of the Search and Solve teams of Project UNITE made their final reports to the Board of Education.

According to Schenk, state aid for education is anticipated to remain at present levels and federal monies will be slow to materialize.

His final point was that reporting to the public is essential.

This need for communication was equated with the need for in-service training, better student-teacher relationships, decentralization, and the acceptance of integrated education as a tool to quality education which ran throughout the condensed reports made by each of the seven team chairmen.

The longest report was given by Napoleon Bell, the attorney who had headed up the Educational Programs Team which was responsible for 300 of the 700 recommendations made.

He listed the priorities that had been attached to the recommendations (but not made public) and broke them down into those without cost, those with cost, and building needs.

The non-cost priorities largely involved areas of communication, decentralization and staff development.

The priorities entailing expenditures involved hiring of additional staff including an "omsbudsman," improved programs for handicapped students and development of alternative educational programs.

The building priorities were those of three vocational centers and the Metropolitan Career Center, replacement of Neil Avenue and rennovation of Fairfax, improved facilities for the deaf and visually handicapped, alternative schools, larger classrooms for grades 4, 5 and 6 in new buildings, and libraries in every elementary.

Bill Mylett, chairman of the Urban Resources Team reiterated the conclusions that Columbus schools are not integrated, and that integration is necessary for quality education.

He also repeated that busing is not recommended to attain such integration, but alternative methods must be developed.

Mylett concluded that if the reluctance of members of his committees to change their positions reflects the attitude of the community, "We have a lot to learn."

As chairman of Staff Development, Dr. Bill Hitt stated his group explored the staff challenge in the light of selective recruiting and assignment, orientation of new employes, in-service training and a system of evaluation and awards.

He emphasized that the team would resist further bureaucracy at the "Big House" (central offices.) He also reported that one of the original recommendations--that of an integrated staff--has now been modified to suggest integration only to the degree that quality in professional staff can be maintained.

Jay Davis of the organizational staff, condensed his report into three words, "decentralize, individualize and economize."

Mrs. Betty Duboix, chairman of the Communications Team, underlined the need to meet the parents' demand for face-to-face involvement in the school and suggested handbooks, news letters and PTA programs as three valid methods of establishing communication.

Frank Brockmeyer of the AFL-CIO, who headed up the Building Needs Team, held out some hope to taxpayers of big cities when he cited the need to turn to the legislature for relief.

He spoke of the need to legislate away the inequity of the burden of tax - exempt lands centered in metropolitan areas.

Speaking of the $86,000,000 proposed for construction, Brockmeyer tagged it the "magic figure", but contended it will only cost the average homeowner $1.80 a month.

He also suggested a new concept in school planning such as the "School Parks" as new areas are opened up for development.

At the conclusion of the presentation the team chairmen were presented "Gold Apples" by the Board of Education, plaques by the Columbus Education Association, and assurance their reports would not be "shelved."

Commission To Consider McNaughten PUD Units, Second Ice Skate Rink

A rezoning application which would pave the way for construction of 956 dwelling units east of McNaughten Rd. between Broad and Main streets will be on the June 6 public hearing agenda of the Columbus Development Commission.

The Commission will also consider an application for the construction of a second ice skating rink for the city's Far East Side at the meeting.

THE HOUSING application covers 119.5 acres north of the Olde Orchard subdivision and seeks approval of PUD-6 (Planned Unit Development District, eight dwelling units per acre) to replace existing RRR (Restricted Rural Residential) zoning.

PUD is a type of relaxed zoning which allows a developer certain freedoms (upon city approval) form rigid zoning regulations.

Under PUD, clustering--rather than conventional side-by-side--construction is permitted, often resulting in more open or recreational space in a development area.

Also on the Commission docket is a request for commercial rezoning (to replace low-density apartment zoning) to build an ice skating rink on five acres of land located at the southwest corner of Eastpoint Rd. and Kimberly Parkway N. (west of Hamilton Rd., between I-70 and Eastland Shopping Center).

A second ice skating rink is expected to be constructed less than five miles to the west in the Refugee Rd.-Winchester Pike vicinity.

The public hearing will begin at 6 p.m. in council chambers.

Eastland 'Stays Open'

The Eastland Joint Vocational Center, 4465 S. Hamilton Rd., will offer Summer School courses for high school students and adults.

Classes will begin June 12 for adults and June 19 for high school students.

IN MOST instances there must be a minimum of 20 students enrolled in a course for the class to be held. If a class is cancelled due to insufficient enrollment the entire class fee will be refunded.

All fees must be paid at the time of registration.

Fees for summer school are: one-half credit or make-up course, $20; full credit courses, $40 and other courses have varying price ranges.

A half credit or make-up course meets four hours per day (8 a.m. to noon) for three weeks or a total of 60 hours.

ATTENDANCE is the student's responsibility. The absence of one day during the summer program is equal to a week during the regular school year.

Applications for summer school will not be accepted without the home school principal's approval.

DEADLINE for registration is Friday, June 9.

As a convenience to students in the participating schools and others, the following make-up courses are being offered. These courses will start June 19 and end July 10.

Make-up courses are for a course failed. The courses will consist of review work, homework assignments, oral and written assignments and regular testing.

AN EDITORIAL

G-M Residents, Job Well Done

The approximately 150 people from the Groveport-Madison area who participated in last week's Search for Consensus project, should be complimented for their efforts.

The project was ordered by the state legislature to determine a school district's accountability in various areas such as personnel, student rights and community relations.

It was really exciting to see such a large group of people meet together and work in a positive and constructive manner in recommending ways to improve their schools.

The small group sessions could have turned into nothing more than an opportunity for individual complaints, but instead positive recommendations were made and general problems discussed.

School officials indicated that they were very pleased with the turn out and said they felt the participants enjoyed the opportunity to come and discuss the schools and express their opinions.

The school administration and staff should be complimented as well as Kenneth Sweigart for the organization and planning of the meeting.

The activities went smoothly--beginning on time and ending when they were supposed to.

The next step now is for the recommendations to be sent into the state for review. Regardless of how the rest of the project turns out, it has been a success for this area. The Board of Education now knows the people are interested and that they care and the community knows that the Board is listening and the lines of communication are open. This can only be a good relationship which will benefit the whole community.

Crowned Miss Berwick

LISA ANN MITCHELL was crowned Miss Berwick Manor for 1972 at a recent contest sponsored by the Berwick Manor Civic Association. This was the first annual contest since 1966 and the 1966 winner was on hand to do the crowning. (See story page 2).

She's Only Ten Years Old But Already A Winner

What do 10-year old girls dream about?

Well if the 10 year old is the very determined and talented Deatra Simms, she dreams about one day twirling at the Rose Bowl Game.

DEATRA, DAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. M.D. Simms of 1881 Riverdale, began twirling in competition a year ago and has already won 100 trophies. She still maintains her favorite is a fifth place award she won at her first contest.

She has also been named queen at several of the contests.

Deatra began taking lessons two years ago. She still takes lessons and spends at least an hour a day practicing.

IN A RECENT contest she won six first places, two seconds, a third and a fourth place. These gave her the 100 trophies, which was her goal.

Her mother, Donna Simms, said "Before the contest Deatra said she needed so many to get her 100 and then she went out and won them."

DEATRA'S FATHER explained it by saying, "We think it's worth it if our kids are interested."

He said twirling in the competitions was expensive because of the cost of registration fees, equipment, traveling to and from the contesrs and the various costumes needed.

Mrs. Simms said all Deatra's costumes are handmade. "In some of the contests there will be a queen division or pageant and the girls are told to bring bathing suits or formals.

BOTH HER parents said they felt the cost was worth the experience and excitment the competition provided.

"At the national level some scholarships are awarded so this is one of the benefits," Mrs. Simms said.

For the straight A fourth grader at Woodcrest Elementary, the future brings the state contest in June and perhaps later the national contest in St. Paul, Minn.

"WE ARE ALSO hoping that by the time Deatra gets to high school, they will have majorettes with the Walnut Ridge band."

She's ambitious and hard working but win or lose Deatra knows "her family is always behind her."

Contest Selects Miss Berwick

Lisa Ann Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Mitchell of 1464 Selkirk, was crowned Miss Berwick Manor for 1972 at a recent dance sponsored by the Berwick Manor Civic Association.

RUNNER'S-UP were: first, Carol Kosciuk; second runnerup, Marsha Marbitzer; third, Cheryl Richardson and fourth, Mary Muehlitzer.

Contestants were judged on poise, personality and appearance. There were 14 entries in the event.

Miss Mitchell will represent the area in all civic association functions and will ride in the Fourth of July Parade.

JUDGES FOR THE contest were Mike Davison, director of Junior Achievement of Central Ohio; Jerry Lux, director of public relations for BBF; Linda Robison, owner of Linda Robison Dance Studio, Virginia Hoover and Cheryl Westwood. M.C. was Pat Lucas.

The contest is going to be an annual event for the Civic Association.

Wilson To Direct Gallery Teens

Philip Wilson will return to direct the annual stage production of the Jewish Center's Gallery Teens this summer, Center drama chairman Mrs. Mel Schottenstein announced this week.

PHILLIP WILSON

With the exception of last year, Gallery Teens have presented a summer production for the past 15 years.

WILSON, working on an advanced degree at OSU, returned as head of Eastmoor High School's theatre department last fall.

A former professional singer who toured with his own group, Wilson has appeared in leading roles with the center's Gallery Players ("The Glass Menagerie" and "The Skin of our Teeth"). He's also directed Studio Presentations at OSU.

With Gallery Teens, Wilson has produced and directed "The Miracle Worker", "The Curious Savage" and "The Crucible."

WHILE NO play has yet been set for the summer season, further plans for the activity will be announced soon.

ODC Plans Special Theatre Workshop

The Speech and Theatre Department of Ohio Dominican College, last scheduled a "Creative Theatre Workshop," June 19 through July 29. Registration for all Second Session courses closes June 12.

The Workshop, which has received a $500 grant for the Ohio Arts Council, is open to anyone interested in experimental theatre, including high school juniors and seniors who have the recommendation of their principals or counselors. Registrants may take the Workshop as a college credit or non-credit course.

William Vensel, chairman of the Speech and Theatre Department, explained that the Workshop has been scheduled during evening hours to meet the needs of those who have daytime jobs. He said: "I believe that young people today are very creative. Through this Workshop we are providing an outlet for this creativity."

He explained that the workshop is two faceted, with Monday, Wednesday and Friday seminars from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., focusing on the heritage, personalities, problems and results of worldwide experiments in theatre, and with Sunday and Friday laboratory sessions from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., featuring the development, rehearsal and production of an original play based on topics discussed during class sessions.

For information on the Workshop, call the Admissions or Summer Division Offices weekdays at 253-2741. For convenience, the Summer Division Office is also open from 5 to 7 p.m., Mondays and Tuesdays.

Eastland Seniors Placed In Jobs

Agricultural-Business and Distributive Education senior students at Eastland lead the field in numbers in job placement according to Director of Pupil Personnel Carlton Antoine.

Other programs, however, were even more successful if percentages are considered.

Ag Mechanics, Carpentry, Horticulture and Machine Trades programs found all graduating seniors placed in jobs.

There were 124 of the total 250 expected to graduate placed in jobs, 34 have jobs promised and 18 are either entering college or the military.

Many of the balance are expected to be placed this week in jobs related to their programs.

The programs, number of seniors graduating, early placement, jobs promised, military or college attendance and total placed, in that order, are as follows:

Ag Business: 19, 17, 0, 0, 17; Ag Mechanics, 2, 2, 0, 0, 2,; Auto Body: 14, 4, 5, 2, 11; Auto Jechanics: 18, 8, 6, 2, 16; Carpentry: 13, 13, 0, 0, 13; Cosmetology: 16, 0, 5, 0, 5; Data Processing: 17, 3, 4, 2, 9; Dental Assistant: 14, 1, 1, 2, 4; D.E.: 21, 19, 0, 1, 20; Electricity: 11, 4, 5, 0, 9; Electronics: 18, 5, 1, 2, 8; High Skill Steno: 9, 5, 0, 1, 6; Horticulture: 8, 8, 0, 0, 8; Lab Assistant: 8, 4, 0, 1, 5; Machine Trades: 5, 5, 0, 0, 5; Drafting: 11, 0, 6, 3, 9; OWE 2: 3, 1, 1, 0, 2; Office Machines: 13, 7, 0, 1, 8; Office Printing: 14, 9, 10, 1, 10 and Welding: 16, 9, 0, 0, 9.

Will Maintain Local Staff Goodrich Tells Students

James W. Goodrich, 12th District Democratic candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives, presented his proposals for giving the district more responsive representation in Congress when he spoke to 17 classes at Eastmoor High School last week.

Goodrich's appearance at the school was sponsored by the social studies department. The candidate spoke to classes taught by Rick Houchen, John Biltz, Mrs. Phyllis Fowlkes, ron Golden, and Robert Heintz.

MANY POLLS show a growing disenchantment and loss of faith in the government, Goodrich told the students, and changes must be made to bring government back to the people.

Goodrich said that rather than keeping a staff of 12 to 15 people in his Washington office, he would keep the majority at home in offices throughout the 12th District.

"Many people are disturbed because government has become remote. We must look for a mechanism that can reverse that trend," Goodrich said. He thinks that having offices "at home" manned by staff and volunteers is a step in the right direction. It would give voters a better chance to see whether the job is getting done and to keep pressure on the congressman to be responsive to the needs of the people.

"THE VOTERS have become disgusted because of walls built up between many congressmen and the voters who elect them," the candidate told the Eastmoor students. Most votes, he said, are not a matter of record and finding a congressman's voting record can be an almost impossible feat.

Goodrich said he would make his voting record readily available to anyone who wants it.

The Democratic candidate also criticized the seniority system for selecting committee chairmen. "They wield tremendous power," Goodrich said, " and no one voted them that power. They have the position only because they've been there longer than anyone else."

GOODRICH said he would vote for reforms to change this system, He told the students it is estimated that only six more votes are needed in the next Congress to make changes in the seniority system.

At the conclusion of his brief talk to each of the classes, Goodrich fielded questions from the students covering such topics as Viet Nam, marijuana, gun control legislation, the economy and other key issues of this election year.

Candidate Goodrich has spent this spring speaking to high school classes throughout the district. By the time schools close for the summer, he will have spoken to classes in about 20 schools and will have addressed about 80 per cent of the senior students in the district.

One Step Beyond

Will Hellerman, Nationwide vice president whose contributions to civic leadership are tireless, stated a year ago that Columbus planners spend a lot of time eating together and then retire to separate bedrooms.

He was right then and he is right now and the Development Committee for Greater Columbus has formally endorsed the policy of establishing connubial relations among Central Ohio's myriad of governments.

Thomas Bay, executive director of DCGC, in releasing a policy statement of the committee, points out that to define the services needed for the community is not enough.

"We have spent thousands of dollars on planning what to do, but we haven't devoted many resources to decide just how to carry the plans out," he states.

Growth, changing priorities, new concerns and technological advances have all contributed to the changing picture in Central Ohio—and the roles that each government must take.

In the past cooperative government ventures have resulted in more oratory than actual operation. When it came down to the nitty-gritty, each political entity was too busy protecting its sovereignty to be able to see Central Ohio as a unit.

The tradition has been broken with the efforts of Regional Planning and the Central Ohio Transit Authority.

And now its time to go further.

Some matters, because of their nature, can best be handled on a local basis.

But others are obviously of regional concern—for example solid waste disposal, joint purchasing and territorial growth objectives.

Steps indicating that we are headed in the right direction is the committee appointed by the Ohio Mayors and Municipal Officials Council to study the feasibility of forming a Council of Governments and the staff assistance of DCGC offered to the Mayor's Council.

The dual responsibility outlined by Bay will not be easy to carry out.

The suggestion is made that a process be developed to insure government structures can deliver the public the services required, while taking advantage of the economy of centralized operation.

But it is complicated with the realization that sensitivity to the needs and desires of individual neighborhoods must be retained.

Bexley, Urbancrest, Columbus, Worthington and Obetz make strange bedfellows.

But if they can learn to emphasize their likenesses rather than their differences, a lot of feet will be warmer as Central Ohio attempts to adapt to the cold blasts of an economy in which resources are not maintaining pace with growth.

Educational Landfill

Text book manufacturers' attempt to emasculate the original Senate bill to ban wholesale destruction of used school books has apparently reaped only limited success.

True, the pending house version of the bill is obviously a compromise.

The legislation (in its original form) made it mandatory for a school district, when discontinuing the use of out-dated texts, to provide the State Department of Education with an inventory of books to be discarded. The list would then be circulated throughout the country before a board of education could order them to be burned or dumped.

Now, to comply with the amended bill, a board must only first make such books available (without cost) to students, libraries or other organizations within its immediate district.

The controversy has its origin in the encouragement of schools to buy new texts about three decades ago. Publishers, in an effort to guarantee that the older texts would not show up in other districts, substantially discounted new books to districts who would "trade-in" their old ones.

To qualify for the discount, the schools were then expected to dispose of the books whose ownership, legally speaking, had reverted to the publishers.

The discount offered has melted under the heat of the economy until it is insignificant in school finance. But the practice of destroying books has continued.

Last year, local schools reached an agreement with the publishers that the schools could still qualify for the discount if the abandoned texts were not destroyed, but made available to the students enrolled in relevant courses. It was also agreed that the schools themselves would be free to retain a limited number of the older texts as reference volumes.

According to Columbus School spokesmen the student demand for such books almost dries up the supply—but not completely.

Publisher lobbyists sought to have the amended bill stop at this point but, currently, libraries and other organizations are still eligible for consideration.

Hopefully, this provision will not be deleted.

Even a few books can help slake the thirst for knowledge and the vision of usable texts converted to land fill represents waste that should not be countenanced.

Preventative Medicine

When is a juvenile delinquent not a criminal?

When he is charged with offenses that would not be considered a crime if committed by an adult. Such charges involve truancy, running away from home and incorrigibility.

In 1969 the State Legislature recognized the difference between a child who cuts class and one who embarks on a career of mugging by creating, as a legal entity, "the unruly child."

After a year-long study the League of Women Voters is attempting to shift the responsibility for the unruly child from the police-court system to social service agencies.

Although the League wants eventually to remove such juveniles completely from the jurisdiction, of the court, it now is concentrating on changes within that system.

Suggestions made include training in human relations and social sciences for police officers and better communication between police and social service agencies.

In the future the League asks that the youngsters - getting into trouble but not charged with actual crime - be (with their families) offered social services at a neighborhood level and emergency crisis services. The League also sees group homes, halfway houses and foster homes as mandatory.

The League, as usual, seems to have espoused a worthwhile cause.

Labeling as criminal a child who seeks relief from an intolerable home situation or develops behavior patterns with which his family cannot cope is barbaric –and certainly an abridgement of his rights.

Yet the immature who do not conform to home and school regulations may be only a step away from true delinquency.

When such youth cannot function within the framework of the family, it is the obligation of society to give them a helping hand—and not the strong arm of the law.

Turning these "unruly" kids over to the courts is too much like amputating a leg when someone falls and skins his knee.

Courageous Stand

Newspaper presses throughout the nation would be silenced without the patronage of advertisers.

But at least one newspaper in the nation, the Detroit News, has determined its presses will not be oiled with the slime of pornography.

This spring, the News (the largest afternoon newspaper in the United States) announced it would not accept display advertising for, or give editorial publicity to, X-rated movies exploiting "hard core sex, voyeurism and sadistic violence."

It takes editorial courage to turn down easy money—and the publishers of the News are not naive enough to believe their stand will trigger the motion picture industry to refrain from using an appeal to prurience to boost theater attendance.

But they at least have refused to be a part of the process.

We commend this stand—and the basic disgust of the public with X-rated films which jammed the switchboard of the News when the policy was published.

With almost unanimous endorsement of the News' position, society doesn't seem to be as sick as reported.

Who Gets The Bill?

It has long been expected that he who dances pay the fiddler.

Thus the proposed request of Secretary of State Ted Brown to the General Assembly to reimburse counties for the unprecedented expense involved in the paper balloting of Democratic delegates and alternates in the May primary seems a rational one.

The light fantastic tripped by printed "bedsheet ballots" at the bidding of Gov. Gilligan was an astonishingly expensive reel, conceived in political maneuver, born with administrative pressures and left squalling on the doorsteps of financially strangulated boards of election.

Unfortunately, the legislature may be unwilling to reopen a can of worms that had so many board of elections squirming May 4.

Brown also suggests the boards should be reimbursed for the cost of advertising the ill-fated State Issue I and the 18 Amendments which the Supreme Court ruled off the ballot.

Speakeasy Sam

New Bootleggers

Even a monopoly has its woes.

This became clear recently when the Ohio Department of Liquor Control took a look at its "captive customers" fleeing to border states to take advantage of cheaper booze.

Labeling such economy-minded drinkers as bootleggers, the state played with the idea of cutting prices five per cent across the board to lure its clientele home again.

But a study by an Ohio State University team showed such strategy would be in vain. The "smugglers" represent only two percent of the department's business, and to recoup the dollars lost through a five per cent discount, the department would have to boost sales by almost 16 percent.

And Director Richard E. Guggenheim has reached the conclusion there's just "no way" he can make Buckeyes that much thirstier.

In fact, tax-conscious drinkers might be tempted to go on the wagon if they contemplate where each dollar of revenue received by the State of Ohio for hard liquor goes.

In rounded figures, 20 cents pays the distilleries, six cents covers operating expenses, 33 cents goes in to the state's General Fund and Uncle Sam picks up the rest—or 40.38 cents of every dollar through the $10.50 per proof gallon excise tax.

In the meantime promising a crackdown on illegal importation of cheaper liquor (chiefly from Kentucky), the state is planning selective sales and discount operation to compete with neighboring vendors.

Apparently the state is no more adverse to a little skull duggery than the individual who slips across the border to replenish his liquor cabinet.

With law demanding that prices be uniform throughout the state, a department spokesman admits that the items to be offered at discount will probably be in such "shortage" that they will not be stocked in areas protected by distance from across-the-border bargains.

Now is that nice—when the legislature is struggling with consumer protection laws?

Cease Fire Needed

Curtis Brooks, director of Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization, is an articulate man.

He is also a political one and when he speaks it is easy to be convinced that the greatest drive of the Nixon administration is to phase out the Office of Economic Opportunity, leaving the troops fighting the war on poverty alone on the battlefield.

Whether Brook's crystal ball is cloudy or clear remains to be seen, but his challenge to human rights organizations to end their petty rivalies and fight together for social welfare and those it benefits cannot be ignored.

Brooks contends that survival is the "name of the game" for the American poor today.

It is equally true that the "name of the game" in the war against poverty has been "strife."

The Department of Labor has been at loggerheads with the Office of Economic Opportunity and the wrangling between Washington and the district offices has added to the complications of red tape.

At the local level, various agencies have been embroiled in competition for funds and power—and even intra-agency ruptures have made headlines.

Brooks stated recently that the War on Poverty has only begun—and he is right.

The needs of the disadvantaged American have not been met—and the nation cannot regress to its tradition of sweeping problems not easy to dispose of under the rug.

The black and the poor, the uneducated and the unskilled, the sick and the aged, have become—through the vastness of their numbers—too apparent for the under—the-rug treatment.

Thus, as Brooks states, social welfare must declare a cease fire on their rivalries, end the bickering that serves to lead to agencies working at cross purposes and turn the big guns on the real enemy—poverty, ignorance and disease.

Paper Tiger?

With the Ohio House endorsing a bill designed to barricade habitual traffic offenders from the highways with a vote of 70 to 18, little doubt remains the legislation will make it through the Senate.

The bill is a tough one—and could possibly, in isolated instances, bring about unwarranted inconveniences.

But when it is estimated the law can save 182 lives during its first year, the plight of a few relatively innocent drivers caught in the point maze becomes insignificant.

Those opposing the bill state punitive measures do not deter bad drivers.

Possibly they have not in the past, but such drivers have never been subject to fines up to $2,500 or to a maximum of three years imprisonment.

Penalties of that magnitude might make Christians out of many who can take a $100 slap on the wrist and three days in jail in their stride.

The bill does indeed promise the first strong weapon again the habitual bad driver who, in the past has been returned to the highways time and time again to endanger the lives and property of the more responsible.

But we are inclined to agree with Robert Levitt, House majority leader, who pointed out that the bill can be a paper tiger with the confused records of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and the lenient attitude of judges.

Many believe those sitting in judicial chairs are less inclined to be tolerant of the traffic violator today than ever before, but few are convinced the Bureau of Motor Vehicles can extricate itself from the inefficiency which has made the building at Fourth and Main a stronghold of bureaucratic bungling.

Before the State sets out on its crusade against the bad driver, it better clean up the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to enable it to keep track of the points accumulated by each of its licensed drivers with a reasonable degree of accuracy.

Too Many Flapjacks

Not too many months ago Model Cities had a rather unique problem.

It had $5 million and didn't know how to spend it—leading a spokesman to state that nothing could be done on short notice but to cook up a huge stack of "flapjacks" to satisfy the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD.)

From the latest HUD report, Model Cities has solved its problem—and all too well.

Its plans for the coming year, according to a HUD letter directed to Mayor Tom Moody, outscale the limited spending level envisioned for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Furthermore, HUD charges this year's "flapjacks" contain some ingredients already labeled as indigestible by HUD (such as the housing rehabilitation project of ECCO for which the death knell has already been sounded).

With Washington already unhappy with Model Cities programs in general, this is no time for the Columbus Model Cities administrators to lay themselves open to charges of "sloppiness" and failure to meet deadlines.

Those walking the tightrope of federal funding curtailment can't afford the luxury of excursions from the straight and narrow path dictated by HUD.

Gov. Gilligan has already made it clear the state either will not or cannot provide a financial net for those who fall from federal favor.

HUD is calling the tune and this is no time for local Model Cities officials to try a jig of their own.

YOUTH Rostrum

WHAT DO YOU FEEL CAN BE DONE AT YOUR HOME SCHOOL TO BETTER INFORM STUDENTS THERE ABOUT THE VOCATIONAL AND TECHNICAL OPPORTUNITIES AT EASTLAND?

Respondents: Eastland students.

I FEEL that they should have a kid from each department that is well informed go to all the home schools and explain what they do in each of the departments. That would probably help a lot of kids to know what is going on. When I came to Eastland I wasn't really informed about the program I took. So I feel the kids who come to Eastland in the future will be more informed than I was. - PATTY SCALE, Reynoldsburg.

ACTUALLY, I feel that the students are informed about Eastland quite well and in many ways. First of all, there are pamphelts in the guidance office concerning Eastland. Next, they bring tours through Eastland and let them visit Eastland for one half a day in the three main courses that interest them. Last of all, Eastland has students go to their home school a certain time of the school year to express their feelings about the opportunities at Eastland. Not only during these visits do Eastland students talk to students at their home school, but also many other times students of the home school will ask you information concerning Eastland Vocational Center. - MARY MAHAN, Groveport.

HAVE PEOPLE from different phases in the Vocational School come to the home school and tell his point on his trade. Have this so that everyone in the 10th grade will know the different classes he has to chose from. Give him his chance to ask questions and to get involved in the talking. If each student is able to get the facts as they are from the kids themselves there would be more enthusiasm in the coming here. It would be a good idea to even give the ninth grades a good talk about the vocational school. - DICK ECKELS, Gahanna.

I FEEL the students and faculty at Bexley High School are poorly informed because they use Eastland as only a last resort for students. I didn't find out about the opportunities that were available at Eastland until I was ready to quit school. Then, as a last resort, they suggested Eastland. Also, I feel that if Bexley would bring the whole sophomore class out to tour Eastland it would give students a bigger and better idea. However, Bexley is a college-minded school and parents and teachers look down upon vocational training because they say we can make it at our home school if we try. - JANE DOWNEY, Bexley.

I FEEL THAT the people back at Whitehall don't really know anything about us and what we do or the school. I think the main reason is because everytime they come to visit they're only here for a few minutes so they really don't have a very good idea of the things we really do. We always talk to them and show them a few things but that's all. When they come through we're not supposed to laugh or talk or anything. I think a good way to inform them about us would be to make a short movie about each program showing us as we really are, doing the things we really do, also talking about things and laughing like students instead of adults, also by showing how hard we really work and all the learning we do. - GAIL NAPIER, Whitehall.

I THINK that at my home school you can be well informed if you are interested enough to ask a guidance counselor about the school. - JOHN BENDER, Gahanna.

I THINK they are well informed because of all the literature they hand out, the tours and the way they talk about it all the time. - EUGENE FRECK, Groveport.

YOU ALREADY have enough tours. Tell them that vocational school is not a school for dumbugs, Everyone I know likes it here. I like to work at something I like to do. You ought to hold demonstrations at the school, too. - DARLA TAYLOR, Whitehall.

I THINK THAT they could get better informed if they knew what it was about and what it had to offer them. They need to let them spend a little time here. I mean longer than a day and let them get to know what we have to offer. - DEBY RIDER, Pickerington.

IF THEY have come for a tour and you have told them all about it and they don't seem interested then there's nothing you can do. If they are interested there are many different programs to go into. If you want to further your education or have a good background in some program this is a very good place to come. - ROGER KOKER, Gahanna.

I FEEL THAT the best way to inform students of Eastland Vocational Center is to pick one person who likes and one person who dislikes our vocational school. They should then be permitted to go to various schools and tell why they like or dislike our school. I also feel that the students here should be informed of what is going on at their home schools. - B.K. OLDACRE - Gahanna.

I THINK THEY have improved a lot in the two years at my home school. They have the better equipment that they didn't have before and the teachers listen to the students and see what they can do for them. - SIMON LEE, Whitehall.

I FEEL THAT the information that goes to our home school is not good enough. When they come through on tours, tell them everything - the good parts and the bad. We should have someone from every program go to their home school and tell them. Some of them are going to graduate and go out into the world without a job. They will see someone from their graduating class with a good job and then they will be sorry that they didn't go to a vocational school because of not enough information. Then it's too late. If they don't go to Eastland, bring vocational training to them - DONNA BROOKS, Whitehall.

A LOT OF people don't know anything about Eastland and its programs. The home schools should inform their students about Eastland and its programs. Then, if they wish to learn more about vocational school the home school should have slides or movies to show to the students. Then, if possible, the students should have a trip to their nearest vocational school. - DOUG GRIGGS, Bexley.

I FEEL a complete tour of all the programs in the building would inform them a lot on what it would be like in each program. A movie or film strip about the school would be a very good way to inform them or give them a good idea about the school and they could see real life pictures of each trade. - JEFF SINDEL, Gahanna.

FILMS CAN help to show what we do at Eastland. More and more tours would also show what kind of education is given and what valuable teaching staff we have here. They could show what kind of awards can be won by a little study and hard work. Each class has different awards for all sorts of things which a person can be trained for when out looking for a job in industry. A lot more than anything else a period of time at Eastland would show what Eastland has to offer. - JOE BROWN, Bexley.

I FEEL THAT my home school is informed pretty well. By them taking tours through the school I feel as if it excites them. Sometimes I feel bored and gloomy because of being in one class but then, again, maybe I'm glad I got into it because it makes me feel important. The students at my home school feel as if they're being offered a real opportunity. I feel as if they know all they need to know. - CECELIA HEBDO, Gahanna.

I THINK ONE thing they could tell you what is happening at the vocational school - like the people at our home school think Eastland is for the people who didn't like school who if they didn't get their way would drop out. I think Eastland is a good school. The teachers are o.k. They don't tell you what your problems are and how you can fix them. They just tell you to do it. You learn how to do it by yourself. You learn by doing it your own way. They should tell the students who want to come here about this - B.K. MCWILLIAMS, Gahanna.

Capital Announces Plans For Masters Program In B.A.

Capital University last week announced plans to offer a new academic program leading to the Master of Business Administration degree.

At a Thursday morning news conference, Capital University President Thomas H. Langevin said the new program reflects the melding of the needs of the business community for advanced education with the desire of Capital to further share its resources with the central Ohio area.

COURSES WILL be offered in the evening hours, and will start in September, 1973 at the latest. Pre-requisite courses will be offered beginning in June, 1972. Capital already offers an undergraduate degree in business administration and economics through its regular bacclaureate program.

According to Thomas Hamall, director of civic affairs for Borden, Inc., the business community has been quite concerned about the need to develop a graduate-level program for employees working in the Columbus area.

Hamall said the business community has been quite pleased with Capital's ready response in meeting this clearly defined need, and noted that "the MBA program will provide a local base for continuing education for members of the Columbus business community.

"IT WILL PROVIDE a pool or a reservoir of future employees for Columbus businesses," he added, "and will greatly add to the attractiveness of Columbus as a center for business and industry."

Hamall cited studies which have shown the great need for such a degree program. The most recent survey, conducted by the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce last fall, indicated that there are more than 1000 potential candidates for the degree program.

In addition, more than 250 community residents presently commute to universities outside the Columbus area for the graduate-level courses.

IT HAS BEEN Capital's position from the outset, according to Langevin, to seek as much community input for the program as possible. With this type of commitment, the business community has raised a significant amount of money during recent months to pay for start-up costs for the program, and these fund-raising efforts are still in progress.

Langevin, in light of a previous agreement, has assured the business community that it will be actively consulted in developing the actual degree program, in careful cooperation with Capital's faculty.

The active participation by the business community will in large measure be assured by efforts of an MBA Community Advisory Council which represents a cross-section of both the Columbus business community and the university faculty.

Here, Kitty, Kitty, Kitty

A SAUCER OF MILK wasn't enough to tempt this kool kitten from her lair atop the Truro Township trustee house tin roof last week. A handful of tickets for the Truro Township firemen's carnival, however, plus wearing a real helmet, was more than enough to turn the trick. The volunteer who lured the pretty kitten down is fulltime fireman Wayne Alspaugh. He even convinced pretty Pamela Mannier, to put a poster atop the house. Pamela plays the role of "Maggie the Cat" in Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" now playing at the Reynoldsburg Barn Dinner Theatre on Taeing Road. The firemen's carnival is now under way at the west end of the Reynoldsburg Shopping Center. It will be there from now through Friday evening with plenty of rides, booths and good eats. Pamela noted that area theatre-goers will find an excellent play and fine food at the Barn Theatre, also. Not shown in the photo are the hundred or so male residents who volunteered to help pretty Pamela with her chores. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Where Were You, Whitehall?

To The Editor:

On May 12 the combined vocal music groups of Whitehall-Yearling High School, under the able direction of Mr. Richard Neikirk, presented an exceptionally fine concert.

Where were you; Whitehall citizens?

There certainly were not many of you in the audience to express appreciation of the quality performance achieved through weeks of rehearsals. In fact, it is no exaggeration to state that there were twice as many young people on stage as adults in the auditorium. So I did not hear your applause for a wonderful group of teenagers who had dedicated themselves to the musical expression of life's finer values.

But I often hear your voices, loud and clear, raised in constant complaint and criticism of these same teenagers. A stranger to this community might receive the impression from these derogatory comments that practically all of our youth are either potential or actual delinquents.

While adults are indulging themselves in contemplation of their own "virtues" and exclaiming in horrified tones over the "vices" of youth, they might stop to consider the hypocrisy of this attitude. It is a hard fact that people (including the young) generally fulfill the expectations others have of them. Except the worst, and that is what you are likely to get.

When a young person commits an anti-social act, it ought not to be an occasion for adults to find gleeful justification of their negative attitudes toward youth, but rather a time for sober consideration of our own tragic failure to provide the proper example and the wise and loving guidance and understanding that was needed.

My words are directed to the local press as well. Columns of newsprint are devoted to the drug scene, robbery, vandalism, and school disciplinary problems—all of which appear out of proportion to their actual occurrence in the total picture.

Where, then, was the press coverage on the night of the concert? Why was there not a prominently placed story giving credit to our talented youthful musicians?

How many residents of our community know that, in addition to the fine voices, Whitehall-Yearling High School can boast a young man who plays Chopin like a professional and another who reminded one of Leonard Bernstein when he directed some of the choral selections? Do you realize that the beautiful art work in the stage setting and the skillful use of the sound equipment were both accomplished by students?

Unless the adults of theis community attend the school programs and actually witness the real activities of students, they have no right to condemn. It is not enough to paste an American flag on your car with the slogan, "We take pride—Whitehall, Ohio". Symbols and slogans are worthless unless they are backed up with support to the youth of our community. True pride consists of deeds (not just words) that often require real effort.

We must demonstrate our pride in our young people by supporting their creative activities with our expressed approval. Words alone are meaningless. So let's quit knocking our kids in Whitehall and give them the support they deserve!

Gallery Players Promote Intercultural Understanding

The latest offering of the Gallery Players of the Columbus Jewish Center was a production that Director Harold Eisenstein said "would have been well worth the effort even if it had never played before an audience."

"Fiddler on the Roof," a smash Broadway musical about Jewish family life in rural Tsarist Russia, ran May 13 through 28, at the United Way-funded center, 1125 College Ave.

Eisenstein's enthusiasm for the play is based on what he termed "Fiddler's remarkable adjustment to the aims of our community playhouse."

According to Eisenstein, the primary purpose of the Gallery Players is to "serve as a basis of exchange between peoples of different cultural backgrounds."

Although Fiddler has as its focus the problems of a close-knit Jewish community more than half a century ago, its theme is timeless.

"The action of the play occurs in 1905...just prior to the Russian revolution," Eisenstein said. "It was an era remarkably similar to our own, when the traditions that give life meaning are slowly being eroded away."

"Fiddler's" emphasis on Judaism provided the Jewish cast members and audiences an excellent opportunity to develop a deeper understanding of their history and traditions. But, equally important to the center's philosophy of promoting intercultural understanding are the universal and unchanging human values which are underscored throughout the two and one half hour musical.

"Our cast was composed of Jews, gentiles, blacks...even an Australian," said Eisenstein, "and, in the process of preparing "Fiddler" for the stage, we all learned something about those timeless values that bind mankind together."

The Gallery Players' director terms the three-month rehearsal period a time of "informal study of the importance of family life, of the constant human struggle for a sense of identity, and of the constancy of human love despite the ever-changing external expressions of it."

Cast members too, were impressed with the lessons in human relations brought about through the casting, rehearsal, and staging of this latest Gallery Players presentation.

"Our cast and crew consisted of well over 100 people," said Jerry Labowitz, president of Gallery Players and an executive with a large Columbus manufacturing firm, "and whenever you get that many people working together you are bound to have some unofficial social work going on."

The social work value of "Fiddler," according to Labowitz consisted in the mixing and matching of representatives from every lifestyle during the rehearsal period.

"Today's society is not split merely on racial and ethnic lines," he said. "The most far-reaching schisms are taking place between age and economic groupings."

The cast and crew of Fiddler included leading businessmen, university students, artists, housewives, and retired persons.

"Since we were all committed to the single aim of making 'Fiddler' a success we got to know one another pretty well," said Labowitz. "And we learned that, whatever our differences of political and social opinion, our basic concerns are pretty similar. Like Tevye, the befuddled father of five daughters in 'Fiddler,' we are all looking for some way to scratch out a pleasant tune without losing our balance."

COLUMBUS-SPRINGFIELD DINNER THEATRE

For an evening of hilarious laughter be sure to catch The Columbus - Springfield Dinner Theatre's latest production, "Pajama Tops." This is a French farce that will keep you in stitches every minute.

Since it is a farce, the plot is ridiculous, the acting over-played and the dialogue funny enough to fracture anyone's funny-bone.

The entire action takes place in a little village in France at the Villa of George and Yvonne Chauvinet. George, played by David Stone, is a businessman who has to travel to another town frequently to visit another family on business. At least, this is what he tells his wife.

So Yvonne, played by Adrienne Lenourd, wanting to be a helpful wife, invites the business associates for a weekend at their villa. What she didn't know is that there is no business, except monkey business. George has been taking off to visit Babette LaTouche. Neither George nor Babette knows the other is married.

Babette, thinking the invitation came from George, comes bag and baggage. So now the plot thickens. Babette is in the house with George and his wife and George's best friend, Leonard Jolijoli who is a three dollar bill. George gets Leonard and Babette to pose as man and wife to appease his wife

Add to this confusion Claudine, the maid, who wants to become a lady of the evening, Babette's husband, Jacques who is hired as a butler and hardly anyone's knowing who the others are or why they are there and you have a plot the lends itself to humor, slapstick and intrigue, the likes of which you have never seen before.

Of course, while this is a good book, it is the acting that really zings this one across. Meg McQuillan, formerly from the T-V series, "Secret Storm," is great as the wanting-to-please maid. While everyone certainly contributes to one of the strongest, finest job of acting I've seen in a long time from an entire cast, Lee Collings as Leonard Jolijoli is the spark. His entrances and exits are almost beyond description. The delivery, facial expressions and mannerisms on stage by Lee certainly adds the fuel that sends the others into full speed ahead. Another character that is well worked is Jeanne Latter as Babette LaTouche. This gal is a real beauty and an outstanding performer.

Each one in the cast takes each line and employs it to achieve the optimum in comedy. No lines are lost or under-played.

Ray Kostulis as Jacques LaTouche, Robert Feldman playing a police inspector who wishes he were twenty years younger to keep up with his desires and Adrienne Lenourd as Yvonne all do a sterling job.

As performed by this cast, "Panjama Tops," keeps moving at a speedy pace. There are no dull spots.

As performed by this cast, "Panjama Tops," keeps moving at a speedy pace. There are no dull spots. I don't believe I've seen a show that produces so much hearty laughter as this one.

I gave you the basic plot; what happens and how it all turns out, you will have to see for yourself. I will not spoil it for you by unfolding the entire story. But, take it from me, of any comedies that have been produced in the Columbus area, this is the all time winner.

DOBBS HOUSE AIRPORT RESTAURANT

One of the very finest places to dine Around Town is a spot you probably never think about. It offers the ultimate in dining at reasonable prices, and the most unique free entertainment-none other like it anywhere in Columbus. I'm referring to the beautiful Dobbs House-Airport Restaurant.

Contrary to the impression you may have, this place is not just for the travelers passing through town. It does cater to us local folks. In fact, the staff at the Dobbs House Airport doesn't merely cater to you-you are given the Royal Treatment.

The food you won't find any better. All of the salad dressings are made from scratch right on the premises from the famous Dobbs House recipes. All the baked goods, breads, rolls and pastries are prepared in the same manner.

I started my meal with a cup of homemade French onion soup. It had an extremely delicious, delicate flavor. This, you have to try.

Next came the tossed salad, loaded with carrots, radishes and with my choice of creamy Roquefort, Thousand Island or French. With this comes a tray of chopped egg, chopped bacon and croutons. It was very tasty, to say the least.

Now came the piece de resistance, a one and a quarter pound of U.S. choice porterhouse steak cooked over a sizzling open hearth. In all my travels, I can't remember tasting anything as delicious. It was so succulent and tender, it did just what you read about in most ads-it practically melted in my mouth.

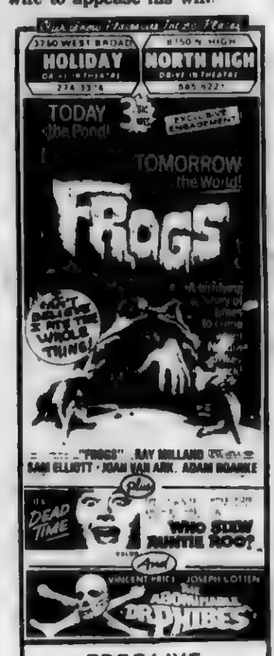
The people at Dobbs House let you brand your own steak with a red hot branding iron before it is cooked. It is served with your brand cooked right in.

After wading through 20 ounces of porterhouse and a baked potato with sour cream, I had to try the tempting desserts. I selected one of the specialities-Black Bottom Pie. This consists of a graham cracker crust that is rum flavored, a layer of chocolate and a layer of vanila topped with whipped cream. Out of this world, my friend, out of this world.

Manager Al Green has also devised a children's menu, making Dobbs House-Airport Restaurant, a true family dining spot for lunch or dinner, seven days a week. For example, there is the mini burger which includes ground beef, French fries and Coke for only 55 cents. There are several items like this on the menu for children ten years and under.

Besides the excellent food, there are other things about Dobbs House you will also enjoy. The service is excellent. Since I dined late, I was fortunate to have two gals wait on me, Donna Chamberlain and Jo Provance. Both are efficient and courteous. Another congenial staff member is assistant manager, Joe McDaniels. With people such as these, and Al Green at the helm, you can't go wrong.

At the beginning of the story, I said that Dobbs House-Airport Restaurant had the most unique entertainment in Columbus. There is the only place in town where you can dine and watch all the planes land, take off and being serviced. The kids love it; so will you. It is truly fascinating.



Visit the Dobbs House-Airport Restaurant soon. It is really more than a visit. It will be an occasion you will remember and talk about for days.

HOLIDAY INN EAST

For what may be the most enjoyable and entertaining cocktail hour-in this case, hours-in the city, you must drop in some evening at the Holiday Inn East. The girl who causes all of this is an old favorite Around Town, Sonia Modes. From 6 until 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, Sonia creates a warm friendly mood at the piano bar. Her music and warm personality are the two major ingredients.

Without any doubt, Sonia is one of the finest pianoists working in town. With a technique that is smooth, along with a beautiful touch, Sonia is able to present a host of Pleasant sounds. And what presentation! She just doesn't sit down and play simple chords, giving you a run-of-the mill rendition. Sonia is a strong stylist, giving each song a delicate, personable treatment.

To this keyboard artistry, you add that warm, friendly personality I told you about, and you end up with a very relaxing two-hour session.

ACT II By BETTY DRAGONETTE

From the pickled beets and kidney bean salad to the miniture lemon custard pies, the food at the Imperial House Dinner Theatre, 4101 W. Broad Street, is highly palatable. I must recommend the fish encrusted in a beer batter, and even though I do not particularly like my roast beef done medium to well, this was the most succulent roast I have ever tasted. I have mentioned only a few of the items on their varied buffet table, which is handsomely decorated with three huge interesting ice sculptures executed by the chef. And now - on with the show.

"The Fantastics" is a musical based on Edmond Rostand's "The Romancers" and is still successfully running in New York. I would say it is also successful in Columbus, if last night's crowd was any indication. There is so much right with this production and credit for that goes to producer-director, Tom Almaguer, who also takes part in the play. The staging was excellent, cast well chosen and the script interpretation was uncomplicated and entertaining. He is, every inch, a professional.

Almaguer and Jim Dippel handle their roles as scheming fathers with a delicious amount of hokeyness. As the Mute, John Hornaday makes good use of his training in mime. Although Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, authors of this piece, lifted the wall bit directly from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Nights Dream", John does it so well I don't think Shakespeare will mind.

El Gallo is a role demanding not only ability as an actor, but an excellent singing voice as well. Sal Perez has both and he makes this lover-villan come alive. Years of training in all areas of the Theater pay off for Al Evans, as Matt, and Bronwynn Hopton, as Luisa. Their timing is great, their reacting (which is the hardest thing to do) is tremendous and they make a darling young couple. (they can sing, too) This leaves John Berg, who plays the Indian with an English accent and Brian Zax, portraying the old Shakespearian actor with the mis-matched second lines. Both are appropriately funny.

I will end by saying "The Fantastics" is fantastic! You can see it Thursday through Sunday through July 16. The new Sunday performance has an extra added attraction all beverages are included in the price of admission. Make sure you get a chance to see this one by calling 276-7494 for reservations.

'72 Diamond Campaigns Conclude This Week

Except for two crucial Tuesday duels, the '72 prep baseball campaign pretty much ran its course last week.

Since Eastmoor and Hartley are playing Tuesday with their respective league titles at stake, early holiday deadlines make it pretty useless for us to speculate on how the Warrior and Hawk seasons will come out.

If E-M can revenge an earlier loss to the Marion-Franklin Red Devils, they'll meet City League North kingpin Whetstone Friday at home for the '72 City crown.

THE HAWKS, who let a one-game lead slip away at Wehrle glast week, need a win in Tuesday's scheduled make-up bout with DeSales to earn a share of the Catholic throne. Watterson has already finished CCL warfare at 6-2, Jack Ryan's club was 5-3 prior to the Stallion tilt.

Walnut Ridge carried its challenge to the last ditch before bowing out of CL South contention last Friday. The Scots had a chance to tie Eastmoor, but Monty Corron's two-hit pitching and four costly errors did 'em in 7-0.

Jack Stephenson's scrappers wound up the '72 campaign 8-4, to share third place in the rugged South Division with West.

CARL RANKIN took the mound loss Friday, but concluded a fine senior campaign with one of Central Ohio's top records and a .434 batting average to boot.

Sophomore outfielder Ronnie Marshall turned out to be the nicest surprise of the Spring, winding up second in the Division batting race with a .490 average. John Moulette led the league in stolen bases, and hit. 347, while teammate Tom McEvoy also made the league-leaders list with a .333 mark.

What slim title hopes Bexley's Lions were entertaining disappeared last week, as Gene Millard's nine dropped a pair of one-run verdicts to drop off the Mid Eight pace.

DOUG KLIE pitched his head off for 11 frames Tuesday, but the Lion stickmen couldn't match a bottom-of-the-ninth tying rally again after Mifflin tallied in the 11th--and the 'Punchers took home a 3-2 win.

After spotting Grove City a four run lead in the sixth inning of Friday's encounter, the Lions capitalized on a flock of Greyhound fielding lapses to score three in the seventh--and lose 7-6.

Year-long standout Rick Clowson gave G-C a couple too many free passes, and the Hounds made their hits count.

WHITEHALL'S Rams try to end a painful 1-12 OCC campaign on a bright note Tuesday when they meet Westerville in the regular season finale. John Peters' charges saw Westland come up with two runs in the seventh to edge them 3-4 last Tuesday, then absorbed a thorough trouncing at the hands of strongboy Reynoldsburg Friday.

Groveport's Cruisers could solve Hilliard hurler Randy Montgomery for only two hits last Tuesday en route to a 5-2

'Fence-Busting'--Walnut Ridge-Style

'FENCE-BUSTING' is a term generally reserved for power-hitters but a pair of Walnut Ridge outfielders gave the definition new dimension Friday as they demonstrated the ole' Scot try while fruitlessly pursuing Eastmoor outfielder Ron Ayers' third home run of the season. Warrior baserunner Craig Passen (9) prepares to round second above as Ridge left fielder Mark McEvoy (center arrow) crashes into the outfield picket and centerfielder Ron Marshall (arrow at right) reaches over the fence in vain. Scot captain McEvoy (inset) steps back onto playing field through his man-made opening while a winded Marshall recoups. Ayers' 355-foot smash put Warriors up 4-0 in fourth inning. E-M went on to win, 7-0, clinching City League South Section title tie. (Spectator photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

McVey, McDonald Earn Class 'A' All-District Honors

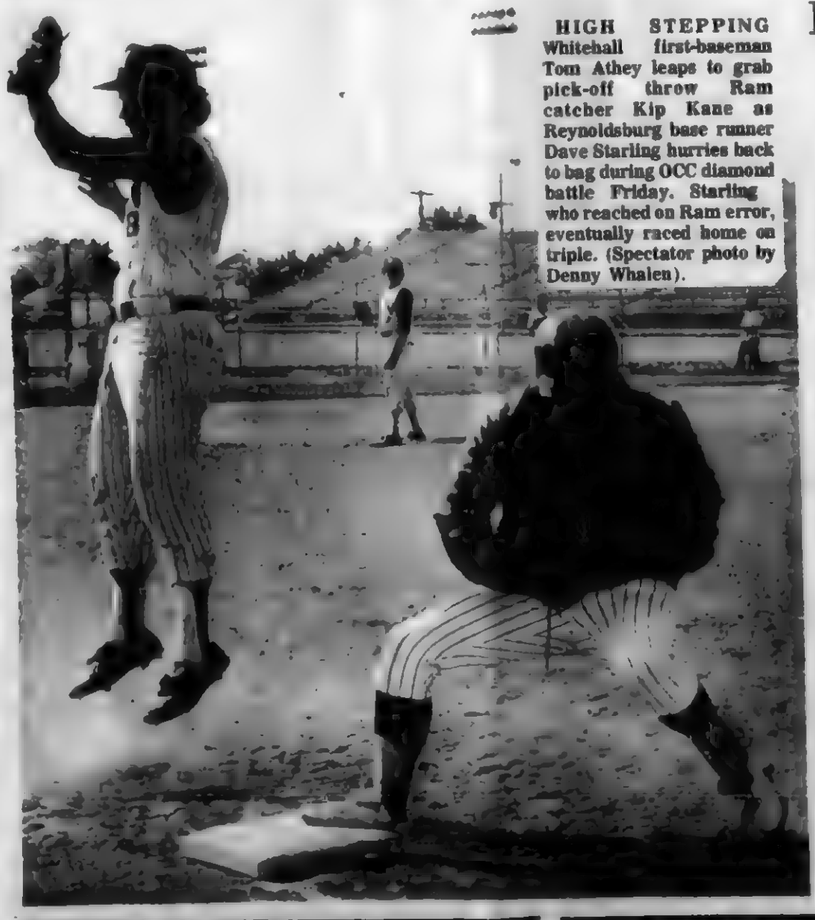
A pair of St. Charles' baseball Cardinals were among those named to the 1972 Central District Class "A" all star team selected by the coaches last week.

Senior catcher John McVey and senior first baseman Craig McDonald, the Card captain, were the two selectees. McDonald was the top St. Charles hitter with a fine .403 mark; and also led the club in RBI's with 24.

BESIDES A STANDOUT job as defensive backstop, McVey smacked the ball at a .301 clip for coach Don Henne's Sectional champs and chipped in 13 RBI's.

The Cardinals finished the '72 campaign 15-5--a remarkable accomplishment considering that this was their first year of full varsity-level diamond competition since 1965.

That included a 5-2 win over Canal Winchester in the Sectional finals, and ending the regular season with triumphs over East, E. Knox and Johnstown Northridge.



Henne's club lost its bid for a District crown when Newark Catholic mound ace Jeff Howard shut 'em down 9-3, allowing only two hits.

Freshman mound star Fred Measmer, who took the loss in that one, wound up the season with a spiffy 7-2 slate.

It Was A Great Finish For Also-Rans

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look:
The way they work.

Harris, Rice, Jackson, O'Brien Cop State Gold

We Got Our Share

CENTRAL DISTRICT cindermen didn't exactly leave Saturday's State Track Meet wanting -- piling up four gold medals, two each in AAA and AA competition. It was "old hat" for Marion-Franklin standout Wayne Harris (picture at left) as the versatile Red Devil performer muscled the shot put a winning 61'8" to repeat as State shot champion. The only thing Wayne could have asked was a bare one inch more which would have provided a new State Meet record. A little help from his DeSales friends was welcomed by Stallion miler John O'Brien (top middle photo) after his record-breaking 4:21.3 effort in the AA four-lapper in Ohio Stadium Saturday. Mifflin's Larry Jackson (bottom middle photo) was literally flying (with both feet off the ground) as he sprinted home barely ahead of Springfield Catholic's Lonnie Bell in the AA 100-yard dash. Jackson was clocked in 9.9, an exhalation ahead of Bell's 9.9-plus. Only his shadow beat him to a winning 14-foot AAA effort Saturday as Westland sophomore Tom Rice (at right) gathered steam on this runway charge to a pole vault gold medal. (Spectator photos by Jack Wittenmeier).

Four local high school tracksters reached the pinnacle of schoolboy cinder achievement Saturday in Ohio Stadium, outperforming the cream of Ohio's thinclads to take home State Championships.

Marion-Franklin's Wayne Harris was the only repeater among the four, successfully defending his '71 shot put title after placing second in last week's District Meet behind Tom Pinckney of Linden.

HARRIS' 61'8" HEAVE was plenty long enough to win--but fell a heartbreaking ¾" short of the meet record. Pinckney came up with a very respectable 57'10½" toss to finish fifth.

While winning at the State Meet can scarcely get to be "old hat", Harris' thrill couldn't have been quite as big as that of Westland High sophomore Tom Rice--who sailed over at 14' to win the AAA pole vault crown in his first season of varsity competition.

Rumor has it that Tom's folks promised him a car as a special reward-wonder how expensive that might get before he graduates in '74?!

DESALES' miler-extraordinaire John O'Brien did the Stallions and Central Ohio proud in "AA" competition--racing the classic distance in a new meet record time of 4:21.3. Grandview's Tom Brumfield lost his duel for second by an eyelash, but finished up a fine season with a solid 4:27.3 performance.

Mifflin super-sprinter Larry Jackson led all local entries in total points: winning the "AA" 100 yard dash in :09.9, taking second in the 220 with a best-ever :22.1 and anchoring the Cowpuncher 880 relay quartet to a record-tying 1:30 flat--one tenth slower than pacesetting Youngstown Fourth.

UPPER ARLINGTON'S Kim Taylor and Whitehall sophomore Terry Burris made their expected strong showing in the high jump--but couldn't contend with the record-breaking 6'8 ¾" leap of Cleveland Benedictine star Joe Toscard.

Eastmoor's Wally Cannon rounded out an extremely strong Central District showing in the field events by earning second place in the "AAA" long jump competition. The Warrior senior sailed 22'6½" for the day's second-best individual effort.

AREA "AAA" runners didn't fare quite so well. Top showing was a :14.3 in the high hurdles by Westerville's Roger Retherford; good for the runnerup spot. Delaware's Jerome Bohanna could do no better than fourth in the hundred with a :10.1 clocking.

Amateur Tackle Grid Loop Announces 1972 Expansion

Central Ohio men interested in playing amateur tackle football this fall will get a better chance to see some action, owing to an expanded program by Amateur Adult Contact Sports Unlimited.

AACSU president Jay Lehr has announced that the Heart of Ohio League, which operated with 10 teams last season, will accept up to 16 team entries for '72.

A PLANNING SESSION for the upcoming campaign will be held Monday, June 5 at 6:30 in Worthington's City hall. All teams interested in entering the loop should be represented at that meeting.

1972 franchise fee will be $700, deadline for payment is July 1.

Lehr also announced the formation of a new adult tackle league for local men over 18 without quite the training and physical prowess of the Heart of Ohio players--many of whom are former college gridders.

THE NEW CIRCUIT will be known as the Columbus Adult Sandlot Tackle Football League, and current plans call for a six-team field this fall.

Individuals interested in joining should contact the league directly, for assignment to a team. Players will be required to provide their own, high quality tackle equipment. A $25 registration fee will cover the cost of game jerseys, footballs and referees.

Teams in the Sandlot league will comprise only 22 players, and every team member will be a regular on either the offensive or defensive unit.

GAMES WILL BE played on Sundays during the fall at Southview Field.

For further information on either the Heart of Ohio or Sandlot programs, contact Lehr at 451-0521 or 224-6241.

ORGANIZATIONS PLEDGE

Veterans Graves Will Always Be Remembered

By RAY ADAMS
Reynoldsburg Editor

War veterans buried in Franklin County cemeteries will always be remembered by their comrades.

No doubt remains in our mind after a photo in last week's Spectator Newspapers showed a soldier's tombstone covered partially by weeds and undergrowth.

THE PHOTO caption "Will He Be Remembered?" was answered within several hours of the issue circulation.

Ten veterans organizations and seven individuals called The Spectator offices to let it be known that they would remember the grave with flowers, a poppy, a flag and an appropriate marker provided someone would let them know its location.

The tomb is located in an apparent family plot in Reynoldsburg with the names "Howard" and "Powars" prominent in the iron fence enclosed area.

THE SPECTATOR Newspapers is still pursuing the story for more information concerning the plot and especially Sgt. A. S. Howard, Co. F, Ohio First Cavalry, who is buried there.

American Legion representatives said he is apparently a Civil War veteran.

In response to our question to the Legion representatives last week of "Were They All Remembered?" the answer was this:

All Veteran Organizations do try to remember all veterans graves in all cemeteries. To do this they need the help of cemetery caretakers, members of the family or the public. The men that put out the markers and flags do care but if never told the location of a veteran's grave they could be overlooked - but never forgotten.

THE GRAVE Markers are the holders that hold the flag and are available for all wars. These are important. They show everyone what war time the deceased served and even most important it keeps the Flag from touching the ground. In small towns and some cities caretakers will notify the Veteran Organization or the funeral director will obtain markers from these organizations and place them at time of burial as all veterans are entitled to a Marker and a Flag.

Some may wonder why the flags are taken down after Memorial Day. The weather takes its toll by fading and tearing it.

Flags are taken off graves, thrown on the ground, moved to other graves or just disapear. Every year this happens and the only explanation is that some people do not understand.

In most smaller towns a cemetery is walked many times from the evenings the Flags are put out until they are taken down just to return Flags to where they belong.

The men that belong to Veteran's Organizations do care.

YOU HAVE noticed the Red Poppy placed on graves and wonder why? This is done by the American Legion. The poppies are made by ladies of the Auxiliary. It is a symbol of the ones that grew wild among the trenches of World War I. They are placed on all veterans graves in Franklin County except in Westerville. Here, they are placed on the graves of only World War I veterans early the morning of Memorial Day. They are the men that brought back the story of the poppy and so today its Westerville's way of still paying tribute to those men.

It is everyone's responsibility to assure that every Veterans grave will be remembered. The public must inform Veterans Organizations and they in turn should pass on to their members and their children the importance of why we decorate graves and celebrate Memorial Day.

It is not just a day to picnic and have fun. It should be a day to pause, pay tribute to those who gave their all and to say Thank You to those men that knew "The Price of Freedom"

The Spectator Newspapers will endeavor to assist any veterans organization in locating the grave of a veteran who has been overlooked.

Residents may call The Spectator if they have any knowledge of an undecorated grave.

THIS INFORMATION will be passed on to a veterans organization who in turn will provide the appropriate marker and flag at the proper time.

AN ALMOST 'country churchyard' is the setting for the grave of a Civil War soldier whose tombstone was on the front page in last week's Spectator. The cemetery in which Sergt. A.S. Howard, Co. F, Ohio First Cavalry, is interred is located in Reynoldsburg near the intersection of Rt. 256, South St. and Jackson St. at the west end of the Primitive Baptist Church. The grave was decorated last Sunday prior to Memorial Day by several American Legion members who prefer to remain anonymous. A red poppy, a Civil War bronze marker and an American flag were placed on the grave. The Spectator Newspapers editorial staff deeply appreciates the concern of the many organizations and individuals who called to offer assistance in remembering this soldier. The photo last week was taken by Reynoldsburg Spectator Editor Ray Adams who had planned to do a feature on this unusual family cemetery plot. The grave was discovered by chance.

'COMING IN PLAIN, BROWN WRAPPER'

Innovation, Negative Sales Pitch Battle Low Yearbook Demand

Ohio State University is trying to counter student pessimism towards its yearbook with innovation in this year's edition of the "Makio," and a purposely negative advertising campaign--"Don't worry. We'll send it to you in a plain brown wrapper."

Similar slogans reflect the situation on most campuses across the country, according to Debbie Homzak, editor of the "Makio."

"IT USED to be that you could depend on the seniors, freshmen, fraternities and sororities for your sales, but you can't anymore.

"People on most campuses buy yearbooks for the sole purpose of seeing themselves in the photos. Now that no one joins anything anymore, nobody expects to be in the book," she said.

Sales at OSU have dropped in the last year from 3,100 to 2,600, with seniors accounting for only 46 per cent of the orders.

THE FACT that yearbook sales are dwindling, even at small private colleges, is a reflection of both the quality of the book and the attitude of the students, Miss Homzak said.

"At a big school like Ohio State, things like the riots of 1970 or the Rose Bowl are the biggest boost for sales. People buy it to see if they just might be caught in one of the mobs."

She also pointed out that yearbook staffs, in general, are composed of a handful of people doing most of the work. The younger students often follow the suggestions of their predecessors, and as a result, innovation is sometimes stifled.

THE "MAKIO" staff is composed of three people on business, and 15 on editorial, including photographers. Miss Homzak said there are usually a lot of freshmen who are very enthusiastic about working on the "Makio" in the fall but who lose interest by winter and spring quarters when there's substantial work to be done.

Nevertheless, there are more candidates for next year's editor than previous years.

This surge of interest in the "Makio" could be due to Miss Homzak's recognition of the problem which most college yearbooks are facing, and her determination to meet it.

THE BOOK itself will be different from what OSU students are accustomed to. For the first time since the 1930's, the book will be square, and there will be no color.

The theme, "Everybody is a Star," will be introduced on the cover and carried throughout the book's 360 pages.

"In the beginning pages, we'll show photographs of crowds," Miss Homzak explained, "and then we'll single out a few of those 'nameless faces,' and focus on them as individuals on divider pages, and in the rest of the book."

"MAKIO" '72 will follow the events on the Ohio State campus in chronological order, one of the few books in the country to break the tradition of sections of "Sports," "Arts," etc.

It will begin with the fall quarter and continue through spring, with less concentration on football and more emphasis on dance, theatre, speakers, and rock concerts on the Oval.

"The book won't actually be an accurate portrayal of the year's events on campus," Miss Homzak said. "It can't hope to be with so many things going on here. It naturally becomes what the editors make it. For example, our photographers shoot when they see something happening they think merits it."

IN SPITE of the negativism hurled at yearbooks on most campuses, the editor is optimistic about the future of the books.

"Sooner or later, the organization person will be doing the big things on campuses, and yearbooks will become popular again."

Financial support for the "Makio" comes from seniors and organization pictures, and subscriptions. The university does not fund the yearbook, and there is no commercial advertising included.

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE to own the '72 model car you want at a price you can afford. It is a sharp Metallic Blue finish with a contrasting black and white interior. You have bucket seats with the full console and automatic transmission. The driver seat takes on the appearance of a pilot's seat because of the many built in instruments. It has the look and feel of a high performance car, but this will fool you because it is powered by a 351 with a two barrel carburator. Your insurance man will appreciate that too. Power steering, power disc brakes, radio and only 13,095 miles. Only $3395

Nature Was The Best Man

OH, WHAT IS SO RARE as the day in June when brides and grooms swear their eternal love? It used to be that an outdoors in-the-woods with nature wedding was as rare. No more. The sky and a hillside have become a chapel for many. (17 are scheduled for the Columbus Park of Roses this summer.) The wedding march to the strains of a haunting organ has been replaced by the outdoors music of nature's tiny animal kingdom expressing the same thoughts in chirps and squeals of contentment. Any wonder then that Norman Gillespie, Westerville, and Carol Longnecker, Lancaster, chose the outdoors for their exchange of vows last Saturday. The traditional carrying of the bride across the threshold of a new home also waits while the bride is carried up an ivy-covered path. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Residents Voice Ideas On Improving Schools

Groveport - Madison residents were asked to speakout on improving their schools and setting up a system of accountability in education and they did just that.

Results of the two hour meeting part of the state's Search For Consensus were released last week.

The project was required by the state legislature of all school districts in the state to determine accountability in education.

A spokesman for the school district said the project was the first chance in years for taxpayers to come in and exert more than financial pressure.

"The participants seemed to be saying we want to support this project and keep it active," the spokesman said.

These participating in the two hour session were divided into 10 seminars and were asked to discuss a specific topic and improving education in general. The specific areas of study were: accountability, finance, curriculum, building facilities, instructional methods, personnel, school community relations, educational organization, equal educational opportunity, and students' right and responsibilities.

Each group was asked to list three most important things that the school should be doing for students in the district, as related to their area of discussion.

Under personnel the three recommendations were: – Teachers should be sincerely interested in children and in teaching children; they should have empathy.

—Volunteers and paraprofessionals should be used in the schools but should not replace the teacher. This is presently being done in the library at the elementary level and high school.

–There should be guidelines for administrators and local education groups to follow in their negotiations. Needs of teachers and schools should be brought to administrators and boards so they know what the needs are.

Under School community relations the group found:

—A lack of two-way communication between the school board and the community.

–The students are a legitimate part of the community that must be communicated with by the administration and the staff of the system.

—Schools that have no Parent-Teacher Organization should be encouraged to have them. Only the high school does not have such an organization at present.

EDUCATION ORGANIZATION:

–Develop every child to the best of his ability through cooperative efforts.

—Re-evaluation of curriculum according to realism.

—Better communication between the school and the parents.

EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY:

—No busing to achieve integration.

–Definition of words or term "disadvantaged children."

–Concern about adult and vocational education.

STUDENTS' RIGHTS AND REPONSIBILITIES:

–Students of high school level should be involved in decisions on curriculum, with counselors.

–Good discipline with emphasis on positive rather then negative.

–Schools will have to be more resposible for pupil behavior, because of lack of discipline and responsibility in the home.

ACCOUNTABILITY:

–We feel the school should be accountable to the students to prepare them for whatever comes after high school and give them individual education.

–There should be a teacher evaluation, but we could not agree on who should do the evaluating or whether it should pertain the salary.

FINANCE:

–Each person of voting age should pay a fair share per pupil in school, divide according to number of students in that area.

—There should be long range budget but not completely controlled by the electoral. Set budget and assess each person accordingly.

–Build smaller schools in each area with small attendance so each child can walk and receive their individual needs.

CURRICULUM:

—Child oriented curriculum. This refers to putting the material on the child's level rather than molding him to the course or material.

–More electives in elementary education. (physcial education and foreign language) The spokesman for the schools said more physical education courses were needed and that at present each teacher did this on their on and on a limitied basis.

The spokesman said one physical education teacher to every one or two buildings would be a great help and that when there was enough money this would probably be provided.

He said there were no foreign language courses offered at the lower grade levels.

—The third recommendation under curriculum called for the students to be better prepared for the world of work after graduation. This was pointed out as another indication of the feelings toward more vocational cources.

BUILDING FACILITIES:

–The school district should participate in the development of a year round recreation program for boys and girls, youth and adults.

–A look should be taken at the methods of financing school buildings. Under the present laws many educational programs are penalized because the local district does not have the boding capacity to enable it to keep up with building needs.

–There is a need for better public understanding of what is needed in an educational program.

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS:

–It was the consensus of his group that the district make a statement of support of the non-graded system as it is being practiced at the Glendening School. It was felt that this is a definite step forward toward improved individualized instruction. The group encouraged the continuance of this program throughtout the entire school systerm. They further encouraged the citizens of this school district to support this program with financial support so that it can be properly staffered, supplied with adequate materials and effective buildings and facilities.

–The group also felt they would like to see a better system of evaluation throughout the school system. A system which would be more meaningful to the student, remove the threat of the grade book, and offer better interpretation for the parents. Parent-Teacher conferences were suggested as a possibility. Members said they are not satisfied with the traditional A, B, C, D, and failure marks.

These recommendations have been sent into the State Department of Education where they will be studied along with those from the other school districts in the state.

The results will be returned to the district and another meeting of parents, students and community residents is planned for the fall.

Project UNITE 'On The Road'

With only the abstaining vote of Mrs. Marie Castleman blocking its unanimity, the Columbus Board of Education approved the 58 Project UNITE recommendations made by Supt. John Ellis yesterday.

Mrs. Castleman "passed" after her effo ts to alter the document which she described as one clearly establishing the need for staff training in human relations were futile.

She had objected to the word "qualified" in front of "black teachers" in the recommendation that recruitment effort of black personnel be intensified and had wished to clarify that deemphasis on Black History week should not mean observation of the week should be ignored.

Furthermore, she supported some rewording suggested by Dr. Watson Walker, such as making in-service programs for volunteers "mandatory" rather than "encouraged."

Actually, Dr. Walker did not give his own recommendations much support– apparently largely because he did not want to jeapordize the entire package by nit-picking over semantics.

The first was that of initiating career education in a pilot high school and its feeder junior highs and elementaries

This was not regarded as at all controversial, as earlier in the meeting, the board had given approval to a program such as this to be initiated this fall at North High, Indianola and Crestview junior highs and its related elementaries.

The recommendation for vocational students merely stated it should be board policy that they should have the opportunity for leadership training through club activities and that sex barriers should be dropped in vocational course offerings.

Ellis also asked that every effort be made to protect the identity of those participating in the free lunch program and that curriculum units be developed on nutrition and appropriate eating behaviors.

Another recommendation that had already been acted upon Tuesday was that of strengthening the volunteer program through the uses of student, public and para-professionals within the classroom.

Staff recommendations included not only the integration of personnel, recruitment of minorities and the effort to obtain teachers of high quality, but one to eliminate the unqualified.

Several proposals involve the classified staff, especially in the specific area of improving communications between non-certificate personnel and the school staf. as a whole.

The development of an integrated curriculum was proposed as an alternate to emphasis on designation of Black History Week.

Decentralization was touched upon with the proposed concept of more authority and decision making in individual schools for principal and staff.

Under the heading of "Safety" it was determined that schools should be organized with a deep interest in the safety of students and staff.

Communications between the public and the schools were covered with suggestions such as an air of friendliness, avoiding the "cosmetic look" of open houses and better telephone manners

The "Human Relations" recommendations emphasized students with staff making the effort to know students' names, treat them politely and respect them as human beings.

The report ended, following several general suggestions, that the superintendent or his designee report initially to the board on Sept. 5 on the implementation of the first 58 recommendations.

At first glance, the report appeared to be anything but a "boat-rocker."

Dr. Ellis more or less conceded this point in answering a query made by Mrs. Castleman. He explained that many of the recommendations made in Project UNITE involve current "unwritten" board policies, and that Tuesday's recommendations merely formalized such policy.

Group Activities Aid Life Of MS Patients

By ANN MYERS
Special Staff Writer

It looks and sounds like a group of housewives who get together several times a month to talk and drink coffee and work on craft projects at the home of Mrs John Holden in Bexley.

They put another coat of varnish on decoupage plaques and then started on converting cigar boxes into jewelry boxes, with much kidding about artistic talent.

But it's not just a group of housewives. Three of the women are multiple sclerosis patients, the mysterious disease that is known as "the crippler of young adults." Multiple sclerosis destroys the myelin, the protective substance that covers the nerve fibers, and causes gradual but progress paralysis and loss of sight, hearing, speech and general motor control.

Although there is no cure for the disease, it can be partially controlled through drug and physical therapy and its victims can be assisted in leading nearly normal lives.

The group was organized by the local chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, a United Way agency, to five MS patients a chance to express themselves creatively and to talk to other MS patients about problems they encounter.

Mrs. Bea Grossman, counselor for the MS society and coordinator for the new program, explained, "Our main purpose is to provide an outlet for expression among local MS patients. They need an opportunity to rebuild the self-confidence that has been shattered by the increasing handicaps of their disease."

Mrs. Winnie Cohen, a volunteer who has been a member of Key 1, the MS Society's auxiliary for nine years, suggests craft projects and helps with the work.

Sister Angelica Armstrong, a Dominican nun and former art teacher in Detroit diocesan schools, also helps the group with their projects. Doctors diagnosed Sister Angelica as an MS patient two years ago. but now say she does not have it.

Another workshop was recently started at the Jaycee Arms, with about 20 participants, according to Mrs. Grossman. The MS Society, wants to sell on consignment articles the patients make or maybe start its own store, Mrs. Grossman said.

The flow of laughter and good-natured talk make it clear that the craft sessions more closely resemble kaffeklatches than therapy groups. The group was formed to provide "a friendly two hours of socializing," said Mrs. Grossman.

Judging from the congeniality of the participants, it is just what the doctor ordered.

OFF VIETNAM

Navy Seaman Apprentice Victor L. Taber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Taber of 642 S. Everett Ave., has arrived on the "gun line" off the coast of Vietnam aboard the USS Newport News.

First Woman Elected To Board

Mrs. Samuel M. Melton, 436 N. Columbia Ave., has become the first woman to serve on the board of directors of the Huntington National Bank in the bank's 106 year history. Her recent election was announced by bank president, Edward A. Huwaldt.

Mrs. Melton, a well known philantrophist and business woman, is head of research and design for the R.G. Barry Company.

The firm, founded by Mrs. Melton, was a pioneer in the use of foam rubber in the manufacture of washable footwear.

Mrs. Melton was honored last year for her outstanding contributions to the professional world and to the community by the Pilot Club of Columbus, a women's service organization.

She is a member of Hadassah, B'nai B'rith Women, on the board of Heritage House and the United Jewish Fund and Council.

She serves on the national board of the women's Division of Jewish Appeal and is now on the governing council of the American Association for Jewish Education.

City Offers Free Drops At Landfill

Area residents who can't wait for the city bulk pick-up and would "rather do it themselves" may dispose of their rubbish at the Morrison Road Landfill during June and July.

Beginning Saturday, the landfill will be open on Saturdays (8 a.m. to 4 p.m) for rubbish disposal.

There will be no charge for dumping when the rubbish is transported by automobile or station wagon. All other means of hauling will pay the standard (15 cents per 100 lbs., $1.50 minimum) city fee.

The Morrison Road landfill is located off Morrison Rd. (between Whitehall and Western Electric), approximately one mile north of East Broad Street.

Hop To It, Mr. Brown!

News releases hawking charitable benefits are generally matter-of-fact, colorless pieces of black-on-white soliciting newspaper exposure.

But the one received this week from Paul Walker of the American Cancer Society was a bit different.

Mrs. Virginia Brown, founder of CREW 13 of the society, will host a yard sale Saturday, June 17 (10 a.m. until everything is sold) at 4352 E. Livingston Ave. with all proceeds going to cancer research.

The release concludes by saying Mr. Brown "hopes to high heaven he is able to cut the grass the night before."

Those nearby who might have items which they might wish to contribute to the sale are asked to call Mrs. Brown at 235-3880.

We would imagine the same courtesies could be extended to Mr. Brown.

CSG Tests June 12

Half A Loaf

Urging people to voice their opinions on matters of public concern is the legitimate function of the Columbus Area Civil Rights Council and any other groups concerned with the rights of the governed.

And certainly the request made by CACRC that Columbus residents take a few minutes to reply to the Project UNITE questionaire is a valid one that should be heeded by all concerned with the shaping of public education.

However, the CACRC Board of Trustees and the Education Committee has taken upon itself the responsibility of dictating the recommendations to be made to the Columbus Board of Education.

And telling people HOW to respond to a questionaire is very different from urging them to take the opportunity to be heard.

Actually two of the three recommendations the Commission seeks to have mimicked are so broadly accepted as imperative to quality education that the Columbus Board of Education is already committed to the stated objectives.

They are, simply stated, inclusion of black experience, culture, values and history in the curriculum of grades K through 12 and efforts toward improved human relations.

But the methods suggested to implement the third recommendation – total integration for all schools in terms of administration, teachers, staff and pupils–are at least controversial (if not impractical or even irresponsible) and certainly should not be used to pressure the Columbus School Board into unstudied action.

Assuming that integrated education and quality education are synonomous (a point that is constantly being reexamined) the only real way to integrate the schools is through integrated housing.

Efforts to integrate through redistricting (as suggested by the Civil Rights group) have minimal effect. For example, just what can be done with the Walnut Ridge High School district where only a handful of black families live?

Every in-depth study made of educational parks (another recommendation of the Commission) has shown the costs prohibitive in an already established district, although more practical in a new and "planned" community.

If those who see their civil rights threatened do indeed need to be spoon-fed advice on how to lobby for equal educational opportunity, we would suggest they go, not to the CACRC, but to the Housing and Community Development Advisory Commission.

The housing commission established last summer by Gov. Gilligan is concerned about H.B. 1113 that is now in special sub-committee.

Designed to create a housing finance agency with a bonding mechanism for state-assisted housing development, the bill is now similar to that earlier proposed by the Advisory Commission.

The concern stems from fear that, by the time the bill is out of committee, provisions that projects be assisted in accordance with a state-wide housing plan and that 25 per cent of all such units be made available to low-incomed families will have been compromised away.

Implementation of H.B. 1113 can do more for school integration than all the gerrymandering of attendance areas every contemplated-and at a cost that will not involve the financial ruin of a school district and its taxpayers which is promised by educational parks.

The roles of the disadvantaged in Columbus schools are not restricted to those of minority races. The disadvaataged are from socio-economically deprived families–and moving these children to suburban schools and returning them to the ghettos at night will solve little.

As offensive as it is to the white, middle-class American, he must learn to live with his less fortunate brother, black or white, day and night.

And before the poor and the black sit down to write out the stereotyped solutions to segregated schools suggested by the Civil Right Council, they best look to tomorrow.

At best they would be pressuring for half-a-loaf solutions to problems which merit whole-loaf answers.

Unity A Must

And the tactics traditionally used in such bargaining frequently extend to many areas far removed from horse flesh.

For example—we understand members of the Columbus Board of Education are currently involved in finagling over the bond issue that is expected to go on the November ballot.

According to the studies made in Project UNITE, about $100 million of new construction is needed by Columbus Public Schools to relieve schools that are resorting to abnormal sessions to avoid wall-to-wall students and to provide the vocational facilities demanded in a technological age.

The discussions to date have not been held in the open—and for once we cannot criticize members who refuse to quarrel publicly.

Columbus voters in recent years have developed a considerable resistance to the financial demands made upon them to routinely up the ante to support public schools through property taxes.

About all they need now to zip up their money belts is evidence that board members themselves are divided on the advisability of construction.

Such evidence would be provided with a split vote. Five "aye" votes are necessary before the issue can go to the voters—but two dissenting votes could kill it in the eyes of the public.

And at least two such votes are threatened.

The sad part of the picture is that all seven members of the board are agreed that Columbus is sadly behind in keeping up with the building needs of the district.

So what is the hassle about?

Simply stated–it's that horsetrading.

Several members of the board have seen in the power of their vote the opportunity to push for projects to which the majority of the board (and, according to Project UNITE, the public itself) cannot commit itself.

However, when five votes are a must, the noisy minority becomes an awesome force.

To date, the lid has been kept on the matter-probably largely because of the diplomacy of CPS Superintendent John Ellis.

The Spectator agrees with several civic groups which have stated their endorsement of the bond issue will be withheld until it comes "out of the poke."

But time is running out for the board–and when the vote is taken, the public will be watching.

If the votes shows a rift, or if the motion to place the issue on the ballot is accompanied by overt compromises contrary to the recommendations of Project UNITE, any future sales campaign will be an exercise in futility.

Persons willing to serve on a public board of education have to be a strange breed of cat.

They give their energies and talents without stint-and without compensation.

We do not see anyone seated today who has not shown he or she has this interest at heart.

But school board members can be tempted away from altruism when they allow themselves to lose sight of the forest to cultivate a particular sapling.

Columbus schools cannot afford another bond failure and unless members of the board determine to become bigger than their prejudices, they will buy themselves a negative vote in November that can stymie education for years to come.

To Plant Or Not . . .

Instinctively, those who have watched Mel Dodge operate the Columbus Department of Recreation with efficiency and without political bias welcomed his appointment as acting superintendent of Parks and Forestry.

His past record was reassuring.

However, his second thoughts on the Columbus Tree Commission's proposal to embark on a tree planting program assessment represents the fulfillment of the promise of the appointment.

Before jumping on the "tree tax" bandwagon he has committed himself to a study of an alternative proposal through which trees—and assessments– would be made only in neighborhoods where the majority of the property holders want trees.

It is anticipated that, if the placement of trees is determined by the expressed wishes of the taxpayer, fewer trees will be planted.

It is also anticipated that Parks and Forestry will be spared the anguished cries of the home owner who pays a five cent per front foot assessment for years before he ever sees a tree.

According to Dodge, the present system through which the city responds to a request for a tree from anyone willing to part with $15 is impractical.

The man hours and transportation costs expended in planting in scattered locations runs up the costs astronomically.

This problem would be eliminated with either proposal (councilmanic assessment or petitions), but only the latter will eliminate the inequities for those who do not want trees in being forced to pay for them–and for the resident who has already invested in the landscaping of his property.

Dodge's stand on this matter actually is a rather daring one. In this day of an ecology-minded people, the tree has become as much a sacred cow as apple pie and motherhood.

It is encouraging to see a public official who realizes that the average tax payer also sees the contents of his purse as an object of respect.

The Integration Derby

It Sounds Good

City and county officials viewing the Minneapolis-St. Paul system of handling solid waste report they like the plan.

If the figures brought back from the Twin Cities are reasonably accurate, taxpayers should climb on the tractor-trailer rigs involved in droves.

With Franklin County fast running out of landfill, the systems of compacting refuse into pollution-free blocks one twenty-third of its original bulk should delight ecologists for miles around– and the promise of truly solid landfill should be a bonanza for land-hungry developers.

But the economic advantages of the system already tested in Minnesota should warm those hearts through which red ink pulses.

Currently, the annual cost of collecting and burying Franklin County's 1200 tons of garbage a day is reckoned at $24 a ton.

The cost of operating the hailing system is set at between $5 and $ 7 a ton. And the difference between those two figures amounts to a cool six million bucks a year.

Officials are talking about leasing the system rather than indulging in "a huge capital outlay" of some $4 million with the rentals being absorbed by the saving.

But that appears to be so much jabberwocky.

Anyone who denies that an investment which will pay for itself (plus providing a 50 percent dividend the first year) is worthwhile needs a basic lesson in finance.

In the weeks to come, the public is bound to hear a lot of rhetoric about the three alternatives facing Metropolitan Columbus officials.

They involve the city's lease or purchase of the system and contracting with outlying areas, such installation by a private contractor with agreements made with various political entities, and operation by a regional agency such as the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission.

We will wait until the pros and cons are in before making a judgement–but doubt if anyone can disprove the promise that regional problems are best dealt with on a regional, non-political basis.

Defends Unemployment Kit

To The Editor:

On May 17, an editorial entitled "Strange Emphasis" appeared in your paper in which the writer took exception to furnishing students in Ohio schools with information concerning the unemployment insurance program by use of a Department of Labor Kit.

A prime function of any newspaper is to furnish the readers with all the accurate information available on items of interest appearing in its pages. I, therefore, believe your readers would be interested in learning more about the background and purpose of the Department of Labor education kit "Unemployment is a Social Problem" so they can make a judgment as to its relevancy in the school curriculum.

Most American adults are aware of the existance of unemployment insurance. It has been around for over 30 years and has benefited the working public during periods of temporary unemployment. In spite of this, the general public has no more than a smattering of knowledge about its basic objectives and content so it remains one of the most controversial and misunderstood programs administered by the government today.

Two years ago the Manpower Administration decided to find out just how to go about correcting the general misunderstanding of the unemployment insurance program. While several approaches were considered, the school system seemed the logical place to start as this is where one begins to learn about social processes, institutions, and programs. To find out what schools teach about the purpose of unemployment insurance, a survey of secondary school social science textbooks was made.

Survey results showed that most texts had limited information on unemployment insurance and that much of the information was incorrect. The Manpower Administration, therefore, sought the advice of the National Council for Social Studies, a professional organization with special expertise and interest in social studies curricula dating back to 1921.

The National Council for Social Studies convened a panel of social studies teachers from across the nation to determine whether the teachers felt that such a subject should be included in the teaching curriculum. The panel enthusiastically endorsed inclusion of the unemployment insurance program in the social studies curriculum.

They made recommendations for its presentation and agreed to develop a package of materials for use in the secondary schools. The result was the Department of Labor kit "Unemployment is a Social Problem."

The purpose of this kit is not to prepare youth for unemployment nor are the materials in the kit aimed at teaching the students how to apply and qualify for unemployment benefits. Instead, the materials specifically stress the adverse effect of unemployment on the national and local economy and the effect on the labor force. The kit points out the manner in which financial assistance from the unemployment insurance program helps combat the problem for the individual worker, the community, and the nation.

The Manpower Administration is convinced the kit is a positive step toward clearing misunderstandings and improving public knowledge of the unemployment insurance program. The kit emphasizes that "unemployment is a social problem." It provides young minds with information on unemployment in a manner designed to make them think.

Field tests of the kit have been held in three areas of the Nation. The material was presented as part of courses in civics, business, economics, history, problems of democracy, government, or law. Tests given students before and after the material was presented showed a definite improvement in understanding the social nature of unemployment and the response made by the unemployment insurance program.

There was also improved understanding of the economic reasons behind unemployment and the function of unemployment insurance in the national economy. Finally, and perhaps most important, there was improved awareness of the serious nature of unemployment as a national problem.

The Manpower Administration and the educators who have reviewed the kit are convinced the kit will do the job for which it was designed–identify for young citizens the problems of unemployment for individuals and our society and how the unemployment insurance program tries to cope with some of these problems.

I sincerely believe the Department of Labor kit is a practical means of providing information concerning one of today's vital problems-unemployment.

In order to provide the opportunity for young citizens to participate in resolving problems, these same problems must be presented to them so that they may understand the issues involved. After all, they are the individuals who will be coping with the problems of tomorrow.

DO YOU BELIEVE THAT THE MASS MEDIA'S COVERAGE OF AIRPLANE HIJACKINGS HAS BEEN AN ENCOURAGEMENT TO THIS CRIME?

This Weeks Respondents: GROVEPORT-MADISON

I do believe that the mass media coverage of hijackings has had some effect on the increase in this unlawful action. The reason why a person would hijack an airplane is possible and probably this: he feels a need, a want or a desire to be recognized by society for his act. Most people are rather proud to discover an article either written about them or merely including their name. Others who see the article compliment and recognise the person as a "special" individual. Why shouldn't a hijacker also be proud and slightly delighted to see his name in black and white or hear it on the television? There is one small difference between a "normal" person and a hijacker. The hijacker will go to extremes to become known to society. By reading about the action of a certain hijacker, a person who has been tempted to try the same act might be encouraged by that article to actually "pull off the job." Therefore, I conclude that if the mass media coverage on hijackings were diminished, fewer hijackings would probably occur. - JENNIFER HUMMELL

It must first be recognised that there are always deranged people who cannot deal with their problems, and commit criminal acts. It is very possible, if not probable, that media coverage of hijackings, as well as other events such as assassinations, increase the urge within these deranged people to commit the criminal act. The solution to the problem however, is not in curtailment of the media's right to report on these events. The public has the right to know what is happening in the world, and to restrict the media's reporting would be unconstitutional. The solution, then, is to treat these criminals so they won't endanger the lives of innocent citizens. - TOM BURTON

Yes. There are many publicity seeking fanatics who, because of the mass media coverage, are inspired to attempt a hijacking. As an example, recently a plane was hijacked by a Chicano leader, who exchanged the hostages and plane for television coverage so the plight of his people could be heard. - TOM LUELLEN

Yes. At first when the hijacking was something new, it was covered almost to the point of being glamorized, so the aspect of criminal offense was covered over. Instead of hijacking being thought of a criminal offense, it seems to be the cheapest form of advertisement. - DANA KLEIN

It has increased the number because people can now use hijackings for publicity. When a person has a cause he wants defended he can hijack a plane and get free air time on radio and television and also get an article in the major newspapers. - THURMAN FOWDER

Yes, I think it does because it gives some people ideas which they may never have thought about before - especially the hijackings which have involved money and the person parachuting out. Since this has been done and the news covering them more people have tried this. So I feel the mass media has an effect on the number of hijackings. - JERRY CLEMENTS

I think it has because many do it just for the publicity or to bring attention to their cause. So a skyjacking would be a perfect way of doing it. You get all the publicity you need plus an airplane to boot. - ART HALL

I definitely feel the coverage by the media of hijackings has increased the number of this type of offense. Since the first hijacking hit the front page the number of men in "dark coats and black brief cases" hijacking planes has increased. The way each hijacking is reported makes it sound like a brilliantly planned and exciting event which is assured to make at least the second page of any paper. - JERRY HUMPHREY

I think that mass media coverage has increased hijackings because the hijackers learn new things through the news. There were no ransom demands until the media showed that one hijacking where the guy parachuted out of the plane with $300,000. Now all the hijackers ask for ransom and most parachute out of the plane. I also think that other hijackers learn about the mistakes of hijackers who failed at it and then incorporate a better plan to avoid those mistakes. - BRUCE NORMAN

In one way it hasn't because it has become so publicised that would-be hijackers are afraid of being caught and heavily punished. So many hijackings have taken place that major airports keep on the watch for such incidents and security makes hijackings harder to pull off. Then there are those who commit hijackings merely for publicity reasons. They know their chances and they know the consequences but they do it anyway because its so widely publicized. Most of them are either looking for a brief headline in the news or they are crazy. - TOM NEWMAN

I think that the media has little effect on the increase of the hijacking of planes. I do feel that it does lean toward the preventing of the hijacking. Even though the media only promote the punishment of these persons to a small degree, this little bit must be useful in some way. - MARK RONTZEL

The mass media coverage of airline hijacking has had a great influence on the frequency of them. The newcasters tend to make out the sky pirate as a sort of "Robin Hood" character. The devices used at airports to prevent skyjackers from entering aircraft seem to work as a challenge to the criminal. - ROBERT WRAY

Ill-Advised

William Schneider seems to be a little confused about the responsibilities of the county board of elections of which he is the senior member.

His attack upon Columbus City Council's action to increase city wards from 36 to 66 is ill-advised. Population growth has demanded a change in wards if the voice of the outlying suburbs is not to drown-out that of the majority living within the city.

His statement that council lacks the expertise to adjust the wards is irresponsible and ignores the fact that the board's function, by law, is limited to that of supervising the mechanics of voting.

The boards of elections show increasing resistance to any proposal that involves more work. For example, it was contended for a while that the difficulties of taking the proposed constitutional amendments off the May ballot were insurmountable.

Of course, it was well-pointed out that the boards do indeed lack flexibility when the "bed sheet ballots" created chaos.

For this reason, the Conference on Elections that begins today designed as a "refresher school" for key personnel of Ohio's more than 500 Boards of Elections seems an apt idea.

However, in view of past performance, we wonder how prophetic it is that Cedar Point has been chosen as the conference site.

Eye On Eastmoor ...

By PAMELA MORGAN

Eastmoor downed DeSales, 225-205, to emerge as the 1971-'72 "In The Know" champion last week.

Eastmoor, which lost out in the finals last year, thus becomes the first Columbus public high school to take honors in the competition which began in 1967. This year 40 schools participated in the elimination process.

PREVIOUS "In The Know" winners were Bexley (1967), Upper Arlington and Watterson (1968), Arlington (1969), Columbus Academy (1970) and Watterson (1971).

The "Warrior wizards" are Jane Carroll, Mark Ackerman, Steve Kosciuk and Joel Finkelstein. Alternates are Cindy Hunt and Carole Mathless. The junior team (Jeff Supowitt, Ted Brown, Mike Montgomery, Julian Chasin, and Steve Gordon) provided practice competition. Paul Steele and D. Craig Higbee served as faculty advisers while Julie Kautz and Jim Tittsler were student coaches.

The 1973 Chariot (newspaper) and Shield (yearbook) staffs were announced at the journalism Banquet held recently at the Holiday Inn. Sandy Meizlish terminated his year as Chariot editor by introducing Randy Baum as the new chief. Go-editors Carol Neustadt and Richard Rofsky handed their positions on the Shield over to Lori Greenberg and Steve Oppenheimer.

NEW QUILL and Scroll members inducted were Pam Grossman, Susie Gordon, Larry Mendel, Cheri Freeman, Randy Baum, Brent Mize, John Boice, Leslie Seckel, Zelda Grinblatt, Holly Reed, Janice Georgeff, Andi Goodman, Carole Mathless and Jeff Adler.

Sophomore Mike Feinstein is the FHS reporter for "High School Byline." The show is aired Mondays (3:30 to 5 p.m.)0 on WCBE-EM (the Columbus Board of Education radio station).

(EDS. NOTE: A big "tip of the hat" to columnist Pamela Morgan for a job well done for EHS and The Spectator during the 1971-'72 school year).

ACT II By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Before reaching the area of the Statehouse Sunday afternoon, we were serenaded by the strains of a march. As we mounted the steps to the statehouse grounds they broke into a medley from "Fiddler On The Roof."

"They," being the North American Aviation Columbus Division Concert Band, were really quite good. The arts exhibits were interesting but one painting in particular kept drawing my attention back to the Ohio Dominican College display.

The artist's name is Sobolewski and the painting is of a grotesque figure in a definite red, blue and green background. I cannot explain the magnetism it contained, but it is a painting that will haunt me for some time to come.

After the children finished their wire sculptures we were headed for the George Latshaw puppet show when we heard a strange instrument emitting dulcet tones - and why not? It was a dulcimer, made by Jerry Beal of Newark, Ohio. This ancient musical instrument is said to be native to Appalachia. After George Latshaw, at his usual best, a stroll past the pottery and a romp with the Junior Theatre of The Arts on the lawn, then home to anticipate the next Arts Festival.

Little Theatre Off Broadway opened their mystery comedy "Catch Me If You Can" June 2 and it continues June 9 and 10 at 8:30 p.m. at 3651 N. Broadway, Grove City. Jack Pappas directs, and if you l9ok real close, you'll see him on stage for a few seconds, too.

Others in the cast are Jim Browning, Jack Beaty, Jean Meier, Jim Hodges, Norm Engleberg, and Linda Browning. Call 875-0699 for reservations.

Jim Dipple gave me LTOB's schedule for the coming season. "Cactus Flower" leads off in September, followed by "The "The Rainmaker," "On A Clear Day," "The Owl And The Pussycat," "A Man For All Seasons" and one more to be announced at a later date.

The Central Region of the Ohio Community Theatre Association will hold its seventh annual conference at the Imperial House-Arlington June 10 starting at 1 p.m. with the keynote address. The day will include workshops, cocktail hour, buffet supper and play-excerpt competition.

This time next week we will know who won the awards for the top Community Theatre production in the area, as well as who, in the judges opinions, were the best actor and actress.

That will wrap up community theater for another year and its on to Playhouse On the Green, Kenley Players and Stadium II. Of course the dinner theaters will still be going strong, regardless of the

LINCOLN LODGE

Hold on to your hats. Chuck Anderson, the manager of the Lincoln Lodge, has done it again. He has booked one of the most dynamic, high-powered duos in the business into his lounge.

Because of the holiday last week, I did not catch them. Unfortunately, this is their second and final week at the Lodge.

I am referring to Walls and Walker. Hal Walls handles the keyboards and Stan Walker takes care of the sticks and brushes. Their instruments are in the hands of experts.

Hal does not play at the organ and piano-he plays them for all they're worth. This fellow is a master in every sense of the word. It has been a while since I have heard a person with so much talent at the black and whites. Hal is as strong on organ as he is on piano. When he plays the two together, watch out.

Then you take his partner at the drums and you really end up with a dynamic duo. Stan Walker handles the drums as well as Hal handles the ivories. Stan doesn't goof around. He gets down to business. However, with all his artistry, Stan does not drive you out of the room. This boy is a drummer. He doesn't try to show you how loud he can play, but how well. In the instrumental department, both Hal and Stan are artists.

Getting back to Hal for a minute, some of his renditions will send you right into orbit. His keyboard work is truly fantastic.

Now, you add their two voices to all of this music, and these two give out with as much entertainment as an eight-piece outfit. Each compliments the other, both instrumentally and vocally.

You name the type of music you want to hear, and believe me, they will perform it for you anything from Broadway show tunes to country and western, with all the stops in between.

If you catch this group, and then write me a letter saying you didn't care for them, then, my friend, you just don't like good, entertaining music. The crowds at Lincoln Lodge have been flipping over Hal and Stan. Put me in the same category. I think they are great; so will you. Make sure you catch them during this, their final week.

RAMADA INN NORTH

For a pleasant surprise and something a little different in the way of entertainment, stop in some evening at the Ramada Inn North and catch Don Morris. You can hear this fellow Tuesday through Friday during cocktail hour, 5-9 p.m., and on Monday nights 8:30 p.m. until 1:30 a.m.

Don is really a joy to hear, mainly because his style and his music are so out and out relaxing. Playing guitar and singing makes a heavy load on any performer. Only the talented and professional ones can pull it off. Don does just that. He entertains.

This Don does by owning a fine voice with top-notch control and a style that belongs only to Don Morris. Yes, Don is definitely a stylist. No one sings with the feeling and interpretation as does Don. Add a clear voice, that is not muddled or covered up with gimmicks, and you end up with a highly entertaining performer.

His music leans toward the folk idiom. Yet, he can do a job on most all types of songs. Add Don's solid guitar work to this and, take it from me, you will sit and listen to several sets and not become bored or restless.

Another factor that makes Don so interesting is his absolute mania for professionalism. This fellow is a real pro in every sense of the word.

What I like most about his act is that it is not overpowering. You can enjoy him and yet enjoy conversation with others.

For a single act, Don Morris is strong. He can hold your interest, keep you entertained in his own personal style, and still leave room for you to enjoy the atmosphere of the Ramada Inn North.

WESTERN PANCAKE HOUSES

Here is a darn good tip of the week for some good food at very reasonable prices. Head for one of the Western Pancake Houses located Around Town. You'll find excellent food and an interesting, rather unique decor.

While there is some variety in the menu you can get steaks, chops, all types of sandwiches and pastry, as well as home made soups the main items are an enormous selection of mouth-watering pancakes. With this type of menu you may order just about anything you please. Of course, if you are looking for a gourmet meal, this is not the place for you.

But, if you want an excellent, family-type restaurant serving delicious meals, at a price that won't send you to your nearest loan company, try them.

Here's another thing you will enjoy about the Western Pancake House, many of them are open twenty-four hours a day. You late night swingers, can go out on the town all night and then stop off on your way home to have breakfast or a late night supper.

In keeping with their names, the decor consists of western atmosphere that is truly relaxing. There are large wagon wheels and rustic light fixtures creating an Old West feeling.

President Joe Skaggs and his wife started their first restaurant in 1956. In 1963 they opened their first Western Pancake House, then in 1967 the second was opened at Northern Lights Shopping Center. In 1970 another opened at the Patio and April of this year the Hamilton Road store began operation.

On the drawing boards are two more for Columbus and one out-of-state. There is already one in Louisville.

The Skaggs have proved that a man and wife makes the best management team for family-type restaurants. See for yourself. Take it from me, you won't be sorry, just stuffed.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Lovely Susan Lambi has been held over again at the beautiful Holiday Inn-Reynoldsburg. This gal is an excellent singer and a real beauty. Accompanying herself an the electric organ, Susan provides plenty of good, soft music. Stop out, you are missing a good bet on this one.

Hawks Grab CCL Share; Warriors See Red

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Eastmoor and Hartley, only Eastside high school nines left in action last week, wrapped up their respective '72 campaigns in widely divergent manners.

The Hawks--many of them ducking out on summer jobs to play--came up with a pair of big innings Friday to swat DeSales 6-2 and tie old rival Watterson for the Catholic League crown.

The Warriors traveled to Marion-Franklin's home obstacle course Wednesday for a City League South playoff scrap--and came up on the short end of a 5-1 count as their year-long pursuit of a City title went begging.

HARTLEY GOT standout mound work from Mike Jenkins, who held the Stallions to four hits over the full seven innings. Not content with stifling the opposition, the classy righthander also drove home what proved to be the winning run in the first frame--by way of a two-run circuit smash.

That followed a solo shot by outfield star Mike Roesch--and when the same duo helped trigger another three-run outburst in the third, it was all downhill to a hard earned rest in the throneroom.

"This bunch moved the ball all year," noted venerable coach Jack Ryan. "They hit .306 as a team for the season--and that's swingin' the bat in anybody's league!"

A LOOK AT the final statistics bears out Mr. Ryan's observation: No fewer than six Hartley players wound up with batting averages above.300 over a marathon 24-10 campaign.

Jenkins topped the list of senior sluggers, rocking enemy pitching at a .409 clip that kept him in the starting lineup as an outfielder when he wasn't on the hill.

Roesch wound up a brilliant schoolboy career with a .383 batting mark for the season--and led the team in hits with 41.

JIM CHELLIS, only fulltime '73 regular who returned at the start of the year, was the Hawk home run and RBI king. The stocky senior backstop swatted nine roundtrippers and plated 41 Hawk runs while amassing a solid .336 average.

Junior shortstop Gary McClelland, only underclassman among the starters, spanked the ball at a .354 pace and managed to cross the plate 38 times in '72--high on the club. Seniors Curt Reitelbach and Mike Yankolov weren't too shabby with the stick either -- hitting .319 and .387 respectively to give Ryan potent batwork literally from one end of the order to the other.

Larry Woerner paced the pitching staff with a fine 7-1 season slate, including the crucial 8-0 shutout over Watterson that eventually saved Hawk title aspirations. He posted a solid 2.90 ERA, and led the staff in strikeouts with 57.

JENKINS WAS 7-4 as a moundsman, followed by Mike Taylor's 5-2, Tom King's 3-0 and relief ace Mike Dieli's 2-1--the latter including a splendid 1.04 earned run average.

With the exceptions of infielder McClelland and pitcher King, all the people listed above will be long gone next Spring; along with vets Gary Brewer, Tom Van Eman and Brian Hughes and backup hurlers Steve Podolski and Ducky Thomas.

That leaves one whale of a rebuilding job for next season, and there's been more than a little speculation that Mr. Ryan might just decide to leave the task to a younger man--and spend a few of those sunny Spring afternoons with his grandchildren.

The "Gray Fox", winner of more baseball titles than even he can count, was cagey on the subject of impending retirement--but obviously pleased with the team effort that carried his club to the top one more time.

"A real nice buncha kids," said Central Ohio's best known oracle. That makes about 36 times he's said that kind of thing--and undoubtedly meant it.

EASTMOOR

Things weren't quite so sunny over on Weyant Ave., however.

Ron Golden's talent-rich Warriors dropped only their fourth verdict in 21 outings last Wednesday--and it cost 'em a crack at the first inter-divisional City League championship tilt.

It was almost too bad to be true.

TWO OF THE preceding three losses had come against key CL South opponents, and forced the playoff with Marion-Franklin when both wound up division play at 10-2. The other one hurt worst of all, bouncing the pre-season favorites out of semifinal District tourney competition on the short end of a 9-0 count.

The 5-1 setback at M'F last week was an uncommonly painful way for an extremely fine club to wind up a frustrating season.

Red Devil mound ace Kim Compton got most of the press notice for his three-hit job on the Eastmoor batting order--and undoubtedly deserved it. But Golden pointed out that the physical dimensions and problems of the Marion-Franklin diamond played a pretty major role in the outcome too.

"THEY HAVEN'T GOT any fences out there, you know," said the obviously disappointed E-M coach; "and the backstop is right on top of the plate. They had their outfield playing 350-400 feet from the plate against our power-hitters, and two or three balls that would have been over any fence in town were just long outs."

Ron also noted that Compton walked eight Warriors, and came up with "about 14 pitches that got away from the catcher with men on base."

Unfortunately for Eastmoor scoring opportunities, the Devil catcher had only to turn around to retrieve a wild pitch--and Mr. Compton was a tough cookie when the chips were down, striking out a total of 13 Warriors.

STILL, it was a 2-1 ballgame with the Devils hitting in the top of the seventh against reliever Bob Traphagen when the lights really went out. M-F got two men on, then first-baseman Ed Milner smacked a fly ball to left that lodged in a clump of hedge.

"We discussed that bush before the game, but they said it wasn't a ground rule situation;" said Golden. "Ayers was just supposed to pluck it outa there and throw it back in. Jeez, as far as I know the (blank) thing's still in there--we never did find it!"

GOLDEN'S GROUP got two more men on in their final shot, but that was all she wrote as Mr. Compton bore down.

Only bright spot all day for the defending City and District champs was Ron Ayers' gargantuan fifth inning homer. "They were playing 'Cub' about 450 feet out," chuckled Golden--"he musta hit that one about 500!"

It was a case of two good teams playing on the same field, with the same handicaps. M-F got more hits, and Eastmoor's mistakes cost dearly while Devil goofs were relatively harmless. Just another one of "those days."

SO THE WARRIORS conclude a scintillating 17-4 campaign minus their league and District crowns--but boasting some splendid '72

Athletes Of Year Named June 14

The Spectator Newspapers will announce 1971-'72 "Athletes of the Year" in four major sports in next week's edition.

The recipients of the sixth annual Spectator awards in football, basketball, baseball and track will receive plaques to commemorate their selection and be subjects of detailed feature stories in the June 14 newspaper.

THE SPECTATOR also presents a wrestling award - the Mike Clark Memorial Trophy -- to the outstanding senior Central District matman earlier in the year. The '71-'72 award went to Bob Dieli of Bishop Ready.

Last year's Spectator "Athlete of the Year" awards went to Westland's Dennis Cremeens (football), Walnut Ridge's Ed Stahl (basketball), Worthington's Jack Savage (baseball) and Marion-Franklin' Wayne Harris (track).

Harris, who was the lone junior selected last year, is the only one of the '70 - '71 recipients who could repeat.

THERE HAVE been only three "repeat" winners in the five-year history of the awards -- East's Eddie Ratleff (basketball, 1968-69), Upper Arlington's Denny Dicke (track, 1968-69) and Walnut Ridge's Ed Stahl (basketball, 1970-71).

Lion Ace Gurian: Who's Next?

For those who don't keep too close tabs on the world of high school tennis, Jon Gurian's recent triumph in the State Class "AA" singles tournament might have seemed pretty amazing. After all, he's just a sophomore at Bexley High, a few weeks past his 16th birthday.

"It was no surprise to us," said Lion tennis coach Jim Click.

"JON WAS 16-0 as a freshman, and he did very well in three or four major national tournaments over the winter," he explained. "When he beat Raymond Loving from Academy to win the District, we thought he had an excellent chance to go all the way."

Gurian, a 5-10, 155 pound bundle of energy, is one of local tutor Dick Klitch's prize pupils at the Columbus Indoor Tennis Club. "I try to help with the mental preparation and psychology," said Click-"But Jon's strokes are a combination of his own natural talent and Klitch's teaching."

The Lion 10th-grader lost only to Upper Arlington "AAA" State Champ Rick Slager and to Academy's Loving in 20 regular season matches this spring--and carried both seniors to three sets.

THEN HE DISPATCHED Loving in straight sets 6-4, 6-4 to reach last week's State tourney. In the championship match he completely dominated opponent Bill Hochwalt of Dayton Oakwood, and waltzed off with the "AA" singles crown 6-0, 6-1.

Click identified Gurian's greatest playing strength as "remarkable anticipation-he's always in position for a return, and when there's a mistake made you can bet it was the other guy who made it."

Click also noted that his prize sophomore has a unique ability to play offensive tennis without making the usual number of "gambling" mis-shots.

HE CREDITED the high level of competition that Jon encountered at the Orange Bowl and Sugar Bowl tournaments over the holidays, as well as at a pair of Winter indoor tourneys in New York this winter, for his remarkable poise as a sophomore seeing his first State Championship action.

Jon's proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gurian of 2711 Brentwood, are enthusiastic tennis devotees themselves. It's a good thing, because they seem to have quite a few years of rooting in store.

ODC's Saas Named All League Catcher

Sophomore catcher Bill Saas, a Hartley High grad, was one of five Ohio Dominican College players named to the '72 All Mid Ohio Conference baseball squad last week.

Saas distinguished himself as a fine defensive backstop, and helped the Panthers to a third place finish with a pair of regular season circuit clouts.

ODC wound up with a 4-4 loop record, despite having 14 of 15 games rained out at one stretch; then losing eight straight in a seven-day makeup scramble.

Other All Conference selectees were Panther infielders Jerry Modlich and Jessie Haines, pitcher Doug Carpenter and centerfielder Chris Fraher.

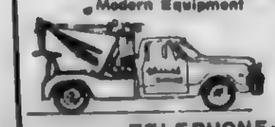
Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.



The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

TWO EAST AREA dancers will be featured in Tatjana Smith's "Spring Review" of ballet Sunday (7 p.m.) at Grandview High School. Participating in the program (which will feature a synopsis of Anderson Fairy Tales with music by Shostakovich) will be Patti Hess (left), of 5440 York Lane N. and Lucinda Mason, of 4066 Wingate Rd. Guest dancers from the Marge Fleming Studio of Dance will also appear in the ballet concert.

Young Mr. Gretz Makes His Mark

For a young man who won't mark his 14th birthday until mid-October, young David Gretz has already carved quite a niche for himself.

David, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gretz, of 934 Conestoga Dr., was honored for outstanding achievement in math and science upon graduation from St. Phillip School last week.

IN THE last two years, he has received superior ratings in the Science Fair – both regionally at Walnut Ridge and in the finals at OSU.

His poem "Escalator" was published in a national magazine (Read) last April.

School activities included serving as treasurer of the school Drama Club, sports editor of the school newspaper, member of Safety Patrol and both football and baseball teams.

DESPITE his school responsibilities, David found time to deliver 102 newspapers each morning, managing to save over $500. during the past 18 months.

A recipient of an Edmond Campion Honor Scholarship, he will depart for the Wisconsin Jesuit high school in September. He had also been offered a scholarship from the Columbus Academy.

State Tax Return Deadline June 15

Local residents such as physicians, lawyers, dentists, small business operators and domestic workers are reminded their second quarterly estimated state personal income tax returns are due on or before June 15.

Ohio Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar recently announced plans for an educational and taxpayer assistance program to increase compliance in filing the returns.

He said his department will have tax agents at various points in all 88 counties until June 15 to provide assistance.

In the Columbus area agents will be available at the Ohio National Bank branch at Great Southern and Great Western shopping centers, Broad Hamilton, Beechwold, and in tax offices at 68 E. Gay St.and 741 E. Broad St. in Columbus.

Kosydar said the new personal income tax law requires filing of an Ohio declaration of estimated individual income tax return if the taxpayers anticipated tax liability will be $50 or more in excess of tax withheld by employers.

Commissioner Kosydar cited one specific instance in which estimated returns may be required of which taxpayers could not be aware. This would involve an individual with regular employment, on which the tax is being withheld, who also has a second job on which no tax is withheld.

Quarterly payments of such estimated tax are due, for calendar year taxpayers, on or before April 15, June 15 and September 15, 1972, and January 15, 1973.

Kosydar said, "If a taxpayer should have filed an estimated return in April but did not, the taxpayer should file by June 15 and make payment of one-half of the annual estimated tax liability."

Although the law provides for a penalty of five percent per month (up to a maximum of 25 percent) plus six percent interest for not filing estimated returns, Kosydar said the department will allow Ohioans liable for quarterly payments to file their first quarter payment along with the second quarter payment up through June 15 without penalty.

"This will be the limit however," Kosydar said, "as we feel everyone required to file quarterly estimates should be aware of the provisions of the new tax after six months and after June 15 we will definitely begin to assess the penalty."

The Energy Crisis is threatening your way of life!

It's a proven fact that America is in the beginning stages of an energy crisis...at a time when it must have abundant supplies of clean energy to protect both its economy and its environment.

The growing shortage of all forms of energy is the most serious problem confronting our nation today. Without adequate supplies of energy, there is no way to solve many of our other major problems.

Let's face the facts, before the energy crisis turns into a disaster:

1. The welfare of the nation and its citizens is directly dependent upon an adequate availability of energy fuels. With only six percent of the world's population, America uses one-third of the world's energy.

2. The nation is in the beginning stage of an energy crisis due to increasing shortages of all forms of energy. Natural gas, which supplies one-third of U.S. energy needs, is already unable to meet current demands.

3. The situation is getting worse every day and unless the public recognizes the problem and urges government to cooperate with industry for an early solution, disaster could strike as early as the winter of 1973-74. Industries could shut down because of lack of energy, resulting in great unemployment. Homes and commercial establishments could be without enough energy for their daily needs.

4. The day of low cost energy is past. The prices of all forms of energy must increase sharply if the nation is to have the supplies it needs. Congress, the Administration and the public must be prepared for these higher energy costs, and greater efforts must be exerted to conserve energy by stopping wasteful practices.

These facts are evident from an abundance of studies and official energy reports. They lead to the inescapable conclusion that early development of adequate supplies of energy must have the highest priority among our national goals.

The present-day America of 200 million people would be crippled without continuous development of new energy sources.

Energy needs have doubled since 1950, and are projected to double again by 1985 and triple by the end of the century, according to a government forecast.

While the shortage is becoming dramatically clear as to natural gas, it is by no means limited to natural gas.

—Oil which in 1971 supplied 44% of the nation's energy needs is also in short supply. The nation is increasingly dependent on foreign oil imports, with all their related uncertainties.

—Coal in 1971 supplied 18% of our energy needs. While the nation has substantial reserves, environmental requirements limit their utilization. Substantial research and development programs are needed to develop new technology to make these vast reserves available, such as coal gasification, and programs to remove pollutants so coal can be used directly. Such projects are long-term, so coal cannot be counted on as an immediate or short-term alternative to other energy fuels.

—Hydropower provided about 4% of energy needs in 1971 and is being counted on to supply an even smaller portion of total energy needs in the future.

—Nuclear energy, which in 1971 provided less than 1% of our energy needs, is being counted on to provide a substantial portion of the nation's future energy needs, but not to a significant degree before 1985. In the meantime it is already far behind schedule and more costly than expected because of environmental delays.

You owe it to yourself and your community to become more informed about the grave national energy situation. Write for a free copy of the brochure we have prepared which presents the facts of the energy crisis together with the details of the Action Program Columbia Gas has developed to help correct this crisis. Congress and the Administration have been informed of our Action Program.

What can you do?

Raise your voice. Your government and your elected officials are sensitive and responsive to your needs, when you make them known.

Write to your Senators and Representative. Tell them you are concerned about our nation's energy crisis. Urge each of them to support the positive actions that are needed if we are to prevent this crisis from becoming a disaster.

SHORTAGE COULD BE RESULT

Farm Price Controls Offer Minimal Budget Assistance

Price controls on food at the farm level would be of only limited benefit to the homemaker's hard-pressed budget and could ultimately result in future market shortages, an OSU economist warned last week.

Demands that "something ought to be done" about food prices have been on a steady increase during recent months and retail price increases of beef (last winter) and pork (this spring) have put added pressure on the Price Commission to take action.

"THERE WERE good reasons for the exemption of farm prices during the '71 price freeze—and the reasons are still valid," says Ed Watkins of OSU.

First, individual farmers cannot set prices for their products like large manufacturers do. Farmers, for the most part, accept prices that are set by an interchange of the various factors in demand and supply. On the basis of this experience they may decide to increase production if prices are favorable—or to decrease production if prices are unfavorable.

In this sense, then, price controls are continuously operated by the marketplace--but with a considerable lag in time. This time lag may be over a growing season (for a crop like corn) or three to four years (for a food like beef). Thus, if the farm price of beef is now high enough to encourage farmers to produce more, it likely will be 1975 or 1976 before substantially more beef animals can be marketed, Watkins explains.

SECOND, price regulation might well interfere with this decision-making process which, in time, would produce more beef.

For example, if prices are rolled back, beef farmers might well conclude that opportunities are limited and the risks are too great to increase production. Pressures then develop throughout the market system from consumers right back to producers to somehow by-pass or avoid the regulations. This sets the stage for the development of "black markets" which further aggravate the price, supply and demand distortions.

Third, a general price freeze on farm prices locks in price inequities which exist at any one moment in time. For instance, right now fryers, eggs and potatoes are at low farm levels which discourage those producing these foods. A price freeze at this time which lasted for a considerable period would almost guarantee a shortage of these products as growers reduced production or went out of business.

FOURTH, the enforcement problems related to monitoring of price ceilings at the farm level are enormous. With almost three million individual farmers the task of checking price levels would require the establishment of something similar to the OPA of World War II days when thousands of people were employed checking and enforcing price regulations.

For all of these reasons, the Price Commission has been reluctant to regulate either prices or profits at the farm level. The USDA has estimated that price increases on food in 1972 will be about four per cent higher than in 1971.

Although food prices have already increased well over half that amount, present estimates are that increases will be rather modest for the balance of 1972, according to Watkins.

Only two fulltime starters will depart via graduation, but they're a pair of key three-year performers. Standout catcher George Fulton, named MVP last week takes a team-leading .358 average with him—along with 35 RBI's and 16 extra-base hits.

The other senior is Richie Helm—probably Central Ohio's best all around centerfielder and certainly a team leader this year. Rich hit .307 on top of the batting order; and drew an eye-popping 34 walks (closely followed by 31 stolen bases) to conclude a brilliant Warrior career.

JOINING THEM at diploma time will be number three pitcher Traphagen who posted a fine 2.20 ERA this Spring-along with trade-off first sacker Kim McCualsky and utility man Chip Heim.

That only leaves aces Monty Corron and Monty Hannah to handle the mound chores next year—they had a combined ERA of 1.1 as juniors.

Corron was 10-2 on the year, with an earned run average of 0.95 and 127 strikeouts in 95 innings pitched. Not that he really needed to do anything else, but the chunky Warrior star also filled in capably anywhere in the infield, hit .330 and drove in 14 runs!

AYERS AND ED SHIPP will be back in the outfield—Shipp hit a paltry .344 in '72 and matched Ayers' four home runs. He also tied with Fulton for the team lead with 35 RBI's.

Then there are soph standouts Craig Passen (.347, 32 RBI's) and Brian Stertzer at the infield corners—and a healthy All-City shortstop named Mark Kraker who sat out most of this season.

Yep, it's gonna be a real tough year in '73—but not for the Warriors. They paid their dues already.

Pro Bucks Sign '71 MFL Rushing, Receiving Kings

The Columbus Bucks, undefeated 1971 champions of the Midwest Professional Football League, took a giant step or two toward repeating their first-year success last week when they not only re-signed top running back Jim Coburn, but picked up the league's leading pass receiver—Danny Yacobush—from Niagara Falls.

Coburn led the MFL in rushing last season, galloping for 783 yards in 101 attempts (a 7.7 per carry average). The former OSU fullback tallied 13 touchdowns to rank fourth in the loop scoring chime.

YACOBUSH, a 6-1, 196 pound flanker, not only was the league's top '71 receiver (43 catches for 489 yards)—he also ranked second to Coburn in ground gaining with 716 yards in 150 cracks.

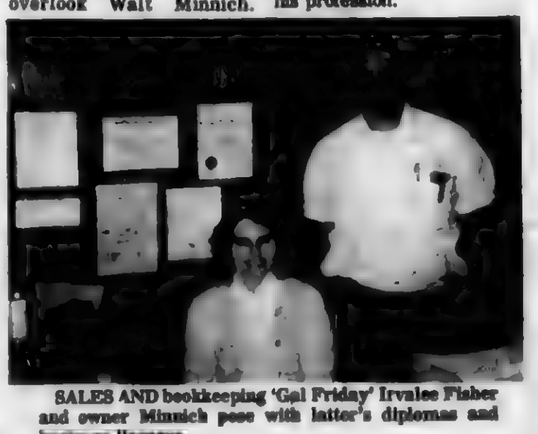
ALL-STATE'S WALT MINNICH AND HIS DEADLY ARSENAL OF 'ENFORCERS'

All-State: Cold-Blooded Killers

Walt Minnich has killed so many since 1966 he doesn't even try to keep count.

But he's sure of one thing – the toll will be decidedly higher before autumn leaves stir next fall.

Before this gruesome tale grows any longer, we might explain Walt operates All-State Pest Control at 3007 Calumet St. and all of his "victims" are of the multi-legged variety.



Minnich began working in pest control 18 years ago and, after he decided to get serious about the business, headed for OSU where he earned a degree in Entomology in 1965 (making him probably the lone degreed pest control service man in Columbus).

Walt – and his three service assistants – are also licensed by the State of Ohio for fly and mosquito control.

The All-State office also features a complete line of insecticides and herbicides for resale. Rental equipment (power and hand sprayers) are also available.

Minnich, who also has a background in both commercial and residential weed control, advises anyone who is considering pest or termite control work to be very selective and, if there is any doubt contact the Better Business Bureau. At All-State, incidently, all work is guaranteed in writing.

Next time you're looking for a killer-for-hire, don't overlook Walt Minnich. Effective service is a must in his profession.

Parting At Age 5-Less Than Sweet

WHEN YOU'RE a five-year-old kindergarten student leaving the only honest-to-goodness school teacher you've ever known, the old adage about parting being "such sweet sorrow" falls a little short. Tears and lingering hugs were the order of the day at Brice Elementary School last week as Mrs. Linda Becker bade farewell to her class. The sorrow of parting was magnified by the fact that the teacher is leaving the school district to relocate in Texas. (Spectator photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

$86.5 Million Tag On CPS Package

An $86.5 million construction program designed to meet the "problems of the '70's" and to respond to the five most critical problems facing Columbus Public Schools was presented to the Board of Education by Supt. John Ellis Tuesday.

Dr. Ellis lists these problems as severe overcrowding in 39 buildings, lack of housing for career-vocational programs, lack of adequate libraries, failure to provide proper facilities for the handicapped and buildings that went up during the Civil War era.

THE PROPOSAL involves construction of six new secondary and 10 new elementary schools, four Career-Vocational Centers and a totally new school for the physically handicapped.

It would raze Franklin Junior High (with the replacement on a new site near Franklin Park) and the antiquated elementaries Douglas, Fifth, Ninth and Michigan.

In addition, major alterations are proposed to the original section of Everett Junior High and partial replacement scheduled for four elementary schools labeled as "aged and inefficient."

ADDITIONS will be made to a total of 58 schools and the Alexander Bell School for the deaf.

HOW WOULD BOND ISSUE EFFECT FAR EAST? SEE PAGE 15

Site improvements and expansion are asked for 33 schools and site acquisitions limited to those needed for new construction including locations for the three Career-Vocational Centers and a few sites in rapidly growing areas.

Dr. Ellis underlined the need to relieve the overcrowding which has forced the district to split sessions and extended schedules in 26 schools and busing of almost 2,000 elementary children from their normal attendance area.

HE SAID, "Columbus is continuing in a period of unprecedented growth with 30,000 housing units constructed in the last four years alone." He added that during the same period school facilities have remained virtually unchanged.

Stating that building inadequacies are hampering efforts to place emphasis on cafeer vocational programs, the superintendent contends his proposal would make slots for 8,000 students in a wide range of programs.

He explained the vocational plan combines an offering of programs which do not require highly specialized equipment at the high schools and placing those programs which do demand such equipment in the Career-Vocational Centers.

HE RUED the present lack of adequate library space and pointed out that - 250 classrooms must be provided to place a modern library in each elementary and that secondary libraries must be brought up to state standards.

Dr. Ellis, in focusing on the problems of the emotionally disturbed, the neurologically handicapped, the physically handicapped, the blind, the deaf, and the educable mentally retarded stated Neil Avenue should be replaced, room must be found for 500 children who cannot be placed in special education classes, and Clearbrook should be converted to a facility for the emotionally disturbed.

And finally, Dr. Ellis stated that the need to replace schools more than 50 years old must be considered to "insure that students are housed in safe facilities that enhance rather than inhibit the atmosphere for learning."

CONCEDING that even though the administrative proposal peels off $6.5 millions from the Project UNITE recommendation, the issue is a formidable one, Dr. Ellis expressed the idea that individual cost would be small when shared by thousands of people.

He estimates taxes will amount to $1.50 per month on a $20,000 home.

He stated he will ask official action from the board at its next regular meeting scheduled for June 27.

FIVE favorable votes are necessary to place the issue on the November ballot.

Following the staff's presentation, questioning was relatively light, indicating most members of the board were withholding judgment until giving the proposal further study.

Dr. Ellis did meet some mild criticism of the program recommendations as not meeting the needs 25 or 30 years from now with the statement, "Anyone who claims he is omniscient is a charlatan," adding that it takes "great souls" to make great schools.

READING PROGRAM AIDED

Board Members Okay Building Priorities

By LYNN WILLIAMS
Spectator Staff Writer

Building needs, an upcoming bond issue and the use of cassettes in the elementary reading program were the main items of business at Monday night's Madison Local School Board meeting.

On the building needs members approved a list of priority projects to be considered for the district.

THE TOP priority was given to the need for a site for a new middle school and its construction. Next was a site for another elementary school or some additional elementary classrooms.

Other items on the list included completion of wrestling facilities at the high school; air conditioning windowless classrooms in the high school.

School Supt. Philip Williams said the wiring was already in and so it would just take package units being placed in the school.

UNDER SITE improvements the board okayed completion of outside athletic areas at the high school; an all weather track; tennis courts; additional football bleachers; additional blacktop at several sites and further development of school bus parking areas.

Williams said the list was just a guideline to be used when the school had the available funds.

In other action the board members passed preliminary resolutions which will eventually lead to placing the $3,380,000 bond issue on the ballot in November. This will be for the additional school building needed at the Junior High levels.

WILLIAMS SAID the retirement of the bonds would be 22 years so that taxes could be kept down and the school would not have so much to pay off each year.

A special presentation of the use of cassettes and other audio visual equipment in the reading programs at Brice and Edwards Elementary Schools was also made.

School principal Ray Seelenbinder and several teachers who use the equipment attended the meeting to explain the program's success.

SEELENBINDER SAID in the past a teacher with approximately 30 students would break the class down into three reading groups. She would then work approximately 20 minutes with each group.

"That gave a student in the group only about two minutes to perform for the teacher. Also when the group had completed the work with the teacher they would go to workbooks or busy work," Seelenbinder explained.

He said with the use of the new equipment, students were still divided into smaller groups, but after working with the teacher they could go to a listening center.

THESE ARE areas where students can use earphones and listen to a story being told while they follow along with their books or they may listen to a phonics lesson.

The teachers may take the cassette recorders home and read a lesson onto a tape for use at the listening stations.

After this section the student goes to an individual work area where he answers questions and does a type of book report on what he had learned.

THE TEACHERS said this gave them quick information as to the understanding and the ability of the students.

In the first grade program there is no individual work because the students are learning the basics of reading.

ONE SPOKESMAN said if a child comes into the district late and has not had phonics, the tapes provide a way for the student to catch up with the rest of the class.

There are questions after each lesson that let the teacher know when the student is ready for the next step or lesson.

At the second grade the equipment is used to reinforce the learning. They read along with tapes and the work individually to see if they are learning to listen for detail. This helps them become independent and comprehending readers, the teachers said.

AT THIS LEVEL the tapes are also used in other subjects such as math.

Seelenbinder said students were given standard tests after using the equipment and they found students reading between the level of third grade fifth month to fourth grade ninth month. "So you see we feel the program is really successful."

At the fourth grade level the students use a machine which plays a record and has a screen for special film strips.

THE LESSONS come in four parts. The first record and film tell a story and the second go over details and test understanding.

The third record and film work on vocabulary and the fourth on phonics.

The students operate the machines themselves and the programs are devised to give students confidence rather than repeated frustration.

THE MATERIALS also provide the students with quick results so they will know how they functioned on each section.

At the sixth grade the equipment can aid the students in reading up to the ninth grade level.

Special paper backs are provided and the students may select which ones they want to read.

The material is also structured to lead the child who is interested on to other books on a particular subject and into use of the library.

Seelenbinder said the equipment was being used in many subjects other than reading and that the students were benefiting from the use.

Community Work Aids Injured Boy

A Scottwood Elementary student has a lot of friends he doesn't even know about yet.

The student, a second grader, Michael Wingo, was struck by a car as he rode his bicycle near his home on April 26. He was in a coma until last Tuesday when he was able to speak with his mother.

SINCE THAT time he has continued to improve at Children's Hospital.

Scottwood principal, Ken Thress said as a school and community, people felt helpless as far as what they could do for Mike and his family.

"We knew the expenses were great and so we decided to organize a paper drive."

THRESS SAID the students, the PTA, two civic associations and the community responded enthusiastically to the project.

"We've collected at least 10 tons of paper," Thress said. He added that this would only bring about $75 to $100 but said there had also been several cash donations made.

"It's more than the money, it's the way everyone joined in the project," Thress said. "Mike and his family are fairly new in the community so I think it's great how well it turned out."

THE TWO CIVIC associations were the Berwick Manor and the Liv-Moor Civic Associations.

29 Years In EMR

Teacher Honored For 40 Years Of Service

Fellow teachers, administrators and school officials turned out last week to honor Mrs. Florence Myers who will be retiring from her teaching position at Fulton Elementary School; after 40 years in education.

Mrs. Myers of 2857 Astor Ave. has spent the last 29 years teaching in the field of the educable mentally retarded program.

SHE TAUGHT the last 26 years at Fulton.

Over the years she taught at Clinton Elementary, Burroughs, Medary, Fair Ave., Second Ave., Eleventh Ave., Beck Street Elementary, Livingston Ave. and Crestview.

Mrs. Myers a native of Zanesville, said her first teaching job in Columbus was at John Burroughs Elementary School.

SHE ATTENDED Muskingum College, got her B.S. in Education from Otterbein and her master's from Ohio State University.

"I began teaching when I was 17 and my very first assignment was out in the country in Muskingum county," Mrs. Myers recalled.

During her 40 years in the profession she served as president of the Columbus English Club, Central Ohio Social Studies, and the Association of Classroom Teachers.

SHE RECEIVED a $500 grant from the Board of Education for curriculum work in the EMR area and as a result of her work she and the school received Freedom Foundation Awards.

"The EMR program hasn't changed for me over the years. You give a child security and status and a reason and a way to live. I take them where they are, make them feel they're somebody and then take them as far as they can go."

Dr. Floyd Heil, director of Special Education in Columbus, headed the reception for Mrs. Myers last Friday. He said he had known Mrs. Myers since 1939 when they met at Clinton Elementary School. Dr. Heil called her a fine and dedicated teacher.

MRS. MYERS SAID her future plans include doing volunteer work in the EMR program at Fulton and volunteer work at Alum Crest.

"I am retiring before my time is up so that I can start working on a scholarship program," Mrs. Myers explained.

She plans to take money from her retirement fund and add it to money from her late husband's social security payments to provide a scholarship as a memorial to her husband Sherman F. Myers.

"IT WILL PAY a boy's way through seminary."

Mrs. Myers said this was something she had wanted to do for some time and had to retire first to receive the funds to begin the project.

"My husband was with United Appeal for 23 years and then later worked for George Byers Car dealership."

MRS. MYERS said the most memorable thing about her 40 years was "the fact that I met such wonderful administrators and people as I went along."

FRIENDS AND SCHOOL administrators turned out last week for a reception honoring Mrs. Florence Myers, who is retiring from the teaching profession after 40 years. Mrs. Myers has spent the last 26 years teaching the Educable Mentally Retarded Program at Fulton Elementary School. Mrs. Myers is congratulated by school principal J. Hill Barton, left and a well-wisher, Freddie Wagner.

ON BRANCH LIBRARY

Far East Area Bypassed Again

Far East resident's hopes for a branch library remained in limbo with the announcement this week of approval by the library Board of Trustees for construction of a facility in the Bolivar Arms Urban Renewal area.

The size and cost of the new facility will be determined after evaluation of space requirements and library service needs of the Model Cities area to be served.

THE BUILDING site consists of 12,000 sq. ft. Property was purchased in December of 1967.

The new branch facility will encompass new innovative concepts and be readily expandable should future patron use dictate, according to board members.

Far East residents have been attempting to secure a board "green light" for a local facility for eight years, according to Mrs. Suzanne Whitley of the Woodcrest PTA.

RESIDENTS were told five years ago that the Far East area would be a priority location when funds became available but the Bolivar Arms facility makes the third site approved since that promise was made.

Mrs. Whitley says the board cited a general lack of interest on the part of Far East residents as a primary factor in no action on an area branch.

Other than facilities in Whitehall and Reynoldsburg, the closest East area branch is a site at Courtright and East Livingston.

'O Jerusalem' Author Visits Center Monday

Larry Collins, author of the newly-published "O Jerusalem", will discuss his latest book Monday, (8 p.m.) at the Jewish Center.

Collins, who co-authored the book with Dominique Lapierre, also wrote "Is Paris Burning" and "Or I'll Dress You In Mourning."

"Is Paris Burning" and "Or I'll Dress You In Mourning."

AUTOGRAPHED copies of the book will be available for sale at the center Monday.

Collins was sent to Paris by the United States Army shortly after graduation from Yale in 1951. While attached to the Army Public Information Service he met Lapierre, who was serving with the French Army.

They discussed writing a book together, one that would interest both French and American readers, writing simultaneously in their own languages.

EACH HAD been moved by the liberation of Paris in 1944, and wondered why, in the 30 books of the cities' liberation, little had been reported about Hitler's order to destroy the city. Thus evolved the best-seller and movie, "IS PARIS BURNING?"--their first collaboration.

"O JERUSALEM!" relates the epic sturggle of 1948 in which Jews and Arabs, heirs to generations of bitter conflict fought each other for domination of the Holy City of Jerusalem, and for the hopes of fulfillment it represented to each peoples.

"O JERUSALEM!" is a saga of eyewitness history of one of the world's most stirring events- the birth of the state of Israel.

ACCORDING to the Saturday Review, "O Jerusalem!" is "One of the great cliff hangers of all time". Life Magazine said "It is alive and vibrant."

A Cruel Hoax

The tyranny of the Church of England against the Puritans who sought to reform it back to Calvinism drove the first settlers to America.

But the idea of separation of church and state was already centuries old.

The concept is written in Mark with the words of Christ: "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

Yet when the Puritans actually arrived in the New World, rigid conformation to the religious belief of the settlers was governmentally enforced.

And, a century later, when the Constitution was written, nothing was said specifically about the separation of the church and the state, although the First Amendment provides that Congress cannot establish a state religion.

When immigration brought thousands of Roman Catholics to the United States in the 1840's fear that public funds would go to finance their separate educational facilities triggered many state legislators to adopt constitutional clauses restricting such action.

However, as federal support of education was unknown then, little was made of the First Amendment in the field of education until the 20th Century.

Now the courts have interpreted both the 1st and 14th Amendments to ban public aid to private schools and religious teaching in any form within public schools.

Judgement on the validity of these interpretations is not the purpose of this editorial.

Rather it is to lament the cruelty of the hoax that Ohio legislators are playing upon the parents of children attending private and parochial schools.

With previous efforts to bring financial aid to the hard-pressed private school failing, the House has now approved a state income tax credit for persons paying the tuition of children(not necessarily their own) attending non-public schools.

The bill (as proposed) allows a $90 credit for each tuition paid this year and next, with the credit increasing 25 percent of any future hike in average state support of public education per student.

Regardless of the merit–or lack of merit – inherent to the bill, it stinks.

Why?

Because it is outrageously politically motivated.

Its supporters and detractors alike concede it is foredoomed to being overturned by the Supreme Court.

Its passage by the House was simply a maneuver through which electioneering legislators can "point to the record" as they stump in predominantly Catholic districts.

But "now-you-see-it-now-you-don't" legislation passed merely to get one through the fall campaign reaches a new low in political flim-flam.

If the matter were not so serious, admission that the bill hasn't a Chairman's chance by Rep. James Thorpe (R-Alliance) whose "aye" vote was heard, might be refreshing in its frankness.

However, we have no laurels for him. Perfidy is not commendable-even when overt.

Automatic Guilt?

Jurisprudence in the United States dictates that one is considered innocent until proven otherwise.

They have asked that any police officer who has injured or killed an individual via gun-fire be immediately reassigned to a "non-sensitive" post.

In these times when violent crime is anything but a rarity, such a ruling could result in experienced and efficient officers spending a great deal of time sitting behind a desk shuffling paper when they could better be out in the street where a crime-fighter belongs.

The recommendation is one of several made by the Commission following use of the weapons police carry in their role as law enforcement officers.

Going through them one is inclined to believe the Commission members not only have forgotten what they read in their history books but have failed to read the fate of "citizen committees" formed in other cities to ride herd on the police departments.

Almost without exception the groups have turned into trouble-making bodies attempting to further tie the hands of the law–and one by one they have been disbanded.

However, it is possible, and even probable, that the Columbus Community Relations Commission (which has a remarkable track record) might be able to augment citizen input into present Police Review procedures without chaos and prejudice.

The membership of the sub-committee on Police Community Relations formed by the Commission reads almost like an honor roll with respected names such as the League of Women Voters and the Urban League.

But the plan certainly is doomed before it gets off the gound if it antagonizes the entire Police Department with a rule which labels any officer suspect who effectively use gunfire.

None of us want a "police state". But equally threatening would be a state in which police were fearful of performing their duty.

Grave-Walking

Ohio Democrats boasting about their ability to wrest away control of the Ohio House from Republicans–largely through the help of Gov. Gilligan's redistricting plan–may be whistling in the dark.

Their defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment making increases in the state income tax contingent upon voter approval certainly did little apple-polishing with the public.

Sen. Alan Norris has pointed out that the economy promises the state a 15 percent increase in revenue annually without a hike in tax rates.

Just why shouldn't Ohio residents be consulted before government spending is increased beyond this percentage?

It is conceded that success of the effort to repeal the present income tax by placing the issue on the November ballot could play havoc with Gov. Gilligan's programs. Probably the parks would even be closed again.

Furthermore, it is conceivable that some time in the future a legitimate case might be presented for increased revenues.

However, the right of the public to hear that case should be made inviolate.

The statement attributed to Minority leader A.G. Lancione that "public control of taxation is no way to run government" is not only irresponsive to the electorate, but irresponsible and contrary to the concept, if not the letter, of no taxation without representation.

Every House Republican voted in favor of the amendment which would have forced future legislatures to "sell" the public on increased spending.

Election day is still five months away, but last week's action may well come back to haunt Democratic legislative candidates this fall.

The apparition may even do a little political grave-walking.

How Far '18' ?

In accepting the amendment to remove the restrictions in purchasing of liquor by 18, 19 and 20-year-olds, Ohio Senators made themselves friends and enemies.

Those entrenched in the camp of consistency are commending the legislatures for handing youth "the whole ball of wax", contending it ridiculous to make the 18-year-old a two-faced Janus–an adult at the door of a bank–and a child at the threshold of a bar.

Others are equally convinced the legislators are out of their cotton-picking minds and expect a monumental spree to develop.

Actually, the liquor issue does not impress us as having much more substenance than the foam on a "fishbowl."

Anyone with a little patience can get lordly drunk on 3.2 beer—and if you don't believe it, visit your friendly neighborhood tavern next Sunday evening.

Other provisions in the pending "18" bill deserve far graver consideration.

But an armed law enforcement officer without the safety catch provided by emotional maturity is a potential assassin–and the prospect of a callow juror is a threat to justice.

Fortunately, if youth is given full privilege of adulthood, judgement can still be exercised by the more seasoned in placing them in positions where maturity is demanded.

This judgement is displayed routinely by those in authority when dealing with those over 21, since attaining one's authority does not guarantee discernment.

It can be generalized that most people born since 1964 are no longer adolescent in thought or deed and are ready to take an active role in society.

The youngest of these offer no more threat to the community than their parents and grandparents.

It is only the few who don't yet have their heads on straight that give rise to the validity of classifying 18 year olds as adults.

And normal selectivity should pass them up.

Legislative Mirage

Who's In Charge?

With relatively little fanfare a 50-month study of the government's role in education has been inititated on the OSU campus.

Headed by Dr. Martin W. Essex, Ohio school superintendent, with Dr. Roald F. Campbell, Fawcett Professor of Educational Administration at OSU serving as director, the study group is studded with names prestigous in the field of education.

The federally-financed program will be primarily concerned with the state's function in management of education.

The complexities of education are mirrored in Dr. Essex's statement that Washington D.C., 50 different states, a myriad of county and other intermediate governmental units and 17,000 individual school districts (of which 624 are in Ohio) are in business.

Urgency has been introduced to school goverance with three state courts declaring property taxation for school purposes as unconstitutional, and two courts (Richmond and Detroit) setting aside established school boundaries.

Regionalization will be studied, proposals to abolish state school boards eyed, and allocation of resources and revenue probed.

Other areas of concern will be decentralization, the trend toward greater parental participation and the effects of teacher and student demands.

Essex believes that the greatest demand today is for accountability in education.

No longer is the public willing to judge its schools on the amount of money invested in them.

Rather, the yardstick they ask be used to evaluate the schools is the students themselves

Schools are the nation's largest industry and they have only one product–boys and girls.

It can be expected that Dr. Essex and his colleagues will come up with some of the right answers.

They better–the federal government is betting $370,000 on them–and tens of millions of kids are cheering them on.

Tenant Rights

The tenant shall pay the rent, (and on time), the tenant shall pay the utilities, the tenant shall operate heating units carefully, the tenant shall remove ice and snow from the sidewalks and the tenant shall admit the landlord for inspection and repair.

The tenant shall not keep animals, the tenant shall not redecorate without written consent, the tenant shall not sublet, the tenant shall not be noisy, ad infinitum.

A look at a typical lease signed this month shows only two considerations for the tenant and not a single demand upon the landlord.

The considerations were small concessions. One involved the tenant's freedom from the lease if the dwelling burned down and the other the tenant's right to occupy the quarters "without molestation" if he abided by all the covenants of the lease.

The recommendations developed by the governor's Housing and Community Development Advisory Commission can rewrite these leases into mutually binding contracts.

For example, HACDAC hopes for legislation that will knock out retaliatory eviction and give the tenant the right to withhold rent if the landlord fails to meet certain responsibilities.

Residential property leases, in the past and at the present, are written by the landlord and, as could be expected, for the landlord.

And as undemanding as most such leases are leasors are traditionally reluctant to live up to the limited "benefits" they give the tenant.

One indication of this is the frequency with which leasee's show up in court in an attempt to have their deposits refunded at the end of their tenancy.

Assuming the Commission's revolutionary idea (of making residential contracts more than a list of "thou shall's" and "thou shant's" for the tenant) gets the legislature's ear, it should be news.

Good news for the tenant–and bad news for the landlord who abuses tenants' rights, whether he owns a ghetto slum or Carriage Hill Row.

The Last Laugh

Historically speaking, the American Indian has come out a poor second in his confrontations with his compatriots.

Whether it was a losing battle against gunpowder fought with bows and arrows or against oppression and greed, the smoke from the peace pipes always seemed to blow the wrong way.

Now the American Indian is ready to attack again–and this time it looks as if he has chosen an apt battleground.

His intended victim is the wallet of the American tourist– and the scene will be the reservation.

Last month, the first edition of the Indian Travel Newsletter made its debut in an all-out effort to capture a share of the $40 billion dollars that is spent annually on pleasure travel within the United States.

The fare offered ranges from a resort lodge in Oregon featuring bear meat and two olympic-sized swimming pools to a pageant reenacting Custer's Last Stand on a Crow reservation in Montana.

The Apaches of Arizona are touting ski trails complete with a 6,700-foot chair lift and the Navajos and Pueblos have put together package tours. Meanwhile the Blackfoot reservation is pushing arts and crafts.

Possibly the nostalgic—and paternalistic–will miss the sight of a blanket-wrapped squaw selling trinkets on the roadside.

But the Indians won't.

They are now launched to capitalize on their heritage and stand a heap big chance to amass heap big wampum.

And from the beginning that has been made it appears the Indians at last will be able to laugh about that bum deal they made in Manhattan.

Misplaced Junk

Goodwill Industries has done an outstanding job in providing jobs for the handicapped, helping them to become tax payers rather than "tax takers."

The bulwark of the work is done through the contribution of clothing and household items that are used as training materials and later sold to provide cash income for the organization.

But now, the callousness of the public is threatening the solvency of the organization.

The collection boxes placed over the city are being used as a depository for what can be classified only as "junk."

Worn-out tires, equipment rusted beyond repair and newspapers and magazines that cannot be used are being left not only in the collection boxes but scattered around the sites.

This, naturally, has led those upon whose property the stations are sited to regard the Goodwill facilities as personna non grata and to demand their immediate removal.

Goodwill stations are not dumping grounds, and those who use them as such are jeopardizing a program which–in April alone--placed 49 handicapped persons into competitive employment.

Spring house cleaning is commendable, but piling the debris in the lape of the deprived is dirty pool

YOUTH Rostrum

DO YOU BELIEVE A COURSE COVERING FAMILY LIFE, SEX EDUCATION AND TEENAGERS GROWING UP SHOULD BE TAUGHT AT THE MIDDLE SCHOOL LEVEL?

This Week's Respondents:
PLEASANT VIEW MIDDLE SCHOOL

No. By now everyone should know what his role in his family is. If he doesn't, he should talk to his parents. I do not think anyone would learn anything about sex education. If you go to this school and don't know about sex, you're going to get into a lot of trouble. A lot of guys I know would really take advantage of you.

If a teenager has a problem, he can talk it over with a friend. You don't need a class for that. - KAY GRIFFITH

I think such a course should cover sex education and teenagers growing up, but I don't think family life should be included. A lot of people don't like to mix their family life with school work or activities.

We should learn about teenagers growing up so we can see whether others our age have the same problems. We should also have sex education because it's better to have it in a course and talking it over with someone of your own age than to talk about it with your parents. - CHRIS TOWNSEND.

I think there should be a course covering sex education for all the big shots who think they know every thing about it but don't. It would also help them to know, through a course in growing up, what and when to buy things and how they intend to pay for what they buy.

However, I do not think family living should be included, because the problems might be personal and the school has no right to have its nose in one's family life. Neither do I think the fifth and sixth graders should have sex education. - DAN DISTELHORST

I think a course in family life might save some emotional pain later in life, but I do not think there should be too much "sex education" and "teenagers growing up" at a time. - HARRY SKAGGS

No chance! We have enough classes already. You learn all that rot at home, and the school should not even bother. Since your parents usually lecture the life out of you, should the schools even try? - MIKE HENSEL

Taken as a whole, all three subjects are of vital importance.

Learning your role in the family will give you some insight into raising one yourself. Sex education is an important subject that has been sorely neglected and we all need to be acquainted with the process of turning from an adolescent into an adult. - TIM ELLIFRITH

Sex has been a closed subject with the family for a long time. Despite what people think, sex is not dirty! How do you think you got here? By a stork?

Parents are too dumb to know or care what happens to us, their kids. When they have an unwanted one, they dump him in a home where he will be kept until he is 18. Then he is turned out to send more kids back to the home. The cycle keeps going until someone finally cares enough to stop it and love their kids. - CHRIS WELLS

No. We cover sex education in science and, as to the part about family life and growing up, we can take care of ourselves.

If we have any problems we can work them out ourselves. Our lives are the way each individual wants it to be, in his own special way, just as each has his own special personality. - ANGIE PHILLIPS

Yes. Some kids have parents who will take time to discuss things with them when they need somebody to help them. However, I feel that unless the person wants to discuss a certain problem, forcing it out of him would only embarrass him. I also think that teenagers growing up should be taught to make the process more clear.

Sex should not be taught because it is the responsibility of the parents to teach their kids about sex. - DIANNE CAMPBEL

No, because there would be more taxes and that would mean less money for other things which our parents buy for us. Furthermore, I don't think my parents would like the fact of my taking courses such as family life, sex education and teenagers growing up. - RANDY SZATKOWSKI

Yes. Most kids pick up the wrong ideas from older kids. They don't know how to act with their families, and they aren't responsible.

They grow up thinking sex is dirty. If today's youth are to become responsible citizens they need such courses to help them become mature adults. - DEBBIE OWENS

Since these topics are not always covered at home by the parents, the students could be saved a great deal of future embarrassment if they were taught in school. With an experienced and knowledgeable teacher whom the students trusts, such a program could bring good results. - JEFF FEUSTET

Family life? Yes, if you knew your family better you might understand them. For example if your mother–or anyone else's–is always screaming at you you might be able to understand why. With such a course one might be able to develop a better relationship with his family.

Sex education? No. Most of us know about sex and those who don't, and want to learn, can go to those stupid movies they have. - CINDY WALL

Sex education should be taught both in the school and at home. And boys and girls should be taught in the same room.

If kids know about sex they will not make the same mistakes when they are older that other people have. - HAROLD BOGGS

Such a course, held at least once a week, would allow preteens to get a good orientation to social life. This is a time of change, and must be attacked at different levels.

"Family life" should include how to get along with your family and tips on home improvements. It should also discuss how to approach tragedies at home such as death or divorce.

"Sex education" should cover basic anatomy, venereal disease and the problems of teenage sex.

"Teenage growing up" should include how to make friends, and be popular and teach the proper etiquette for co-ed activities and how to dress. It should also cover drugs, smoking and drinking.

A course like this would make life easier on the teens. It should be taught co-educationally and would have to be very personal. It would attempt to humanize education which is what middle school is all about - DUCHESS MARTIN

Family life is needed because some kids don't have family training and they hate their families. Through such training they could get to know their families.

But sex education? No, if you want to see some sex education go to gory sex movies. And teenagers growing up? Again no. Every year we have movies about growing up and they get boring and stupid. - JOAN SIMONTON

A course in family living should include budgeting and how to get along together and it might help stop divorce.

Sex education and teenagers growing up are so closely related I think they should be taught together. Not enough parents tell their kids about these things.

I also think teaching the parents about teens growing up would help them to understand their children better and enable them to better handle difficult times. This would allow the teenagers to have more respect for their parents–and all adults. - DEBBIE MYERS

If we had a course covering family life, maybe some people wouldn't get married so early. They should be taught how to care for a family and the importance of getting a job before getting married, of having money in the bank for a home and for emergencies, and of being well-educated. - MARK AMORINE

ODC Teen 'Drugs-Drink Institute' Opens Aug. 6

The urgency of drug problems and the interest in combatting them as expressed in increasing numbers of teenagers seeking factual information have resulted in the scheduling of two sessions of the ninth annual Teenage Institute on Alcholism and Drugs.

The sessions are scheduled Aug. 6-9 and Aug. 13-16 at Ohio Dominican College, 1216 Sunbury Rd.

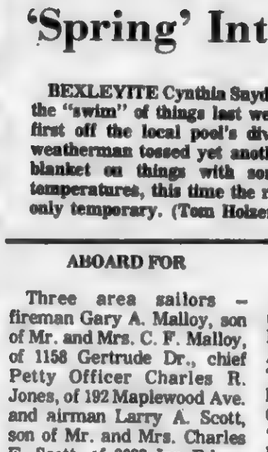
REGISTRATIONS are now being processed by the Alcholism Program of the Ohio Department of Health, 450 E. Town St., P. O. Box 118, Columbus.

Approximately 225 high school juniors and seniors from throughout Ohio can be accommodated at each of the sessions, with many participants attending on scholarships still available through the Alcoholism Program. Others will attend through sponsorship of concerned civic groups and agencies, or on an individually-financed basis.

Deadline for scholarship applications and registration of sponsored or individually-financed participants is June 30.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Joseph Wittemann, of the psychology department at Ohio Dominican and program director of the Institute, the sessions are directed toward providing a platform for teenage discussions about alcoholism and drugs, their use and abuse, and drinking, drugs and driving.

'Spring' Into Summer



BEXLEYITE Cynthia Sayder appeared to be right in the "swim" of things last week as she took honors as first off the local pool's diving board. Although the weatherman tossed yet another wet (or rather, cold) blanket on things with some unseasonal weekend temperatures, this time the regression appeared to be only temporary. Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The Audi 100LS The Porsche 911 The Porsche 914

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.

It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)

The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.

A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.

And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.

We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.

We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.

And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.

The way they work.

ODC Lends Ear To Businessmen

The Evening Division of Ohio Dominican College will hear curriculum suggestions from Columbus-area leaders of business and industry during its first Business-Curriculum Forum, Thursday, June 22 (4 p.m.) in the Ohio Dominican library, 1216 Sunbury Rd., Columbus.

Key personnel from more than 100 firms are being invited to participate and to hear discussions by representatives of both the business and educational communities.

Richard Teaff, new director of the ODC Evening Division which offers the largest number of fully-accredited evening, undergraduate liberal arts courses of any college in Central Ohio, said that the Forum's purposes are two-fold.

"It will provide businessmen with a platform on which they may stress the educational needs of employees, which if fulfilled, would help to improve job performances. Also the Forum will supply key business leaders with facts about current and possible ODC Evening Division curricula."

Teaff added, "The Forum is a new approach to cooperative programs between business and higher education. Using the facts as we'll directly hear them, the Evening Division hopes to redesign its current curriculum and to create new programs.

Auto Club Continues Special Phone Calls

The Columbus Auto Club weather and road condition information special phones have been made a year-round service. From January 1 through April 30 there were 172,160 phone requests for road and weather information received.

During non-winter months the Club will incorporate recreational area information, travel tips and safety reminders along with weather forecasts. This information is made available through dialing 445-8111, which will give recorded information on these subjects, thus freeing Travel Counselors for more detailed work on custom routings for members.

The Club is also making available a small pamphlet suggesting six interesting one or two day tours, including a small regional map with description of the highlights of historic, scenic or seasonal interests to be found in a given area.

Will Aid Travelers

To help young Americans avoid the problems of foreign travel, the U.S. State Department has published a pamphlet which offers some helpful suggestions on planning a successful trip abroad.

The pamphlet, on sale by the U.S. Governement Printing Office for 20 cents, provides useful information on passports and visas, travel in Eastern Europe, vaccination requirements, charter flights, study and work programs, and the role U.S. embassies and consulates play in protecting the rights of U.S. citizens overseas.

Art Show Set

An American Indian art show will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25, 12 noon to 8 p.m. at the Country Mouse Gallery, 1761 W. 5th Ave.

Summertime is here, and the proof is in the pool. Or, rather, poolside, that is, at the Olentangy Inn Motel. Since the new management has taken over the first part of this year, you old time patrons of the OI will be glad to know the Olentangy Inn is just like it used to be five-10 years ago. Things at poolside are really swinging, with an older, more sophisticated clientele.

Doing a great job, and I do mean great job, of entertaining at poolside are Glenn and Bill. Before I go any further about them, just let me say this. Though they are not the finest duo I have ever heard, Glenn and Bill are absolutely the greatest lounge act to hit a Columbus stage. I'll put them against any duo, trio, quartet or a whole darn troup, and Bill and Glenn will still make the rest of them sound like Johnny-come-latelys.

The instrumentation consists of Glenn Dunne playing drums and Bill Poast handeling guitar and organ. Between them, believe it or not, they sound as if they were an orchestra. Bill plays guitar superbly - a true master. While working on the guitar, Bill plays the bass pedals of the organ, giving a full sound. Then add Glenn's drumming behind it, and WOW! excellent. Glenn has a tremendous voice, with plenty of control. His style and tonal quality forces the audience to demand more and more. Bill is almost as good in this area. His voice blends very well with Glenn's. It is almost as if he were tailor-made to be Glenn's partner. They literally tear up the poolside crowd with their music. This is true, no matter what they do-Broadway show tunes, Dixieland, gospel, pop and old standards.

To sum it all up, Glenn and Bill are terrific. However, music does not make up their entire act. Glenn is one of the finest comedians in the business today. Funny, quick-witted and an uncanny knack of working with an audience is just about the only way to describe Glenn. He is blessed with a sense of timing that many of the "big names" would love to possess. Without any material, Glenn could do a two hour show just with off-the-cuff comments. Bill makes and execellent straight man. He couldn't do any better.

My friends, if you want to go out and be royally entertained, there is not a better package, no matter what price you may pay, in Columbus. The way things look, it will be that way for several weeks.

SHERATON NORTH

The Society Of Song have made a smashing return engagement at the popular Sheraton North Motel. This place is becoming the really swinging, fun spot of Columbus. I see this every time I stop in.

The Society Of Song played at the Sheraton last February. Then I thought the members were very good, both from a musican's and from an over-all entertainment viewpoint. After catching them the other night, I believe that they are stronger and better organized than before.

First of all, the group features as its lead singer, leader Joe Nichols. This guy wails. He comes on with a rather unusual voice and a way-out style. It is something you will want to listen to all night long. He could easily make a million seller record.

Joe has lots of help from three other talented musicians. You'll look far and wide to find a drummer any better than Duane Chaplin. This fellow is something else. His handling of the sticks and brushes is not only classy, but he can drive the group in the right direction.

Then you take organist Bill Gardner. He is something else. This guy plays as if he has four hands. And, not only that, wait until you hear him sing. Bill owns a very pleasing, full voice that will more than keep you entertained. Rounding out the group is a young chap with plenty of finesse with the electric bass.

They play all types of music. And they do it all in the proper manner. They are not loud. You can listen to them and still hold a conversation. Regardless of what they play, be it contemporary or old standards, it all comes out as pretty, pretty music.

The Society Of Song is properly named. It shows lots of class, is loaded with personality and certainly travels in high society when it comes to entertaining.

The group is finishing out its second week at the Sheraton North. I know it will be held over for several weeks. Don't miss out on catching this group several times while it is in town.

The next item on the agenda was supposed to be a review of another act in a local motel in Columbus. But, I reviewed this act about six weeks ago and was rather kind to them then.

However I and the motel management were rather taken. After a few weeks on the road, probably Circleville Ohio, they returned to Columbus under another name.

It is pretty bad when an agent, or the act, has to keep making up names in order to obtain bookings.

The reason I will not tell you the name of the motel or of the group, is, "Why should the operator of the motel suffer with a bad review from me?" The manager is noted for booking the finest entertainment available. Yet, when an agent runs something in, so to speak, on a club, he will have enough troubles, without my adding any more.

A bad review means bad business. It is the owners and operators who suffer, not the act or the agent. They get their money regardless.

Watch this column next week. The lead story will be on the new act. Then you will know which club I am referring to. Right now, only the agent, the act and the operator, plus the unhappy customers are aware of the situation I am talking about.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Another one of my favorite places and favorite entertainers continues to draw lots of people nightly, the Holiday Inn - Reynoldsburg. Susan Lambi is a sexy singer of song, who does a fair job of backing herself on the organ. What makes Susan tick is a fine voice and loads of eye appeal. Get out there and see her soon... Watch for some good changes at Ginger's Sherwood Inn. Can't tell you yet, but you'll love them... The same is true for the VIP East... Sunny Norris and the Nashville Sound are back at the Ramada Inn South. If C & W music is your bag, then it is the place for you. Kuenning's just keeps getting better and better. The food is excellent and business is better than ever. I love to dine there, or stop in for lunch. So will you... While I have not stopped in yet, I hear through the grapevine that the new owners of the Gibson Girl Lounge are certainly making it a real fun place. Let you know more soon... There are other changes brewing with different spots Around Town. Make sure you keep reading the Spectator and find out first what's going on. Some will surprise you. If you are looking for thebest cocktail hour on the East Side then head to the Holiday Inn - East, Broad and Hamilton. There you will find Sonia Modes at the piano along with a host of guys and gals to talk with while listening to Sonia's soft, easy piano stylings. I love it.

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

The Central Region of the Ohio Community Theatre Association held its seventh annual conference Saturday, June 10, at the Imperial House, Arlington to decide which of 12 community theaters would go to Cleveland this fall to represent the Central region in the state wide conference competitions.

From 1:30 to 4 p.m. workshops in directing, dialects and publicity were well attended and deservedly so, since the caliber of the people conducting these sessions was very high and their background professional. But, I know that is not what you are interested in reading. You want to know who were the best actor and actress and what were the best plays this past season.

First - about the judges. Dr. Reuben Silver, Director of Karamu House in Cleveland taught at Ohio State University and directed at Gallery Players in Columbus while earning his Ph.D. in theater from Ohio State. He has been our country's theater representative in such places as Israel and Jamica and he is one of the finest theater directors I have ever had the pleasure of knowing personally.

Next is Professor Robert Hobbs, director of Professional Actors Workshop at Ohio University in Athens, who also conducted the workshop on directing.

Finally, Mr. John Briley is the assistant director of the Ohio Arts Council and he delivered the keynote address. All three men are well qualified for the task of choosing the victors.

Now, the envelopes, please. Best actress is Betty Spiro for her role of Anna in the Players Club production of "Toys in the Attic." This is the second year in a row Betty was so honored.

The best actor award goes to Dan Teeter for his role of Johnny Pope in " Hatful of Rain" for The Little Theatre of Broadway.

I would like to say, when this one was announced I stood up and cheered. My review for this show was quite good and this young man was one of four I singled out as outstanding. The play placed second and will go on to Cleveland as one of our representatives. Jim Dippel directed.

Third place went to Gallery Players for "I'm Herbert" directed by Eddie Kaye and first place to Players Club for "Toys in the Attic" directed by Gerald Ness. Players Club will also go to the state conference. In my opinion the judges did a magnificent job - all three productions were top notch. And so ends the season.

Don't forget - Playhouse On The Green on High Street, 4 miles north of Worthington, is presenting "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" through July 1. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Ohio Arts Council Grants Subsidies

Seven Columbus arts organizations have finalized plans for their share of Ohio Arts Council subsidies totalling $16,700.

For overall coordination, the Greater Columbus Arts Council receives $5,000 toward the salary of the full-time executive director, Richard Yoakum.

Other award winners for theatre projects are: Columbus Association for the Performing Arts Young Peoples Summer Theatre Project: $5,000, Otterbein College Repertory Theatre: $3,000; Columbus Junior Theatre of the Arts: $700, Ohio Dominican College Creative Theatre Workshop: $500.

Grant winners in the arts include: Columbus College of Art and Design: $2,000 and Liturgical Art Guild of Central Ohio: $500.

At an April meeting, the Ohio Arts Council granted $188,087 to 71 individuals and organizations, the largest numbers ever. OAC hopes to bring the arts to all Ohioans as part of its role in preserving and promoting Ohio arts and artists.

MIFFLIN'S LARRY JACKSON:

Champs try harder

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Mifflin's Larry Jackson isn't built like a sprinter.

At 5-9 he's at least three inches too short. His legs aren't long enough or heavily muscled enough for the ground-gobbling strides of a John Carlos; and at a sinewy 155 pounds he lacks the brute strength of his top competitors.

ALL THOSE physical handicaps bothered Larry so much this Spring that he only took the Mid Eight, Sectional, District and State "AA" crowns in the 100 yard dash—along with second in the State 220 and the anchor leg on a record-shattering Mifflin 880 Relay quartet that missed another State crown by inches.

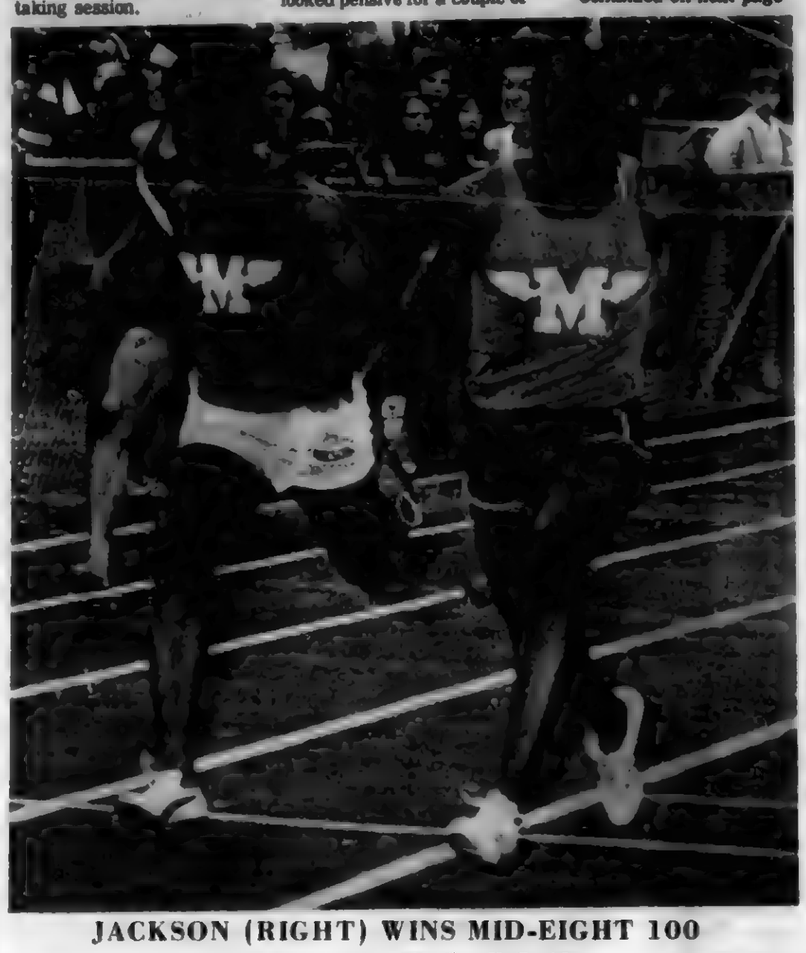
The Spectator's '72 Trackman of the Year was succinctly described by Mifflin athletic director Bill Stevens as "a running machine."

"LARRY GETS EVERY ounce of speed and power imaginable out of his body," he elaborated—"and the amazing thing is, he keeps improving his times when you'd swear he'd reached his absolute limit!"

That incredible efficiency brought the Cowpuncher comet to '72 bests of :09.7 in the hundred and :22 flat in the 220—although he was clocked at :21.3 unofficially during an eye-popping 880 anchor leg.

His junior achievements include high point trophies from both the Raider and Arrowhead Relays, and "triple wins" at the Mohawk Relays, Mid Eight Championships, and "AA" Sectional and District Meets.

HE PERSONALLY SCORED 20 points at the State finals, and you get an idea how impressive that performance was when you consider that Mifflin finished second in the TEAM standings with 26!



Accurately described by Stevens as "a very quiet kid," Jackson was both soft spoken and extremely self-confident when we talked with him briefly during a picture taking session.

Asked what his goals were for next year, he paused for a moment then asked "you mean if I get out of the blocks perfect? I think I can do :09.5 in the hundred and :21 flat in the 220."

WHEN WE REPLIED that those seemed like pretty lofty targets for a guy with his physical dimensions, he looked pensive for a couple of seconds then said "I know it...but I've done pretty well against big, strong guys so far- -and I'm sure I can run faster than I did this year."

Stevens described his school's star athlete (who's already gotten "feelers" from about 15 major colleges) as the kind of dedicated self-motivator who "knows what

BISHOP READY'S BOB TAYLOR:

Knight to remember

By DENNY WHALEN

If Ready's Bob Taylor minded playing second fiddle during his junior campaign, it didn't show. While All State guard Alan Walter dominated the offense and the headlines, Taylor cheerfully swept the backboards, intimidated opposing forwards on defense, and made over 50 per cent of his field goal tries.

When that disappointed '71 Knight quintet walked off the floor after a tight Regional loss to Waverley, four of the top six players called it a career—leaving Taylor and tournament surprise Bob O'Donnell to carry the load.

53 WEEKS LATER, this past March 25, that twosome held the State "AA" Basketball Championship trophy aloft at St. John Arena to the cheers of a delirious Knight following—after a superb 59-47 defensive title victory over unbeaten Lexington.

The story of the triumphant 25-1 Ready campaign that climaxed there has to include pages of praise for underclassmen Jimmy Jones, Chuck Seipel, Don Gardner and Bob Cumberlander (among others)—and a chapter on the steady, poised play of O'Donnell—but the lead role clearly belongs to Mr. Taylor.

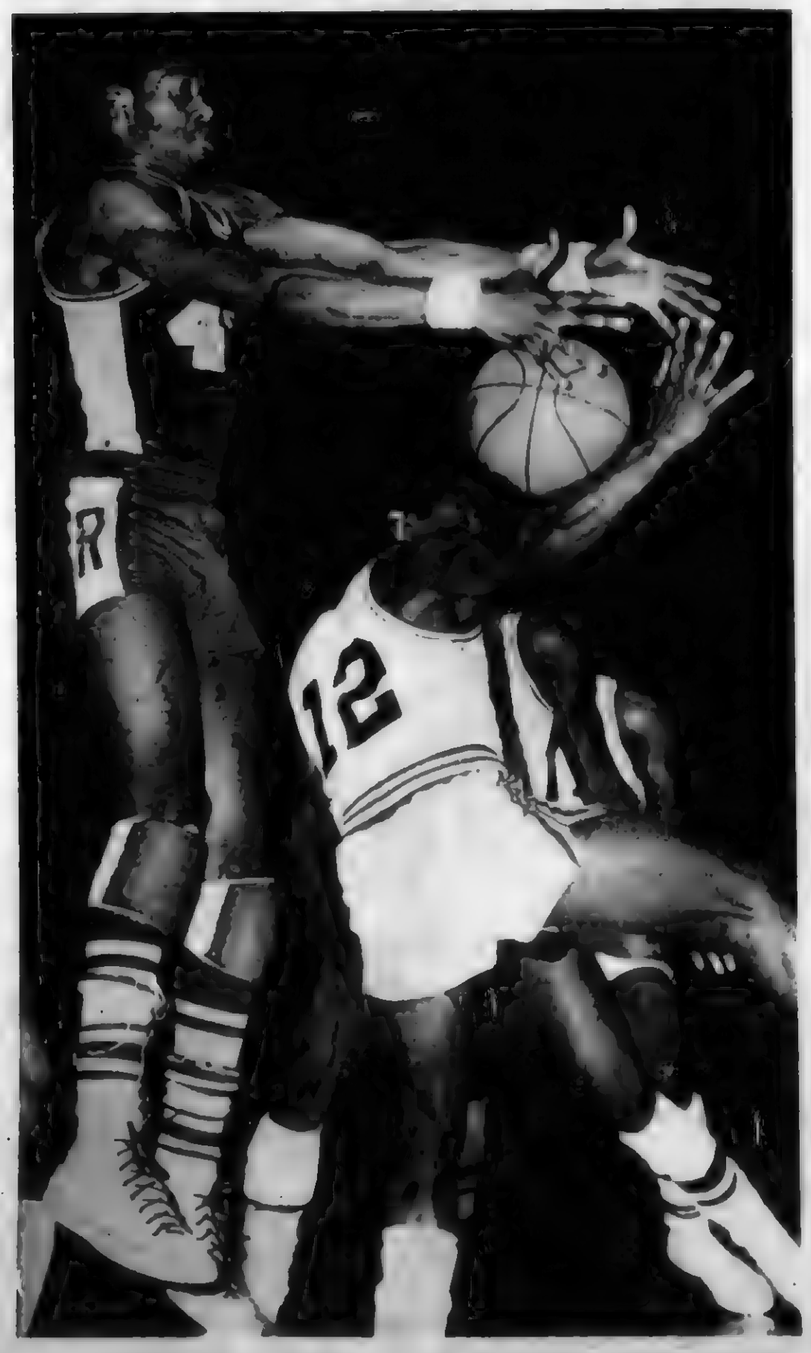
"He was the backbone of the team. He led us in scoring (23.3 points per game) and rebounding (13 plus)—but he did a lot of other things too that never show up in the box scores."

AMONG THOSE 'other things', Pat listed Taylor's key role in the Knight full court zone press. "He's so quick for a big man," said Penn of his 6-5, 185 pound forward, "we kept him at mid court on the press. His job was to anticipate the pass once our guards trapped the ball-handler—he was the guy the other team had to get the ball past to beat us."

Taylor's amazing range and leaping ability resulted in at least 50 direct steals—and forced countless desperate enemy passes to wind up either in the hands of of another Knight or in the stands.



Offensively he was a constant threat to drive the baseline, fire from the corner, toss in a turnaround jumper from the lane; or fake any one of those moves and hit a teammate left open by enemy defenders sagging around him.

ADD IN HIS 'touch' off the backboard on tip tries, and the extra shots which his rebounding gave deadeye teammates—and you get an idea how central a figure Taylor was in the '72 Ready success story.

An All-CCL selection for the second time this year, Taylor earned first team All-District and All-State recognition as well—and was one of two players unanimously picked on the "AA" all Tourney team at St. John (the other was soph teammate Jimmy Jones!).

For all his hardwood skill, Bob isn't a "picture book" ballplayer. His favorite baseline jumper looks awkward, the ball apparently

EASTMOOR'S ARCHIE GRIFFIN:

Back off, Brock!

By DENNY WHALEN

It was a bright, snappy morning last November. Radio play-by-play people in the pressbox said something like: "Eastmoor out of the huddle with third and long on their own 43. Kraker takes the snap, he gives to Archie Griffin again and—look out! he's through a gaping hole over left tackle, cuts back against the flow, he's at the 40—they'll never get him—touchdown!"

The rest of us in the pressbox scribbled something like: "Griffin over left tackle, cuts back in secondary and outruns whole Linden team 57 yards for TD, 20-0 Eastmoor in the third quarter—it's all over...

THE WARRIORS, of course, went on to win the first "official" City League Championship Game 20-9. Archie's decisive gallop didn't come as a big surprise to anybody—because most of us had been waiting for something like it most of the morning.

Since the first E-M snap, Bob Stuart's piledriving fullback had been following super blocking for big chunks of yardage. Everybody in the stadium knew he was gonna carry the ball three out of every four plays—but then every Warrior opponent all year had known that too, and what good had it done them?

When the post-game victory celebration was over, Archie's totals read 31 carries, 257 net yards rushing, 8.5 yards per carry average, one touchdown, and about three quarters of the game's 48 minutes eaten up in punishing "ball control" drives that ended in two other E-M touchdowns and ruined Linden field position.

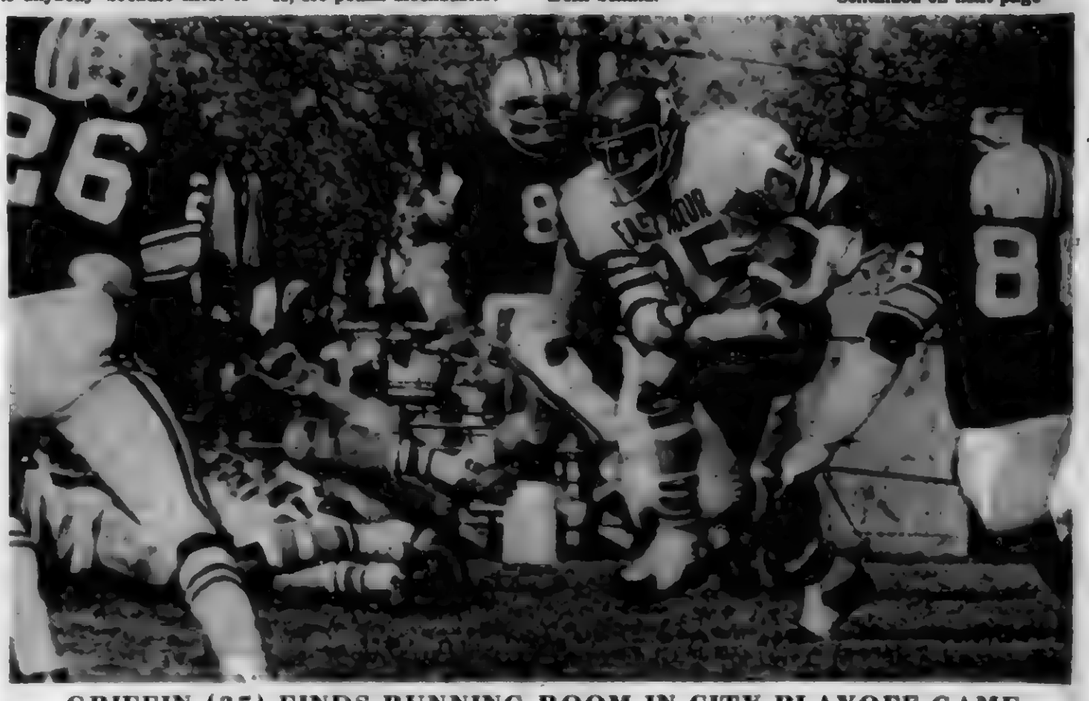
IT WAS THE crowning performance of an unbelievable season for the 5-11, 190 pound blockbuster.

In leading his club to a 9-1 season slate and the South Division and league titles, Archie rushed for an incredible 1,707 yards in 228 carries. If such comparisons catch your fancy, he was exactly 53 yards short of gaining a mile—against 10 enemy defenses pulled up into eight and nine man lines just to stop him.

How did he do it?

WARRIOR BOSS Stuart first cited the standout blocking of his offensive line and the other backs, but singled out Griffin's own physical gifts and attitude as the key factors.

"Archie's a great physical specimen to begin with," noted Stuart—"he has tremendous power in his legs and great quickness. When he gets to a hole, he's already near full speed—and if he breaks clean I'd like to see the guy who can nail him from behind."



For all that natural ability, however, Stuart considers Griffin's "aggressiveness and confidence" his strongest suits.

"I'VE NEVER SEEN anybody drive himself quite as hard as Arch does," he elaborated. "He only has one speed—flat out. In practice he fights just as hard on every snap as he did in the Championship game; he runs over people and fights for every inch of yardage every time he walks on the field. I never saw him get 'up' for a game; he's psyched when he pulls on a helmet."

A unanimous All-City and All-District pick, Griffin nabbed the first team All-State berth at fullback in both wire service polls and made at least two high school 'All American' teams to boot.

GRIFFIN (35) FINDS RUNNING ROOM IN CITY PLAYOFF GAME

Nightmares, Cold Sweats For Opposition Defenses

REYNOLDSBURG'S RANDY SHADE:

But can he juggle?

SHADE FOLLOWS FLIGHT OF EXTRA-BASE HIT

OCC Catchers Came Up 'Empty-Mitted'

By DENNY WHALEN

There are, without doubt, a number of athletic feats that Reynoldsburg's Randy Shade can't perform. However that's probably just because he hasn't had the time to work on 'em.

The strapping 6-4, 220 pounder capped a remarkable schoolboy sports career last weekend by leading the West All-Stars to a best-of-three triumph over their Eastern counterparts in the Jaycees All-Ohio baseball series—and copping the MVP award in the process.

IT WAS A fitting climax to a season in which the Raider righthander earned a 9-3 mound record; struck out 100 enemy hitters and walked only 14 in 73 innings; and posted an eye-popping 0.46 earned run average while leading his club to its first share of an OCC pennant.

While a lot of high school hurlers are exceptions to the "pitchers can't hit" syndrome, Shade is more of a complete contradiction.

He clouted opposition pitching at a .534 clip in league action—and posted a hefty .468 average for all games with four home runs and 28 RBI's—second on the club.

Randy Shade . . .

There was, however, a major problem inherent in picking Randy as our Baseball Athlete of the Year; namely that he had been almost as impressive in football and basketball.

HE EARNED All-OCC notice on the gridiron last fall as the Raider quarterback (a spot he occupied for three full seasons), then came back over the winter to merely lead all conference cagers with a 23.6 points per game scoring average.

Make up a new game, give him three days to practice, and he'll beat you at it—he's the guy they were trying to describe when they invented the term "natural athlete."

The Reynoldsburg coaching staff concurs that baseball is Randy's best sport, however, and the Cleveland Indians figured his diamond skills were worth cornering for themselves in last week's "free agent" draft of '72 high school and college grads.

Raider A.D. and baseball coach John Thompson was understandably sorry to lose his three-year star performer, and discussed just how valuable Shade was in the championship team effort this Spring.

"HE HELPED US out in a dozen ways," said John—"Randy was our 'stopper' on the mound, our most consistent hitter and he played first, second, short and the outfield when he wasn't pitching; by anybody's standards that's about as big a contribution as you can make!"

In the two Jaycees Series games that the West won last week, Shade drove home the eventual winning run Friday with his second circuit smash of the day—then earned Saturday's hill verdict with a steady four innings of relief work.

Surprisingly, Randy's '72 diamond statistics aren't as immediately impressive as his figures from a standout junior season (in which he recorded both more strikeouts and home runs.) Coach Thompson, however, was quick to point out the fallacy of relying on stats alone.

"HE WAS A MUCH more mature ballplayer this year than last," said Thompson. "On the mound he learned to set up the hitters instead of trying to blow his fastball past everybody—moved the ball around with men on base and got 'em to hit into a lot of big double plays. At bat, he cut down on his home run total because he cut down on his swing. People threw him nothing but junk most of the year, and he went with the pitch for singles and doubles instead of swinging for the fences."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shade, 1109 Nocturn E., Randy now becomes half of the only brother act in the six-year history of the Spectator Athlete of the Year awards. Big brother Gary was the first winner of the baseball plaque back in '67.

What lies ahead for Reynoldsburg's 'Mr. Versatile?'

ACCORDING TO Thompson, Randy would like to combine a college education with a future in professional baseball. Whether that will be as a member of a college nine (most likely OSU), or as a part-time student in the Cleveland baseball organization is up in the air right now.

Whichever route he chooses, Randy Shade will have only one sport to concentrate on from now on—and that spells trouble for the other side.

Taylor . . .

coming from under his collarbone reminiscent of an old "push shot" from the Thirties. Unfortunately for past and future opponents, Taylor and Penn seem to have more than polished the style of basketball Bob learned on the city's Southside playgrounds—and they don't give trophies for perfect form.

TAYLOR, who'll be heading for Olney Jr. College (Ill.) in the fall, picked up a couple more honors this months to add to his post-season heap.

He was selected by a Chicago-based prep sports magazine as a member of the '72 'Catholic All America' high school team last week; and also was informed that he'll be the recipient of a $300 scholarship from the Ohio High School Coaches Association—the later to be awarded during halftime of the annual Ohio All-Star game later this month.

All in all it's been a pretty fair year for the unassuming Knight cage star. No matter how willing they might be to sacrifice headlines for teamwork; some guys just weren't meant to play second fiddle.

Jackson . .

he needs to do to stay in top shape—and does it on his own."

He might have added a few words about Mr. Jackson's determination to excel—but that's really unnecessary for anyone who's seen him run or talked to him for a couple of minutes.

LARRY IS THE son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson, 3061 Blue Ridge Rd.

They and Mifflin cinder coach Lorenzo Hunt have a lot to be proud of—and we've got a hunch they'll get a lot of chances to savor that feeling before next June rolls around.

Griffin . . .

fall, and showed up at the City League wrestling championships in time to present Arch with the 167 pound crown.

While suffering an overtime defeat in District prelims, Griffin had lost only one match in regular season competition on the mats—and he was disqualified in that one for "slamming" an opponent reluctant to risk being pinned.

A lot of people who've seen Mr. Griffin run (this reporter included) find his slashing, quick-footed style very reminiscent of John Brockington's. While comparison with the NFL 'Rookie of the Year' is a tough saddle to throw on a college freshman, there are indications that W.W. Hayes may have a few similar ideas.

"It's pretty far-fetched to imagine a freshman starting at OSU or any major school," noted Stuart. "But if there's a freshman who can handle varsity-level competition, Archie's the guy. He'll get you four yards against the Great Wall of China!"

Archie departs the Eastmoor campus this week in possession of every school single-season and career record for rushing yardage and scoring. In his three years of varsity action, the Warriors won two CL titles and lost only one league game.

Don't be too surprised if he turns up in a varsity uniform at Ohio Stadium this fall—or if the name Brockington comes up a little less often over the next couple years when people talk about power running.

SLOGAN WINS

"Let's not meet by accident" was our winning slogan this year, says Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady. Accidental meetings on the highway can be prevented by safe driving, adds your Department of Highway Safety.

Eastmoor Jr. High Rewards Baseball, Track Standouts

The first annual Eastmoor Junior High Spring Sports Banquet was held Friday, June 2, in the school gym. A crowd of 250 attended the affair, highlighted by Mr. Don McCualsky's presentation of the team trophies won by the baseball and track teams.

The baseball team finished the season with an 8-3 record, to earn the runnerup trophy in the South Section of the City League. The track team went undefeated in dual meets, took second in the South Sectional, and finished third in the City Meet, which included a total of 27 teams.

LARRY NORDMAN was selected by the baseball team as most valuable player, and Herb Allen was the most improved player. Tom Hamer, who went undefeated in the shot put, was named the most valuable trackster, with Bill Shopoff receiving the most-improved award.

Nordman also received a trophy as a three-year letterman.

Trophies were presented to those who set school records in track: Bob Pounds - high jump and low hurdles, Rod Harris in low hurdles, Ferries Gaston in the mile and Jim Johnson in the 440 yard dash.

Both John Safford, baseball coach, and Ed Fitzsimmons, track coach, have several lettermen returning next season. Both reported that the '73 Eastmoor outlook is bright.

50 Percent Of Hospital Infections Preventable

About half of the infections patients acquire in a hospital could be prevented, but half of the infections "are going to happen," says Dr. Philip S. Brachman, director of the epidemiology program at the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga.

Brachman was in Columbus last week to take part in sessions of the first national conference of nurse epidemiologists at OSU.

AN ESTIMATED five percent of hospital patients acquire an infection during their stay, according to the Center for Disease Control.

About half of these infections could be prevented partly through surveillance which involves careful observation for signs of infection, preparing a culture of the agents causing infection, identifying the agents, and taking appropriate measures to control the infection, Dr. Brachman said.

Educating hospital employees on basic precautionary measures and correct procedures is a second key to preventing and controlling infection, he added.

DR. BRACHMAN said preventive measures are not effective against all hospital infections, however.

"Bodily defenses against infection are greatly reduced in many patients and so they are susceptible to infections transmitted because of normal movement of air, people, and things. Human-to-human contact is the most common vehicle of infection.

"Failure of hospital personnel to wash their hands is a frequent cause of infection," Dr. Brachman added.

"We would like to think every hospital room has a sink in it so the hospital staff can wash their hands each time as they go from patient to patient, but this is not so in older hospitals."

MRS. DOROTHY Golden, supervisory of University Hospital's Central Sterile Supply and chairwoman of the conference, said that thoughtless behavior by a patient's visitors can increase the chance of infection.

"Visitors who sit on the bed, use a drinking glass in the room or come to the hospital while they have a

DON AND NELDA DAVIS BUSY AT WORK IN THEIR CRAFTS WORKSHOP AT 86 W. OLD WILSON BRIDGE RD.

Lapidary Highlight At Davis Crafts

Rocks, gemstones, gifts from stone, lapidary supplies, and jewlery are among the many items which will be featured in the shop of Davis Crafts, located at 86 West Old Wilson Bridge Road.

Don and Nelda Davis, a husband and wife lapidary team, have been working with the art of lapidary (cutting and polishing gemstones) since 1959.

Interest in the hobby of rock-hounding has soared in the last few years and this shop will help the amateur or beginner with equipment, raw materials, books, instruction, etc.

Interior decorating has taken a turn towards mineral specimens, crystal specimens, geodes, etc., and many items such as these are on display in the new shop.

One of the features of the shop is a geode-splitting tool which can open a geode while the customer waits just a few seconds. And the customer has the fun of seeing what is inside immediately.

Items in the shop include unique bookends from stone, jade letter openers, executive gifts, geodes, pen sets on beautiful crystal specimens, paper weights, and one of a kind items.

The shop also carries blank mountings for the hobbyist, raw material, rock polishers, equipment of all kinds for the amateur or professional rockhound or lapidary, mineral specimens, and cabochons.

The Davises not only work with and polish well-known material such as turquois amethyst, and jade, but also cut and polish petrified dinosaur bone (140 million years old) for that unique tie clip or tac, and petrified wood, agates, rhodonite, and numerous other gemstones from all over the world.

The modern trend is toward hand-crafted items and Davis Crafts also fills this need. The shop is not only equipped for custom stone cutting, but also includes vacuum - casting equipment for fine gold and silver work, since the Davises also create original pieces of jewelry, or will make something to the customer's own design.

In addition to catering to the general public for stone or metal work, the Davises also repair antique glassware that is chipped.

Davis Crafts is a working shop where the customer not only sees the finished product, but also sees lapidaries at work – cutting and polishing the stones and may observe how the work is done.

The Davises also take time to collect in the field many of the gemstones which they have for sale. Their prospecting trips have taken them all over the United States and into Canada.

cold are contributing to the complexities of controlling hospital infections," she observed. Besides visitors, there is already a great deal of person-to-person contact through the hospital staff's taking care of the patient, she said.

Visitors and staff might also contract an infection, she pointed out.

DR. BRACHMAN cited four major factors he feels have led to an increase in nosocomial infections. These factors also partly explain why nosocomial infections cannot be entirely prevented.

These factors are:

- The increasing age of patients and the greater susceptibility to infection of older patients;
- An increasing number of patients with chronic diseases who are surviving but with lower resistance;
- Therapeutic measures such as antibiotics may lower resistance, and
- Diagnostic procedures (those that break the skin) for instance) sometimes provide a site of possible infection.

Sea World Tops Tour Attractions

(One of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Automobile Club Travel Department)

One of Ohio's most popular attractions, Sea World, is the starting point for this tour southeast of Cleveland

Beginning its third season, the 70-acre oceanarium on Geauga Lake near Aurora is similar to the famous Sea World in San Diego.

ENTERTAINING water shows feature Shamu, the 4,000-pound killer whale, and a 3,000-pound elephant seal. Also performing are dolphins, seals and penguins.

Another outstanding attraction is the water ski show by the 19-member Tommy Bartlett group. Visitors can watch kite flyers soar over 200 feet and the barefoot skiers from the 3,000-seat water ski stadium on Geauga Lake.

Nearby Geauga Lake Park is an amusement center which has undergone major renovations the past few years. Many new rides are among the 40 in the park, including a monorial and "kiddieland."

METALS PARK is two miles east of Ohio 306 on route 87. This is the site of the is 274 feet in diameter and 103 feet high. Beneath it is the headquarters for the American Society for Metals and a mineral garden of 75 ore specimens.

Lake Punderson State Park, 773 acres, is also on route 87. Nature programs, fishing, swimming, golfing and boat rentals provide a variety of recreational activities. A 32-room lodge and 26 vacation cabins are other features.

Burton's Pioneer Village and Museum are restorations of a typical Western Reserve community around the village green. All buildings are more than 100 years old. The museum contains antiques and historical records.

AN UNUSUAL state park, Nelson-Kennedy Ledges, is on route 282. Its 167 acres are almost entirelyu rocks, caves andgorges crossed by small streams.

The AAA Club suggests this routing to the tour area: From Columbus, go northeast on I-71 to Jct. with I-271; northeast on I-271 to Ohio Route 8; north on Ohio Route 8 to Ohio Route 82; east on Ohio Route 82 to the tour.

PICNIC

ABSOLUTELY the most tragic aspect of adulthood is forgetting what it's like to be a kid. But the memories slowly wend their way back at a school picnic.

Out there on the Spring-green grass bathed in early June sunshine, Vietnam, the nagging pain in your shoulder and the fact the dryer's on the blink (again) get lost in a maze of child-like laughter, boy taunting girl and hot dogs sizzling over charcoal.

There's a kind of security-blanket permanence about a school picnic, a warm realization that somehow this minute segment of yesteryear has escaped technology, acceleration and Toffler's Future Shock.

And it's also a bitter indictment that kids haven't changed – you have.

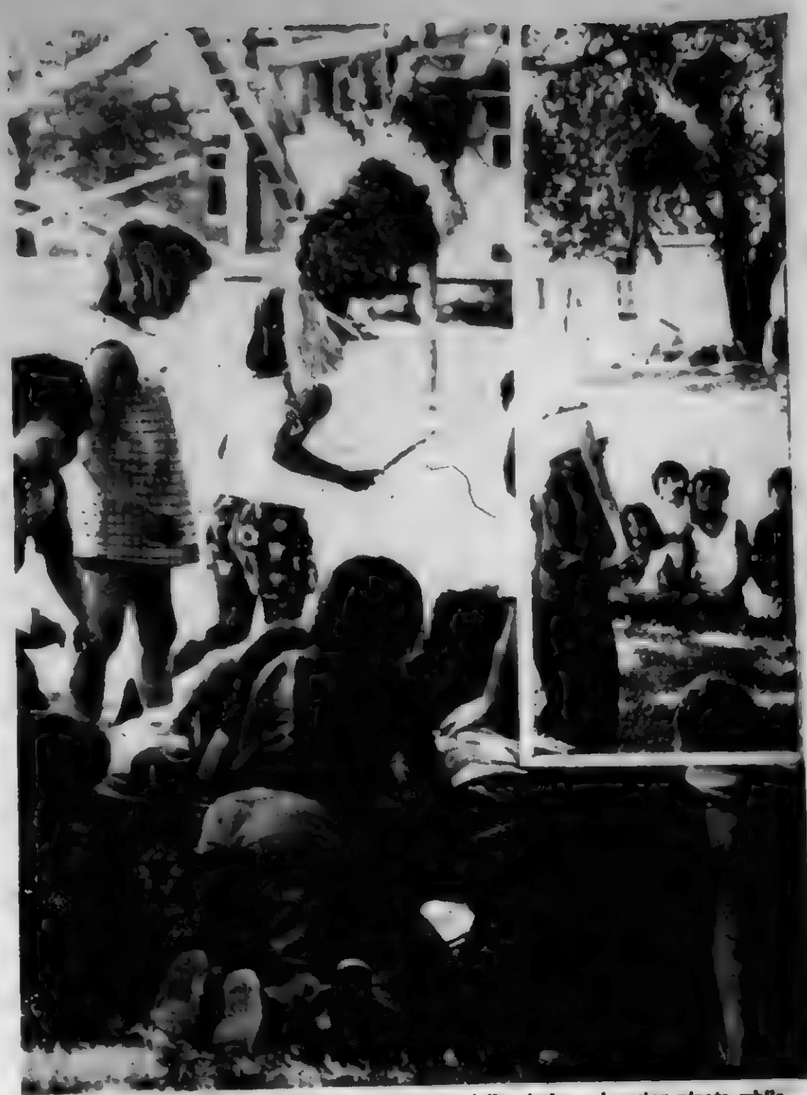
When my wife informed me I had been assigned to KP (Kindergarten Picnic) duty, I was a bit apprehensive about getting involved in this initial bar of Alma Mater. I never should have been.

It's one paychedelic "trip", I can heartily recommend.

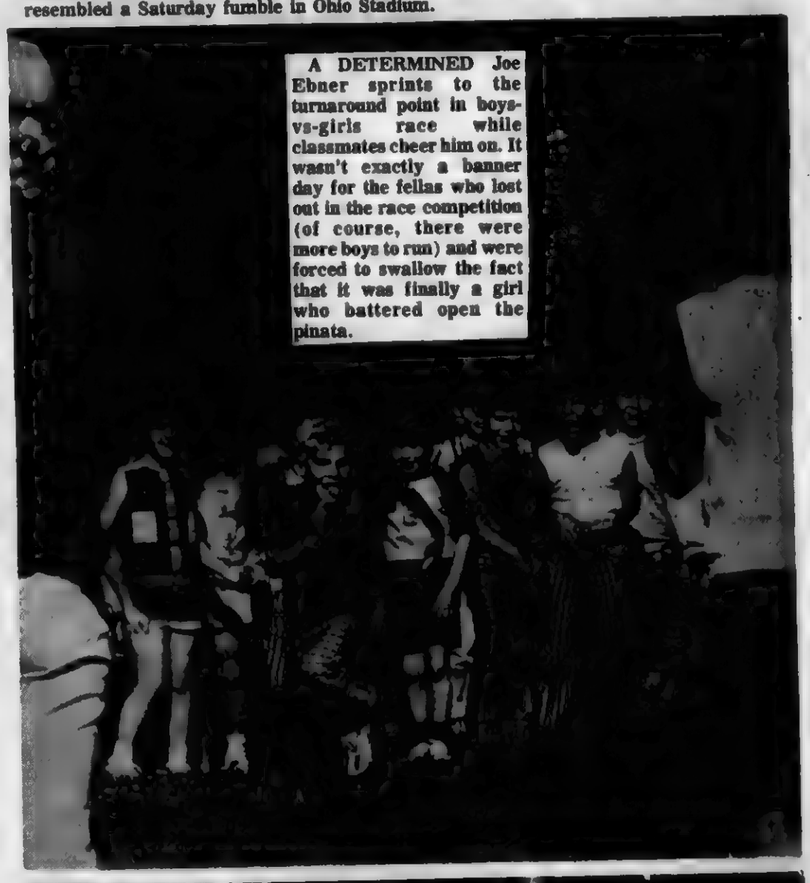
IN ANY CROWDED picnic situation with an unknown quantity of food available, it's wisest to stay close to the source of supply. This young man keeps a watchful eye on dwindling tray of cupcakes while munching on his hot dog.

TEAMWORK – Classmates cart their own tables and chairs out to the picnic area, prompting one five-year-old to exclaim: "That's the hardest I've worked all year." Despite the time-proven theory of "wear-em-out-early", kids rebounded quickly and were ready for more action.

DISCOVERY – Although most appeared unfamiliar with the old-fashioned tug-of-war process, it didn't take long to get into the swing of things. Boys found willing (and welcome) allies from the distaff side in this venture, but made no secret of the fact where most of the muscle came from – especially on the winning end of the rope.



'POTTY' BREAK – The inevitable kindergarten picnic "time-out" came about 11 a.m. when teacher Linda Becker led a group of her charges back inside for a "potty" break.



photos and comments

by Jack Wittenmeier

(WITH A GREAT BIG 'ASSIST' FROM THE BRICE ELEMENTARY KINDERGARTEN CLASS)

A BLINDFOLDED Larry Howard (inset) carefully circles a hanging pinata while classmates await his swing. Candy-filled Spanish treat proved more bullish than usual, yielding neither to plastic or hardwood bat until blindfold was discarded and unlimited swings prevailed. When Senor Bull finally parted with his treasure (above) picnic field resembled a Saturday fumble in Ohio Stadium.

A DETERMINED Joe Ebner sprints to the turnaround point in boys-vs-girls race while classmates cheer him on. It wasn't exactly a banner day for the fellas who lost out in the race competition (of course, there were more boys to run) and were forced to swallow the fact that it was finally a girl who battered open the pinata.

'YOURS? I THOUGHT YOU WERE GONNA' EAT THE REST OF MINE!'
Like Most Picnics, Mom over-produced in food department

'SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE'

Bond Plan Touches All 22 Area Schools, Adds 5 Sites

BY JACK WITTENMEIER

Whether by design or necessity, CPS superintendent John Ellis included everybody in the Far East area school picture in his recommended $89.5 million building bond "portrait" which was presented to the school board yesterday.

Should the board accept Ellis' plan and place the issue on the November ballot, area voters will get their chance to buy a piece of the action.

IMPROVEMENTS or additions at both senior highs, all four junior highs and each of the 16 area elementary schools are included in Ellis' package.

Also included in the vocational education-laden design are provisions for the construction of one junior-senior facility and three elementaries – all positioned in the general vicinity of Refugee Road.

Upon quick inspection, the building provisions and improvements projected in Ellis' Tuesday plan appear to be closely related to those rejected by voters in 1971 – the last time a bond issue was placed before voters.

HERE'S THE area rundown for existing buildings:

HIGH SCHOOLS

EASTMOOR - addition to include a new Learning Center (library and other instructional materials) and instrumental and vocal music facilities, addition to provide vocational education, remodeling to include conversion of the existing library and music facilities for instructional spaces, teacher work and storage areas and improved guidance facilities, site expansion and site improvement.

WALNUT RIDGE - addition to provide a Learning Center and expanded vocational education facilities, remodeling to include expansion of the Learning Center provision for second art and home economic rooms, and improved heating and ventilation (including partial cooling).

YORKTOWN - additional classrooms, conversion of existing facilities to provide second art and home economics room.

ELEMENTARIES

Add or improve existing Learning Center at all 16 Far East area facilities, provide additional classroooms at Woodcrest, Oakmont and Easthaven, add multi-purpose room at Broadleight, make site improvements at Easthaven and Pinecrest, accomplish remodeling at Shady Lane and make heating and ventilating improvements at Courtright and James Road.

The elementaries affected include: Barnett, Berwick, Broadleigh, Courtright, Easthaven, Fairmoor, James Road, Leawood, Maybury, Oakmont, Olde Orchard, Pinecrest, Scottwood, Shady Lane, Willis Park and Woodcrest.

BESIDES vocational-career additions and-or remodeling at both Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge, one of four new proposed Vocational-Career centers is specified for the Southeast Columbus area.

The superintendent's proposal also recommends "when new high schools are built they will contain facilities for vocational-career education."

The new Far East Junior-Senior high school is mapped out for the Refugee-Noe Bixby Road area.

PROPOSED elementaries would be located (1) near Brice Road and I-70, (2) near Brownfield and Refugee Roads and (3) near Noe-Bixby and Refugee Roads.

A second Far East Senior High is recommended near Brice and Refugee Roads but it is stipulated as "a site needed in the future but not included in this bond issue."

Under the heading of "miscellaneous recommendations" in the superintendent's report was one item which some believe is a step toward realization of the year-round school concept.

THE RECOMMENDATION reads: "provide funds for limited cooling of existing libraries, music rooms, art rooms and classrooms or instructional areas internally located or having high usage in summer months. In new buildings, provide for future cooling if the building is not cooled at the time of construction."

They Eight-Balled Their Way Through

LAST FRIDAY'S storm didn't dampen the spirits of this group who were scheduled for a poolside ribbon-cutting at Timbers East, 1205 Rosehill Rd., a Deffet Company multi-family apartment complex. Everyone went indoors and enjoyed the hospitality of Deffet personnel Steve Heinlein, second from left and Mrs. Rita Jones, extreme right. The man in the middle (behind the eight ball) who cut the ribbon is Reynoldsburg Business Association president, Reynoldsburg Sertoma president and Longbranch and Longhorn Restaurants owner James Joseph. Flanking him are a bevy of beauties and other area people. From left the lineup includes Stephanie Sharp, Reynoldsburg Barn Dinner Theatre featured dancer; Heinlein; Tomato Festival Queen runnerup and Maiden of Roses candidate Debbie Hades; Joseph; Reynoldsburg Homecoming Queen Miss Karen Duffy, Spectator Eastern and Reynoldsburg Advertising Consultant Jim Lombard and Mrs. Jones. Sign Permit Deadline June 30

Time is running out for owners of signs along Ohio's interstate and primary highways to apply for permits required by legislation enacted last December.

With just seven weeks remaining until the June 30 deadline, State Highway Director J. Phillip Richley said applications have been received for only three per cent of the estimated 25,000 signs which will require permits.

After June 30, signs that do not have permits may be removed by the Highway Department and the owner billed for the cost of removal.

Applications for permits are available from the Advertising Device Control Section, Room 301, Highway Department Building, 25 S. Front St., Columbus.

A Flower For All Seasons

BEING BIG doesn't always count - especially if it is an entry in a flower show that calls for a miniature arrangement not to exceed five inches overall in height. Mrs. Donald (Patt) Hummer, Reynoldsburg, created this blue ribbon entry for the Maraber Heights Garden Club flower show in the "Undimmed By Human Tears" arrangement category. The vase is a Limoges and the flowers are Ageratum (a pretty blue) and white Privot. The arrangement just made it to the three inch mark, vase included. And that's the end of this short story. OPPOSE HIGH DENSITY COMPLEX

Residents Protest Land Rezoning

Residents in the vicinity of McNaughton Road between Broad and Main Streets are upset over the proposed rezoning of a 120 acre tract of land in the area and they are planning to let Columbus city council know.

The Columbus Development Commission recommended the land be rezoned from single family residential to multi-family residential despite objections of over 150 residents and it's own staff.

REQUESTS FOR the rezoning was made by the Equitable Development Corporation, which wants to land to be classified planned unit development.

James Feibel, an attorney representing the Triple R, a group of seven area civic associations, said his clients felt strongly about the rezoning and did not understand why the recommendation had been made over objections by the residents and the commission's own staff.

Feibel said the residents objected to the PUD classification for several reasons.

"THE SURROUNDING density as far as units per acre is concerned is much lower. To the south you have Olde Orchard, to the south west is Ravenwood and to the north west is Laurel Canyon.

"These are all subdivisions developed to a density of about two units per acre," Feibel said. He said this was according to Columbus' plan of requiring 20,000 square feet of lot per home.

"If the area between Board and Main is allowed to continue to develop as it has done in the past, there will be between 600 and 700 additional families moving into the area.

"IF THE proposed rezoning goes through, it will mean an additional 2,100 families moving into the area."

Feibel said this was the main objection of the residents in that this would mean a substantial change in the character of the area.

"Now the area is fairly rural and open and the people who live here want it to remain that way," the attorney said.

HE SAID THE same group owns land across the street to the west of the 120 acres and if they are allow PUD once, they may put it in across the street with an even higher density.

"The developer is planning to put the greatest density along McNaughton Road with seven plus units per acre. In the center of this complex they're proposing nine units per acre."

Feibel said, "There is a great need for single family lots in the east and this is one of the last places left."

HE SAID THE group objects to the high density and the poor land use, rather than to the PUD classification itself.

"We feel PUD has merit, but there are all kinds, varying by the number of units allowed per acre.

He said the opposition might not be so great if a lower density were proposed. "But they're asking for the greatest possible density and we feel this will substantially change the kind of area we have here now."

Feibel said he did not feel lack of services in the area would be a problem.

"THEY'RE BUILDING a new fire station on McNaughton Road and although it will only have one pumper, I don't think fires are a concern."

He also said recently the area seemed to have better police protection.

"I've been told that water and sewer can be supplied without much trouble, so we aren't concerned about this being a problem." He said schools would be a major problem but that was not an issue they were concerned with at present.

"WE OBJECT to poor land use and bad development planning."

Feibel said many residents felt that if the high density complex is allowed McNaughton will have to be widened to four lanes. "This would really change the area and make it another James Road or Karl Road, which is entirely uncharacteristic of the area presently."

Feibel said he had heard of no plans yet to widen the street but said he felt it was a very good possibility.

THE ATTORNEY said the next step is up to city council. He said the zoning question may come up in July or may be postponed until after the August vacation.

"We have no control over when it comes up, but when it does we will be there."

Feibel said he felt sure there would be a large number of east side residents on hand for the meeting.

"The civic associations come in contact in many ways and we have the sympathy of others not involved," Feibel explained. "They know that if bad zoning can happen to us it can also happen to them."

THE TRIPLE R (which gets its name from the zoning classification-restricted rural residential) represents Olde Orchard Civic Association, Ravenwood, Laurel Canyon, Yorkshire East and three Greenbriar associations.

'Cubbyhole Cooking' Debuts Inside Today

Are you one of those poor souls who have to cook for one, or maybe two? Maybe you live in a one bedroom apartment or a home from whence that once-big family has departed.

Let's face it, it's too much trouble to cook for one, or two. But is it really?

MYRNA MCCAULEY, debuting in today's Spectator with "Cubbyhole Cooking", doesn't think so.

Describing herself as "a perennial apartment dweller", Myrna obviously is familiar with the perils and shortcomings of "turn-around-and-duck" kitchenette life.

A food writer for several leading Midwest ad agencies and freelance author of cookbooks for General Mills and Western Publishing, Minneapolis-based Myrna should also find appeal with the harried homemaker who finds multiple mouths to feed.

We believe you'll find it quite digestable.

Main Street Merchants' Traffic Protest Fails

Fifty men and women representing the Main Street business community learned yesterday the Traffic and Transportation Commission of Columbus will not consider further alternatives to making Main Street one-way east.

On April 25, the businessmen and women of the area, represented by Attorney John Duffy presented an alternative to the proposal of making Main Street one way east and Town Street one way west to accomodate the traffic that will be generated during the construction of the Mound-Sandusky Interchange.

BASING their protest on the contention that cutting the traffic flow from the north and east will cause the strangulation and eventual death of their businesses, the merchants asked that Civic Center Drive be again made two-way, with traffic diverted north and south to Rich and Mound.

The Traffic Engineering Department has studied these two plans since April, and a third one which they considered as a compromise. The latter involved making Main east only to High Street and then two-way to Fourth.

According to computerized figures evolved by the State Highway Department and confirmed by Mid-Ohio Regional Planning, the first plan offers the best traffic flow.

THE SECOND plan, according to the engineers, would result in an impossible situation at Front and Rich, and the compromise proposal would result in a monumental traffic jam at Third and Main.

The conclusion was that only the first plan is feasible.

Duffy expressed the "bitter disappointment" of his clients and himself at the decision, stating it was totally irresponsible.

HE PLEADED with the Commission to realize that its concern should go beyond the people from the south and west parts of the county who want "to get somewhere in a car".

"There are also people from the north and east," he said. "What should be done is to determine what is best for Columbus and all its people."

Speaking of the 230 businesses on Main between High and Nelson Road, he stated the contemplated move wouldn't merely represent a short period of inconvenience for the community, but would eventually spell the end for the only downtown business area still alive--other than High Street.

DUFFY AND the business people present (who were quite vocal) repeatedly pointed to what has happened to Long Street since it was made a one-way street.

They also targeted in on the inconsistency of a city that talks about "saving downtown" and then attempts to destroy it.

Members of the group (one of whom claimed he has been doing business on Main Street for 68 years) stressed that though James Musick (chief of the Traffic Engineering) is an expert on traffic, he is not an expert on Downtown problems or on Main Street.

DUFFY reiterated more than once that the city plan undoubtedly was the best possible to insure the flow of traffic, but that the health of the business community was of greater importance--and that alternatives certainly could be found.

The owner of the Clean-A-Car Wash at 404 E. Main stated that the proposal would not only put him out of a job, but his 38 employes as well.

When Duffy stated that the businessmen could accept a parking ban on Main to create additional traffic lanes the engineers stated the present plans already include not only one-way traffic but no parking.

THOSE WITH interest in the health of the community also pointed to the exodus from the area that would occur as business worsened, and to the emptied buildings that would become slums.

Chairman Ralph Lehman stated that he realized that the businessmen would "hurt" for a couple years, but stated then they would "come back."

"I'm not convinced you will lose your businesses," he said. He also indicated that those who did fail would eventually be replaced by new businesses.

THIS LED to protests from the audience who called out, "We don't want to be replaced."

One young man who identified himself as being from the Inner City, stated he had only been in business for four months, and currently has a chance to survive.

"But if you change the traffic patterns for the benefits of the suburbanites, we don't have a chance," he stated.

MARTY Leiberman of the Ohio Furniture Co., stated he and his fellow businessmen had just weathered a mild recession during the past two years.

"Frankly, we can't stand a year or two of less business than we have," he said.

Musick, in defending his position, stated that as a traffic engineer he could make recommendations only in the interest of traffic flow.

STATING that he hoped the people were wrong in their evaluation of the trouble ahead, he stated, "If you want a people-decision rather than an engineering-decision, you'll have to go to the Commission--or the administration."

Apparently, either council or the administration is the only recourse left to the Main Street merchant.

Robert Kean of the Commission moved to reject the recommendations of the professionals and try to turn up an alternative plan.

HIS MOTION died for the lack of a second.

The consensus of the merchants was that many of the 50 businesses represented would be broke within a short time--and that the regeneration that has been seen on Main Street has been reversed by the Commission.

Eastland Board Approves Budget

The Eastland Joint Vocational District board of education last week approved a tentative budget of $1,558,297.66 for 1973 (January to December).

The budget hearing will be Tuesday, July 11 at 7 p.m. in the conference room at the center. It is expected that the Board will adopt the budget at a special meeting that night and submit it to the county auditor by July 30.

THE BOARD also heard from the Public Utilities Commision in regard to the gas usage problem. The board had previously been told by the Gas Company that it (the company) could not supply the new addition to the school with gas.

The PUCO letter from staff attorney Boyd B. Ferris, dated May 22, said in part "given the circumstances and the terms of the freeze ordered by the Commission there is no apparent way in which Columbia Gas could supply the new facility and still be in accord with the terms of the Commission's order."

The letter further stated "under the existing conditions it is not possible for the Commission to intervene informally on behalf of a consumer except in those cases where it appears that the Gas Company is not complying with the terms of the Commission's order."

Superintendent Ralph Hudson told the Board there appears to be no other appeal and the architect has been notified.

HUDSON told the Board the recent telephone survey and recommendations for future service were as follows: (1) The survey disclosed an average of 275 incoming calls per day and many times when all five lines were tied up; (2) Building program will require approximately 19 new stations; present system not capable of handling this capacity; (3) recommendation of Ohio Bell is to replace the present system with the 100 Series PBX and to add three additional trunk lines; (4) approximate increased cost would be $108.80 per month including additional lines and additional stations. Twenty-five touchtone telephones could be obtained for an additional $50 per month.

Hudson told The Spectator this week that the board had approved the new system and it would be installed in two stages with completion hopefully by Christmas.

In other Board action, the Board:

Received the Communications and Public Relations Report for the month of May.

Authorized student accident insurance for the 1972-73 school year with the Personal Service Insurance Company through the Murray and Sons Insurance Agency of Groveport. Insurance is optional with each student or family.

Employed three students for summer maintenance help.

Authorized two teachers to attend the National Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America Convention, July 9-13, at Roanoke, Virginia.

A Brighter Look At Tomorrow

Great Mail Robbery

Great things were expected with the reorganization of the United States Postal Service.

It appears that the greatest things to be realized so far are rate increases.

The premise that the Postal Service should strive for greater efficiency and at least a smaller deficit is well and good, but it appears the Postal Commission might just be pricing itself out of the business–and throwing the publishing world into bankruptcy.

The eight-cent stamp for first-class mail initiated last year was no pleasure to those using first-class mail regularly, and the persistent rumor that such stamps will be priced at 10 cents next year is bad news.

Yet, no business is likely to close its doors because of a 25 per cent hike in first-class mail rates.

Unfortunately, this is not true when the second-class hike anticipated to be authorized this month by the Postal Service governors goes into effect.

The Postal Rate Commission shaved down a recommened increase from $193.5 million to $172 million over the next five years.

But the ultimate increase is still a whopping 127 percent. Publishers ranging from giants such as Time Inc. to off-beat publications such as the Realist to apolitical periodicals such as the Cat Fancy Magazine are protesting to the high heavens.

Even Billy Graham, in behalf of the religious press, asks if the Post Office Department, in the name of economy, is attempting to "tax the exercise of religious freedom".

Only last year Congress issued a statement that the "The Postal Service shall have as its basic function the obligation to provide postal service to bind the nation together through the personal, educational, literary and business correspondence of the people."

Currently House Postal Service subcommittee hearings are underway in Washington. Publishers are lobbying for some Congressional brakes to be placed on the Postal Service before the concept that the cost of mail shall not be prohibitive is irretrievably lost.

How far can economy be touted before it becomes a greater problem than the deficit which the Postal Department annually rings up?

If a private industry announced, in the time of wage and price controls, it was more than doubling its prices the wrath of Washington–and labor would descend.

Somehow, the statements of the Postmaster General that such second-class mail rate hikes are required to put service on an equitable basis do not ring true.

The proposed rate increase would shove delivery costs for a half-pound magazine to more than a nickel a copy. Currently private enterprise is doing a nice job of delivering advertising and promotional materials at $33 a thousand items.

It can be assumed such firms are not in business on a non- profit basis.

Rather than routinely raising rates with the abandon of a compulsive gambler raising the ante in a poker game, could the Postal Department consider cost-saving procedures?

For example, just how important is it that residential mail be delivered daily? The world didn't fall apart when such delivery was cut from twice to once a day a few years ago.

History buffs may recall that the ill-fated Pony Express which operated just before the Civil War charged their customers $5 a letter. As might have been anticipated, the company was out of business in about 18 months.

In 1947 a three-cent stamp was issued commemorating the 100th anniversary of Joseph Pulitzer's birth.

It read, "Our Republic and its press will rise or fall together."

It would be fortunate if Morris Udall, of Arizona, who is presiding over the hearings in Washington this week, would weigh those words carefully.

BDC, Another Victim

The Blackman's Development Center in Columbus appears doomed to be written in those annals reserved to record the story of noble experiments that failed.

Failure is always dismal, but when that failure ends brilliant promise, it becomes tragic.

BDC failure in Columbus is particularly tragic because the local Center was regarded as a "valuable and legitimate drug treatment program for area residents" by the Franklin County Mental Health and Retardation Board.

The Center is the victim of alleged misuse of federal monies at the BDC Center in Washington D.C.

Actually, the local center has been tried and found guilty because of questionable action of an organization with which it has little in common other than a name.

The local Mental Health Board had little choice but to comply with the federal edict to write BDC out of its program. Failure to do so would sacrifice a $6.7 million grant which is earmarked to support the county's Comprehensive Drug Program.

This program involves the Open Door Clinic, the Ohio Bureau of Drug Abuse clinic, the Franklin County Mental Health Association and the Franklin County Settlement House Council.

Too much is at stake to refuse to jettison BDC.

Regrettable as the fate of BDC is, it might serve a useful purpose.

Model Cities should make particular note of this truth. The city probe by auditor Hugh Dorrian of a $68,700 survey brought out some figures that could cause some additional lid-flipping in Washington.

According to Dorrian's audit, Community Trainers Inc. of Cleveland charged Model Cities $79.69 each for 862 interviews with community residents to learn what they thought about the program.

As astronomical as this figure is (Gallup would have been out of business decades ago at this rate), the sub-contractor's fee appears even further out of this world.

The Pehnix Computer Co. contracted to handle the computerizing of the survey results for $21,000.

Even after the president of the company, Dr. H. Marks Richard of the OSU faculty, charged his company $7,000 for his services at the rate of $500 a day and rented 23 minutes of computer time from Ohio State (a total of $500.95) the company stood to make (before taxes) a 39 per cent profit on the face of the contract.

The probe makes it unlikely the fantastic profit will get beyond the paper stage since Dorian states the final payment will be withheld until the contract is renegotiated.

And a few thousand bucks down the drain really shouldn't make a ripple in the sea of funds that have gone into anti-poverty programs.

But it could be that type of thinking that led to Washington's BDC being caught with its audit down.

Newsman License

By JANE ROBINSON

Yet it remains valid, and could well be joined by a collary warning to the gullible–facts make news, but new s is not necessarily factual.

Literally millions of Americans (including, of course, Spiro Agnew) have been appalled to see the "Wonderful World of Color" splash the nation's T-V screens with the brilliant hues of distortion.

The brush used is that of political or philosophical bias and my spleen–for one–would rest more easily if I were assured my fellow viewers are not "color blind" and are consistently able to sort fact from fancy.

Furthermore, newspapers and news magazines are not lily-white in their presentation of current events. In addition to the pressures of publishers, journalists are as inclined to have as many opinions as "the man on the street" and often fail to confine these opinions to the editorial pages.

It is quite possible that some flagrant abuse of the privileges of the press triggered a state legislature to make the recent outrageous proposal that newsmen be licensed.

Although the frailities of the news media are self-evident, the idea of licensing those who report to the public on its government–by the government –is comparable to prescribing the guillotine for a headache.

Freedom of the press is constitutionally guaranteed, and the day that freedom is lost every U.S. citizen should go into mourning for the Fourth Estate.

The proposal to license newsmen is justified on the theory that standards of knowledge and performance should be set in journalism as in other professions such as law and medicine.

On the surface, this premise seems fair enough–although it discounts the fact that editors and station managers are notoriously intolerant when it comes to incompetence.

The hidden chancre of the proposal, however, is not on the surface, but lies in the threat of surveillance of the news by government.

It is the role of the press to be ever vigilant over those who, with legislative, executive and judicial powers, shape the common weal.

Were this role to be reversed, the press would merely be the instrument of the state. Behind the Iron Curtain this has become reality–and freedom of the press is a farce.

And it could happen here.

It can well serve to warn us all to be a little more objective and strive always to "tell both sides of the story" before we are irrevocably muzzled.

Where She Stops, Nobody Knows

Too Many Cooks

It has been stated that a society of angels would need a system of government to avoid chaos.

True as this may be, government has a tendency to propagate itself to the point it becomes a part of the problem rather than a solution.

Government has only one basic function–that of delivering services to the people. Today, the cost of these services in Ohio stand at record levels while the quality of the services remains, at best, on an even keel.

Gov. John Gilligan has turned up the fact that over the years the state has managed to create 366 separate geographic districts for administering various state programs.

But appalling as that figure is, it seems almost insignificant when it is considered that 3,200 units of local government have been established at the local level.

Each of the units operate through public funding and obviously the Ohio tax pie begins to crumble when it is sliced paper-thin.

Testimony to this is given with every financial crisis reported. Cities are bankrupt and counties flounder to keep afloat.

What's wrong?

Gov. Gilligan believes that there are too many cooks in the kitchen.

In an effort to save the broth he has created a commission on Local Government Services to study the structure of local government "with an eye toward updating and upgrading the service our citizens want and deserve."

He has charged the members with four specific tasks.

These involve evaluation of the present responsibility for delivering service at various governmental levels and the constitutional and legislative restraints presently limiting efficient performance, examination of local government's financial capabilities, and a study of the interrelationships of all government within the state.

In each charge he asks recommendations not merely for change, but for improvement.

The commission has a monumental job ahead, but no land is cleared until the first ax is swung.

If the Commission can chop the State of Ohio free of the bureaucratic maze that has sprung up over the years the act will be a new breed of ecology.

The financial resources of Ohio will be saved from the law of diminishing returns.

Xerox And Aspirin

Corporate headaches can reach vast proportions– and the Xerox Corporation has a Gargantuan one.

And, though we offer our sympathy and the analgesic at our disposal (cooperation), we certainly will not be heartless enough to suggest the company take an aspirin.

Such an offer would certainly send Xerox officials into the screaming meanies–because aspirin is part of the problem.

Not too many years ago Aspirin was a brand name until it became a part of the language. A headache pill and aspirin became synonmous, and Aspirin lost its Capital A and its original manufacturer lost its brand name.

Xerox is facing the same fate and is making a valiant struggle to retain its trademark.

Today, people are beginning to refer to any copy machine or the copies it reproduces as "Xeroxes." Bosses tell their secretaries to " have this Xeroxed" as glibly as they say "Bring me a couple of aspirin."

Xerox officials are entreating people to "copy" things and not to "Xerox " them, to make "copies" not "Xeroxes" and to make the copies on the "Xerox copier" not the "Xerox."

They claim the "Xerox" trade name used on everything the company makes (including textbooks and computers) is precious and people abuse can end in its loss.

When one thinks of how Aspirin became aspirin, it is easy to see why the company is claiming it has the biggest headache in the world.

Sometimes fame can become a migraine.

Confused, Will?

Will Rogers often claimed that all he knew was what he read.

Well, today the rough-hewn humorist might be confused just what to believe—if he read the mail that comes across an editor's desk.

One day recently we received a news letter from Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie directing attention to the "big news" on the food front.

Citing statistics from the Department of Agriculture, Wylie informed his readers retail food prices have dropped four percent since February and that the decline will continue.

He specifically quoted the Department in showing a stabilization in beef prices and a 14.4 percent drop in vegetable prices.

The same day the Ohio AFL-CIO publication "News and Views" arrived.

It was headlined "Food Prices to Go Up Higher."

Labeling the price controls as designed to hurt working families, the labor letter stated that food prices are expected to increase by four percent within the next few months.

Claiming that President Nixon has come up with more experiments than "a mad scientist trying to make his unacceptable formula a success", the AFL-CIO charges his ingredients have exploded and the Nixon economic controls are a failure.

The release ends on a note of woe that paychecks are frozen while food prices are not.

Now what would Will Rogers know after hearing from Mr. Wylie and the Ohio AFL-CIO?

'Pays Only Lip-Service'

To the Editor:

Governor Gilligan, having now accepted that which has not been offered to him (namely, the Democratic vice-presidential slot) will no doubt glory in his off-handed comparison of himself with Kennedy at a statehouse press conference last week.

Gilligan said he thought a McGovern-Kennedy ticket would be strong-but that he wasn't prepared to say it would be the strongest the Democrats could offer, which seems to mean that a McGovern-Gilligan ticket would be even stronger.

Senator Kennedy, "who would not exclude the possibility of accepting the vice-presidential nomination" has failed to mention Gilligan, for reasons which may follow Gilligan's endorsement of Muskie, or any one of a number of other Gilliganisms.

The problem is, of course, that Governor Gilligan pays only lip-service to the people of Ohio, while wildly seeking a chair in the White House. How can a man except to gain the respect of a nation, who has lost the respect of his state?

YOUTH Rostrum

IN WHAT WAYS HAS HIGH SCHOOL LIVED UP TO YOUR EXPECTATIONS? DO YOU FEEL GENERALLY HAPPY OR DISENCHANTED WITH YOUR EXPERIENCE? WHY?

This Week's Respondents:
Worthington High School

I am not really sure what being in high school is like: I feel as though I'm a member of a middle school or junior high school, instead of feeling like a member of the freshman class at Worthington High School. Since I am a freshman, I go to school in Kilbourne, which is located up Granville Road from the main campus. The attitude of some people is that since we're slightly separated from the main campus, we're not really part of the high school. Sometimes our class is excluded from assemblies and other activities because we're housed up the road. I hope since the bond levy has passed that the high school building will be expanded so that the freshman class will again become a true part of the high school. -JEFF BROWN.

High school has lived up to all my expectations It has given me a chance to broaden my social life and it has crammed a lot of facts and useful knowledge (or called that) into my head. I think Worthington High School is very education prone, in fact a little too much. The only real downfall is that the school doesn't think of us as human, we are just a punched out card. The school also doesn't trust any student which is wrong. They should give us a chance to prove ourselves. I am generally happy with my experiences as far as my living experiences as much or less than my learning experiences. I feel the high school needs improvement, but doesn't everything. - BETH OLMSTED

High school has been an exciting new experience. It was hard getting used to Kilbourne (the old building), and disappointing being separated from the high school. Being separated from the main campus made it harder to get used to high school life. The subject material has been more difficult, but it has also been more challenging. There are many different clubs and extracurricular activities to participate in. By particiating in these activities a sense of pride and class spirit develops. The fun, hard work, and excitement of performaning a musical concert, making an athletic team, participating in class elections and receiving academic honors have all helped to make mx first year of high school a memorable one. - LYNN STRATEMEYER

I expected high school to be basically the same, learning-wise, as the middle school. You would still have classes every hour, (except for lunch) and the format would be the same. But the outlook I had was that it would be a little bit more exciting and challenging. And it was. It was not just the everyday drab classes after class routine. It was different. You didn't get the feeling that today was the same as yesterday. There were some new activities going on almost every week. There were clubs and athletic activities after school and other various things. I agree that some days were pretty dull, but usually I enjoyed it. I think that next year when I am at the main high school, and mixed in with older classmen, I will like it even better. - KIM DEATON

Although I am a freshman, I don't feel as if I'm in high school. The only difference between this year and last is that I was able to choose my courses this year. The rules at Kilbourne are not the same as those at the main campus which I feel is unfair because they keep telling us "Even though you're not on the main campus, you're part of the high school." If the freshmen were down at the main campus, I doubt very seriously that there would be special rules for us. I for one am glad the bond issue passed, and hope that the future, when all four classes are "under one roof" the freshmen will be as equal as the rest. -BECKY RUPP

I can't say whether high school so far has proved to be enchanting or not, because since the freshmen are secluded from the main campus I don't feel like I am a part of the high school. The main campus and Kilbourne both have their own activities such as dances, football games, basketball games and wrestling matches. Kilbourne is not treated like a high school, but merely like a middle school. Even if I were part the high school, it would be hard for me to say whether I am enchanted with it or not, because after being in high school for only one year, and having three more years to go I don't have a very good picture in my mind of what it is really like. - PAM SUDDENDORF.

In life I have always expected there to be ups and downs. As I heard more and more about the high school, I thought that it was going to be a real let down, something that wasn't going to be any different or any fun. But I was wrong. To me high school is a really fun thing. Sure it is a lot of work but think of what I got out of all my work. In high school they teach us to think on our own. Instead of rushing into something, they teach us to investigate and put our ideas and thoughts together. People say it's too much work and that it's too time consuming. It's true, it is work, but isn't all of life hard work? If I don't get into the habit of hard work now, then I'll never get anywhere in life. Although I have only had one year of high school, I think it's pretty great. - JEFF SLIDER

Kilbourne has been an overall let down in the field of sports, my main concern. It has been a disgrace. The gym facilities are shabby and rundown. Although we had a good basketball team the conditions made us all start to hate the game. Opposing teams couldn't believe the locker rooms or even the gym compared to the new places all around the OCC. The baseball fields were a great improvement. But the uniforms were disgusting. The only matching things were the hats and we all had to buy those. We played the first half of the season with two or three unbroken bats, all the wrong sizes. I don't blame this at all on the coaches. If the athletic department weren't such penny pinchers, maybe Worthington sports could greatly improve at the ninth grade level. - J. THOMAS

High school has lived up to my minor expectations, such as difficult exams, one or two "unfeeling" teachers, and meeting new people. But my experiences as a freshman at Worthington High School has disenchanted me. Though separated from the upper three grades, we had crammed down our throats that freshmen were part of the high school. We were told freshmen could not have a smoking area nor use the smoking area on the main campus. As the high school newspaper was sold to freshmen, not one freshmen opinion appeared in that newspaper. And, though several freshmen were honored at a sports assembly held on the main campus, freshmen were not permitted to go. Are freshmen only parttime high school students? - STEPHANIE K. WHITE.

So far this year High School has not been one of my favorite experiences. Most of the teachers are expecting fantastic work, which most students are not able to do. They think only of themselves, and pile on homework, and give hard exams. Some teachers are expecting us to work every minute, and yet as soon as they have a chance, they count you down. There are few that don't. The teachers encourage us students to be inafter school activities and clubs, but we can not, because we get bogged down with homework, even on holidays. I feel that is pushing it too far. The freshmen are expected to be part of the actual High School. The teachers, supervisors, and upper classmen tell us we are, but do not treat us that way. For example, the sports awards were given at the High School. A few freshmen received awards, but the actual freshmen class was not allowed to attend the awards assembly. Sometimes I really wonder if we are really part of the High School. - JAN EHOMAN

Bexley Playground News

CASSINGHAM

Cassingham Playground had over 130 participants register for playground activities the first few days. Wednesday evening the kids participated in a playground clean up. All who participated in the clean up received candy prized.

Sign up for inter-playground competition in girls softball, boys whiffleball and basketball, and co-ed volleyball.

A family volleyball night will be started on Thursday, June 22 and will continue throughout the summer on Thursday evenings. Come to the playground for more information.

The Kassingham Kids have begun preparing for Marathon Day (June 23rd). The "Kids" will be tie dying their shirts and sign up for the Marathon activities.

MARYLAND

Maryland Playground was in full swing as they registered over 100 kids. Under the expert direction of Coach Cindy Conley, the kick ball team survived a four run rally in the last inning to defeat the Cassingham team 10-7.

Larry Wilson swept the 10-lap marathon and the drag races on Bike Day last Thursday. Charlie Salva drove the "pace car", a red 1969 tricycle!

Thursday, June 22 is the date set for the playground Bake Sale. The proceeds will be used toward the 4th of July Float.

Wednesday's Scavenger Hunt will begin at 7 p.m. The kids will be knocking on doors in the Maryland area to collect uncanny articles of all sorts. Your cooperation is welcomed.

Monday, June 26th there will be a bubble-gum blowing contest at 6 p.m. Parents are expected to compete in this nostalgic event, as well as the kids.

Girls' softball teams (ages 9-15) will begin playing the week of the 26th, also.

MONTROSE

The first week with the Montrose gang was great fun, with over 100 registered the first three days. Leaders Mike and Patti are already looking forward to a fun-filled summer. First week events included a car wash (courtesy of Bexley Humble) with all the kids joining in and helping as best they could (soap, soap everywhere). We thank all who brought in their cars, as the money will be used to help defray cost of the 4th of July float.

Friday night was the family picnic and featured a kickball game with the parents vs. the kids, and lots of fried chicken.

Monday was the playground Bake Sale, always a big success, and Tuesday night we tie-dyed our tee shirts for the Marathon Day contests on June 23rd. Marathon Day featuresunusual games and contests with teams from each playground competing for the trophy, and will be held at Jeffrey Park starting at 10 AM. Let's make Montrose No. 1!

Thursday, June 22 we will have another car wash at Humble Station at 3 p.m. - bring in your dirty cars!

ACT II By BETTY DRAGONETTE

During the annual picnic of the Verse Writers Guild of Ohio last Sunday I had an opportunity to talk with Sharon Wesner, "Woman Of The Year In The Arts" in Columbus. I knew that she had just had her paintings on display, along with many other well-known artists, at Lazarus and was featured at Giftland in Graceland Shopping Center during their recent sidewalk art show, so I asked her what else was new.

She told me she is currently working on paintings for the Ohio State Fair art contest, the July 4th Bexley Area Art Guild Show and an August show in Chicago. In addition she has just had poetry accepted for publication in "Reach Out" magazine and the "Dream Shop", the Verse Writers Guild publication.

How did she get to be so well known and sought after? Was it luck? Was it skill? Or just plain talent? Well talent is a big part of it, but it took years of study, too. She spent several summers on the East Coast and studied with such well known water colorists as John Pike, Edgar Whitney and Don Stone.

In her spare time she is raising her five children and being a wife to Columbus attorney, Arthur G. Wesner. Now come on girls, when you say you know you had hidden talent, but just don't have time to develop it, think of Sharon. Let's get out there and show our men we have what it takes to be interesting and exciting.

around town

CONDUCTED BY ROLAND SUNKER

SHERATON AIRPORT INN

Here is some of that big news I have been telling you that is going on in good old Columbus town. The very popular Scratch Pestano, one of the few impressarios remaining in the business in these parts, is now food and beverage manager of the Sheraton Airport Inn. This means that Scratch is in charge of all aspects of food, service, drinks and most of all, entertainment at the Sheraton Airport Inn.

With only a week or so under his belt, he has already brought change one can see. First, the food is much better. Secondly, the night I was there, there were people in the lounge past mid-night. And, I don't mean just two or three.

Part of the reason for this is a gal entertainer Scratch has booked. Her name is Martha Potter, a girl with a very lilting voice who accompanies herself on the quitar.

Martha is able to entertain and hold a crowd. With those credentials, you know she has to be good. In my opinion, Martha is just what the doctor ordered for the cocktail lounge of the Sheraton Airport Inn. Martha is both a fine vocalist and guitarist. Her musical library consists of basically folk and pop, including a few nice things she has written herself.

If you are looking for an intimate lounge that has plenty of swinging type people, take my advice and drop in soon at the Sheraton Airport Inn. You'll love everything about it.

HOLIDAY DRIVE-IN THEATRE

This Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday Columbus' most beautiful drive-in theatre, The Holiday Drive In Theatre will be celebrating it's first anniversary. And what a celebration have they planned.

On Thursday, Dan Immell will make a personal appearance and sign autographs. The rest of the days will find your favorite personality from WRFD, WMNI and WCOL. They all will be mixing with the customers. Here is a chance to meet your favorite radio personality and get his autograph.

Also, every one attending will recieve a free anniversary present, different ones for the men and women. Candy will be given to the kiddies, and everyone gets a piece of anniversary cake.

Then on Friday and Saturday, there is to be a big firework display...

So, make sure you plan to attend one or two evenings this week and join in all the festivities. You can't go wrong, in my opinion, when you visit the Holiday Drive In Theatre. It has the largest screen, and in general the nicest set up of any drive-in you ever want to attend anywhere.

CHARLESTON CLUB

For something a little different in the way of night clubs, drop in some evening to the Charleston Club, 279 S. High St. Hal Case, the genial owner and operator is no newcomer to the night life scenes. His club reflects this.

Hal, who is an "ole time", showman, is still an outstanding organist. With the Charleston Club, Hal mixes a little of the old with a little of the new. Occasionaly Hal will knock out a few hot numbers at the electric organ. Then, it is show time. This is when a bevy of sharp appearing gals mount the stage and begin to dance.

Now, for some reason, I have to believe you men will enjoy this more than the fairer sex. You just wait until you see Kathy, Francetti or Linda do their thing. You'll get the message real fast.

All in all, The Charleston Club is quite different from most of the spots Around Town. Stop in, it's a great change of pace in your entertainment menu.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

For a long time I have been telling you about Petty's Restaurant. Right now they are in the process of remodeling the exterior of their place. You had better look twice, or you won't recognize it when you drive pass it. But, for a moment, let me tell you something else about the Petty family, that I am sure their many friends would be interested. Last Saturday, their daughter Mary Ann was married to Robin Whitmer. After the ceremony at St. Agnes Church, a very royal reception was held in the social room of the St. Agnes school. Wow, what a reception. It consisted of a sit-down dinner for about two hundred people. Believe me, it was truly a feast including champagne and wine, plus an orchestra for dancing. It was one of the most beautiful and most elegant wedding receptions I have ever attended. A few paragraphs ago I told you about the Sheraton Airport Inn. If nothing I told you about the place interests you, I know you men will fly out there after you get a look at Vicky the cocktail waitress. She is a 5'8" blond beauty with a movie star figure that reads like some thing right out of Playboy Magazine, 39-25-36. What a great personality, too. Pilots love to be grounded at Port Columbus...Habeeba is back in town. Yep, the famous princess Habeeba, of belly dancing fame, is back on the Columbus night scene after seven months absence. Good to see you, Princess...The Time Out is not Jim Otis' Time Out anymore. It seems he fumbled the ball once to often. Jack Hall is heading up the operation. So, it is now referred to as Jack Hall's Time Out. The place is better than ever. Watch for the opening of the Patio real soon. This will be a pleasant innovation for The Time Out. Many, many more good things are planned for the Time Out by Jack Hall...As I have been telling you the past couple of weeks, things are changing around with clubs, owners and managers. You read it all first in The Spectator Newspaper.

Scioto Tops Early Legion Standings

The 12th District American Legion baseball program kicked off its '72 home-and-home schedule last week, with eight teams of Central Ohio's top schoolboy performers battling for four spots in the upcoming District tournament.

Sunday's games found Scioto edging Don Gentile Post 4-3 in 11 innings. Meanwhile, Southway clobbered Worthington 10-1 and Grove City topped Arlington 5-3 to stay only a half game off the pace.

Whitehall capitalized on 10 hits and eight London errors to post a 5-1 victory in the other contest.

Both Bexley Loops Feature Early Two-Way Deadlocks

OLD TIMERS

Two of the week's three battles were about as close as possible, with Central Ohio Welding and Salt Realtors emerging victorious in the squeakers to share the loop lead at 2-0.

COW got by Christ Lutheran Church 14-12 behind Chet Kosiuk's five-hit batting performance. Five of his teammates chipped in three safeties apiece, and four Lutheran players did likewise.

SALT REVERSED the slugfest trend with a 5-4 defensive beauty over the Pussycats. John Jones paced the winners with three hits, Larry Metz and John Pearson got three apiece for the 'Cats.

The other Old Timers saw Susil Construction smack Dollar Federal 13-2, with Roger Ruth's three base hits leading the way.

Milo-Roc Leaders Spotless

T. A. T. Pizza and Rick's Car Wash kept their slates clean through last week's Milo-Roc Mendel baseball battling, to hang onto their leads in the major and minor divisions respectively.

In the Major loop, T. A. T. handled Beck Masonry 9-3, then bombed Tommy's Pizza 12-0 extend its unbeaten string to eight games and build a commanding three game bulge.

ELSEWHERE, Steve Williard pitched Tommy's to a 6-3 verdict over Rick's; Beck Masonry rebounded with a 6-5 extra-inning win over Liv-Moor; and Carl Turbett pitched Convenient Foods to a 5-1 triumph over Liv-Moor with three-RBI batting assistance from Clay Courtney.

MINOR LEAGUE ACTION found Rick's Car Wash demolishing the junior T. A. T. entry 17-3, then coming back to handle Convenient Foods 7-2 behind a terrific one-man show by Tommy Richenbacker.

Rickenbacker smacked a single, double and triple to pace his club's offense—and struck out 11 Convenient batters while picking up the mound verdict. It was win number seven without a setback for Rick's.

In other minor loop activity during the week, Tommy's edged T. A. T. 6-5, Beck Masonry out-slugged the Milo-Roc Buckeyes 19-5, and Liv-Moor downed the Buckeyes again in a real hit parade 21-11.

Hitting star for the week was Dave Hale of Beck Masonry—who had two doubles and two triples in his team's victory.

Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

CUBBYHOLE COOKING

By MYRNA MCCAULEY

'Bachelor' Suppers

I come from a family of male cooks myself. My father was a chef and my three brothers cook, so I have never been impressed by master chef feats.

We figured, if you liked to eat (whatever your gender) you ought to know a thing or two about food. And apparently others agree, because some of the best recipes in my collection come from men.

A FOR-INSTANCE. Here is a recipe for speedy spaghetti sauce from a bachelor friend who cooks in a dime-sized kitchenette and believes in the wonder of wine. You brew the sauce while the spaghetti cooks and it will taste as though it simmered all afternoon.

BACHELOR SPAGHETTI & SAUCE

½ cup uncooked spaghetti
¼ lb. ground beef
7½ oz. can spaghetti sauce with meat
Thyme, oregano, salt, pepper
2 oz. can (or less) mushroom stems and pieces
Splash of dry vermouth
Catsup (optional)
Chopped parsley, fresh or dried (optional)

Prepare spaghetti as directed on package. At the same time, brown beef in skillet, breaking it up as finely as possible and seasoning with thyme, oregano, salt and pepper to taste. Add other ingredients, plus whatever extra seasonings you like.

Simmer as long as convenient, or until consistency suits you. Use more vermouth, if necessary, to thin it down. (Also for warming up any leftover portion.) Makes one generous serving.

YOU CAN, of course, use traditional red wine instead of dry vermouth. The advantage in using vermouth is that an opened bottle of vermouth does not turn sour the way table wine can when left to stand.

While cooking with vermouth, try a little "on the rocks." Or, pour yourself a "half-and-half" vermouth cocktail – with equal parts of dry and sweet vermouth. The cook deserves a little reward, right?

Now that things are underway, get out the Parmesan cheese for the spaghetti and toss together a salad. For dessert, my friend who likes wine pours a jigger of port over half a grapefruit and lets it chill in the refrigerator while enjoying his dinner.

ANY FRESH fruit will make a happy ending, too. Or maybe you have some ice cream in the freezer; that's good, also, for finishing the meal.

From the same bachelor's kitchen comes this recipe for a pork chop supper, the whole meal done in a skillet.

BACHELOR PORK CHOP SUPPER

2 medium-sized pork chops
Salt and pepper
Thyme
8 oz. can stewed tomatoes
¾ tsp. sweet basil
¼ cup converted rice

Brown pork chops in nine-inch frying pan. Season with salt, pepper and generous amount of thyme. Add tomatoes and basil and, if necessary, enough water to make about ½ inch of liquid in pan. Bring liquid to a boil; turn heat to low, cover pan and cook for 15 minutes.

Place rice in liquid, recover and cook until rice is done, 20 to 25 minutes. (With a little practice you will learn to adjust the quantities of liquid and rice so there is just enough of each to cook the rice perfectly.)

WHILE THE pork chops cook, sit down and enjoy a glass of good Spanish sherry. After dinner, congratulate yourself on having just one pan to wash.

Naturally, the above recipes are equally good for the bachelorette kitchenette. Or, if you feel like socializing, double the ingredients and invite a friend for supper.

'Good Guy' Instinct Wins. Wallet Home

Spectator advertising salesman Terry Hein proved that "honesty is the best policy" last week when he parted with a $50-plus "find." Hein, while motorcycling near the East Side apartment of General Manager Don Dorsten, discovered a wallet which contained $50. in cash and several credit cards.

Hein's "good guy" instinct won over and the wallet, cash, et al are back in the possession of John C. Crnkovich of Coventry Apartments.

At Home On The Range

By ELEANOR JOSEPH

I have finally come to the conclusion what being a mother is all about. Taking care of children, feeding, clothing and supplying support to all their efforts is merely incidental to the main object of motherhood.

The true mother is a tracer of lost things. No one could possibly find anything without asking Mom.

I know! Every morning there is a dialogue similar to this.

"Where are my shoes?" How can anyone lose shoes!

"Where is my English Composition book?" Left in the car overnight.

The big question usually is, "Where are my glasses?" That is a real treasure hunt. Glasses can manage to be anywhere. One time my son lost his glasses on the sidewalk near a main street. Fortunately, the postman found them. His name was on the stem and the kind mailman remembered who we were and brought them home. No wonder everyone keeps bumping into things!

Losing things is not confined to small children. My college boy lost two winter coats this year. I feel this is some sort of a record. I couldn't even find them.

Gloves have a life of their own-one always leaves of its own accord to visit friends and never comes back again.

I feel very loved and wanted because I know without my finding things in the morning no one would start the day.

If I could find a piece of paper, I could make a shopping list and start my day.

The following recipe for Chili is especially good. I made it recently and I forgot to put in the chili powder and it still was very tasty.

CHILI

Brown one pound ground beef. Add one cup diced onion, one clove garlic, chopped fine, ½ cup green pepper diced, and cook until onions are transparent. Add two cups canned tomatoes, chili powder to taste, two tablespoons cold water, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce (which have been mixed.) Cover and simmer one hour. Add one can drained kidney beans and cook one hour uncovered.

1970 Census Of Housing Reveals County Figures

The 1970 Census of Housing counted 271,240 housing units in Franklin County, and 253,266 households had at least one television set (173,743 UHF-equipped), the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, announced this week. The figures are from the first report for Ohio which presents detailed statistics on housing for each county.

The report shows that in the county:

There were 97,120 housing units with air conditioning (55,016 with room units and 42,104 with a central system), 196,388 units with a clothes washing machine, 152,523 with a clothes dryer, and 63,203 with a dishwasher.

A total of 120,537 housing units were built before 1949, 64,822 during the 1950's, 43,274 during 1960-64, and 42,567 within the five years preceding the April 1970 census.

Utility gas was used to cook the meals in 149,999 households, electricity in another 102,578, and bottled, tank, or LP gas in yet another 6,095.

There was 268,270 housing units with complete kitchen facilities and 263,660 with complete bathrooms, both for the exclusive use of the households. The number of bedrooms is all housing units ranged from none (in 4,328 units) and one (in 37,138 units) to four or more (in 33,587 units).

Owners occupied 150,694 units, renters 100,627 units, and a total of 11,869 units were vacant year round with 1,690 for sale and 7,898 for rent.

Copies of the report, Detailed Characteristics, 1970 Census of Housing, Ohio, HC (1)-B37, are available for $3.75 each from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from U.S. Department of Commerce field offices located in major cities.

Vocation Education Conference Subject

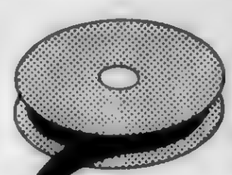
A public meeting of the Ohio Advisory Council for Vocational Education will be held Tuesday, June 27, starting at 9 a.m. at the Holiday Inn, Worthington.

The purpose of the annual open meeting is to give any member of the general public an opportunity to express his views and concerns regarding vocational education, according to Joseph A. Hall, chairman of the Council.

Hall urged individuals and representatives of organizations to attend the meeting, express criticisms and offer constructive suggestions for the improvement of vocational education in the state.

There are 23 representatives of Ohio industry, labor, education, agriculture and the public serving on the Ohio Advisory Council, which is authorized by Congress and appointed by the State Board of Education. It serves in an advisory capacity to the State Board of Education, evaluates the effectiveness and progress of Ohio's vocational education, makes recommendations and submits reports to the U.S. Office of Education.

Unique Organ On Display



A revolutionary new computer organ that can bring the sounds of great pipe organs into the church, auditorium or home will be demonstrated at the Center of Science and Industry, 280 East Broad St., Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25.

The most unusual aspect of the organ is its ability to transpose all 12 chromatic steps of the scale by simply turning a knob. This effects immediate transposition, a process highly useful if the organ is used with singers. Also sounds, not originally built into the organ, may be added by inserting a computer program card into a slot.

Demonstration times are 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., both Saturday and Sunday.

FIELD DRILLS, FORCED MARCHES AT END?

OSU Team Hopes To Rewrite Military PT (Gasp) Programs

Four Ohio State University researchers–two professors and two graduate students–left for the Naval Air Training base at Pensacola, Fla. last week to try out a revolutionary new physical training program on Naval Air Cadets.

If the tests are successful–and indications are that they will be–traditional military training programs such as the forced march and the four-hour field drill may cease to exist, replaced by a simple, efficient and quick physical training process known as "interval training program" (ITP).

THE RESEARCHERS will study two groups of men at Pensacola. Working with the Naval Aerospace Medical Institute, the OSU team will put one group through a specially designed ITP program, the other through the regular Navy system of physical training.

Sophisticated techniques will be used to monitor muscular development, both chemically and physically.

Dr. Donald K. Mathews, director of the research program, said that after reduction of data, the Ohio State researchers will prepare a manual containing scientific guidelines for conditioning men. He considers it likely that the Navy and Marine Corps will adopt this annual and that the other services will follow suit.

IN ADDITION to the benefits of perfect conditioning in short periods of time (four hours of exercise in seven weeks yielded a mean 60 percent increase in work capacity), the ITP system provides a means for keeping fit in confined spaces such as submarines and small surface ships without the use of any equipment.

Of course, ITP could be just as readily adaptable to the harried businessman with not time left for jogging and the urban apartment dweller with no place to exercise.

ITP training also conditions a person to work in the heat. It provides a higher tolerance for work both in high temperatures and also in high energy work, such as football training or boot camp conditioning.

ITP WORKS through rapid and intense exercise which develops the body's ability to produce chemcial energy for the muscles. The source of this chemical energy is called ATP or, properly, adenosine triphosphate.

Basically, ATP is like a supply of coal for a steamship. As long as there is plenty of coal available for the boilers, the ship will run properly. When the ship steams at high speed, more coal is needed, and when the coal is exhausted, the ship stops.

The body works in a similar way. It must have ATP to power its muscles. When the production of ATP is no longer equal to the consumption, the body becomes exhausted and stops also.

ATP, THE fuel that powers the body's muscles, can be produced in three ways. One of them is an oxygen chain which converts glucose (sugar) into the ATP molecules. The other two are anaerobic, that is, they do not need oxygen to function.

These latter two systems are the energy systems the body uses for quick bursts of speed, such as running a short sprint or swinging a baseball bat. Because these actions need instantaneous energy, the two quick anaerobic systems are used.

These systems are very fast, but are also very inefficient. The third system, the oxygen system, is used for longer tasks, such as a long walk or a more extended run (above 200 yards).

SINCE THESE operations last longer, the slower but more efficient oxygen system can take over. Anyone who has run very hard can remember how strongly his body worked to breathe in as much air as possible, even after the exercise was over. It was bringing in as much oxygen as possible to manufacture more energy fuel, ATP.

ITP makes use of rapid and intense exercise, performed at precisely monitored intervals. This regimen strengthens the body's two anaerobic chains (the ones that don't require oxygen) to a degree that the potential production of ATP is greatly increased.

In an earlier controlled experiment, the OSU researchers tested three groups of men. The first participated only in normal recreational activities. The second performed Army ROTC field manual physical training (including forced marches) and the third group used only ITP training.

AT THE end of seven weeks, the field manual group which exercised for 30 hours, was clearly superior to the recreation group, but the ITP group was clearly superior to the field manual group, despite the fact that the total exercise time for the ITP group was only four hours for the seven-week period. Mean work capacity for the ITP group increase 60 percent.

The tests showed also that point of diminishing return can be reached in physical conditioning. Under the ITP program, exercising four or more times per week didn't appreciably improve conditioning more than exercising twice a week.

Once training was stopped, the twice-a-week trainees retained their conditioning as well as the four-per-week group.

CHIEF BENEFITS of the ITP program, according to Dr. Mathews, are that stress can be controlled precisely, the approach is systematic and day-to-day progress is easily observed, more rapid improvement in energy potential is possible than in other forms of conditioning, and the program can be performed in a short amount of time virtually anywhere.

BETTING 'MYTHS' SHATTERED

Survey Tabs Gambling 'The Major U.S. Business'

A bet at the races, a neighborhood bingo game, a Saturday night poker session--all may seem relatively insignificant at the time, but an Ohio State University survey of gambling behavior (with the help of the Gallup Organization) indicates that gambling, legal and illegal, has become "the major American business."

THE FIRST gambling study to be conducted on a national scale states, "If the commission's (President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice) lowest estimate of profits from illegal gambling ($6 billion) is accurate, this means that, for every hour of the day, over $685,000 (untaxed dollars) is going to organized crime from illegal gambling profits.

"Furthermore, it has also been estimated that roughly one-third of these profits is used as bribes, political contributions, blackmail, etc., by illegal gambling promoters to further their activities. This is exactly half of the total cost of our entire criminal justice system."

The survey also said one out of every three American adults gambles once a month and that, based on the conservative $6 billion total, each person spends about $43 each year gambling.

THE GALLUP Organization used a national probability sample of 300 interviewing areas, including both rural and urban. About 1600 adults were questioned.

Recognizing a problem in the sampling procedure, the OSU survey reported, "Since gambling could be a legally self-incriminating act, it is expected that a certain portion of sampling bias would be introduced by the non-responses.

"From the total survey sample of 1,600 individuals, 599 respondents would not answer the question concerning their gambling activities. Therefore, no information on the gambling behavior of approximately 37 percent of the random sample is available."

THE SURVEY concluded that people in their twenties gamble more than any other age group. And while gambling behavior knows no occupational boundaries, individuals in high and low social classes report more gambling than those in the middle class.

"Middle class people tend to stick to social norms, while upper and lower class people are willing to put forth a minimum of effort for the possibility of 'getting something for nothing,'" the survey report added.

The study refuted the notion that most people gamble to win money. Instead, it revealed that most gamblers are attracted to the "underlying challenge." In other words, most view it as a sporting proposition, rather than a business.

THE SURVEY shattered a few more commonly accepted gambling myths. It continued: "The study does not full support the common contention that an individual's propensity to gamble is determined by the available licensed gambling facilities.

"We found that gambling in this country is predominantly channeled through informal occasions such as betting with friends and relatives. It was found that less than 30 percent of gambling money was spent in licensed or charitable gambling occasions.

"IT IS NOT true that the individual's propensity to gamble is greater in those regions where gambling is licensed. Instead, the high propensity to gamble was found in the Middle Atlantic areas."

About 56 percent of the people in the Middle Atlantic states gamble, the study indicated. Followed by 45 percent in the Rocky Mountain region (which includes Nevada).

About 41 percent of the people in the Pacific states gamble, 36 percent in the West Central region, 34 percent in the Southwest, 30 percent in the East Central states, 28 percent in New England, and 24 percent in the Deep South.

ACROSS the nation, the survey showed that card games accounted for more than half the total money wagered, with sporting events and horse racing accounting for another 22 per cent.

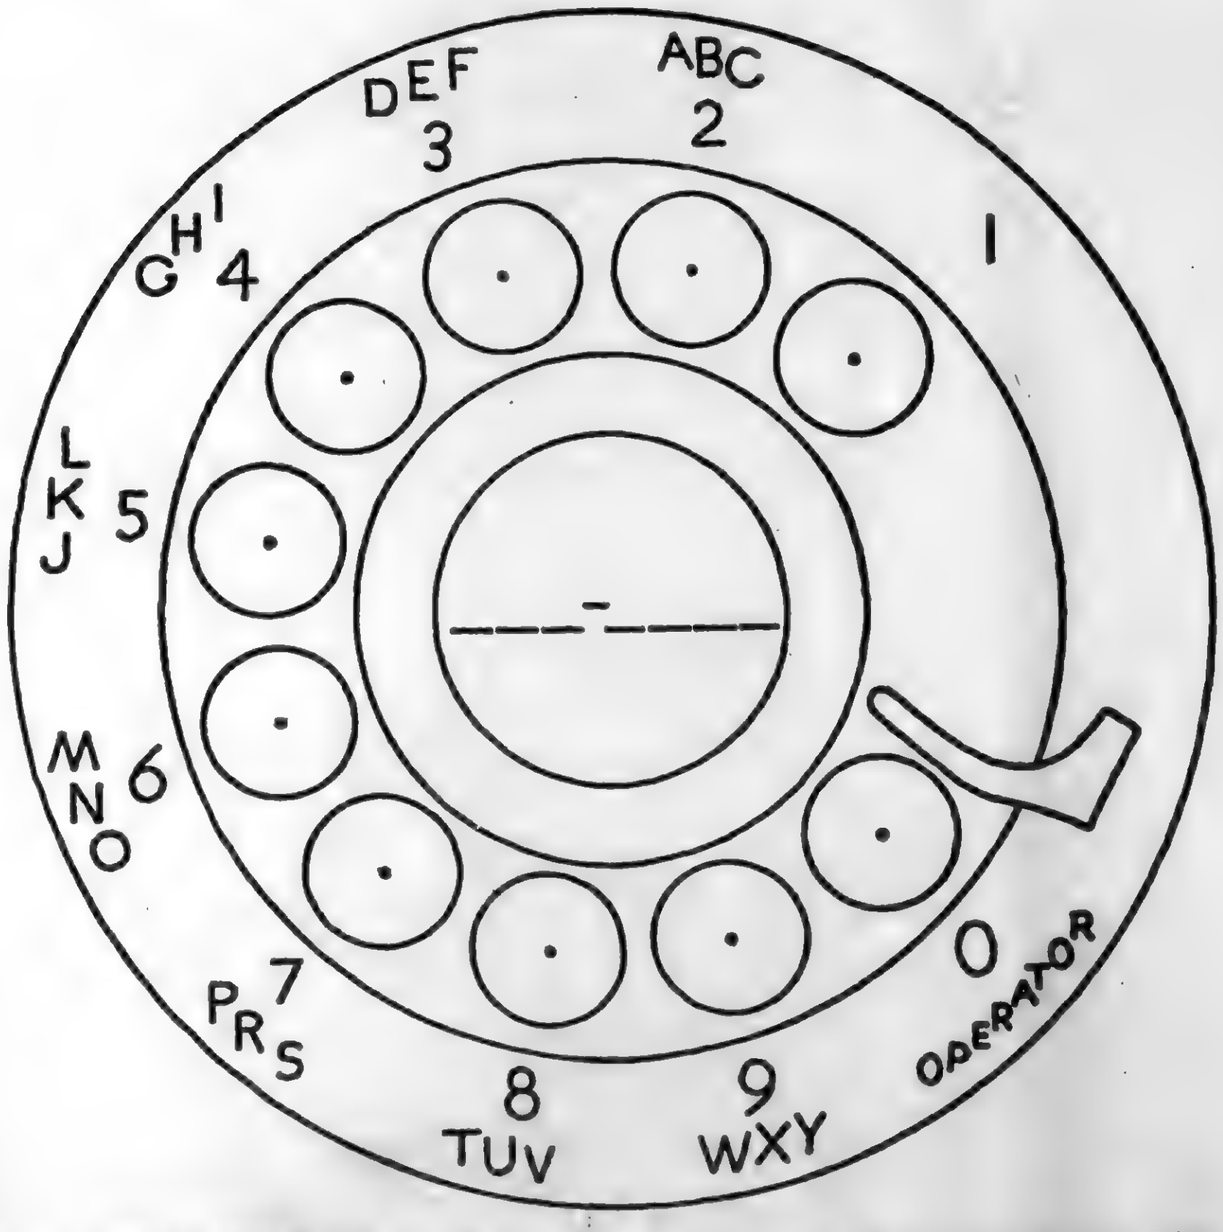
Third Concert At Schiller Park



The third concert at Schiller Park will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday June 25, featuring a symphony orchestra instead of the usual band program.

D.T. (Tom) Crawshaw, 109 S. Burgess Ave., music supervisor for the Columbus Recreation Department will be the conductor. James Mason, baritone, will be the soloist. Crawshaw has planned a program based on "Stories and Legends" in music.

Due to remodeling of the permanent bandstand at Schiller, this concert will be presented in the west end of the park. People attending should bring folding chairs or blankets with them.

These concerts are offered without charge to the public by the Columbus Federation of Musicians and the Columbus Recreation Department.

IN 15 MINUTES, YOU CAN TEACH YOUR KIDS A LESSON THEY'LL NEVER FORGET.

The day your little boy or girl is old enough to go out and play, is the day your child is old enough to go out and get lost.

They think Daddy's name is Daddy. And they might even know what street they live on. But that's not much to go on.

If, however, you teach your kids their telephone number, they can never be lost.

It takes only a few minutes. And it might save a lot of worry and heartache later on.

You might also want to show them how to dial "operator" in case of emergency. And have them carry a dime for emergency calls.

Of course, it's always a good idea to jot down emergency numbers and leave them by the phone for the babysitter.

Ohio Bell also helps schools set up courses in telephone use and etiquette.

But if your children are not yet school age, maybe a little homework is in order.

PROBLEMS POSED WITH SALT LOSS

Loss of salt through heavy perspiration in hot weather can pose special problems for people with circulatory disorders, says the Central Ohio Heart Chapter.

EXERCISE HELPS HEART

Exercise improves the heart's efficiency, the Central Ohio Heart Chapter points out. The athlete's heart pumps more blood with fewer, but stronger, strokes per minute than the inactive person's heart.

'The Kings Of Craftown'

If the face on the business side of the counter at Craftown Hobby Shop, 7170 E. Main St., Reynoldsburg looks a little young to be "minding the store", you're in for a bit of a surprise.

You see, he's not simply "minding the store", he's "running" the store.

WHEN DR. John Paul King purchased the Craftown Hobby Shop it was his intention to put the business in all his family's names.

However, Dr. King was informed when purchasing the vendor's license that there was not enough space for all nine names. So the business was placed in the names of two of the children—14-year-old Brian and 12-year-old Frances.

While youngsters of their age are normally running lemonade stands, delivering papers or mowing lawns, Brian and Frances have not only gained the respect of their customers but earned a position in the business community.

THE CRAFTOWN Hobby Shop is located in Reynoldsburg's Kingscourt Medical Center and features a complete line of hobby and craft items.

Included are models of all types of cars, planes, tanks, boats, trains and rockets - plus extensive model accessories such as glues, paints, balsa wood, rocket motors and airplane engines and fuels.

Craft items include candles, paint sets, science projects and chemicals, beads, paints and assorted hobby kits.

BRIAN primarily waits on customers and consults as an expert in the model-building end of the business. An avid model-builder himself, he can answer almost any question concerning the models on hand.

Frances, meanwhile, takes care of all the bookwork, trips to the bank and all other associated business chores. When counter activity gets harried, however, she uses her familiarity with store stock to help out with customers.

You are also likely, on occasion, to see some of the other King children, Dr. King himself and part-time clerk, Mr. Lipari, on duty.

KEEPER-OF-THE-BOOKS Frances feels the business has good economic potential and feels that growth will continue.

Already business-sharp at age 12, she says she plans to stick with the business "as long as it's profitable.

"It cuts into my leisure time quite a bit," she admits, "but I really don't mind because I enjoy it so much."

BRIAN, HOWEVER, is a little less philosophical about the business. "I just like working with all the models," he states.

HOWEVER, the fact that they treat their customer's like "kings" at Craftown Hobby Shop might have something to do with it.

'Enjoy Now -- Pay (Ouch) Later'

THESE TWO adventure-some youngsters obviously have been influenced by the modern-day lure of "Enjoy Now, Pay Later" as they stave off an early summer heat by cooling themselves rather unceremoniously in a large-but-convenient mud puddle. Even though the scene might be nostalgicly reminiscent of Tom Sawyer and Huckelberry Finn, it would seem safe to anticipate that the "cooling off" period was but brief consolation for a "warmer" -- and likely more memorable -- experience when the two devil-may-care companions wended their seperate ways home. Polarized Board Tables $89.5 Million Bond Issue

The resolution necessary to place an $89.5 million Columbus Public School bond issue on the November ballot was tabled yesterday.

The action came when the polarized board failed to compromise its differences on the matter of integrated education.

The issue which board members have half-heartedly attempted to keep from public view surfaced when Dr. Watson Walker offered an amended version of the proposal made by Dr. John Ellis, superintendent, for a statement affirming the board's commitment to integrated education.

The statement prepared by the superintendent read:

"It shall be the goal of the Columbus Public Schools to make available integrated educational experiences for all students; therefore, the Board of Education and administration shall reflect that goal in the enactment of policy and in administrative action."

This statement had been hammered out at a marathon meeting at the home of Board President Tom Moyer Monday night.

Dr. Walker left the meeting after three and one half hours and before it was finalized and Mrs. Marie Castleman, another black member of the board is reported to "have walked out" shortly thereafter.

However, the white members of the board (Moyer, Mrs. Virginia Prentice, Mrs. Marilyn Reddon and Paul Langdon apparently believed Dr. David Hamlar, the third black, had agreed to the wording.

As a two-thirds majority is required by law on financial issues, five votes were necessary to ballot the bond issue.

At three Tuesday afternoon Walker's alternative statement was hand delivered to each board member.

It deviated from that presented by Dr. Ellis only up to the phrase, "It shall be the goal."

The amended part read:

"We support the goal of integrated education as a modern day, moral approach in a heterogeneous society to achieve equal opportunity to quality education for all children. Such a goal should not imply massive or mandatory busing."

This amendment was voted down with four white votes.

Dr. Hamlar then moved to substitute the word "provide" for "make available" in the original resolution.

Dr. Walker joined the four whites on the board to vote this change down. Discussion indicated that "provide" implies mandatory integration to the board and that "make available" implies voluntary registration.

With guards against open devisiveness down, the black block proceeded to vote against the white block on the resolution to certify the estimated life of this bond.

However, as a simple majority was adequate to carry this resolution, it passed. A second certification, not requiring a vote, also became a matter of record.

Before the third resolution requiring five votes was tabled, it was evident the blocks were immovable, and Moyer joined Mrs. Castleman, Hamlar and Walker to table.

Prior to the vote, Langdon stumped for immediate action on the bond issue, emphasizing that inflation (since the bond issue of 1969 was defeated) has already cost the taxpayer about $20 million. Further delay, he states, will mean one per cent per month in increased costs.

The general concensus of the blacks was summed up by Mrs. Castleman who stated she could not commit herself to a bond issue presented by a board not committed to integrated education.

One evidence of the efforts at compromise that have already been made was seen in the report by Dr. Ellis that four changes have been made in the construction proposal since its presentation last month.

The four changes involve a new site for Franklin Junior High which is more adaptive to integration, extending the boundaries of a new Douglas Elementary (established as a Developmental Learning Center) to bring about better socio - economic - racial balance; bringing the proposed career centers out from the fringes of the district to make them more available to the inner city, and to similarly change the site of the school proposed for crippled children.

Moyer, following the tabling of the bond issue pointed to the irony of the fact that basically each member of the board wants the same thing--quality education for every child.

The matter can not be considered again until the next regular meeting.

According to Dr. Ellis there is still time for a compromise to be worked out as the deadline for certification is July 20.

The meeting not only ended badly, but the opening had not been one of harmony.

Mrs. Thelma Craven had appeared as a spokesman for parents whose community near Westerville has been transferred from the Westerville District to that of Columbus. (The area in question had previously been annexed to the city, but had remained in the Westerville attendance area.)

Mrs. Craven indicated Columbus Schools was hard-pressed to accomodate its present enrollment and was not in the position to seek additional student population.

She also stated the move was one designed only to compensate Columbus Schools for the relatively low tax duplicate of the Mifflin schools which it has absorbed.

On the other hand, she charged that the children in her particular residence area would be only a liability to Columbus as they brought no industry with them.

Moyer indicated the board's appreciation of the parents' position, but stated that, as the matter was now pending in the appeal courts, the "flexibility" of the board was limited.

Board Sets Hearing

The Madison Local School District will have a budget hearing on July 10 at 7 p.m.

The meeting is to give residents an opportunity to question school officials about the proposed budget.

All area residents are invited to the public meeting at the Board of Education offices, 5065 S. Hamilton Rd.

9 WEEK PROGRAM

Residents Learn First Aid Care

Residents in the Walnut Park Hills area should feel pretty safe in case of almost any type of emergency as they now have 22 certified first aiders ready to assist.

The 22 residents just recently completed a nine week course in first aid taught by William Rector, assigned to the Heartmobile with the Columbus Fire Department.

Rector also teaches first aid for the Red Cross and for the state. His work with the east side group was done on a voluntary basis on his own time.

"I believe in this program," Rector said. "With communities growing it is becoming more important for people to be able to act in emergencies.

"I've been teaching with the Red Cross for about 10 years and I also work with instructors at the CMACAO day care centers."

Rector said he taught the class heart massage, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, bandaging and all types of first aid.

The class used special equipment in the lessons. There were two special dummies which aid the class in learning the proper procedure for heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. If the proper method is followed one dummy will simulate breathing while the other will begin a heart beat.

"I've really enjoyed teaching the class," Rector said. "These people are really enthusiastic and its been great. That's half my battle--having people want to learn. This group has jumped right in and done very well."

Members of the class said they had enjoyed themselves, despite the fact some said they had not studied so hard since they'd gotten out of school.

Thirty people began the course which started at the end of April but due to summer vacations several had had to drop the course. A person cannot miss two lessons and become certified.

Mrs. William Spencer, member of the class, said there have been a large number of requests for another class in the fall.

"We're hoping Bill will be able to teach that class also. We may want to change the night because this class met on Mondays and that was inconvenient for some."

Mrs. Spencer said members of the class had put together their own first aid kits, including bandages, sugar for diabetics and the dime for the call for help.

"It's been great fun and we've all learned a lot."

Mrs. Spencer said the class had even learned something about delivering babies, but added, "none of us are going to wait that long to get help."

The class was prompted by an accident in the Oakmont school yard a few months ago.

A youngster fell while riding a bicycle and sustained a severe laceration. It took an emergency squad almost 20 minutes to arrive.

Residents met with city officials in May to request that a squad be located nearer their area.

The nearest squad is presently located at Main Street and Hampton and is responsible for the area south of Port Columbus to the city limits and from Alum Creek east to the city limits.

Residents were told at the meeting that until more funds were available no squad could be promised.

Schweitzer Head Lion

Earl M. Schweitzer, of 1480 Cunard Rd., will be installed tonight as 1972-'73 president of the East Columbus Lions Club.

Other Lions to be installed include: Henry Belisle (first vice-president), Steve Gastaldo (second vice-president), William Dover (third vice-president), Thomas Ballenger (treasurer), Dr. Willard Five (secretary), Earl Michel (Lion Tamer), Howard McMunn (Tail Twister), Horace Newell (Bulletin Editor) and directors William Hogue, Ray Grinstead, Jasper Zuchero and Gerald Fenneken.

A Practice Run

SAFETY FIRST for these east side residents. The class of about 22 persons recently completed a special course in first aid. The course was taught by a member of the Columbus Fire Department's heartmobile unit, William Rector. In the top picture, Rector demonstrates to Mrs. George Zanes, left, and her daughter Mrs. Donald Booker, the procedure for heart massage. Bill Zapf is the victim. In the picture above, Rector and fellow first aiders, Sam Bennett and Zapf give the victim, Mrs. Paul Katz, expert help after she has fainted and been run over by her husband's lawn mower. The class simulated various accidents which might occur as part of their training. At left the class presents Rector with a token of their appreciation for his volunteering to teach the class.

LETTERS TO EDITOR:

Reader Submits Ode On Mound St. Demise

To the Editor:

Mayor Kenneth D. McClure has flamboyantly and in exalted fashion cashiered Mound Street for what?

For $6000 in lieu of taxes?

In response to this high minded (handed) Safety Director's recent action, permit me this lyric tale:

Ode On the Doom of A Street

'Twas on the southern side of town,
Where Rome's equal had fallen down.
The rustic brick once laid,
Echoed the layer's cry to save.
Brocaded brick support thus gave,
And for traffic but pray'd.

The traffic hence did come upon
The road her hue burnishing on.
North, South did she divide.
Her lanes were least two living ways
The passageway of many bays
Not vacant to a side.

Had she but chanced to look askew;
She'd seen two forms of intense blue,
The workmen of her fate.
Their fronts were boldest when they turned;.
College was paid for what each yearned,
Mound but appeasement's bait.

The helpless street was struck to see:
First obstructions, then living trees
Cast on the right of way,
The souls ensnared amongst themselves
To be duped for what, for shelves?
What school's adverse to play?
Presumptuous citizen! with looks intent
Again she calls; again she's bent
By a communal pow'r.
(Malignant Fate sit by, and smile)
The reckless gong shall seize a mile.
All shall tumble as dower.

Number'd are times to shout reprieve
To mayor, council to ask leave,
Some speedy aid to send.
Is none to bring the body out
Nor feel the loss that is about.
A fav'rite has no friend!

from hence, citizens, undeceived,
Know, one false lapse is ne'er retrieved.
But to the ones in pow'r,
Not all that tempts your wand'ring minds
And heedless thoughts are rightful finds
As is with Russia's czars.

Accepts Apollo Award

WILLIAM R. FLEMING, of 2206 Courtright Rd. Theatre Doors Stay Open

General Manager Billy Rose told The Reynoldsburg Spectator this week that the Reynoldsburg Barn Dinner Theatre has had satisfying discussions with Ohio Board of Health officials and the sewage situation that was "blown way out of proportion" by some news media will be satisfactorily handled prior to the August 1 deadlines established.

Rose said he has been putting his "all" into getting the dinner theatre solvent by spending much time practically "door-to-door" in promotional activities.

He is also available, he indicated, to civic and fraternal organizations for meetings.

Rose pointed out that the practically full house at last Saturday night's performance of "Tunnel of Love" was an indication of theatre-goers desire to keep the dinner theatre going.

"Tunnel of Love" is a superb comedy that finds two "birds of a feather" getting into trouble because of their extra-curricular marital activities with single swingers.

What happens in the best of regulated families happens in the "Tunnel of Love" when a childless couple go by the chart to produce an offspring only to find that the chart needs two people to make the graph add up to three.

After a child is born to one of the single swingers (a social worker, at that) and the couple adopt him, the couple find that they are going to have one of their own.

The truth comes out about the swinger's real father but the ending is one of those happily ever after kind that leaves a good taste in everyone's mouth.

The other couple in the "Tunnel of Love" are prime candidates for Planned Parenthood membership and prime the pump for the other couple to come up with one of their own.

George Spelvin (Dick) and Terri Oliver (Alice) are the "cheaper by the dozen so lets start with six" couple who add blue skies to the grey that creep into Augie and Isolde's life.

Bonnie Sylvano (Estelle) as the social worker gives a snappy performance and makes you hope that the next social worker who calls on you is her!

Nancy Key Lindeberg (Miss McCracken) has a bit part that explodes into plenty of laughter. Isn't she the daughter of the fine actress who played Mona Kent in "Dames At Sea" and Big Mama in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"?

Put on your specks and read The Spectator.

LETTERS TO EDITOR:

Reader Submits Ode On Mound St. Demise

To the Editor:

Mayor Kenneth D. McClure has flamboyantly and in exalted fashion cashiered Mound Street for what?

For $5000 in lieu of taxes?

In response to this high minded (handed) Safety Director's recent action, permit me this lyric tale:

Ode On the Doom of A Street

'Twas on the southern side of town,
Where Rome's equal had fallen down.
The rustic brick once laid,
Echoed the layer's cry to save.
Brocaded brick support thus gave,
And for traffic but pray'd.

The traffic hence did come upon
The road her hue burnishing on.
North, South did she divide.
Her lanes were least two living ways
The passageway of many bays
Not vacant to a side.

Had she but chanced to look askew;
She'd seen two forms of intense blue,
The workmen of her fate.
Their fronts were boldest when they turned;
College was paid for what each yearned,
Mound but appeasement's bait.

The helpless street was struck to see:
First obstructions, then living trees
Cast on the right of way,
The souls ensnared amongst themselves
To be duped for what, for shelves?
What school's adverse to play?
Presumptuous citizen! with looks intent
Again she calls; again she's bent
By a communal pow'r.
(Malignant Fate sit by, and smile)
The reckless gong shall seize a mile.
All shall tumble as dower.

Number'd are times to shout reprieve
To mayor, council to ask leave,
Some speedy aid to send.
Is none to bring the body out
Nor feel the loss that is about.
A fav'rite has no friend!

from hence, citizens, undeceived,
Know, one false lapse is ne'er retrieved.
But to the ones in pow'r,
Not all that tempts your wand'ring minds
And heedless thoughts are rightful finds
As is with Russia's czars.

Theatre Doors Stay Open

General Manager Billy Rose told The Reynoldsburg Spectator this week that the Reynoldsburg Barn Dinner Theatre has had satisfying discussions with Ohio Board of Health officials and the sewage situation that was "blown way out of proportion" by some news media will be satisfactorily handled prior to the August 1 deadlines established.

Rose said he has been putting his "all" into getting the dinner theatre solvent by spending much time practically "door-to-door" in promotional activities.

He is also available, he indicated, to civic and fraternal organizations for meetings.

Rose pointed out that the practically full house at last Saturday night's performance of "Tunnel of Love" was an indication of theatre-goers desire to keep the dinner theatre going.

"Tunnel of Love" is a superb comedy that finds two "birds of a feather" getting into trouble because of their extra-curricular marital activities with single swingers.

What happens in the best of regulated families happens in the "Tunnel of Love" when a childless couple go by the chart to produce an offspring only to find that the chart needs two people to make the graph add up to three.

After a child is born to one of the single swingers (a social worker, at that) and the couple adopt him, the couple find that they are going to have one of their own.

The truth comes out about the swinger's real father but the ending is one of those happily ever after kind that leaves a good taste in everyone's mouth.

The other couple in the "Tunnel of Love" are prime candidates for Planned Parenthood membership and prime the pump for the other couple to come up with one of their own.

George Spelvin (Dick) and Terri Oliver (Alice) are the "cheaper by the dozen so lets start with six" couple who add blue skies to the grey that creep into Augie and Isolde's life.

Bonnie Sylvano (Estelle) as the social worker gives a snappy performance and makes you hope that the next social worker who calls on you is her!

Nancy Key Lindeberg (Miss McCracken) has a bit part that explodes into plenty of laughter. Isn't she the daughter of the fine actress who played Mona Kent in "Dames At Sea" and Big Mama in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"?

Letters To The Editor

The Spectator newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3421 S. Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Monday noon prior to publication date for publication in that week's edition.

'Then A Monster Invaded . . .'

I am not so old (early twenties) that all memories of my childhood are dulled beyond accurate recall. One thing that does stand out from the days of my youth is the enjoyment of playing baseball in the summer. Down at the Taylor School, one of the teachers had a few bats and some softballs. He watched our games, which were between two teams that were chosen from the kids who showed up that day.

Then a monster invaded our neighborhood. It was called organized youth baseball. We went down to the school yard and saw our friends in nice new uniforms, with bats that didn't need tape because they had no cracks. And they played with a regulation league ball, not the softball which we pitched underhand.

The next summer I joined the league, or I should say tried out for the league. For one had to meet certain standards of excellence, even at 12 years old, to play in organized youth baseball.

I made the team, but several of my friends did not. I got the nice new uniform, but it cost me the money I had saved up for a bicycle. Not being a star athlete, I spent quite a lot of time on the bench, watching others play. When I did get a chance to play, more often than not I committed an error or two.

In our pick-up games at Taylor School, if one overthrew the first baseman, one had to chase the ball himself. Usually, that meant getting out of hearing range while your teammates screamed and yelled about your ability (or lack of it). But I knew they were not that much better and awaited their errors to scream at them. And no one got upset. No hurt feelings. It was a ritual we all went through.

It sounded different, though, when our coach, who happened to be the star third-baseman 's father, yelled at us for a missed play. We couldn't yell back and that hurt.

A curious thing happened as the season wore on. My parents, who constantly harangued me for coming in after dark from the pick-up games at Taylor School, had to harangue me to go to my league games. And I liked baseball less and less.

These memories all came back to me as I happened by a little league game on the East Side of Columbus recently. There was this eight-year-old kid muffing a grounder at second base and his coach, who was about my age, running onto the field, yanking the kid by the arm, dragging him to the bench, all the while yelling at him for his miscue.

That kid sat down and cried. But, worst of all, someone else's father, obviously an expert on coaching youngsters, yelled something to the effect that the second baseman should be cut from the team and never allowed to don the uniform of that league again.

Organized youth baseball is probably the worst thing that has happened to the game. Having pre-teenagers throw a hardball overhand is almost as bad for muscular and skeletal development of the arm as tackle football is for the whole body. Not to mention the fact that the batters, the fielders and even the spectators usually duck when the ball comes their way.

Many of the social problems we are faced with these days are the direct result of a failure of people to learn how to interact with each other on a non-injurious basis. While our arguments over who was safe and who was out (and our comments on each other abilities) did not teach us all the ins and outs of interaction, it did help us learn to be accomodating with each other. We argued long and hard sometimes, but we always came to a solution that was ammenable to all or at least a solution that allowed us to get on with the game.

In organized youth baseball, if a kid argues with an umpire, he is out of the game. That is proper, I guess, teaching kids respect for authority and all. But why is it necessary for an authority figure to even be present on a baseball diamond when you are eight years old?

I expect this letter will draw fire from some league director out there in suburbia. He'll rattle off all the supposed benefits of organized youth baseball, such as teamwork, respect for rules, respect for authority and so on. If he says any of this or that it helps develop baseball players, don't believe him.

At Taylor school we had teamwork. We had our parents at home for authority figures and we spent nine months of every year in a school respecting rules. In organized baseball, all that happened on the development theory was that the better players and the coach's son got better through playing most of the time while the rest of us got splinters.

Maybe the National Pastime is passing because so many youngsters are turned off by organized youth baseball.

And maybe basketball is picking up in popularity because it has not been organized into little leagues as yet.

Why not have each little league diamond manned by an adult who has a few bats and a few softballs and who would merely be consulted on disagreements over the rules?

These kids want to play baseball. They don't need uniforms, aluminum bats, coaches, bases, home-run fences, umpires or any of the other paraphenalia that goes along with organized youth baseball.

What they need is DIS-organized youth baseball. And then they will have some fun.

Red Ink

Finance Director Alvin Peterjohn is attempting to stave off a $1.1 million deficit for the current year and the 1973 General Fund is predicted to fall $6.6 million below the stated needs of the various departments dependent upon its largesse.

The picture of a city finance director wringing his hands in despair is nothing new, but Columbus' plight is not apt to bring its taxpayers running to the rescue.

They obediently unlatched their purses a year and a half ago and bailed the city out with a 50 per cent increase in income tax.

Actually, with the reserve held for Capital Improvements considered, the one half-percent increase boosted income tax revenues to the General Fund by two-thirds. For every $1,000 previously collected, City Hall could expect $1,666.

Furthermore, that was not the full extent of the benefits given to the city by the income tax package.

Growth factors were predicted to add almost $3 million more to the coffers this year than last, and better than a million more each year through 1975.

And apparently, the predictions were conservative.

Total general fund revenue for the city by the end of the year should reach a record high of $56.5 million and $58.5 next year.

In the 10 years ending in 1969, the General Fund's insatiable appetite more than doubled, with expenditures climbing from 17,360,000 to $37,345,000.

Now, in three years the budget expenditures have jumped 55 per cent. If this rate could be stabilized (which is highly improbable unless the brakes are applied with considerable force) the spending will have quadrupled itself in the decade ending in 1979.

Peterjohn is talking about a wage-hiring freeze, which, in itself, seems like a good idea.

But a wage freeze is not going to do the job.

The city administration simply must realize that penny pinching is not a virtue admirable only in the housewife.

However, it must also be noted, as officials struggle to balance the budget, that economy is not merely saving money but selectivity in its spending.

And when the budget whacking begins, let us hope that vital services will not be tampered with while bureaucratic slots are allowed to proliferate and municipal solvency is threatened at the bargaining table.

Heartbreaker

(EDS. NOTE - It is not uncommon for newspapers to write a pre-holiday editorial, attempting to plead highway safety. We found the following message from W. O. Newman, Kentucky State Commissioner of Public Safety, rather apropos as we gear up for another dose of the highway madness associated with the holiday weekend).

Are you one of the people who call me on the telephone or write me a letter to tell me my troopers are stopping motorists and giving them tickets for "no reason at all"? I wouldn't know. You never give your name.

You tell me you're a good citizen and a safe driver just using the Interstate for what it was intended -- speed. And that "dumb cop" gave you a ticket. You break my heart!

I hope the next time you're tearing down the road at 85 mph that a trooper catches you before you smash into a concrete bridge abutment and he has to help pry your lifeless body out of that crushed speed machine of yours. I hope we can teach you a lesson with a ticket so maybe you don't cause a wreck and cost somebody else his life or her life.

You really break my heart telling me you don't have time to go to court about that ticket. I wish you could come with me to the scene of a wreck sometime. I wish I could make you stand and watch a man writhe in the gravel on the shoulder of a highway while he waits for an ambulance that will get there too late to do anything but carry him to the morgue. I wish I could make you help scrape the bits of bone and flesh of a whole family off the asphalt and into baskets. You'd vomit just like my troopers do, but you'd think differently the next time you climbed into your car.

You said you were driving safely when the trooper stopped you. The road was clear and there was no harm in edging over the speed limit a few miles per hour, you said. I'm really impressed with your ability to judge road conditions. I'm only sorry a trooper wasn't at that same place a few months ago when a man with a wife and four children had a blowout at over 80 mph. He might have slowed him down, and his children would still have a father, and his wife a husband.

Oh, am I getting you mad again? That man might have been mad if a trooper had stopped him. He might have written me a letter. But he'd be alive. Your letter doesn't bother me, friend. What bothers me is that you apparently haven't learned your lesson.

You say you want my troopers to let you off with a warning. What you really want is for us to stop doing our jobs. You want us to let you go until you meet another guy just like you -- head on.

You're mad because you got a ticket, and you have to take time off from work to go to court.

You break my heart, mister.

Questions 'Conflict Of Interest'

To the Editor:

After reading several articles concerning the proposed increase in the number of city wards, I have discerned that one member of Columbus City Council has participated in the resolution of the foregoing issue under a cloud of "conflict of interest."

Recent articles mention the fact that Mrs. Fran Ryan, who voted in favor of repealing a provision that would increase the number of wards, is married to a member of the County Board of Elections, Richard J. Ryan. He has opposed any such expansion in the number of wards.

Because of this clear conflict of interest, I have strong doubts about where Mrs. Ryan's loyalty lies on such matters. Is she seeking to promote the best interests of the city of Columbus or her husband?

Issues arising before City Council must be resolved on the basis of objective and critical analysis, unclouded and uninfluenced by personal obligations and loyalties. However, it is arguable whether or not Mrs. Ryan has utilized such objectivity.

I feel as long as Mrs. Ryan's participation on City Council is influenced by outside personal pressures, she should be prohibited from voting on issues wherein such outside pressures might penetrate.

Her voting on a resolution in a fashion that her husband has publicly and actively promoted has done much to weaken the trust the citizens have placed with her as a city councilwoman.

While campaigning for City Council, Mrs. Ryan acted and talked as if she were the champion of youth. Her vote to repeal the increase in city wards was a vote to prohibit the new 18 to 21 - year old voters from really getting involved in "grass roots politics."

'By Design, Not Ignorance'

To the Editor:

In reading the editorial "Unity A Must" (June 7 edition) you, again, attempt to confuse the issue by stating in the sixth paragraph of that editorial that the Columbus voters, again showing resistance to supporting schools through property taxes.

The credibility gap between the reader and the news media is, again, in evidence in this editorial. The news media, in general, has so often missed the point in their editorials that I'm beginning to believe that this is by design and not through ignorance.

The only tax which is subject to citizen approval or rejection is the property tax for school support. If the state administration and legislature were not so dictatorial, the income tax would have also met with citizen disapproval.

The point is, gentlemen, that the voters are showing their overall disapproval to any additional tax by disallowing additional or renewed school supported taxes.

Additional or renewed taxes in general are being supported by minority pressure groups through their lobbyists, not by the general public. We can no longer afford the luxuries and services which the politicians and pressure groups think we must have. The money to fund these luxuries comes from each and every individual wage earner. The money does not originate at the State Capitol, or in Washington, D. C. Those points merely establish the dictatorial policies which forceably reduce the take-home pay of each wage earner.

One More Time

Columbus voters will have the opportunity when Mayor Tom Moody returns from England to learn how "responsive" the administration is to the concerns of its citizens.

Members of the Main Street Merchants Association have been informed that their struggle to maintain twoway traffic on Main Street is a losing one unless a "people-decision" is made at the administrative level.

James Musick, who heads the Divison of Traffic Engineering has taken the position that--as a professional traffic engineer--he can not reverse his position that routing traffic east on Main and west on Town is the best solution to the traffic to be generated with the construction of the Mound-Sandusky Interchange.

The merchants concede the proposed traffic plan is the best "traffic plan," but are pleading to give an alternate a trial to see if it could work reasonably well.

Merchants contend that one-way east traffic would destroy the patronage they have developed from the east and north part of the city.

With Ralph Lehman, chairman of the Traffic and Transportation Commission, agreeing the merchants will "be hurting" for a couple years, it appears the retail businesses in the area are not crying "wolf."

They actually believe that many of the more than 200 merchants sited on Main between Front and Nelson Road will be strangulated if two way-traffic is not maintained.

Although immediate plans call for the one-way plan to be initiated only between Front and Fourth, Musick admits long range planning involves its extension.

Alternates suggested by the merchants are predicted by computers to be doomed to generate a monumental traffic jam.

The merchants, however, are dubious of the accuracy of the predictions and ask only that one or more alternative plans be given a practical test before the step is taken that they believe will be a mortal blow.

With the health of one of the few business communities left in the downtown area at stake, the plea for help seems like a valid one.

Furthermore, with bids not even advertised on the Interchange construction, the desire of the traffic engineering to immediately change traffic patterns seems, at best, premature.

Council delegated its traffic control authority to the Safety Department in 1968. Thus the decision, at this point, is an administrative one.

With Musick's expertise recognized, it is quite possible that the one-way pattern is the only feasible answer.

Yet it is difficult to believe that there is only one satisfactory manner in which traffic can be moved through downtown Columbus.

Mayor Moody's open-door policy gives these businessmen hope.

It certainly seems only a fair shake for him to listen to them --and not allow the one-way signs, already erected, to be unveiled until the alternatives have been proven impractical.

YOUTH Rostrum

WHAT DO YOU THINK WILL BE YOUR BIGGEST CHALLENGE IN BECOMING A HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT?

THIS WEEK'S RESPONDENTS

Reynoldsburg Middle School Eighth Grade English Students.

THE HARDEST thing for me to get accomplished will be the grades. The grades in high school will count much more if you are going to college. They depend on it if you're going to get a scholarship. You have to study really hard because when you apply for a job your employer will look at all of your records to see how well you did in school. Your grades will depend a lot on whether or not you get the job, especially if the job includes a lot of thinking, calculations or technical work. - LYDIA HAWTHORNE

MY BIGGEST challenge will be getting on the honor roll. I hope to be on it the first six weeks over there. I have never really tried to be on the honor roll. I've just let my "C" average grade pass thinking "Why should I do better?" so when I get over there I hope to get an "A" average and think it's going to stay an "A" average. Then I think I'll be satisfied with my grades but I know that there will be harder challenges over there because four years is a lot of time for all the teachers to teach all the facts. - JACKIE HOUSER

I AM GOING to have to get used to what I can do and what I can't do. I am nothing but a big trouble maker and I don't want to get in trouble every day. - BARRY CAUDILL

MY BIGGEST challenge will be getting used to everything such as knowing what room to go to, getting along with the older kids and getting used to the hours. - STEVEN FRANK

I THINK the hardest thing to learn is how to act around the upperclassmen. For some odd reason they do not know how to be nice. But, of course, they can be the most generous people if you have money. If you don't have the money it's better to stay away from them. Thanks to the split schedule I will not be laughed at because I can't find my way around the great school. Many of us will have to ask someone how to get to a certain class. The problem facing us is how to ask them. You just can't go up there and ask them flat out. That's just plain stupid. You have to use tact and that's what I'm going to practice all summer long. - TOM HALE

GOING TO THE bottom of class in high school will be my biggest challenge. When we go over to the high school next year we will be freshmen. The following year we will be sophomores which wouldn't be too bad if the freshman would still be there but they won't as they will be back at the new school. So we will be at the bottom of the class again and have the least privileges again. - VICKY BOUDRIE

GETTING ALONG with all my teachers will be the biggest challenge I will have. Most of my teachers this year I didn't get along with too well. From the talk of some of my friends they are harder to get along with over there. Some of the most biggest problems I will have is that the teachers don't always explain everything thoroughly. The biggest problem is that none of them ever let you finish what you are saying. - JAY JURKOVAC

I THINK the biggest challenge I will have is the time. We have to go 12:30 to 5:30. When we get home it will be dark and you won't be able to do anything. I guess after you get used to it it won't be so bad. I guess this is how it must be because the schools are overcrowded. Another problem will be getting to know the teachers. You won't know which one is nice and which one is mean. But one good thing - they won't know if I am mean or good either. - PAM REILEIN

MY BIGGEST challenge in high school next year would be to either make the varsity baseball team or reserve basketball team. Making the varsity would be hard because no freshman has every made the varsity. I think I can do it if I try. - RON SCHOLL

IN HIGH SCHOOL I think my biggest challenge will be making friends. We are going to move this summer for sure and I will have trouble making friends because I will be concentrating so hard on my studies. Most people have had friends for a long time. They do not make new friends very much and I think I will have trouble making new ones. - GRAYDON CHAPPETTA

THE BIGGEST challenge to me will be simply getting used to the time schedule. Never have I ever been able to sleep in and it will take time getting used to it. -ERNIE ALLBERRY

THE THING I believe that will be my biggest challenge next year as a high school student will be to be able to understand the main subjects I have to take as well as putting my notes together from my past references so that I may have a better chance at doing my work well. - CONNIE JO FRANKS

TO BE IN the marching and symphonic bands all year will be my biggest challenge. - VIRGINIA RAISER

LEARNING not to spend so much time playing and to start studying more will be my biggest challenge. I have to learn how to study and I have to learn more than I know now so I can get to college. - P.L.

THE BIGGEST problem I will face in going to high school will be my size. I am only 4'-0" and I weigh about 90 lbs. I am the smallest person in all my classes. Just think what it will be like in high school. I will have to adjust to some of the towering heights of some of the students. It's awful to have to look up to everyone all the time. When I walk down the halls of the school I will probably get walked on. The worst thing about it is that other students tease me and call me names because I am so small. My troubles will be twice as bad in high school.

There are a few advantages to being small despite all the disadvantages. It will be easier for me to squeese through the crowds in the halls between periods. Also, when I talk in class the teacher won't be able to see if it was me talking because I am so small. Another advantage is that I can sneak to the front of the lunch line without anyone noticing it. Even though there are some good points about being small there aren't enough to make up for the bad ones. - PHIL KING

I FEEL that my biggest challenge would be in getting to know new people and to make new friends, because, all of the same people are in your rooms from last year and you don't really get to know very many different people. With the schedule the way it is from 1:30 to 6 you can't possibly do anything after school either. Even if you wanted to meet new friends you couldn't because the freshman for next year will be the only ones there from 1:30 to 6. All the rest go home at 1 p.m. - LYNDY ALLSHOUSE

I BELIEVE the most challenging thing about high school will be meeting new friends and new teachers, also meeting old friends from former schools. I also believe another challenging adventure will be trying to find my way around the high school having not been there before. - ELIZABETH HENDREN

MY BIGGEST challenge will be grades. This is because in high school you really will have to work or your grades will be low. It will also hurt your grades to be absent. This is because you learn new things and it's hard to understand if you don't care. When you get in high school it seems that you learn things faster. You will really have to work to get enough credits to graduate. Some people really have to work just to get a B or C. - DEBBIE TURNER.

MY ONLY challenge will be in trying to teach the freshman students the best I can. I am in my first year of freshman teaching but with the cooperation of my students (and I will give them all I can) I am sure that I (and they) will meet any challenge given us. - A TEACHER.

Just Another 'Coat-Tale'

IT MAY HAVE BEEN in the low 80s but after all it was the third day of summer and who wants to wear a winter coat in summer. Apparently this young Bexley girl had her mind made up not to wear a coat--except maybe over her head if she's going to have her picture taken. But no, Mother says it has to go on--at least temporarily.

BEXLEY
CASSINGHAM

Cassingham girls softball team is practicing for their match with Maryland. Leader Sue plans to keep the powerhouse at Cassingham this year. The boys basketball team lost a squeeker to Maryland, then came back two days later to thump them 52-40. Mike Mayo and Phil Wright led the Cassingham roundball attack.

Tie-dying was in full force last week as part of the preparation for Marathon Day in Jeffrey Park. Cassingham Kids wore blue shirts for the Marathon.

Special activities this coming week include a Nature Walk and Picnic on Thursday morning, a movie on Thursday evening, and a Pet Show Friday evening. The Pet Show is one of the highlights of the summer, and a large crowd of spectators and contestants is expected. Don't miss this!

MONTROSE

Excitement and a Victory-Feeling spread throughout the Montrose kids last week. Thursday night Montrose had a roaring Pep-Rally, getting ready for their big victory on Marathon Day. Marathon Day proves the great sportsmanship and skills of the red-hot Montrose Monsters, number 1 playground in Bexley!

Friday was the first kickball game of the summer season, getting off to a good start with about 40 kids kicking for Montrose. Monday, June 26 was the day for a football game between Montrose and Maryland, at Maryland in the morning. Monday night was set aside for boys and girls softball practice, and Tuesday morning had a basketball game scheduled between Montrose and Maryland at our field.

MARYLAND

After a "rain-out", Maryland finally had their "Get-Acquainted" playground picnic with over 50 people attending. A kickball game (featuring four extra innings) was highlight of the evening. Maryland kids tie-dyed their shirts for Marathon Day and the green shirts hanging on the monkey bars to dry made it look like a big tree. A kick-ball game against rival Cassingham ended in a 21-17 defeat for our Marylandders even though Bill Snyder and Christine Salva wallopped grand slams.

The Pet Show held on June 20th was a huge success with 22 pets and 84 spectators in attendance. John Schwartz acted as Master of Ceremonies for the event and prize ribbons were awarded in each category. Special thanks to John, the contestants and their parents, and very special thanks to Mrs. Taylor who barely survived the task of being a judge! After the Pet Show those present enjoyed the movie "An Occurence at Owl Creek Bridge" which was a winner at the 1962 Cannes Film Festival.

FIVE edition of the playground newspaper was printed last week. This weekly paper will be available each Monday at Maryland.

Last Wednesday night about 45 kids took part in a scavenger hunt which began at 7 p.m. Items on the list included a 1958 penny, leader Jeff's autograph, and a "car alend"? Look that up in your Funk and Wagnals.

This coming week Maryland kids will be working on their float for the July 4th parade. Other special events include a Checker Tournament, a Treasure Hunt and a Chess Tournament. Playground attendance at Maryland has been great, and we encourage all of you to continue coming. "A family that plays together, stays together."

Automation Comes To Lawn Care

"There are over 350 dealers throughout the country. We can do in a half hour what 10 experienced hand gardeners could not accomplish in a full work day. Our claim is that we do all the work at a price that the homeowner would pay if he bought the materials himself."

The above is a pretty tall claim but Jeff Greene, operator of Lawn-A-Mat of Northwest Columbus, isn't worried about charges of "over-sell."

His Lawn-a-mat machine, which might be compared to a one-man band in the musical sense, has brought automation to lawn care.

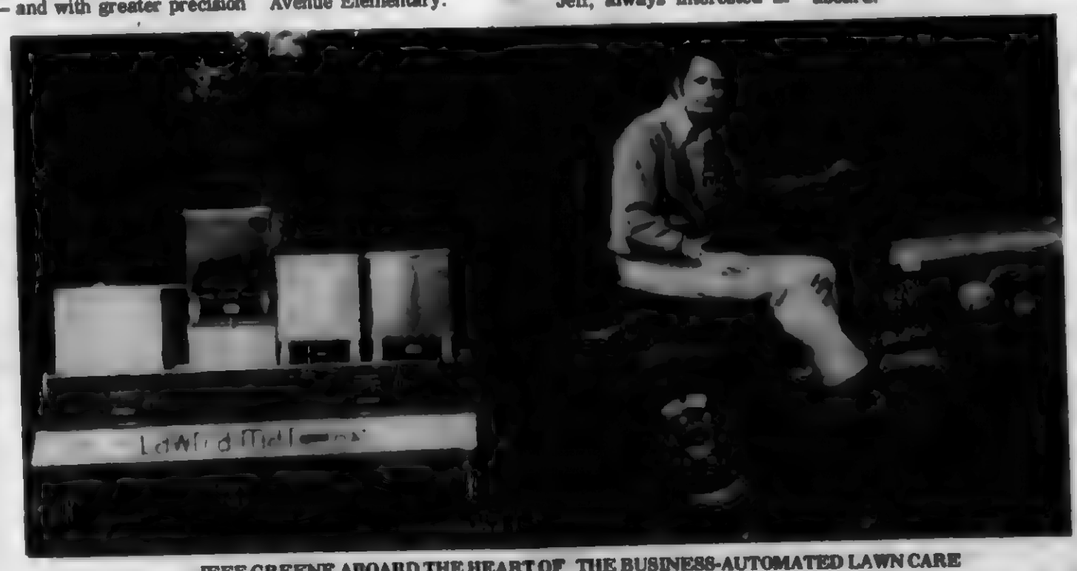
The tractor-powered Lawn-a-Mat service simulation

The tractor-powered Lawn-a-Mat service simultaneously – and with greater precision and speed – performs a myriad of lawn services (fertilizes, herbicides, insecticides, fungicides, seeds, power aerates and power rolls).

Lawn-A-Mat, which has become to be known as "the greenskeeper for America's homeowner", has been proven on over a million lawns from coast-to-coast.

Free information and a free estimate are available by calling 846-6866. Greene, incidently, reminds homeowners that now is the time to start chinch bug control.

Jeff and wife Julie live at 86 E. Kanawha Ave. He is a Michigan State University graduate in Business Administration and she is employed by the Columbus Public Schools at Stewart Avenue Elementary.



JEFF ADJUSTS one of the seven features that his lawn-care machine performs.

Both are bicycling enthusiasts during their leisure hours. Julie also belongs to the Worthington Welcome Wagon.

Jeff, always interested in the outdoors, became interested in Lawn-A-Mat when he read about the service in a financial paper.

But then it stands to reason that a machine which can do seven laborious and time-consuming jobs at the same time – and do them professionally – is going to have a lot of people climbing aboard.

Board Selects New Architect

The architectural contract for a new middle school and another elementary school in the Madison Local School District was awarded to Bruce Houston Associates of Willowby, Ohio.

The firm was selected over a list of nine other applicants.

A SPOKESMAN for the district said the arcitects will work with the district on site for both schools and on plans. This is the first work the firm will have done for the district.

The $3,380,000 bond issue will be on the ballot in November.

The spokesman said the district is now waiting for the auditor to determine the taxation rate over the next 22 years. "We are in the final stages of having everything certified and put on the ballot.

SITE SELECTION is still under study but will be announced before the election.

The school board also approved the sale of two parcels of land near Sedalia Elementary School.

The southern parcel, amounting to 3.180 acres was sold to a private developer, Frankview. Inc.

THE LAND sold through a public auction for $27,800.

The second tract, located to the north, consists of 2.638 acres. This parcel sold for $12,800. Purchaser was Sheppard Inc., also a private developer.

The school spokesman said he did not know what the land would be used for by the developers.

THIS LEAVES approximately 14 acres of the original 20 acre site.

The money from the sale will be placed in the permanent improvement fund and used for site acquisition.

Pro Bucks Sign Two More Vets

The Columbus Bucks announced this week that they've signed a pair of vets from their '71 Midwest Football League championship club.

Running back Jeff Stanciel, a 6-1, 210 pounder from Mississippi Valley, gained 328 yards in 44 carries last year despite being injured most of the season. That was an average of 7.4 yards a crack.

ANOTHER STANDOUT who inked his '72 pact was punt return speedster Toney Smith. The slippery 5-11, 175 pounder from Weber State also caught 16 passes last year--and averaged 21.1 yards per reception.

The Bucks have also signed three promising rookies: offensive tackle candidates Lou Kautz (Northern Michigan) and Dave Wright (Xavier), and place kicker Rick France.

France set a school record at the University of Florida (Gainesville) with a 52 yard field goal, and also set marks for career scoring and most PAT conversions.

COMPLETES BASIC

Southway Grabs Lead

Early leader Scioto Post 604 suffered a pair of setbacks last week, and Southway vaulted into undisputed possession of the District 13 American Legion top spot as action neared the halfway point last Sunday.

Southway upped its season mark to 5-0 Sunday by sweeping a pair from London 10-6 and 9-5. Randy Hare and Dave Starling picked up the mound verdicts. That followed a 16-6 mauling of Scioto Wednesday.

THE OTHER THREE Sunday doubleheaders wound up in splits.

Worthington dropped a 10-9 slugfest to Arlington in their opener, then came back to cop a 2-1 pitchers' duel behind the three-hit hurling of Bob Monahan. Earlier in the week the Worthington Post had clouted London 13-1 -- with Dave Dawson turning in a two hitter on the hill.

Bob Blanton picked up the pitching verdict for Don Gentile Post Sunday, as his mates came up with three runs in the ninth to edge Grove City 7-6 in the first of two. G-C copped the nightcap 11-10, despite seven Gentile runs in the final two frames.

SCIOTO GOT shutout pitching from Rick Clowson in an opening 7-0 win over Whitehall; but they too had to settle for a split when the Easterners rallied for a 4-3 triumph in the second game.

Legion wars reach their halfway point Wednesday with a full slate of games on tap: here's a rundown of the week's schedule (Wednesday games 6 p.m., Sunday games 1:30).

Bexley Boys' Baseball Report

After the first week of play, Eastern Kiwanis and Norm Divine Realtor share first place in the Bexley Boys' Baseball League with 2-0 records.

Kiwanis won its opener with the help of Brad Ettore's hitting (a single and a triple) and Ed Benedetti's fine pitching, defeating Drexel Theatre 7-4. Second game of the week was a one-sided 22-4 win over Dollar Federal.

Benedetti (4 for 5) and Jim Damron (3 for 4) paced the Kiwanis hitters, while Tom Hartley turned in some outstanding defensive plays. Rick Harris and Jesse Goldberger had two hits each for Dollar Federal.

DOLLAR FEDERAL had won its opening game 6-3 over A.W. Wing despite a one hitter by Todd Loehnert. Mike Willard went 2 for 4 while pitching a two hitter and striking out 14 for the winners.

Norm Divine Realtor opened with a 11-4 win over R.C. Cola, after being held behind 4-1 by RC for three innings due to Doug Hill's fine pitching. After Hill was lifted from the mound the roof fell in on the Cola men, as Kevin James paced a fine hitting explosion for Divine.

Divine piled up 15 runs in the second inning in a 16-3 win over Bexley Lions, as the Lion pitchers couldn't seem to find the plate.

LION PITCHING was excellent their first game, however, as Dan Roslovic and Gordon Anderson hurled 3 innings each in a 6-3 win over Hanna Paint.

Hanna came back in their second game to defeat R.C. Colar 9-5, with John Holtfreter pitching a one-hitter and striking out 12 before Rex Elliot came in to bail him out when he ran into late inning control trouble.

Drexel Theatre downed A.O. Wing 18-3 after losing the opener to Eastern Kiwanis. Five Drexel pitchers combined to pitch a no-hitter in the win over Wing, with Steve Gust hitting safely twice and Scott Kearns three times to back up their pitchers, Craig Middlemus, Jim Sophos, Joe Wiley, Scott Smallsreed and Tim Shipe.

HITTIN UP a storm for Divine in the week's two games were Tom Kirker with a total of 7 RBIs for the week, Kevin James with 8 RBIs (including two triples, three singles and a double), Craig Freeman with 3 RBIs and Doug Divine with 2 RBIs. Eric Binau collected 3 runs on 3 walks.

SPOUTING OFF

ON SPORTS WITH DENNY WHALEN

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

In this era of unparalleled press agentry, overlapping professional sports seasons and dog-eat-dog competition for the "sports dollar," I guess it's understandable that the football, basketball and hockey people would take turns calling baseball "dull" and trumpeting its alleged demise as our "National Pastime."

I said it's understandable, not that it holds water.

IN THE FIRST place, speaking as a near-fanatic about any kind of athletic contest, I think it's incredibly dumb to say that Game X is "more explosive" or "twice as exciting" as Game Y. I mean, how do you measure that kind of thing--stick a bunch of electrodes on a guy in the grandstand?

Maybe you've read about the snazzy little "survey" NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle commissioned last year to determine which sport America loves best. If so, then you know that (gasp!) football won (by an eyelash).

Of course Pete had his survey taken right in the middle of the '71 Divisional Playoffs. Imagine yourself sitting in front of the TV five minutes after that Miami-Kansas City overtime thriller. The telephone rings, and a guy says: "We're taking a survey, which Sport do you enjoy watching best?"

WONDER IF Bowie Kuhn will come back this October with a counter-survey--during the World Series, natch.

The purpose of this little piece isn't so much to defend baseball, (though it needs a little defending, from people like Mr. Cosell). It's more an attempt to point out that you can't compare apples with oranges -- or Hank Aaron with Johnny Unitas (or Jerry West with Bobby Orr...).

And just as every sport has it's superstars, it also has it's own unique brand of tension...excitement...electricity.

When some yo-yo in the NFL Public Relations office, or an overpaid ex-jock in a broadcast booth comes up with a sweeping jab at "that ho-hum old man's game;" he's talking right through his sky piece.

THE BIGGIE we get from football-land is that baseball is attuned to a Gay- Nineties pace--a leisurely, all-afternoon kind game where everybody brings a picnic lunch and dozes off during the fourth inning. Football, the argument goes, is perfect for the Space Age swinger generation--quick, violent, action-packed.

First of all, isn't the major current of media advertising--for nearly anything-dominated by the idea that people want to slow their lives down? Those mellow voices talk about "relaxing," and "getting away from the rush" and "escaping". If it sells bicycles, and back-yard barbecue grills, and camping gear; why not baseball?

THEN THERE'S the time element.

The average "horse and buggy pace" baseball game last season took about 10 minutes less time to play than the average NFL battle--and I personally saw the Reds take a doubleheader from the Cardinals this May in four hours and six minutes.

Yeah, but what about all the action football gives you for your money?

DON'T GET ME wrong, folks, I'm an avid football fan too. But watching the Minnesota Vikings' defense wear down the opposing line so Fred Cox can win it with a field goal in the fourth quarter just ain't my brand of "excitement."

Which brings us back to the original point: there are undoubtedly thousands of people who find the spectacle of Allen Page decapitating a halfback on nine straight snaps absolutely enthralling. "Excitement" is in the eye (and blood pressure) of the beholder.

Anyone who suggests that watching Vida Blue pitch a baseball, Henry Aaron hit it, Bud Harrelson field it or Roberto Clemente throw it is "dull" a) doesn't know much about baseball; and b) is exercising his Constitutional right to make a bloody fool of himself.

SO GOOD LUCK to every sport, may your turnstiles runneth over and let the paying public decide for itself just what's dull and what's not.

But lay off the swipes at poor old baseball will 'ya? At least till you've lasted through that first hundred years.

"Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle."

The Audi 100LS — The Porsche 911 — The Porsche 914
The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look:
The way they work.

Milo-Roc Frontrunners Winning Streaks

The Milo-Roc Mendel League frontrunners kept their coattails clean through last week's double round of action, Minor loop leader Rick's Car Wash running its unbeaten streak to nine and Major league kingpin TAT Pizza posting wins number nine and 10 in a row.

Here's how things went:

MAJOR LEAGUE

TAT got some standout pitching performances to keep its slate perfect. Parry Passen shut down Rick's Car Wash Tuesday in a 4-2 triumph, then teammates Bob Harrington and Grey Thomas combined to twirl a masterful one-hitter at Convenient Foods Friday, striking out 15 of a possible 18 enemy hitters en route to an 18-0 romp.

Harrington helped his own cause in the Friday tussle, leading all TAT hitters with a 4-for-5 performance with the bat.

KEVIN FLAHERTY smacked a home run in extra innings Tuesday to give Convenient a 13-8 nod over Beck Masonry; while Liv-Moor was edging Tommy's Pizza 9-8 in the other loop encounter.

Rick's turned the tables Friday, nudging Liv-Moor by the same 9-8 margin when Scott Shaw singled home the winning run in the final frame.

Beck Masonry's John Wymer turned in the fielding gem of the week, a spectacular diving grab for the final out in his club's 8-7 win over Tommy's.

MINOR LEAGUE

It was a week of sweeps in the junior circuit, as the top three clubs in the standings all came up with double victories.

Rick's Car Wash stayed unbeaten and one game in front by blasting Tommy's Pizza 26-2, then rolling up a 27-3 landslide over the Milo-Roc Buckeyes. Doug Gleckner crashed a grandslam homer in the latter contest.

LIV-MOOR KEPT the heat on Rick's by posting a pair of wins too.,

Bill Higgins personally accounted for seven runs Monday with a grandslammer and a bases-loaded double that paced Liv-Moor to a 12-10 win over TAT Pizza. Teammate Kerry Skinner took over the slugging spotlight in the week's other outing-clouting a pair of roundtrippers (one a grand slam) and going 4-for4 at the plate as his club downed Beck Masonry 15-7.

CONVENIENT FOODS came up with the week's top offensive explosion, burying the Buckeyes 38-13; then came came back to dump Beck 12-7 to stay within two games of the top spot.

Maddogs, COW Claim Bexley Softball Leads

The offensive big guns finally got unlimbered last week in Bexley Men's Softball action, with the winners of the six games totalling 102 runs.

Here's how it broke down by league:

UNDER THIRTY

The Maddogs outslugged Love Studio (formerly Agler-Davidson) 19-14 in a battle of unbeatens, to take over undisputed possession of the top spot.

Jeff McClelland, Jim Hoyer and Ron Hanninen combined for 13 safeties in the winning cause; Mike Friedland had five hits and Pat Noles four for Love.

COLUMBUS COPY Products and Klamfoth Honda both posted their second wins of the campaign to gain a tie for second–and they did it in a big way.

CCP routed the Conglomerates 17-3 behind Carl Kraft's two homers and three hits apiece by Greg Seabolt and John Gruenler.

Meanwhile, Klamfoth was annihilating Brad Salt 21-3 with Mike Orr's four hits leading the way. Teammates Mike Foote, Mike Gibson and Carl Gorchoff collected three safeties each.

OLD TIMERS

Central Ohio Welding edged Salt Realtors 7-6 in another confrontation of co-leaders–emerging with sole claim to first place.

Bill Mackin's three hits paced the COW effort.

SUSIL CONSTRUCTION earned a share of second place by topping Christ Luthern Church in a 15-13 slugfest–with Art Fothergill collecting four safeties and Susil mates Wes Rosenthal, Bud Susil, Dave Hess and Ted Flickenger all getting three.

But the week's top offensive explosion came in the other Old Timers' tilt, where the Pussycats beat Dollar Federal in a 23-17 marathon. Mike Kilbourne was the 'Cats hitting star with a pair of roundtrippers and teammate Larry Metz matched Kilbourne's four-hit total.

Armchair Cindermen, Here's Your Chance!

The Ohio Track Club began a six-week series of "open to the public" track meets last Friday at the Walnut Ridge High stadium.

For the next five Friday evenings, anybody (no age limit) with the urge to compete can participate just by showing up. If the response is great enough, Club spokesmen say events will be divided into high school and Open categories.

THE FORMAT is the same as that for a high school cinder meet, except for the exclusion of the pole vault, discus and mile relay.

Field events will begin at 7 p.m., running events at 7:15; there is no entry fee and no prizes will be awarded–it's just a chance for you armchair superstars and eager youngsters to see how good you really are.

CUBBYHOLE COOKING

By MYRNA MCCAULEY

Summer's Laugh-In

Check the calendar for a free weekend coming up. Then plan to celebrate with a Summer's Laugh-In, picnic style, for the apartment crowd.

The fellows provide the liquid refreshments; the girls divvy up on the food. And it's lots of laughs for everyone because nobody gets stuck with all the work and expense, or a messed-up apartment.

FIRST OFF, choose your picnic site – the backyard, courtyard or a stretch of green alongside the pool. Some place where you can spread out tablecloths on the lawn or set up a few card tables. And be prepared, should the weather misbehave, to convert instantly to a picnic indoors – on the floor, or buffet-style with the food set out on bookcases.

Let's say you'll round up an even dozen for the laugh-in crowd. Here's how to make merry with a picnic on the green.

LAUGH-IN MENU

Pineapple Snack Tree
Grand Ham Slam with Beer Glaze
Minnehaha Potato Salad
Vegetable Relishes. Rye Buns
Strawberries Romanoff

K-P duties: One girl builds the pineapple tree. Two girls buy and prepare the ham. Another makes the potato salad. Still another buys and prepares relishes, plus the rye buns and butter. The sixth one does the dessert.

If you work it out carefully, it should come out in the neighborhood of $3. per person for a very classy kind of laugh-in.

WITHOUT further ado, here are the recipes to clip and pass out.

PINEAPPLE SNACK TREE

2 fresh pineapples, one for the tree, the other cut into chunks
8 oz. round of Gouda cheese, cut into wedges
10 oz. brick of Cheddar cheese, cut into cubes
1 lb. purple grapes

Choose firm pineapples with green leaves. If necessary, cut thin slice from bottom of one pinapple so it will stand upright as snack tree. To prepare pineapple chunks, cut the other pineapple in half lengthwise with large knife. Using paring knife, remove fruit from pineapple by cutting along curved edge. Cut away eyes and core and cut fruit into chunks.

Spear pineapple chunks, cheese wedges and cubes, and grapes on wooden picks; stick into outer surface of pineapple tree. Set on wooden platter or footed TV tray for serving outdoors. (Save pineapple tree for breakfast fruit or supper salads.)

GRAND HAM SLAM WITH BEER GLAZE

4 to 5 lb. boneless fully-cooked ham or 7 lb. uncooked picnic shoulder
½ cup brown sugar
2 tbsp. prepared mustard
¼ cup beer

PLACE HAM fat side up on rack in open shallow roasting pan (or use broiler rack and pan in the oven). Heat boneless fully-cooked ham according to package directions (about 1½ hrs. at 325 degrees). Or bake uncooked picnic shoulder four hrs. (35 min. per pound) in 325 degree oven. Serves 12 generously.

To prepare glaze, mix sugar and mustard to form a paste; then gradually add beer and stir until blended.

About 45 minutes before ham is done, brush one-third of glaze over ham and return to oven. Brush on remaining glaze at 15-minute intervals.

LET HAM cool 15 minutes before slicing and it will carve like a dream. Take to picnic on a TV tray.

MINNEHAHA POTATO SALAD

4 lbs. potatoes (about 12 medium size)
8 hard-cooked eggs, cut up
1 cup corn relish
1 cup chopped celery
Radishes, sliced
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1¼ cups mayonnaise
Lettuce cups

Boil potatoes and eggs ahead of time; chill in refrigerator a couple hours. (Save out two eggs, plus a few radishes for garnish.)

DICE POTATOES into large mixing bowl. Add eggs, corn relish, celery, radishes and seasonings. Gradually stir in mayonnaise – gently now, so as not to "mush" the potatoes. Refrigerate a couple hours.

At picnic time, garnish with egg and radish slices. Plop lettuce cups up top and grab a serving spoon.

STRAWBERRIES ROMANOFF

1 qt. fresh strawberries
½ cup confectioners' sugar
¼ cup each brandy and curacao
1 cup chilled whipping cream
1 qt. French vanilla ice cream, softened
Dixie cups, 4-inch size

Stem and wash berries, sprinkle with sugar, brandy and curacao. Refrigerate two or three hours. Beat cream until stiff and fold in berries. Soften ice cream with a spoon until thick but not runny. Add strawberry-whipped cream mixture to ice cream and gently stir together. Spoon into Dixie cups. Place in freezer until serving time.

Parade Of Homes Closing July 2

Central Ohioans who have not yet visited the $1,000,000 Parade of Homes at Foxboro in Gahanna have only until this weekend to do so.

The 24 luxurious homes will be on display daily from 5 until 11 p.m. and from 1 to 11 Saturday and Sunday.

"We have been overwhelmed by the response to the Parade this year," Ruma reported. "We have the highest price range this year ever included in our Parades and, thus, the newest ideas in design and furnishings are used. Anyone loooking for new concepts in homes will have a great time touring the model homes."

Ruma emphasized that Plans Books containing a floor plan, drawing and description of each home is given to visitors. "These books are ideal for getting the most value from the Parade and to allow the visitor to make notes about specific homes or features liked best."

Understudy for the female roles is Diana Ferguson. Jeff Schwamberger will be the stage manager and Jane Kerns is production assistant. David Chase is musical director for the production.

Jane Petter will enact the role made famous by Judy Holiday, that of Billie Dawn, in Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday." Hollis Huston will play Harry Brock. Other cast members are Robert Zeeb as Paul Verral; Alan Barinholtz as Ed Devery; Michael Grimes as Senator Norval Hedges; Benjalyn Jane Byers as Mrs. Hedges; Michael Schirtzinger as Eddie Brock; Philip Leach as the assistant manager; Leslie Chittenden as Helen; Ronald Ornsby and Kirk Pemberton as bellhops; Edmund Meade as the barber, Sue Gary as the manicurist; Daniel Dulin as a bootblack; and Joseph Mustacchi as the wraiter. Shauna Vey is stage manager for this production, which opens July 19.

Stadium II Summer Theatre will be the first season to be produced in the new theatre facilities in the Drake River Union. Arena staging, in the Experimental Theatre, will be somewhat similar to the old Stadium Theatre, with the action taking place in the center of the room and portable seating surrounding the performance area.

Ticket information for these productions and for the two August productions, "Mikado, and "Low on High," is available in the College of The Arts Ticket Office in Mershon Auditorium.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

I can count on my two hands the number of movies I have been to in the past twelve years because I go to so many plays. As a result, I have missed some fine films.

Amoung them were "MY FAIR LADY" and "LAWRENCE OF ARABIA," which are two of the eight movies being shown at the Ohio Theatre each weekend starting July 7 with "LOVE STORY." The other are "TOP HAT," "SWEETHEARTS," "CAMILE," "HELLO, DOLLY!" and "THE GREAT CARUSO."

If, like me, you missed any or all of them call 469-1045 for ticket information.

Stadium II Summer Theater opens this season with "YOU'RE A GOOD MAN, CHARLIE BROWN" on July 5 at 8:30 pm with special matinees July 8 and 15 at 2 pm. For reservations call 422-2295. Dr. Charles Ritter is directing this one.

I caught Dianne Disque in "PAJAMA TOPS" at the Columbus Springfield Dinner Theatre last week. She is the local girl who took over the role of the wife when the original cast member had to go back to New York.

She took over with one day's rehearsal and no direction. This is a girl who is going places. She was a runner-up in the Miss Ohio-Universe pagent last month and will compete this month in the Miss Ohio-World contest.

Dinner theater directors take note-there are a lot of local people who are talented and qualified to fill those roles. I'm sure the local audiences would prefer a good show to one with cast members who just happen to come from New York. How about that?

The Columbus Springfield Dinner Theatre opened "YOU KNOW I CAN'T HEAR YOU WHEN THE WATER'S RUNNING" this week and it will run through July 30.

"LAST OF THE RED HOT LOVERS" closes this weekend at Playhouse On The Green and "CHILD'S PLAY" opens July 3. This is a "don't miss" drama so call 885-4441 for reservations now.

around town

SHERATON-IN AIRPORT

If you are like I am, when you dine out, you prefer something a little different. If this be the case with you, then make sure you head some Friday or Saturday evening to the Sheraton-Inn at the Airport. Here you will find complete French menu, offering the finest in French Cuisine.

I stopped out there last Saturday. What a meal, to say the least. It was not only extremely unusual, but expertly prepared, making the entire meal a dining experience that I shall not forget for a long time.

First, I started off with soupe a l'oignon gratinee - onion soup, in English. Now, this had a rather delicate flavor and was loaded with cheese. I could have made a complete meal on this one item.

This was followed by Salmon Fume. Here is something that is certainly tasty and different. It was strips of salmon, rolled and served with a delectable sauce. I could have eaten a large platter of this, but then I would not have had room left for something that is really out of this world.

This was the main dish Les Escalopes De Filet De Rachel. This is think slices of filet mignon with a sauce comprised of Hennesy and Grand Marnier. It is flamed at your table. Believe me, this is one of the most mouth-watering, delicious meat items you ever want to eat.

Like true French service, your salad is served last, just before your dessert. On the menu last Saturday was La Tomate Sablaise - fresh tomatoes stuffed with all kinds of seafood, such as shrimp, crab meat and salmon. As with the rest of the meal, this, also, was different and gave my taste buds great pleasure.

For dessert I selected Les Cerises Jubilees, Cherries Jubilee. Just plain yummy, that's all I can say. In fact, in very simple words, that is the best and just about the only way to describe the entire dinner. It was actually prepared as if you were royalty. As I said at the beginning, my meal at the Sheraton Airport Inn was a pleasure that I seldom get to experience.

SCIOTO DOWNS

Scioto Downs is a race track. Yet, it is an entertainment mecca for those of us Around Town. Besides offering the usual fare of good horse racing, Scioto Downs gives you a lot more.

In my opinion it is a restaurant, lounge and nite-club with the most beautiful decor and unique entertainment of any place in Columbus.

The entire operation is located in an area that was designed by the best of them, Mother Nature. The setting is really beautiful.

The club house is plush. There is tier seating in the dining area. There is not a bad table in the place. Each one gives you a panoramic view of the track and the lovely scenery.

The food and the service is as good as you will experience in the best restaurants in the country.

I firmly believe that those of you who enter club house dining area will find the size and beauty of it all, almost breath-taking. In case you are wondering - no, you don't have to be a race track expert to visit and enjoy the luxurious dining facilities of Scioto Downs. Although, I have found that a couple of dollars bet does make things more exciting.

A track expert or not, make sure you dine at the Club House of Scioto Downs real soon. It is an enjoyable experience that you will talk about for a long time.

RAMADA INN EAST

This week and next, at the Ramada Inn East, you'll find not only a very entertaining group, but also a rather unusual one. It is unusual because there are more girls than boys in the quintet. It is a three to two situation, and in my book, those are pretty good odds.

The leader of the group, who in my mind is no dummy with a set up like this, is Jim Garski. Jim plays electric piano and sings. Both of these departments are well taken care of by this talented young man. He is strong and shows a touch of class and creativity in his musicianship.

Next is Denny McQueen. Here is a real triple threat man. This fellow divides his time between drums and electric guitar. He handles both of them with equal ability which is way above average. When not acting as an instrumentalist, Denny whips out some darn good vocal work. This fellow can really sing.

Now, comes the beauty contest - Lee Ann Hyatt, Carmen Ozenberger and Karen Balchieck. All three look great in the hot pants, sing well (either together or individually) and are just good all-around performers.

By the way, when Denny is playing guitar, Lee Ann takes over the sticks and brushes. To me, I feel that she is one of the better female thumpers in the busines.

All in all, the quintet of Boys 'N' Ivy, (cute name) have more things going for them than a one arm paper hanger. It is a rather right group that work well together. Each member could go out on their own. Yet, they are able to blend their voices together, creating some way-out four and five part harmony.

Boys 'N' Ivy is an extremely entertaining livesome. You'll like the way they keep the audience in mind with their music. They play a strong melody line and are not loud or over-powering. This is one of the rare groups in the entertainment field today, that you can go and truly enjoy both the music and your companion without shouting at the top of your lungs.

See them at the El Picado Lounge of the Ramada Inn East. I'll bet you'll go back again.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Be sure you don't miss the Society of Song, currently packing them in at the Sheraton Inn North. This is a real smooth group that plays all types of music. They are not loud and they play a heap of pretty, pretty music.... I stopped in at the Charleston Club again the other night, and owner Hal Case was in a mood to play for about an hour at the electric organ. All I will tell you now is that this guy is truly great. Be sure to read my column next week with a complete review on Hal Case at the electric organ. In the meantime, run down this week to the Charleston Club. You won't be sorry.... Stop the presses. I just found out, that the fabulous entertainer, Miss De Lois and Her Music Men are at the Lincoln Lodge. Ok, you know where to look for me late at night. Yep, I, along with many, many others, make this the last stop on the way home while Miss De Lois is there.... Keep in mind that the Dobbs House at the Airport has the most ususual entertainment and the finest food Around Town. Their dining room faces the landing field and it is wall-to-wall glass. Where else can you take the family and watch the planes while sipping your favorite cocktail and enjoying a delicious lunch or dinner? Believe me, the food is excellent at the Dobbs House Airport.... Don't forget that Sonia Modes is playing lots of good piano music and making plenty of people happy Monday through Thursday at the Holiday Inn East. This gall is as talented as she is personable. In my opinion, the Holiday Inn East has the best cocktail hours in the city. A real fun, friendly place to go.... Free Spirit continues to please the people at the Marriott Inn. While I have not been there for a few weeks I run into lots of people commenting about them. Tood Hill is the feature vocalist. He has a voice that won't stop. You will enjoy the smooth, soft stylings. Don't miss them. For a place that offers good, family food, then head to Kuenning's Restaurant.

Theatre Company Schedules Six Plays

Annual Luau Success Critical

The annual Luau of the St. Stephen's Community House will be held at the Walnut Hills Country Club, Friday, July 28.

The success of the Hawaiian style event which is the major fund raising activity of St. Stephens is particularly important this year, according to Donald L. Mains, Luau chairman.

He states additional support is needed to hire more workers to help fight the drug problem in the neighborhood which, he says, is growing.

This can be done by improving facilities and putting the workers out among the youngsters to draw them from the street, Mains states.

The evening's entertainment, offered at $25 per person, includes cocktails from 7 to 8 p.m., an exotic luau buffet at 8, dancing to music by Dick Stein from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and swimming from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Aloha skirts, muu muus, grass skirts or casual attire is suggested.

Mrs. Tom Moody is serving as honorary chairman with David Adams, Ann Favret and Donald Mains her co-chairman.

Reservations should be mailed to Donald Mains, 1668 Moreland Dr., Columbus, 43220.

Whose Garden Is This?

BY RICHARD L. PAUGH (THROUGH YOUR LOCAL TEA ASSN.)

On June 9 my mail brought me great news from the detergent folks. I no longer had to worry about using phosphate-bearing detergents in my automatic washer.

In the face of two years of vacilating pro and con by the Federal government, the people who bring us the soap opera were kind enough to relieve us of any further wofry.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL Protection Agency in Washington bounced around between a total ban, a "we can live with it" attitude, and a refusal to state the case at all.

Like the agricultural pesticide problem phosphate has a true friend in the massive chemical conglomerates that sell them. Lobbying teams of highly-paid Washington Lawyers descend on Congress whenever water pollution is discussed and assure with a pat on the back and a steak dinner that there is no pollution due to phosphate usage.

When I speak to a PTA or women's club, invariably some sincere lass will ask if there is any real harm to using hard (nonbiodegradable) detergents. I try my best to answer-according to the last known statement by the Federa EPA.

SOMETIMES I find that I am a few months behind because their public relations corps was too busy filling my mail with someone's speeches to bother with the latest warnings. I would seriously like to be able to get valid information from my government as fast as I get the hoopla from industry.

Meanwhile, the first global conference on pollution was held in Stockholm during June. This meeting between all nations (Conference on Human Environment) is really a giant step towards future problem-solving.

For the first time in recorded history, the environment is uppermost in the minds of men. It is above the power lobby, the farm lobby, the Chamber of Commerce, and even beyond the reach of the soap opera folks.

THE FIRST major announcement to come out of Stockholm, dated the same day I got my phosphate assurances, was a warning against the unrestricted use of phosphates.

Phosphate is a mined substance that learned scientists tell us is finite. At best, we have a 60 years' supply left and no new supplies are being found.

Phosphate is winding up on the floor of the oceans much faster than anyone realized. In all fairness to the afternoon TV shows, the largest use of the precious stuff is in fertilizers.

THE POPULATION of the world this year is almost four billion. At the rate we are using phosphates, we will have to raise our food without it in less than 60 years and the crops then will only support two billion people, but the population (on the present increase ratio) will be 11 billion.

Fertilizers should be applied in a liquid form for less runoff. This would lead to less sales and an unhappy agri-business.

And incidentally a healthier world.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Don't use washing detergents with phosphates mentioned on the label. If no ingredients are listed, put the box back on the shelf.

DEAR CONSUMER:

Buying A Pool? Consider Safety

By Virginia Knauer
(Special Assistant to President Nixon for Consumer Affairs)

The weather is hot and getting hotter. Your children are complaining and begging you to get a swimming pool.

You decide you're not going to put it off another year, so you want to get a backyard pool built or installed right away.

When you are considering prices and different kinds of pools - in-ground, above-ground, or portable pools of plastic or vinyl-don't be in such a hurry that you fail to consider safety:

Is the diving board too high or too springy for the size of the pool? Or is the pool too - small for any diving board at all? When diving into shallow water you can hit the bottom and suffer serious injury.

Does your pool need a fence to keep out small children, especially when the pool is unattended? Local ordinances in many areas now require adequate fencing around swimming pools.

Is the pool deck or the pool bottom slippery?

If the pool is of in-ground construction, does it have a steep bottom slope where a swimmer could hit his head? Or underwater steps that protrude into the pool? Or an underwater ledge that could be hazardous to divers? Is there a shallow area for children?

The consequences of hazardous pool design could be serious. Your children, especially, would have the most exposure to danger. A Federal Government study found in 1965 that of 230 home pool deaths reported nationwide in newspapers, more than 75 percent erere children under 10 years old.

The National Swimming Pool Institute has begun a voluntary safety registration program for manufacturers to make sure that diving boards and swimming pools are properly matched.

For imformation on the program, write NSPI, 2000 K St., N.W., Washington, DC 20006. NSPI also can provide a free booklet, Pool Safety, and a copy of its Suggested Minimum Standards for Residential Pools for 50 cents.

You can also obtain two free booklets—Kidproofing the Backyard Pool and Safety Tips In, On and Around the Water—from the Bureau of Community Environment Management, U.S. Public Health Service, 550 Main St., Cincinnati, OH 45202.

If you are in doubt about the safety of the pool you already have, don't continue to take chances. Find out how to get your pool inspected and what you can do to make it safer. Your local health department is a good place to start.

County Highway Maps Available

County Engineer Cletus E. McPherson has received supplies of the latest edition of the Franklin County Highway Map. McPherson's office supervises preparation and distribution of the detailed map of Columbus and Franklin County with the approval of the Board of County Commissioners.

A map user can locate freeways and expressways and their interchanges, proposed road routes and approximate opening dates, interstate highways, federal and state routes, county highways, primary and secondary township highways, unimproved highways and streets, village and subdivision streets, private lanes, county, township and corporation boundaries, rail lines and points of interest.

Map data includes the following road mileage within Franklin County — at the close of 1971 and exclusive of municipalities: 171.75 miles of state roads; 457.11 miles of county roads; 121.79 miles of township roads and 210.06 miles of township addition roads.

McPherson said individual copies of the new map are available without charge at the Franklin County Engineering Office, 970 Dublin Rd. and the County Engineering Office at County Court House, Mound and High [illegible].

THE ENERGY CRISIS IS THREATENING YOUR WAY OF LIFE

The Gas Shortage:

What you can do about it!

The national energy crisis is the most serious problem facing America today. Without adequate energy supplies, there is no way to solve most other major national problems.

The worsening crisis involves all primary fuels—oil, gas, coal and nuclear—together with the electricity dependent on those fuels. Natural gas which supplies almost one-third of all U.S. energy needs is already unable to meet current demands.

Unless the public recognizes the problem and urges government to cooperate with industry for a prompt solution, we could move from crisis to disaster as early as the winter of 1973-74.

The Columbia Gas System has formulated an Action Program which it believes the Federal Government must adopt to enable the gas industry to deal effectively with the growing gas supply crisis. While this Action Program is directed primarily to the gas shortage, it will ease the total energy crisis by contributing, directly or indirectly, to adequate supplies of other energy—nuclear, coal, oil and electricity.

Your support of these actions is urgently needed.

Domestic Exploration and Development Must be Greatly Expanded.

For the last four years more gas has been used in the lower 48 states than has been found. Gas being used is not being replaced and none has been found to provide for increased needs. This trend must be reversed as quickly as possible.

1. Producer Rates
The Federal Power Commission should encourage an expanded exploratory program on the North American Continent by allowing substantially higher rates to producers than those currently in effect. The Administration, Congress, and the public must understand that the increasing cost of exploration is inevitable.

2. Lease Sales
The amount of federal land made available for exploration must be increased substantially, both in the Gulf of Mexico and on the continental shelf off the Atlantic Coast. Federal lease sales must be held more frequently with greater areas of land involved.

3. Sanctity of Contract Legislation
Congress should pass the bills now before it which will: first, assure producers that approved contract prices and other economic terms of contracts will not subsequently be changed by Federal Power Commission order, and, second, set more realistic standards for determining gas prices. These measures (H.R. 2613 and S. 2467), known as the Sanctity of Contract bills, can contribute significantly in providing the economic incentive that producers must have to undertake costly drilling programs.

Nonhistoric Sources of Gas Must be Made Available Promptly.

Historic domestic sources of gas cannot fully satisfy the nation's growing requirements. Therefore, the prompt development of other sources of gas is [illegible].

1. Oil and Gas From Alaska.
Construction of the trans-Alaskan oil line must be permitted to move forward at the earliest possible date. Not only is the high quality oil from the North Slope of Alaska needed to supplement present domestic supplies but the gas associated with this oil must also be added to the nation's supply of energy by the latter half of this decade. This gas cannot be recovered until oil production starts so the line to bring out the oil must be built.

2. Import Policies for Liquefied Natural Gas and Petroleum Liquids Required for Synthetic Gas.
Practical import policies for liquefied natural gas (LNG) and the petroleum liquids required to produce synthetic pipeline quality gas should be established as soon as possible. The problems of national security and balance of payments can and must be reconciled with the fact that synthetic pipeline quality gas and LNG are the quickest means of expanding the nation's gas supply.

3. Coal Gasification Research and Development.
Research and development of the gasification of coal must be pursued vigorously in the years immediately ahead. Coal gasification offers one of the most promising sources of gas in the 1980's and thereafter. Thus, adequate funds should be appropriated each year for coal gasification research. The existing joint industry-government program for accelerating the construction of pilot plants for gasification of coal should be funded promptly. The industry portion of $10 million for the first year of the program has already been committed; the government portion of $25 million for the next fiscal year is still pending before Congress.

4. Joint U.S.-Canadian Energy Board.
The National Administration should seek to create as soon as possible a joint U.S.-Canadian Energy Board to help coordinate programs which would make Alaskan and Canadian natural gas available to the United States market. The joint Board should be a clearinghouse for expediting all matters necessary for the development and delivery of this gas.

Better Energy Administration Needed.

1. Amend National Environmental Policy Act
Congress should promptly review the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and amend it to clarify certain provisions and administrative interpretations. Passed in 1970, NEPA had as its objective the improvement of the environment and quality of life. This objective must be achieved. However, because of vague standards set forth in NEPA and because of unwieldy procedures often used by administrative agencies to implement the Act, the initial actions under NEPA have paradoxically obstructed efforts to supply the American people with clean burning natural gas. The result is not only a serious imbalance between the ecological and energy needs of the nation, but, ultimately, an imbalance between different environmental considerations.

2. A Department of Natural Resources.
A Department of Natural Resources should be established. The President's departmental reorganization plan contained in his message to Congress on March 29, 1971, and embodied in Senate Bill 1431 should be enacted. It should, however, be amended in accordance with Senate Bill 1025 to include the Environmental Protection Agency in the Department of Natural Resources.

As you can see, the national energy crisis is complex. It threatens the physical, economic and social well-being of every American. We have informed Congress and the Administration of our Action Program to help correct the national energy crisis.

You owe it to yourself and your community to become more informed about the grave national energy situation. Write for a free copy of the brochure we have prepared which presents the facts of the energy crisis together with the details of the Action Program Columbia Gas has developed to help correct this crisis. Congress and the Administration have been informed of our Action Program.

What Can You Do?

Raise your voice. Your government and your elected officials are sensitive and responsive to your needs, when you make them known.

Write to your Senators and Representative. Tell them you are concerned about our nation's energy crisis. Urge each of them to support the positive actions that are needed if we are to prevent this crisis from becoming a disaster.

Symphony Series Ticket Campaign Begins

One hundred members from the 32 units of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra kicked off a campaign for new tickets sales for next season last week at the Governor's Mansion.

During the summer these volunteers call prospective subscribers to the symphony and invite them to attend the two series of concerts at the Ohio Theatre which begin in October.

THE COLUMBUS Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Evan Whallon, will present two identical series of nine concerts each, on Friday and Saturday evenings at the Ohio Theatre for its up coming 1972-73 season.

The orchestra's 22nd jubilee year will also include an optional concert by the famed London Symphony with the popular conductor-composer-pianist Andre Previn on the podium.

Music Director Whallon, recently returned from triumphant appearances in Prague and Budapest, has chosen a program of all orchestral favorites for the festive opening on Oct. 13-14, including the Dances from "Three Cornered Hat" by DeFalla and Rachmaninoff's Second Symphony.

The remainder of the series is as follows: Oct. 27-28 - Czech pianist Rudolph Firkusny celebrates the 35th anniversary of his American debut by performing the Dvorak Piano Concerto and Mozart's C Minor Concerto.

Nov. 17-18 - American soprano Leontyne Price performs slected arias by Verdi, Mozart and Strauss.

Dec. 1-2 - Puccini's "La Boheme", performed by a stellar array of vocalists from the New York City Opera (Karen Altman, Nadia Witkowska, Thomas Palmer, plus a return engagement by Kenneth Riegel).

Jan. 26-27 - Israel's young violin sensation Itzhak Perlman will perform Prokofieff's Second Concerto.

Feb. 9-10 - Chilean pianist Claudio Arrua will perform Brahms' Piano Concerto No. One and Beethoven's C. Major Concerto.

Mar. 2-3 - French flute virtuoso Jean-Pierre Rampal performs concertos by Mozart and Ibert.

Apr. 6-7 - "An Evening at the Ballet", staring Edward Villella and Company.

Apr. 27-28 - The Columbus premier of "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz, performed by Metropolitan tenor John Alexander and the Columbus Symphony Chorus.

Mar. 25 - Andre Previn directs the London Symphony (one performance only at a special discount to season subscribers).

Knee High On The 4th Of July

..AUGUST might be the month when "the corn is as high as an elephant's eye" but July 4 is the first milestone when farmers take the tape measure, go into the field and measure the height of their corn crop. From early indications most farmers will reap a record harvest since it is apparent in this photo that the corn has reached the traditional "knee high on the 4th of July" height that, according to oldtimers, means a good harvest. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

ON BOND ISSUE, BUSING

Residents Question School Board Member

The fate of the Columbus Public Schools $89.5 million bond issue was one of the main topics of discussion at a meeting last week of east side residents.

School Board member Mrs. Virginia Prentice told the group of Triple R residents the issue seemed to be stymied after it failed to be approved at the last board meeting.

"I REALLY don't know what will happen now," Mrs. Prentice told the audience of over 100 residents.

"We need the bond issue desperately, especially people on the east side."

One east sider, Mike Robbins, questioned Mrs. Prentice about the racial involvement in the delay of approval for the bond issue and what was to be done.

"I WANT TO see the whole system healthy and not held up on this point," Robbins said.

"One week ago we were handed six suggestions from the three black members of the board," Mrs. Prentice said. She said the suggestions concerned making a statement on integration by the school board.

"Monday morning we had a breakfast meeting with the Chamber of Commerce and were urged not to make the issue an integrated one or it would fail."

"THE THREE black members said no there had to be some statements made and so Dr. Ellis (superintendent of schools) proposed an alternative."

Mrs. Prentice said before the board meeting it was felt that there was enough support for the compromise statement to win approval.

"I support integrated experiences on a voluntary basis and busing for programs." Mrs. Prentice said.

SHE WAS ASKED as to her stand on busing to achieve racial balance.

"There will be no busing strickly for racial balance if I can help it," she responded.

"Please remember that we are one vote away from in on the board. We have three members who are committed to full integration and four who feel that it is not the solution. Just pray that none of us four ever gets sick."

MRS. PRENTICE said there had never been a federal ruling on the neighborhood school concept but that the Supreme Court had agreed to hear a case later this year.

"Right now the law says any school which is trying hard to achieve integration through rational methods is okay."

"Here in Columbus we have voluntary enrollment. If a student wishes to transfer to another school and it aids the racial balance it is okay but we don't provide transportation. We also assign faculty so that there are both black and white teachers at different schools."

"I FEEL IT is best to integrate but on a reasonable basis and a voluntary one." She said Columbus was currently spending a million dollars a year for busing due to over crowding at some schools.

One member of the audience questioned Mrs. Prentice as to how the black community felt about the busing issue.

"I canvassed the black area recently and I was told by the residents that we should not insult them by saying their kids have to sit next to ours in order to learn. They said give us equality education where we are. Don't bus our kids all over town."

SHE ADDED that black board members were not listening to the black people and what they wanted.

"These three members are as committed to their position as I am to mine and maybe they feel now is the time to force the issue."

She said one of the recommendations presented by the black group, was that an area must qualify before the bond issue can allow a school in their area.

"BY QUALIFYING it meant that the area had to show racial and socio-economic balance. I cannot support this."

Mrs. Prentice said she asked one member what would happen to an area that had severe overcrowding and did not qualify.

"I was told we should declare a moritorium on building until banks bring their loan rates down and builders agreed to put all types of housing in an area."

"IT IS VERY hard to compromise on things like this."

Mrs. Prentice was also asked what the bond issue would mean to the eastern area.

"Under the proposal Olde Orchard Elementary would get additional classrooms and a learning center, Oakmont will get the same, Woodcrest will get more classrooms and an instructional materials center."

SHE SAID Yorktown Junior High would get a home economics classroom, and additional art room, and more classroom space.

Walnut Ridge will get a learning center, the body shop will be enlarged and the library will be remodeled into more classrooms and a new library built.

"As to the double sessions at Walnut Ridge the bond issue should help there. The proposal calls for another junior and senior high building to be built on Refugee Road and this should elebiate overcrowding at the high school and at Yorktown."

SHE SAID SHE did not know when it would be built, provided the issue is put on the ballot and approved.

"But you would think that double sessions would make an area top priority."

Mrs. Prentice was also asked whether money raised through a 1962 8.2 mil levy could be used for building.

"THE ONLY way we can build new buildings is through a bond issue which the tax payers approve."

She was also asked if additional teachers would be needed to fill the new buildings and if this would mean another levy also.

"We have most of the teachers we need except for the three new learning facilities we propose. I personally hope there will be no need for another levy right away. You can't keep asking and asking. You have to weed out the waste and I think Dr. Ellis is showing signs of doing this."

JUST PRIOR to closing the meeting Mrs. Prentice said she would like to ask the audience if they would still vote for a bond issue if it were put on the ballot.

"I think the last board meeting hurt our image and maybe some people lost faith in the board, but I hope not. Dr. Ellis asked me to see if you people would answer this question for us. We would like to know how we stand and what we should do."

BY A SHOW of hands those present overwhelmingly declared they would vote through the bond issue.

Red Ink In CPS Future

Columbus Public Schools will go into the red to the tune of $4.6 million during 1973 if fiscal projection of the staff are accurate.

Up to another $2.5 million can be added to this figure if it becomes necessary to deplete the contingency fund which is allocated to meet unforeseen expense.

THESE FIGURES are apparent in the 1973 budget proposal slated to be submitted for board consideration today.

An actual deficit will be avoided, however, in the record budget request of $98,781,480 against anticipated income of $89,054,380.

This is because of a $8 million balance which is anticipated to be carried over from 1972.

THE BALANCE was made possible when $12 million in new state money was provided by the legislature, but staff restoration to end the austerity program of 1971 were not fully implemented and the 1972 budget did not appropiate $3.5 million of anticipated revenue.

The accumulation of a sizable balance during the first year in which new money is received (either from governmental sources or local levies) is one of the financial facts of school operations.

During the first year a share of the additional money is banked in anticipation of the annual eight percent salary increases and increments built into the salary schedule and other future expenses such as additional staff. Next year these costs will bring the total increase to 13 per cent.

DR. JOHN Ellis, superintendent, stated at a press briefing Monday that specific appropriations to implement recommendations of Project Unite have not been made.

He indicated, however, that the $2.5 million contingency funds (by law such funds cannot exceed three percent of the budget) is available to meet the cost of such programs the board of education elects to put into action.

Looking ahead of 1974, Dr. Ellis stressed that the school district will be in financial difficulty without additional funds from one source of another.

ASSUMING the contingency fund is left intact next year, the balance at the end of the year will be reduced to $3.5 million.

This sum, obviously, is not sufficient to balance a 1973–level budget,–even before the eight per cent annual increase in salaries and increments is considered.

Dr. Ellis pointed out that the $12 million received from the state is $6 million less than the previous administration had twice sought through local levy.

ALTHOUGH denying any commitment to recommending that board ballot a levy to be effective in 1974, the superintendent conceded, upon questioning, that he foresees a need of additional income, in 1974 and the next two or three years following, of from $6 to $8 million.

Stating he has not a crystal ball, Dr. Ellis contended the proposal is a "candid and honest" projection of expenses and revenues.

The board is expected to schedule a public hearing at the next regular board meeting Tuesday, July 18. The budget will be available for public inspection July 6 through July 17.

DR. ELLIS stated that he has learned not to predict what a board of education will do, but he indicated he believes it unlikely the board will take the issue of construction bonds off the table when they meet this afternoon.

He said that he has had numerous conversations with various members of the board since the matter was tabled last week.

According to Dr. Ellis, each member seems to have been reinforced in his order particular stand on the bond issue which split the board, black against white, at the June 27 meeting.

EACH IS hearing, Ellis reports, "Nice going; keep it up."

The superintendent also expressed his doubts that the board will unite to put the issue on the November ballot.

He did say, however, that Tom Moyer, president of the board, expects to devote the entire committee - of - the - whole meeting July 10 to discussion of the bond issue–if this action is agreeable to his colleagues.

PUD Units Reach Council

The first reading of a rezoning ordinance to pave the way for 956 PUD units north of the Olde Orchard Subdivision on McNaughten Road is scheduled for Columbus city council this evening.

The ordinance, if approved by council later this month, would rezone a 119.5 acre tract on the east side of McNaughten Road between East Broad and East Main streets from Restricted Rural Residential to Planned Unit Development (eight units per acre).

THE CITY'S Development Commission recommended council approval last month.

Since most rezoning ordinances receive only two council readings, it is expected council will act on the measure at its 6 p.m. meeting on Wednesday, July 19.

Also scheduled for a first reading at council's Monday night meeting (too late for Spectator deadlines) was an ordinance to rezone a 12.4 acre tract at the southwest quardrant of I-70 and Route 33 from residential to commercial.

PLANNED for the site is a motel (approximately 250 rooms) and related shops which would service the motel.

Council is expected to act on that rezoning Monday, July 17 (7 p.m.).

ResidentsCirculate Petition On Lights

Keeping the newly installed flood lights on at Oakmont Elementary School is the current project of Walnut Hill Park residents.

Residents in the area, concerned over neighborhood security, circulated petitions and obtained 296 signitures requesting the Columbus Public School system install lights around the school.

RON RAHE, head of the citizen's security system, said the school ground was very dark at night and was considered a problem area by the residents.

"If there's any trouble in the area it's the perfect place to run and hide. We found a motorcycle in the school yard one morning and it had been stripped right there."

Rahe said there had been a number of break-ins in the neighborhood over the past few years and that two homes backing up the school had been hit several times just this year.

"AFTER THE petitions were sent to the school officials, work crews came out and installed the lights," Rahe said.

"A little later I got a call from a woman who lives in the area who said F.T. Rudy, Assistant Superintendent of business affairs, was coming out to investigate complaints that the lights were disturbing residents who lived near the school," Rahe said.

He said Rudy had received two complaints that the lights were so bright they were shining in people's homes.

"ALMOST IMMEDIATELY after they were installed two of the back lights were removed and this seemed to satisfy most of the peolpe. But then we found that the lights had been ordered turned on at dark and off at 11 p.m."

Rahe said the lights were put in at a lot of expense and crews had spent two weeks on the work.

"It seems pretty wasteful to turn the lights on for such a short time, especially if the people were satisfied with having the back lights removed."

"WHILE RUDY was here we called people in the area to turn on their back lights to show that they just weren't strong enough to light the school yard."

Rahe said he really did not know why the lights were ordered shut off at 11 p.m.

"We were told we needed to get another petition with the signitures of people who lived in the vicinty of the school. Some of the people signed the original petitions."

RAHE SAID the second petition had just been finished and would be sent on to the schools.

"There are about 43 people in the area and we got over 35 or over three-fourths of them to sign. I personally know of only three people who refused to sign or even talk about it."

He said one person who had made the original complaint to Rudy, had signed the second petition.

"I think a majority of the people do want the lights and I think this is what should be important. I wouldn't want the lights shining in my house either, but we walked around and checked and didn't see any shining directly into any home."

RAHE SAID, "The whole purpose of the lights is safety for the area. We have a citizens patrol or security group out here and if anyone has a problem they call me or two other guys and we go out and check. The dark school yard makes our job harder."

He said with the second petition they expect the lights to come back on, but if they did not copies of both petitions would be sent to the school board.

A Birthday Salute In Berwick

EVERYBODY LOVES A PARADE and the people in Berwick put on a good one Sunday despite the threat of rain. There were floats, a marching band, twirlers and old cars all helping the civic association salute the Fourth of July. The covered wagon, entered by Picard Street, won the best float in the parade.

Earn Degrees

One Whitehall and two Bexley students received degrees at OSU's Spring Commencement earlier this month.

Degree recipients included Richard M. Millard (B.A.) from Whitehall and Bexleyites Elizabeth B. Farquhar (B.A.) and Stephen G. Moon (B.S., Allied Health Professions).

Service Award Winners Prove Well Deserving

Service to their community has been very much a part of the daily lives of John T. Loehnert and Thomas E. Davis.

Both men recently received recognition for their involvment as they were named recipients of the "distinquished service" award from the Bexley Celebrations Association.

Loehnert of 120 N. Cassingham is vice president of Dollar Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Born in Cleveland, Loehnert has lived in Bexley since he was one.

"I left Bexley to attend Denison University and to serve with the Navy. After the Navy I went back to Denison and was a basketball coach from 1947 until 1953."

He was head coach for the last two years he was there.

"In 1953 I came back to Bexley and joined Dollar Federal and I've been here ever since."

Loehnert said he had gone all through the Bexley schools as have three of his four children.

"I have a son who will be going into the sixth grade next year. My youngest daughter just graduated from Bexley High school. My oldest son was captain of the school basketball team in 1970."

He said, "When you have four kids in the schools you just can't help but want to get involved and take part in the community."

Loehnert said when he graduated from high school in 1940 his father was president of the school board.

Loehnert's community activities have included serving as president of the Eastern Kiwanis, founder and first treasurer and a trustee of the Bexley Civic Improvement Association.

Loehnert successfully chaired the 1965 campaign for a five mill school levy, and has been a past president and treasurer of the Bexley Boosters. He has served on the Recreation Board and is a member of the Mayor's Advisory Board.

"A few years ago I served as campaign manager for Ken McClure," Loehnert said.

He has been chairman of the Franklin County Cancer Society drive, and treasurer of the county's American Cancer Society.

At St. Alban Episcopal Church he is a fiscal trustee and a member of the vestry.

"I am also a national officer with the Navy League, which is the civilian arm of the Navy. There are councils in over 300 cities in the U.S. I have been in the reserves for about 30 years," Loehnert said.

"Most of my activities now are with the youth. I coach the fifth and sixth grade basketball program for the Recreation Department."

Loehnert said he was fortunate in being able to be so active in the community. "I'm just lucky to have a boss who gives me enough time to get involved."

Davis, who lives with his wife Maridel at 946 Vernon Rd., is a native of Columbus and has lived in Bexley since 1925. He is currently the Columbus Country Club "Pro" shop manager and a former Columbus General Depot employe.

Davis served as a State of Ohio Auditor for eight years.

"I learned I had been selected last Saturday morning," Davis said, "and it was a complete surprise."

Davis was a charter member of the Bexley Civic Improvement Association and has served continually as a trustee.

With the BCIA, Davis sold bonds and took a week's vacation to do manual labor in the actual building of the swimming pool. In 1971 he had charge of building a new snack bar.

He has served as vice president and a trustee of the Association for Bexley Civic Development and has been active with the BCA.

Davis is also Bexley's representative to the Mid Ohio Regional Planning Commission.

"I served with the Montrose PTA and later the parent organization at the high school. I was also active with the band parents and booster club which is for fathers and parents of boys in athletics."

Davis has also been active in the Scouting program and an area captain for the Bexley and Eastmoor American Cancer Society drives.

"I have been an elder at both the Miami Avenue and Brookwood Presbyterian Churches," Davis said. He added that he had been baptised at the Miami Avenue church.

Davis and his wife have three sons all of whom graduated from Bexley High School.

"I also was a Bexley High School graduate," Davis said. "I guess my heart is in Bexley."

Optimist Veep

GEORGE F. SIMCOX, of 4596 Ellery Dr., has been elected second vice-president of the Eastern Optimist Club for 1973. Simcox, who is manager of the South Hamilton Road office of the Ohio National Bank, is a member of the Reformation Lutheran Church. He and his wife, Wilma, are parents of two sons.

Suggestions ranged from the furnishing of common rooms and buying books for the library to working in each local community to have ramps built at entrances to public buildings and seeing that new buildings are constructed with wide hallways, doors and restrooms to accommodate wheel chairs.

Convention plans for both the Mississippi Valley Conference of the General Federation (Nov. 12-14 in Columbus) and the District Fall Conference (Oct. 6 in Columbus) were also discussed.

Parade Planning Big Job

By ANN MYERS
Special Staff Writer

Before the Bexley Fourth of July parade could wend its colorful way through the community, it first had to march across the living room of Mrs. Cathy Birhenzl, president of the Bexley Celebration Association.

BCA officers and trustee gathered at Mrs. Birhenzl's home one evening the week before the parade to plan the order of the 99-plus units that were entered. Index cards, one per unit and color-coded to distinguish floats from bands and antique cars, curved across the floor as the parade planners shuffled them about to make the parade as varied and smooth-running as possible.

BANDS MUST be separated by five or six other units to keep the music from getting scrambled, and this year planners had 11 bands to deal with. The music problem is complicated by an occasional musical float, and drum and bugle corps and other precision marching units that have to be separated from bands so their own cadence and commands can be heard.

The Bexley parade is always headed by the float of the organization who won the grand prize in the previous year's parade. It is followed by the Bexley High School Band and the officials' cars. Parade planners keep records of the line of march from year to year, and try to alternate units from back to front, so each unit gets a different position each year.

Equestrian units are popular in parades, but they can be a headache to parade planners. Traffic can easily frighten horses at street. And of course horses will be horses, and marching units following them literally have to watch their step.

THE BEXLEY parade is completely planned in advance, so that units can find their places no matter when they arrive at the formation site. Floats are positioned according to house numbers, bands' places are marked with lawn signs and antique cars find their parade unit number chalked on the curb.

The Bexley Fourth of July parade is distinguished by its lack of commercialism and politicking, as well as its efficient organization.

The 1972 parade planners Judy Stowe, Bob Fausnaugh, Art Hersh, John Lambrecht, Dan Kozelek and Mrs. Birhenzl are all veterans of past Bexley parades. They know that parade planning is a big job that makes for a somewhat frantic Fourth, but they admit that they probably will be back for more in future years. "It gets in your blood," one of them said.

Sweet Compromise

Across the nation, school boards have been polarized by divisive philosophical concepts on school integration.

Until last week, Columbus had been fortunate enough to escape open polarization. Members of the school board had avoided overt confrontation by maintaining at least a veener of unity on the basic issue of providing quality education for every boy and girl in Columbus Public Schools.

Tuesday, the veneer was cracked and the entire community realizes that the gulf between the black and white members of the school board is deep.

The only hope for Columbus youth is that this gulf can be bridged.

The Spectator has been confident that the commitment of individual board members to education was deeply sincere, and that this commitment represented the rich soil in which compromise could germinate.

Now we must question this commitment. Apparently black members of the board failed to respect agreements laboriously reached, and in retaliation white members of the board are adamantly opposed to any further compromise.

The board has the double burden of philosophical differences which can be tolerated and personality clashes which are inexcusable.

The time is here when, as elected officials sworn to work toward for the good of the schools, individuals must work together within the framework of their ideologies and without the personal attacks that have added bitterness to the entire dilemma.

With all the rhetoric, name-calling and semantic confusion, the very real needs of the Columbus Public Schools apparently have become a secondary issue.

The black block is determined that each and every classroom shall be balanced – racially, socially and economically.

The white block is diametrically opposed to this proposition, well aware that such balance cannot be achieved without massive and mandatory busing.

The Spectator has long maintained that the only truly effective integration of the schools must come from integrated housing.

However, we respect the black's impatience--and the validity of their contention that integrated housing is at least a generation away.

But mandatory busing creates more problems than it solves and has resulted in failure wherever it has been introduced.

So, in the effort to unite in the interest of quality education, board members must rearrange their priorities.

Of far greater immediate import than how many "rich kids" and "poor kids" sit in a classroom or how many black children sit beside a white child is the problem of vocational education.

State law mandates that by 1974 40 percent of the students over 16 be offered vocational opportunity. In Columbus, this means about 8,000 slots—and currently there are facilities to accommodate less than 3,000 students in vocational programs.

These two factors alone make a construction program of utmost importance, as failure to meet state requirements threaten not only the charters of the school, but the State Foundation funds without which no metropolitan school system can survive.

Furthermore, without bond money, the development of Fort Hayes (which is believed to involve some of the most exciting ideas in education in decades) will die.

And only the calloused can refute the need for better facilities for the special student--the physically, the mentally and the neurologically handicapped children.

Born with two strikes against them, such children bear the third strike called when academic help is withheld from them.

But a bond issue answering only these needs is not enough.

Schools with wall-to-wall kids are poor schools, and they are not schools that lend themselves to integration.

The most viable alternative to mandatory busing which is foredoomed to make a battleground of our schools is voluntary enrollment with board-paid transportation for those requesting it.

But volunteer enrollment can be only theoretical as long as schools are already operating far beyond capacity.

For example, it is conceivable that many parents of students at East High School – and the students themselves – believe they would benefit by attending Walnut Ridge.

But Walnut Ridge is already on double sessions and without a new high school in the far east, more than a handful of transfers from East High cannot be accommodated.

The same situation exists throughout the city and can be answered only with construction.

Busing is not inexpensive, but it is an expense that must be borne in the name of offering integrated education to those who seek it.

Dr. Watson Walker has consistently pointed out that it is no more improper to bus a poor child or a black child than it is to bus the crippled or the retarded– or the student seeking technical education.

Walker is right and at long last the more conservative members of the board are willing to go along with the concept.

Furthermore, the skill centers that are planned in each quadrant of the city promise more natural integration than could be achieved through even extensive gerrymandering.

The desire for knowledge knows no discrimination and the magnet schools are certain to bring both economic and racial balance.

Volunteer enrollment is evidently not the whole loaf that Mrs. Marie Castleman, Dr. David Hamlar and Dr. Walker would like to wrest from their colleagues.

But it is so much more than has been offered before that it is incomprehensible that they are willing to jeopardize the gains that can materialize--and the quality of education in the city.

An old Wall Street adage reads that bulls can make money and bears can make money, but that hogs make nothing.

This might well be paraphrased to contend that blacks can gainfully compromise and whites can gainfully compromise, but that the pig-headed lose the ball game.

One-Track Minds

Who's The Loser?

All that glitters is not gold, and the union-backed bill for a 37.5 percent increase in wage floors can leave a great many unskilled workers holding a brass ring.

Extending minimum wage coverage to 10 million more jobs, proposed legislation would raise wages to $2 an hour now and $2.20 cents an hour a year from now.

Business and industry cannot absorb this wage hike--and it threatens the entire economic stabilization program.

But, perhaps most important of all, it will bar the doors to many unemployed young people looking for jobs.

Employers have generally gone out of their way to create jobs for teenagers, but such trainee jobs will undoubtedly dry up with a minimum wage of $2.20. Even the most altruistic employer will hesitate before "making room" for the inexperienced at $100 a week per greenhorn.

A far more acceptable version of the bill should be supported by everyone who is sincerely interested in fighting inflation--and lending a hand to youth.

It is the Dominick-Taft Amendment, cutting the hike to $1.80 now and $2 next year, and providing a youth differential allowing employers to create new jobs for teenagers at less than the minimum scale for adults.

The last thing in the world the United States needs is less jobs for its restless youth.

'Pitch-In'

Americans are slobs.

The litter strewn about in a single holiday weekend proves it. Such litter would adequately cover a four-lane highway stretching from Boston to Detroit.

In an effort to convince us to mend our dirty ways, Gov. John Gilligan has declared July 3-9 as "Pitch In Week", supporting a new nationwide anti-litter campaign.

Locally, Tom Moyer is chairing the Columbus Chamber of Commerce committee to coordinate Pitch In activities initiated by the United States Brewers Association. The State Highway Department (which spends three-quarters of a million dollars a year picking up after careless motorists) and the Department of Natural Resources (which struggles to keep our parks from resembling so many city dumps) are also cooperating.

Unfortunately, agencies generally do not generate the litter. It is individuals--you and I– who scatter not "plenty over the smiling land," but our garbage.

If Americans can be encouraged to "Pitch In" their trash at the nearest receptacle instead of pitching it out the nearest window or door, our land might once again be known as America the Beautiful.

'Disorganized Ball Still Exists'

To the Editor:

Allan Bloomfield's comments in support of DIS-organized baseball were excellent. Organized baseball, and other sports, for young kids has almost gone too far.

However, Allan, drive down side streets and country roads and you will find disorganized baseball exists all over the land-for the game of baseball is extremely versatile.

Regarding organized sports: Smith Road, out in the southeast-end, once played in the Marion Township league in softball and basketball.

We had a problem, especially in basketball, for we only had an effeminate male teacher who was not allowed in our locker room, and the female teachers. One day Scioto Trail was scorching us off the court the first half.

Scioto Trail was a highly organized team, well coached, and they had big lanky Jack McClain who went far in both baseball and basketball–and was making like Wilt Chamberlain that day. Old S.R.S. never did stop Jack and Scioto Trail, but we sure slowed them down for every time Jack reached for the ball the second half he found one of us "shorties" from Smith Road already attached to the ball.

It became pretty ridiculous jumping against towering Jack–but jump we did— and the most disorganized team, Smith Road, left the court after a respectable showing— and with the knowledge Scioto Trail was even more disorganized the second half than we were.

Speaking of baseball at S.R.S. was speaking of using a hard outseamed ball, fast pitch, in a game an idiot dreamed up for the game was called softball. No gloves. At least for most players.

The Board of Education reasoned that since the game was supposed to be softball it had to be softball. Not very intelligent reasoning.

In fact a regular baseball was strictly taboo at school. So was a football in any form. Fellows could get away with cannon crackers, red devil bombs, and the like among firecrackers—but never baseballs or footballs.

The result was we organized baseball and football teams ourselves. No adults. They were welcome to come and watch—but not supervise.

Yeah, Allan, old Smith Road–the scourge of the southeast-end–in baseball and football—and organized only by boys–never adults.

A guy can write of the old days-and think about the new days where too many adults have come to the point of almost making a mockery out of sports for kids. I do think adults today should have some say-but there is no doubt too many have too much say-with too many teams and leagues of the present.

One reason I think it might be better if adults are partly responsible is because I remember one time a huge Lincoln Park fullback cracked three of my ribs. Our family doctor taped them up, and told my Dad and me I was not to play football for two, or three weeks. I could have suffered badly if the ribs punctured my innards.

Unbeknown to my parents, and the doctor, the team and me decided I was needed a few days later and I played the entire game. If I had been injured worse, perhaps fatally, in the game I supposedly went to watch the sport of football would have been blamed. And really banned.

And adults could have stopped what turned out to be a battle royal one afternoon. That day we took on a gang of roughnecks—and were beating them 59-0 five minutes into the second half when the game blew up into an all-out fight. We had the game of football well under control, but were not prepared for fighting, although we held our own.

A wise adult might have stopped the melee before the other team started to throw rocks the size of baseballs because it seems they were completely frustrated.

Crack In The Ivory

Those living in ivory towers have little opportunity to know what goes on in the jungle.

Too often, those dictating the curriculum for student teachers are similarly protected from reality.

Public school administrators, practicing teachers and student teachers themselves have long protested the lack of input they have had into teacher preparation.

But until recently, colleges and universities have collectively thrown up their hands in horror at the suggestion they just might not know what they are doing.

A tentative agreement between the private colleges of Franklin County and the public school systems of the area creates a Teacher Preparation Advisory Board.

A tentative agreement between the private colleges of Franklin County and the public school systems of the area now creates a Teacher Preparation Advisory Board.

As proposed, the board would consist of faculty member and one student enrolled in teacher training from each college or university, a number of actual teachers equal to the number of participating institutions of higher learning and a like number of superintendents.

The board would study all aspects of teacher preparation including curricula and experimental programs and make advisory recommendations.

The agreement also provides for the use of practicing teachers as guest lecturers in educational courses.

In few professions has the chasm between the academic world and the world into which it graduates its students been so wide as in that of education.

The input of the practicing physician and attorney is not only welcomed but sought out in colleges of medicine and law.

Furthermore, in other, non-professional fields it has become standard operating procedure for educators to turn to future employers with the question "What do you want from us?"

But again, the colleges and universities have generally resisted any effort on the part of school administrators to suggest a pattern of training for the student they will ultimately hire.

Promising as the tentative agreement is, its implementation is actually going to have little effect on improving the quality of teachers that come into the school systems of Franklin County.

It is a harsh fact of life that the vast majority of teachers hired locally are not from private colleges, but from Ohio State University.

The very volume of teachers turned out by OSU shapes this fact.

To date, the powers that be at OSU have refused to be involved in the agreement reached with the private colleges.

But there is hope a similar agreement can be reached. Some University officials including Dr. Laverne Cunningham, dean of the College of Education, are reported in favor of such a board, and seek only ways to cut the red tape that prevents its formation.

The position has been taken that any such advisory board would have to be made up without imput from other colleges as the size and complexity of Ohio State makes its problems and approaches unique.

We won't dispute that, but let's stop the talking and get the show on the road.

The natives out in the jungles are getting restless--and they're not happy with the missionaries being sent to lead them to the clearings.

WHAT IS YOUR SUGGESTION FOR AN EQUITABLE SOLUTION TO THE PROPERTY TAX DILEMNA? (IN OTHER WORDS, WHAT WOULD YOU SUGGEST AS AN ALTERNATIVE TO HELP SUPPORT PUBLIC SCHOOLS; PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION AND SUCH THAT WOULD BE MORE FAIR THAN PROPERTY TAXES?)

This Week's Respondents: Worthington High School

Transfer the tax to items of luxury. Those who can afford luxuries are probably paying high property taxes now. Elderly persons who have retired in expensive residential homes should not be required to pay property taxes when they don't even have children in school. These people need the money to live on. More people would be able to buy luxuries if the property tax wasn't so high. This luxury tax would take the burden off of poorer people and elderly people. - JERI BURT

A program of slow phase-out of property tax replaced with combined program of state lottery and graduated sales tax with a possible alternative of a state local luxury tax. The main brunt of funding would be carried by the lottery. Such a program has been adequately successful in other states such as New Hampshire and Nevada. - JIM GERRARD

PROPERTY TAXES cannot continue to rise. A statewide lottery would help the situation. The ticket price would have to be kept down so that everyone could afford to buy tickets. People that do not use the facilities paid for by the lottery would not be forced to pay for them, as they are in the property tax situation. Though the chances of winning the lottery are slim, enough people would be willing to take that chance when they know what the money will be used for. - AMY BONNELL

A lottery seems to bring out a negative side of people, but if people have a compulsion to gamble, it would be more logical to channel money into a worthwhile pocket. If people were simply interested in helping schools, the prizes wouldn't matter too much. Tickets could be sold in post offices, government buildings or other designated areas. - TERRI WINNETT

I feel the funding of public schools by property tax is very unfair. Those living in a "lower class" area won't be given an equal chance educationally - just because of where they live. So only an area of a somewhat "middle to upper" class is given the greater schooling opportunities. Students should not have to subjected to a school with less facilities just because of where they live. It's almost like a type of prejudice against the lower class areas, which shouldn't be brought out for funding schools. A statewide lottery has been used in other states, some smaller than Ohio and it has worked greatly in supporting the schools. This way the money could be divided equally to all areas and the schools and facilities would be more equal, giving each student an equal opportunity to show what he or she can really do. - AMY BECKER

KEEP IT the way it is now because there is no better way to do it. Nobody's really unsatisfied with the system the way it is. - KATHE KOSS

I think that a fairer way to fund public education and transportation would be to have a state lottery and use the proceeds to go for education and transportation. This way would be fair to everyone because anyone who didn't want to enter wouldn't have to. This would probably make a lot of money because no one really minds spending 50 cents when they might win $50,000. - ANNE WENZEDBERGER

I feel that property tax should be lowered but not discarded. Sales tax could go up 1 or 2 cents to provide money. Each family with more than two children could be charged for each extra child. - KEITH CHARLES

MY OBJECTION to property tax is not based on the fact that only certain people have to pay them, but rather because it unequalizes the funds available from community to community, somewhat short-changing the less affluent ones. A redistribution of the funds from property taxes would solve this problem. I also feel that property taxes should only effect property of a certain value. Most families in Worthington would be above this value, but can certainly afford the tax. Property tax funds would be supplimented by or exchanged for revenue from a state income tax (graduated as the Federal one), a luxury tax, an increase in sales, tax or from a state lottery. - ANNE BREMNES

The Profit Factor

Accusing the sponsors of the HB 980 of "blatant hypocracy" smacks of partisan oratory.

But William E. Garnes, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, does have a legitimate gripe as he castigates refusal of the legislature to require state government contractors to list job openings with OBES.

He rightfully contends that HB 980 (requiring employable welfare recipients to pick up their checks at the OBES offices and register for work) accomplishes little if jobs are not available.

The proposed amendment to the bill was not designed to step on labor's toes or give the welfare client an unfair advantage over the person already gainfully employed through his own initiative.

Jobs normally filled through union hall arrangements or internally were to be exempted from the mandatory listing.

So just why should contractors enjoying the largesse of state business be unwilling to list job opportunities with OBES?

The answer is fairly obvious. The image of those receiving welfare with the employers is no better than it is with the taxpayer.

The only difference is that the public has the too-often-mistaken impression that the Welfare person accepting public dole doesn't want to work–and the employer knows that many lack the skills to perform to their satisfaction.

Rather than bemoaning the "cruel hoax" of requiring welfare recipients to report for non-existant jobs, Mr. Garnes could better expend his energies in placing the "unemployables" of the state in training slots–an alternative provided by HB 980.

Contractors aren't snobs when it comes to hiring–they are simply profit-motivated.

And few are altruistic enough to open their payrolls to the unskilled who are sometimes more apt to snarl up the works than add to the profit.

'SPIZZARICTUM' IN RETIREMENT?

'I Loved Being Mayor, And I Miss It'

BY JANE ROBINSON

"I loved being mayor, and I miss it," Jack Sensenbrenner proclaimed last week.

Those words were hardly surprising from the man who approached his administrative responsibilities with a zest more often displayed by a 10-year-old for the last day of school.

BUT HIS attitude toward his defeat last November seemed to reflect a man slightly mellowed.

"I would be mayor today if it had been God's will," he said quietly after denying that he would have campaigned differently if given the power to second-guess himself.

In a moment though, the old spizzarictum showed through.

"I want you to know that no Republican can pray any harder than I can," he laughed.

IN SPITE of the feisty attitude of a man who at the sight of a reporter's notebook will reel off his accomplishments as if he were rehearsing his own funeral oration, he yet appears to be truly humble.

To him it is a constant source of satisfaction that he was born in a land where "a little guy from Circleville" – without wealth or a college degree---could in elected mayor of what he considers the greatest city in the country--and be privileged to serve longer than any other mayor (14 years.)

With Sensenbrenner's deep sense of patriotism well-known, the approach of the Fourth of July triggered the Spectator to seek Sensenbrenner out to learn whether old mayors, like old soldiers, just fade away.

IT WASN'T easy to run him down. Since leaving office he has spent much of his time tearing around the country speaking on Americanism.

Asked whether he was affiliated with a speaker's bureau, he rather indignantly denied he needed such help.

And he's probably right. After speaking before a national convention of developers here in Columbus he has been received more invitations to appear than he can possibly fulfill--especially since he refuses to fly.

IT IS NOT, he explains, that he fears air travel, but his wife cannot fly because of her health—and where Jack goes, Mildred goes also these days.

He did admit he could use the red dome light that used to be his. It appears Georgian state patrolmen are a trifle hostile to person who has a heavy foot–even when he explains he is the former mayor of Columbus. ("That's what they all say, mister").

But Sensenbrenner is still in the city enough of the time to be exceptionally well-informed on what is going on–especially in City Hall.

AND HE'S not particularly pleased with a great deal of what he sees.

Currently, the attitude of Safety Director Bernard Chupka and Mayor Tom Moody toward "my police" has led him to claim he has lost his respect for the pair.

He labels the suspension of an officer for using a verboten type of bullet as the "most asinine" act he has heard of.

HIS VIEW of the proposal by the Community Relations Commission to place in a non-sensitive position any officer who wounds or kills a suspect is equally dim.

"We have to have law and order," he stated.

With obviously carefully chosen words he stated that Community Relations Director Cliff Tyree (whom Moody has yet to dislodge) will do a fine job for the city if he functions for Moody as he did for Sensenbrenner.

"HE MUST continue to support the same principles as we did–equal treatment for all people," Sensenbrenner elaborated.

Still on the subject of police, the former mayor stated that the vacant buildings down town are testimony that merchants must be given adequate police protection.

Sensenbrenner sees the vitality of Downtown Columbus as the greatest single problem facing the city.

HE CONTENDS that a convention center, a sports arena, a mall of international shops, good, reasonably priced family-type restaurants and an outstanding night club or two can be the "shot in the arm" that will save the city.

Futhermore, discussing the obligation the municipality has to its merchants, Sensenbrenner vows that the proposal to make Main Street one way east is a threat to the businessmen that can not be tolerated.

The former mayor is also deeply commited to the development of mass transit is vehemently aghast at further construction in the downtown area without provision for parking.

QUERIED on the deficit predicted for the city this year and next, he indicated any deficit is uncalled for, and added with a malicious grin. "At least that's one thing they can't blame Sensenbrenner for."

He did lambast the idea of putting cabinet officers in at the top of the pay scale, a policy adopted by Moody upon taking office.

"Not only should they have to earn what they get," he said, "but this kind of thing leaves them nothing to work for."

A HUMPHREY man from the word go, Sensenbrenner is scornful of the other Democratic candidates, but is too much a realist to predict that Humphrey can turn the McGovern tide.

But he has not given up, and as a delegate plans to fight for Humphrey to the last ditch.

His praise for Gov. Gilligan was, at best, guarded, stating that "he still has to prove himself."

LOOKING back on his annexation policies which doubled the size Columbus had attained in 120 years during his first two terms of office and brought the city to its present 150 square miles, the former mayor denied he had ever favored annexation simply to make the city larger.

"I merely kept it from being strangulated," he said emphasizing that he was fighting new corporate entities, not the old ones such as Bexley, Whitehall and Arlington.

"I think the time has passed for vigorous annexation," he said, expressing the idea that now extension of services must be emphasized.

BACK to his favorite theme of Americanism he struck out at the "900 nuts" on the Ohio State University campus whom he holds responsible for his losing the election.

Declaring them to be only a disruptive minority among a lot of fine students, Sensenbrenner holds a deep resentment for the dissidents who spit not only upon him but the American flag during one of his appearances on campus.

Once again he declared that the foundation stones of our county are a dynamic faith in God, a dynamic faith in the red, white and blue, and dynamic faith in the American home.

"I'M SICK and tired of these nuts that call their parents old fools," he exploded.

He spoke of a heckler on a small campus of about 5,000 students who yelled, "God is dead."

The staunch Presbyterian retorted, "He is not, I talked to him on the way over."

OLD SHOWMAN that he is, that instance recalled to him the time when his plane was endangered by bad weather.

"Did you know that I can pray Jewish, Catholic and Protestant all at the same time?" he asked.

He added, "Now I've got a problem, because I don't know which prayer was answered."

To Jack Sensenbrenner, it is organizations such as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and Big Brothers that represent the salvation of youth and organizations such as the Lions and Kiwanis which help a community build its boys and girls into citizens.

UNRELENTINGLY against those who do not admire the nation with the same devotion that is his, Jack again reiterate his remedy for those who find fault with the U.S.A.

"They should all be put on a boat--and then the boat should sink, as I wouldn't wish them on any country in the world."

Leaving Jack Sensenbrenner, the Spectator reporter clutched his tokens of friendship--a jeweled American Flag in one hand and a chocolate bar in the other.

BUT I carried away something else too.

It was the reassurance that, in office or out, Jack Sensenbrenner is a big man with a heartful of love for his country, his flag and the city of Columbus.

BUCKLE UP

A seat belt or harness can make the difference between life and death. Buckle up...it's the cheapest life insurance going, points out your Department of Highway Safety.

DON'T HURRY

"Try Saving Lives Instead Of Saving Time" took county honors in our recent slogan-essay contest. Don't hurry yourself to the graveyard; drive safely, adds your Department of Highway Safety.

ALTHOUGH unfamiliar with the far north community locale Drive in the far north area where Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Sensenbrenner lives, the Spectator reporter had no difficulty in locating their home. The flag flying in the front yard identified it as plainly as a billboard, proclaiming "This is where Jack Sensenbrenner lives" could. One of the year round pleasures of the Sensenbrenners is their back yard, extending to the river front, which is a bird-watcher's paradise.

NEVER DEPEND ON MEMORY

From Noah To Toy Poodles, Librarians Find The Answer

By MARILYN DURBIN
Special Staff Writer

How old was Noah? How can you get crayon out of clothes? Where can you buy a toy poodle? What is the average height and weight of a 12-year old boy?

These are just a few of the myriad of queries librarians in the general reference room of the Columbus Public Library, 96 S. Grant Ave., are asked during a day.

ELEVEN full-time employees—ten women and one man (half of whom are recent college graduates)—have the responsibility of finding the answers to even the strangest inquiries.

The reference room received 3,000 phone calls during the month of May alone.

"We received 74 research questions, 533 directory and information service questions, and 1,632 public catalog questions," said Miss Marilyn Campbell, head of the general reference division. "And that's not our busiest month." However, the early Spring months are their most active, she said.

WITH THREE people manning the phones on two-hour shifts, others work on the floor answering an average of 125 questions per day, said Miss Campbell.

The reference room librarians usually answer general questions, while librarians of the other seven divisions - Humanities, Fine Arts, Children's, Fiction, Audio-Visual, Business and Technology, and History, Travel, and Biography-answer questions pertinent to their divisions.

Librarians are required to have a reference for every answer they give.

"OUR CARDINAL rule is never answer a question from memory," said Miss Campbell. "For example, we might know the world is round, but we can't tell someone that unless we have a reference."

Some people have managed to ask questions that would puzzle even the most learned librarian.

Those questions are kept on file with the requestor's name and phone number until an answer can be found.

A LIBRARIAN'S work is "never boring," Miss Campbell contends, "because there is always a variety of questions to answer."

Incidently, according to the Bible Dictionary, Noah was 950 years old, the answer to how to get crayon out of clothes can be found in the book "How to Clean Everything," you can buy a toy poodle at Dog World, and the average height of a 12-year old boy is 58.2 inches and his average weight is 85.6 pounds.

In any case, whatever the question, there will always be a librarian to help you find the answer.

AFTER ALL, books are the doors to learning and librarians are the keys in helping you unlock them.

ROLAND SUNKER

Robert Anderson's, "You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running," is a play that provokes laughter by making fun of us, you an me in our everyday lives, sex lives, that is.

The play is divided into four vignettes. The first takes place in a play producer's office. This one sets the mood for the entire play. Robert Anderson creates a playwrite who wants to produce a play that depicts man as he is. One of the devices he uses is a husband shouting to his wife from the bathroom, "You know I can't hear you when the water's running," Now, how many times have you and I said that to our husband, wife, children or parents?

In the first one, titled, "The Shock Of Recognition," the subject deals with the rather so-called normal sexual relationship between husband and wife.

In each succeeding vignette this subject matter progresses with age of man and women. In the second one, "The Footsteps of Doves," which takes place in the showroom of a bedding store, the subject matter is a husband and wife who are reaching "that age," where it is time for twin beds. The humor here gets pretty funny. The husband doesn't want to give up sleeping in the same bed with his wife. But, when a pretty young divorcee asks his help in trying out a big double bed, George changes his mind, especially after she invites him over.

The third one deals with all the trials, and tribulations of their children reaching adulthood, and their involvement in life.

The final one deals with man and woman in their old age. The action takes place on a side porch, with Hubert and Muriel discussing their past lives. Both have been married before and they can't remember each other's names. They keep calling each other by former mates' names. Here again, this scene was very indicative of man and his problems. This time in the twilight of our lives.

While the play proves a good amount of laughter, its messages give plenty of food for thought.

What gives this production its impetus in entertainment value is its cast. The members do an excellent job with a difficult show. Dennis Percy as the old man, and the playwrite, Rody Brown who portrays the producer, the husband in the bedding store and the father in the scene dealing with his children do one heck of a convincing job. Edward Murphy, who stole the show in "Forty Carats," is up to his usual self. He is a true master on stage. Then there is Teddy Gould and Betty Scherfel. Both do an outstanding job in the various characters they create.

This is one I have to recommend. "You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running," is an interesting play. As one of the patrons put it, "It's ornery, but good."

CHARLESTON CLUB

While I have heard thousand of entertainers in my life, none do I enjoy listening to any better than popular Hal Case. Hal is an organist and vocalist. In both fields he is superb.

Hal, for those of you who may be new to Columbus, is the owner and manager of the famous Charleston Club. This is a swinging place seven nights a week. While there are always a bunch of sexy go-go girls providing plenty of entertainment, things really happen when Hal mounts the stage and begin to perform.

Besides being an excellent musican, Hal is one of the most dynamic performers in show business. This guy makes more music than most duos and trios.

You have to hear him to believe it. Hal is a stylist in every sense of the word. When he plays, you know it is Hal Case and no one else. Using a strong attack, Hal weaves a host of beautiful patterns. Belting out the old time tunes, or playing some of the pretty tunes of today is old hat to this fellow. And, wait until you hear him sing. He is not a crooner. Hal takes a song and sings the devil out of it.

Besides playing organ and singing, Hal also plays drums at the same time. He is no octupus, just a one man band.

Make sure you drop in sometime soon at the Charleston Club. If Hal is not playing, just walk up and ask him. After all, Hal is an old time showman, and as such, will always be glad to perform. He'll jump on stage just for the asking.

Take my word for it, you will find Hal Case a fascinating, explosive entertainer.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Now that the Fourth of July is past, things will really begin to swing in good ole Columbus Town. Big things are happening at the Olentangy Inn. Besides Glenn and Bill doing a bang-up job at pool side, things swing there in the afternoon, too. Plenty of good looking gals around the pool and the patio bar helps things, of course. And, listen gals, rumor has it, that in the afternoon, all drinks are practically given away. More on this next week... A couple of weeks ago, I told you that Princes Heebaba was back in town. She called to tell me that she has opened up a belly dancing school. So here's your chance, gals. If you are not interested in becoming a professional, it is a good way to lose weight. Fun, too... This is the second and final week for Miss Del Lois and Her Music Men at the Lincoln Lodge. A great entertainer. Her drummer is Berry Slattery who is fabulous. By the way Berry and his lovely wife, Gina who works at the Columbus - Springfield Dinner Theatre, are expecting number four in January. As I said, Berry is a talented guy... Clyde and Hilda continue to pack them in Thursday through Saturday at the Ramada Inn East. This outfit never changes. They are always fantastic.

Put on your specks and read The Spectator.

CUBBYHOLE COOKING

By MYRNA MCCAULEY

The boat is launched, the deck swabbed and the life preservers are all in position. So it's time now to invite a few friends and do a little hobby cooking on the water.

But this time forget about hotdogs and potato salad, okay? Instead, consider something different like cheese fondue done in a chafing dish. It's absolutely the world's easiest way to go gourmet, even aboard ship, because the cooking's done by your guests. At the table or top deck under the open sky.

ALSO, please note. If you don't want to haul the chafing dish along to the boat, you can improvise. Do the cheese fondue yourself in a double boiler down in the gallery. A brightly-colored double boiler would be nice. Then serve the fondue right in its pan, wrapped in a towel and set on a hot pad. Less festive this way, but nobody objects to taking a few liberties out-of-doors.

Here are the menu, the recipe, the do-ahead and follow-through for serving four to six at your next fondue party afloat. The directions are all equally appropriate, I might add, for indoor entertaining – if you happen to prefer the comforts of home.

SWISS CHEESE FONDUE

2 pkgs. (8 oz. each) pasteurized process Swiss cheese
2 tbsp. butter
Garlic clove
1 tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. salt
Dash red pepper
1 cup milk
With Wine: Increase flour to 1½ tbsp.
Add ½ cup dry white wine.

DO AHEAD: Chill cheese and shred with grater; place in bowl. Measure butter into small custard cup; peel and cut ends from garlic clove; embed clove in butter. Measure flour, salt and pepper and stir together in another small custard cup. Cover bowl and custard cups with plastic wrap and let stand at room temperature; place on tray with wooden mixing spoon. (Measure liquid just before using.)

AT CHAFING DISH: Use Sterno for medium heat; set out ingredient tray for guests with these directions: Melt butter with garlic in chafing dish over direct flame. Remove garlic. Blend in flour mixture. Stir in milk gradually. Cook, stirring constantly in figure-eight pattern to blend ingredients, until slightly thickened. Gradually add cheese; stir constantly until completely melted. (If using wine, stir in now and let cheese reheat.) Makes 2½ cups. Serves 4 to 6.

DUNKING TIME: To eat, swirl bite-sized chunks of French bread in fondue. I use the long loaf of French bread, cut in half and heated in two foil packages. You'll have leftover bread; but that's good, I say.

VARIATIONS: If you want to skip the Salad with Ham Juliene, set out meat, seafood and vegetable dippers. Like fresh shrimp, ham, king crab or lobster, precooked and cut into bite-sized pieces. Cuke cubes, green pepper strips, whole cherry tomatoes, too.

If anyone drops his dunker food in the fondue pot, usually he has a choice of three penalties. He can skip his next turn, kiss anyone he wants or give the next fondue party.

But since it's your water show, you set the rules. Choose only penalty number three and you're sure to have another Fondue party soon.

Conglomerate Reshuffles Under 30

Although it was "business as usual" in the Bexley's Old Timers loop last week, the Conglomerates made it a "whole, new ball game" in the Under Thirty standings.

Unbeaten Central Ohio Welding staved off runnerups Susil Construction and Brad Salt (each 3-1) in Old Timer play by pulling the Pussycats tail, 14-5.

WAYNE HANNERS, Art Fothergill and Wes Rosenthal all collected three hits for the winners.

Welding, headed by the three-hit stickwork of Chet Kosciuk and John Copenbarger, outslugged Dollar Federal (16-11) despite heavy hitting by Ken Gordon (five hits) and Jack Prather and Jerry Wadkowski (four each).

Elsewhere, Salt bombed Christ Lutheran, 14-8, as Hal Ridenour (five hits), Mike Hardesty (four hits) and Sam Barrett and Bill Sutton (each three hits) did the most batting damage. Craig Sebode collected three hits for the losers.

THE CONGLOMERATES breathed new life into the Under 30 loop with their 13-6 upset of previously unbeaten Cohagen.

Steve Wyman (three hits, including a pair of homers), Tom Thiebert and Bill Hoffman (three hits each) made the biggest Conglomerate noise while Cal Hamerick slapped out three safeties for the losers.

Love Studio and Klamfoth moved up one-game off the pace with victories — the former downing winless Brad Salt, 10-1, the latter nipping Columbus Copy Products, 6-4.

LOVE'S TIM Greiner collected three hits as did Honda's Sonny Darguach and Kevin Griffin.

Central Ohio Fishing Report

BUCKEYE LAKE - Channel catfish continue to be taken on shad and nightcrawlers fished on the bottom around gravel bars and retaining walls. A few largemouth bass are hitting artificials in the hollow areas of the lake with plastic nightcrawlers most productive. Outlook - fair.

INDIAN LAKE - Channel catfish are being caught on nightcrawlers and crappies on minnows throughout the lake. A few bluegills and largemouth bass are also being taken. Trolling in the area known as "Old Indian Lake" has produced a few walleyes and white bass. Outlook - fair.

KNOX LAKE - Anglers are having fair success fishing for crappies near standing and fallen trees in the northern portion of the lake. Live minnows are the most productive baits. Outlook - fair.

HOOVER RESERVOIR - Both shore and boat anglers are taking crappies on minnows, channel catfish, carp and perch on worms and a few walleyes on live and artificial baits. A few anglers, such as Willard Barnett of Columbus are taking white bass on artificial lures. Mr. Barnett recently landed four white bass ranging from 10 to 12 inches in size. Outlook - fair.

KISER LAKE - The crappie fishing continues to be productive using minnows as bait fishing near the brush pile fish attractors and from the fishermen access piers. A few bluegill are being reported taken from the more shallow areas of the lake using wax worms as bait. Outlook - fair.

DEER CREEK RESERVOIR - The tailwater area is producing an occasional walleye, bluegill, carp and bullhead. Recently Dan Jenkins of Lancaster caught a 12-pound muskie from the tailwater using an artificial lure. Outlook - fair.

BEXLEY BOYS BASEBALL

Realtors, Kiwanians Maintain Deadlock

Divine Realtors and Eastern Kiwanis maintained their two-way deadlock at the top of the Bexley Boys Baseball League last week as the loop concluded its second week of play.

Devine downed A.O. Wing (13-3) and Hanna Paint (12-5) while Kiwanians edged the Painters, 7-6, and out-slugged Wing, 26-16.

IN DEVINE'S victory over Wing, Roger Weaver and Will Brumfield combined on a two-hitter – both safeties produced by Kary Meyer. Tommy Kirker paced the winner's attack with three hits in four tries and four RBIs.

Two extra-base hits (double, triple) by Paul Lynn and an outstanding, game-ending grab by out-fielder Larry Hiser highlighted the win over Hanna. Bobby Hanna had three hits for the losers.

Pressure pitching by Andy Nagle and Brad Ettore headlined the Kiwanis victory over Hanna while Ed Benedetti and Jim Damron (home run apiece) led the slugfest assault on Wing pitching.

THE LOSERS, paced by Andre Gordon's heavy hitting (triple, double, five RBIs), rallied from a 15-run deficit and closed the gap to 18-16 before Kiwanis accumulated its final margin in the last inning.

It was, at least, a moral victory for the losers who had tallied only seven runs in their three previous games.

Drexel Theatre won a pair of tights games (6-5 over Bexley Lions and 6-4 over Dollar Federal) to stay on the heels of the unbeaten co-leaders.

SCOTT KEARNS collected six hits for the two games while Jay Holzworth and Steve Gust each had five.

Dollar Federal evaporated RC Cola, 14-3, as Mike Willard got the mound victory (and hitting support from grand-slam homer-hittingRich Harris). Chris Ullman plated two of the loser's three tallies.

THE LOSS was costly for RC in another respect as Tim Bolen was lost to the team for six weeks. Tim made a great defensive play while colliding with a runner at first base. He held onto the ball for the out but was taken to the hospital with a chest injury. He is now home recuperating.

IN PONY League play, Bexley 'A' capitalized on six hits and five oppostion errors to down St. Catherine 'A', 10-4.

Mike Levison flipped a three-hitter and fanned 11 St. Catherine batsmen. The losers' Tad Mitchell was Levison's lone nemesis, collecting all three hits.

The other Pony contest (Bexley 'B' vs St. Catherine 'B') was rained out and rescheduled for July 20 (2:15 p.m.).

'Because I'm Very Proud'

Dear Sir,

I was wondering if you could report on my cousin who attended Mt. Vernon Nazarene College in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. He was awarded MVP baseball player. Him or his family know nothing of me writing this. If you're wondering why I'm writing you is because I'm very proud of having him for a cousin. He played baseball, football and a little basketball at Walnut Ridge High School. I hope you consider putting something in your paper about him winning this award. His name is Rick Curnutte. Thank you.

ON SPORTS WITH DENNY WHALEN

SPOUTING OFF

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

The recently concluded high school sports season, of which yours truly was an interested and hopefully "objective" observer, gave rise to a few random personal observations.

One of them is that the Metropolitan Columbus area has more than its share of standout school boy athletes. Witness '72 State team titles in basketball (Bishop Ready), tennis (Upper Arlington) and golf (Watterson)–not to mention a hatful of individual kings like wrestler Bob Dieli, tracksters Larry Jackson, Wayne Harris and John O'Brien, net star Jon Gurian, All-Everthing gridder Archie Griffin, big-time cage talents like Dave Hanners and Bob Taylor–and a host of others.

AMONG A LONG LIST of things that puzzled me was the decision by the powers-that-be at Columbus Public Schools to limit the '72 City League baseball playoffs to a single game.

After wisely, in my opinion, dividing the 13-team loop into rival North and South Divisions, somebody upstairs decided to short-circuit the chance for a real post-season diamond showdown by allowing only a solo "championship game" instead of (let's say) a best-two-of-three City Series.

At first glance that might seem to heighten the drama, but you'll look a long time before you'll find a baseball coach or player who considers a single game a suitable yardstick for determining "the champ."

THAT'S NOT INTENDED as a slight to Marion-Franklin's CL pennant-winners. I'm pretty sure the Devils would agree that baseball is too erratic a game for titles to hinge on one test.

A 100-victory season in the major leagues usually wins a pennant handsomely–and yet such a "runaway" winner will have lost 62 times over the course of the same campaign. Can you see a one-game World Series?

An excellent football or basketball team can (of course) be upset at any time by a considerably "inferior" opponent–but it doesn't happen very often. An excellent baseball team, even using its ace pitcher in every important contest (as many high school nines try to do), will almost invariably suffer more than a couple "bad days"–even get shelled–by clubs it could beat nine times out of 10.

IT'S JUST the nature of the game: Roberto Clemente goes 0-for-5 a lot more often than O.J. Simpson winds up with minus yardage.

All of which is meant to suggest that every City League coach I've talked to is in favor of changing to at least a three-game series next year–and that makes sense to me.

ANOTHER PUZZLER is the Central Catholic League's apparent reluctance to even up it's current five-team field by admitting a rejuvenated St. Charles.

Besides having been a CCL member when every current league entry except Watterson was a vacant lot, the E. Broad St. prep school shows every sign of regaining the athletic excellence of yesteryear–and pretty rapidly.

Maybe that's the major problem.

WITH ENROLLMENTS sagging over the past couple years, each of the current five member schools will undoubtedly feel the manpower pinch in it's athletic programs–most already have.

And St. Charles will doubtless attract more than one promising young athlete away from his "neighborhood" Diocesan high school.

But both of those eventualies are foregone conclusions–they'll happen whether or not St. Charles is admitted to the CCL. All that's gained by excluding the Cardinals is the dubious pleasure of knowing that they can't beat anyone else out of a championship that way.

IN ITS RELATIVELY few years of existence with an all-Columbus membership, the CCL has provided students, parents and spectators alike with high quality interscholastic sports activity–while generating a number of vigorous and (for the most part) healthy rivalries.

Refusing to add an eager and eminently qualified new member to its ranks strikes me as a small act, unworthy of the competitive spirit CCL coaches try to build and channel in their athletes.

Besides, a sixth team would certainly simplify scheduling procedures–and the host of St. Charles alumni who'd show up for football and basketball games wouldn't do any harm to cashboxes around the loop either.

WMNI To Carry Buck Grid Games

WMNI-FM Radio (99.7) will broadcast all Columbus Bucks football games this coming season – both home and away.

Play-by-play will be handled by Martin Petree and Bob Ribic.

TAT, Rick's Zero In On Milo-Roc Pennants

TAT Pizza (12-0) and Rick's Car Wash (10-0) maintained their lofty positions atop the Major and Minor divisions of the Milo-Roc-Mendel Baseball League last week.

MAJOR LEAGUE

Lindy Borror's home run and Greg Thomas' "four-base" single paced TAT to its 7-2 win over Liv-Moor.

THOMAS' bases-loaded single, coupled with three opposition miscues on the same play, brought home all four runners.

Bright spots for the losers were the discovery of pitching ace Mike Clarke and a pair of home-run "thefts" by centerfielder Ronny Rickenbacker.

Lindy Borror was double-trouble in TAT's 16-6 win over Beck Masonry – picking up the mound win and helping himself with a single, double, triple and homer (scored four runs).

BORROR HAD plenty of batting help as well from Bob Harrington, Perry Passen (each three-for-four) and Dave Eckles (four hits, including homer, and three RBIs).

Incidently, Harrington and Greg "Doc" Thomas are now 4-0 on the mound for the leaders.

Meanwhile, second-place Rick's Car Wash remained secure with two wins – 12-7 over Beck Masonry and 17-0 over Tommy's Pizza.

SCOTT SHAW (two doubles, two singles) set the hitting pace in the first game while Tom Burnett's three-hit shutout keyed the second victory.

Burnett got support from Mike Baldwin (three-for-three), Steve Sears (homer), John Burnett (triple and single) and Ernie Vacca (three doubles, single).

Elsewhere, Tommy's Pizza came from behind to outscore Convenient Food, 11-8 (despite Carl Turbett's four-bagger) and Liv-Moor downed Convenient, 4-2, behind the strong arm of Scott Engle.

MINOR LEAGUE

RICK'S CAR Wash cinched no worse than a title tie with a 15-3 win over Beck Masonry, although the leaders must face second-placers Convenient Food and Liv-Moor this week.

Greg Hippler and David Carpenter combined on a neat two-hitter as Liv-Moor blasted Tommy's Pizza, 24-3, while Jeff Estep (on the mound) and Jerry Morman (hit homer) paced a 17-9 Convenient Food victory.

Elsewhere, Convenient walloped TAT Pizza, 30-3, TAT outscored Beck Masonry, 19-14, and Tommy's Pizza bounced the Buckeyes, 18-11.

PONY LEAGUE

WITH THE exception of "nemesis" North Columbus Comets, the Eastern Kiwanis entry in the Central Ohio Pony League has fared well this season.

The Comets have trimmed the Kiwanians twice this season, the other three outings producing in the victory column.

Hitting standouts for the Kiwanians have been Dean Stertzer, Jay Hamill and Steve Pierano (all hitting over .500) – the latter whacking a homer in each of the 1st four games.

DOWN 7-6 in a game with Worthington recently, Bill Harrington singled, Pierano walked and Stertzer hit a homer to pull out a 9-7 victory.

Two triples by Chip Loftus, two singles by Hamill and Pierano's homer sparked a 10-6 win over the Hilltop Baseball Club.

Kevin Shaw (2-0) and Pierano (1-1) have been the mound stalwarts for the Kiwanians.

TEAM COACHES are Denny and Rodney Dew.

"Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

SCHOOLS BENEFIT

Study Shows Tax Impact

Citizens who might be relishing the possibility of an opportunity to retract Ohio's recent income tax at the polls might take a long look at a computerized study on the tax's impact on Ohio school monetary woes which was released last week by the Ohio Department of Education.

The study shows how much additional property tax would have been required in each district had the state income tax not been adopted.

"THE VAST computer study which exhibits the funding in each Ohio school district no doubt will be a pleasant surprise to many Ohioans," says State superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex.

Additional dollars which have been provided by the income tax to keep Ohio's elementary and secondary schools operating are the equivalent of a 5.42 mill property tax levied throughout Ohio, the study indicates.

Essex points out that "in over one-third of Ohio's school districts (241), local voters would have to approve 10 or more mills of additional property tax to equal the funds their schools receive from the state income tax."

TWO SCHOOL districts in Spectator circulation areas fall decidedly into the "or more" category — Reynoldsburg with a millage equivalence difference of 18.42 mills and Groveport-Madison with 15.82 mills.

Columbus Public Schools gained $11.7 million in additional funds, or $107 per pupil. Columbus voters, according to the report, would have to approve 6.74 more mills of property tax to equal that figure.

"Without the state income tax," Essex adds, "Ohio's fiscal condition in education would have collasped into chaos."

"IMMEDIATELY before enactment of the legislation, approximately 40 school districts had requested audits, many had borrowed funds or used other emergency actions to remain open, and school closures did indeed interrupt instruction for more than 60,000 students in Ohio.

"Without the tax," Essex concluded, "the situation could only have disintegrated further."

Here's the rundown for Spectator-area school districts after the income tax (figures in parenthesis indicate the annual increase per pupil and equivalent property tax millage which would have been necessary to achieve that increase):

BEXLEY ($78, 4.26 mills), Columbus ($107., 6.74 mills), South-Western ($85., 5.60 mills), Whitehall ($98.7 mills), Worthington ($84., 5.53 mills), Groveport-Madison ($134., 15.82 mills) and Reynoldsburg ($142., 18.42 mills).

Game Night

The Widows and Widowers Club of the Catholic Diocesan will hold game and card night this evening at 8 p.m. at the 4-S Club, 281 E. Whittier.

AmericanFlags To Be Burned

They'll march from South High Street to Schiller Park Friday. And when they get to the park they'll burn American flags.

They're asking the public to join them — and bring their own American flags to burn.

"They" is the Southway Post 144 of the American Legion and its auxiliary and the only American flags to be burned will be those no longer serviceable.

The Post, under the leadership of Commander Bud Quickert and auxiliary president Mrs. Walter Tuthill, will form at the post home (874 S. High St.) and march to Schiller Park for the 9 p.m. ceremony.

Notice to All Potential Residential Users of Natural Gas

You are affected by the Interim Supplemental Emergency Order of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, dated June 23, 1972.

If you plan to build a residential structure that will use Natural Gas, you must

1) File a written application with your local Gas Company office on or before July 10, 1972, unless you have previously done so; and

2) Have the structure under construction before October 1, 1972:

Note: The Commission's order defines "commencement of construction" as the completion of the footers and, if the unit includes a basement the completion of foundation walls. In the case of mobile homes, "commencement of construction" means completion of pads and the complete preparation of the park for mobile home rental by October 1, 1972.

Service to present residential Gas customers is not affected by the order.

Park & Recreation News

CASSINGHAM

KASSINGHAM KIDS successfully staged a water-balloon attack which left the MONTROSE MONSTERS helplessly soaked. This was a brilliant retaliation on Montrose, who earlier staged a similar attack on Cassingham.

CASSINGHAM girls' softball team dropped a 24-10 decision to Maryland, but leader Sue is presently regrouping her team. Leading hitters in the losing effort were Betsy Jackson, Tammy Clowson and Carolyn Coughlin.

CASSINGHAM went on a nature walk last Thursday which included a hike to the Jeffrey Mansion, through the Jeffrey Park woods, and concluded with a picnic lunch.

Events scheduled for the week included kickball, whiffleball and basketball games with Montrose, and a softball rematch with the girls from Maryland. Future plans call for the showing of Laurel and Hardy movies on the playground, which should be great crowd pleasers. Check the bulletin board for further announcements.

MONTROSE

Bexley's Number 1 playground (Montrose, of course) had a victory party at Shakey's on June 27th which was enjoyed by all those who helped win the Marathon.

June 26th was the first scheduled football game which was a victory over Maryland's boys. Tuesday the 27th the boys won a basketball game against Maryland with Mike Hertenstein, Skip Stout and John MacKinnon leading scorers in the 52-42 win. On the 28th the coed kickball team from Montrose kicked the Maryland team off the field by the score of 24-12. Let's keep up our winning ways, Montrose!

Thursday night the Montrose gang roasted hot dogs at the playgrounds under the watchful eyes of Mike, Patti and Tom (the new evening assistant leader). This was Tom's second night on the job, and we welcome his help and enthusiasm.

MARYLAND

After spotting Montrose 22 point lead, Maryland fought valiantly to come back, but lost the Marathon by six points, coming in second.

Last week a combination Hippie Convention - Bubble Gum Blowing contest was held. Mark Salva took the honors with a bubble larger than his face when intact, which also covered his hair when it broke!

Last Thursday was the wettest day on the playgrounds as the mids fell victim to a torrent of water balloons. (The leaders didn't escape - they were drenched with bucketfuls of water.)

The Maryland girls softball team crushed Cassingham 24-8; the boys basketball team was defeated 52-42; the football team beat Montrose 7-0 in a game highlighted by fine defensive play. Only score in the football game was a pass to Larry Wilson from leader Jeff.

Tonight's plans include a bike-hike picnic to Jeffrey Mansion, and all parents are invited to come along. Thursday will feature a clown contest in the morning and a pizza party at Shakey's in the evening (again, parents are urged to attend and join in the fun).

On Friday a four-square tournament will begin.

Monday night, July 10 will be hobby night and all parents and children in the Maryland area are invited to enter a finished product from their favorite hobby.

These entries will be judged and prize ribbons awarded.

Tuesday we will hold the playground track meet which will serve as a preliminary for the upcoming Bexley Junior Olympics.

Off To BBYO Convention

JULY 6th through the 10 will be important dates for Lori Zeldin, left and Leslie Mendelsohn who will be attending the 1972 Youth Institute for B'nai B'rith Youth Organization. The meeting is to be held at the University of Illinois with young people from eight states particpating. Miss Mendelsohn is president of District Two and Miss Zeldin is the corresponding secretary.

BUSINESS IN ACTION

MEET YOUR PERSONAL SERVICE INDEPENDENT BUSINESS MAN

Calling All Gun Buffs

A step from a position as a trust officer of a metropolitan bank to manager of a mail order business might seem, at first glance, one entailing loss of prestige.

But it doesn't hold true for Jim Johnston.

Since Johnston left a Toledo bank in 1969 to manage the Golden Age Arms Co., Inc., of Worthington and purchased the establishment a few months later, he has built it into one of the largest mail order businesses in the nation.

Throughout the world, Golden Age Arms, Co., has become a prestigious name among those gun buffs who collect antique firearms.

Each item in the firm's 140 page catalogue is unconditionally guaranteed, and the stock is extensive, ranging from Kentucky rifle parts and accessories to frontier knives, axes and hunting kits.

Perhaps the most unique phase of Jim's business is that which probably represents the largest selection of books concerned with American antique firearms, frontier history and American in Ohio.

He also stocks books for the beginning and advanced "do-it-yourselfer" which show each precise step in the construction of the Kentucky rifle.

At times Johnston appears to be more of a "consultant" than a salesman and his place of business more a "research center" than a shop.

These are the days when most of his time is spent in supplying the answers gun enthusiasts want and earnestly trying to help them with problems relevant to firearms and firearms construction.

Jim openly admits the glow of pride he experiences when he is able to provide a customer with the merchandise he seeks–or the information he needs.

The door is open at the Golden Age Arms, Co., to anyone interested in muzzleloaders, supplies and books–or simply to anyone who has been curious how to old master pieces were built or who has a yen to see the type of gun common in the days of Daniel Boone and the tools which helped to clear the wilderness.

In his place of business, the Golden Age Arms, Co., Inc., 667 High St., Worthington, Jim Johnston stands by while a customer looks over a percussion lock.

If there is anything you want and its related to antique fire arms or other relics of the frontier the person to see is Jim Johnston. The phone number is 885-9767.

Everyone Loves A Parade

ONLY THE young in heart could have as much fun and put on as good a show as the members of the McDowell Center Recreation Center did when they staged their "Seventh of July Parade." A couple of gay blades contributing to the spirited music of the Gohlen Aires Band were Young Ed Liddel, left, and Everett Chestwood who scoffs at the idea of a mere ninety odd years standing between him and a parade.

DEVELOPER EXPLAINS PLANS

PUD Rezoning Vote Expected Next Week

By LYNN WILLIAMS

The question of rezoning a 120 acre tract of land on McNaughten Road is expected to be answered by Columbus City Council on Wednesday, July 19 and both opponents and proponents appear ready for the meeting.

Opponents to the rezoning are residents in the area who are represented by the Triple R, a group made up of seven other civic associations. The name is derived from the type of zoning typical to the area.

THE PROPONENT is the Homewood Corporation, a private company largely involved in residential development.

The corporation proposes to build a 650 planned unit development on the land if the rezoning is approved.

The Columbus Development Commission last month recommended the land be rezoned from single family residential to multi-family residential despite an unfavorable recommendation from the city's planning department staff and objections of about 100 residents attending the meeting.

JOHN BAIN, executive vice president of Homewood Corporation, said he felt objections would not be so strong after all the facts about the proposed development were known.

"I would estimate that there are about 5,000 adult residents in this area and so the 100 at the meeting is not really representative. I know there are some people out there who think this is great."

Bain said the staff's unfavorable recommendation was a "51 to 48 sort of thing. It was very close. I think the staff objected because they thought maybe the proposed density was a little too high.

HE SAID the director of the city's planning department called the plan excellent and Bain said no one on the staff thought the project was bad planning.

The main objection by the Triple R association was the density of the complex. Homewood is proposing a net density of 6.3 units per acre. Additions to the west and south are developed two units to the acre.

Bain said this was not high density and was not out of line with what is presently in the area.

"THE REYNOLDSBURG land to the east of our property is zoned six units to the area."

Friedrich Bohm, a partner in Nitschke, Godwin, Bohm Architects, the designers of the complex, said the plans call for only single family homes to be built along the south and east boundaries of the property.

"This means the property adjoining Olde Orchard, and the Reynoldsburg addition will be in balance with existing conditions. People who live there will look out of their backyards and see more of the same."

BOTH BOHM and Bain said 6.3 units per acre or the PUD classification eight which they are seeking, are not considered high density, but rather low.

"This project has the lowest density of any similar complex in Central Ohio. A high density project would be 30 units per acre," Bain said. He said at the most the project called for eight units per acre in the center.

"The whole purpose of PUD is to allow different density units in an area to give more variety. You have to follow good planning practices and building codes but you do have more flexibility," Bain said.

"SINCE THIS is such a large piece of land we can put in different types of units but keeps the whole area coortdinated and give it a more attractive appearance."

Bohm said the idea behind the complex was to give residents a lot of privacy but some common facilities such as community centers and parks.

"PUD is the coming thing. The condominiums are becoming more and more attractive to young married couples with no children, retired couples and even singles."

BOHM SAID the idea was to create an inter-mixture of living units without destroying the natural assets or quality of the area.

According to present plans only six single family homes would be built along McNaughten.

These homes would be set back from the road and separated by mounds of earth so they were partially hidden.

ONE COMMUNITY center would be located where the present farm house sits. "We saw a nice area here with trees and we wanted to preserve it."

BAIN SAID Bohm agreed that the average number of residents in each unit would be about three which would mean about 2,000 more people moving into the area.

"The question of crowding in the schools has been raised," Bain said, "but this is a problem everywhere in the city. Besides we don't feel this complex will bring any more children into the area than a single family development."

He said they had talked with the school board and had been told the trend seemed to be going toward less school age children in the area.

"THE PLANNING department informally indicated to us that they would favor a PUD-four in the area rather than the two units per acre," Bain said.

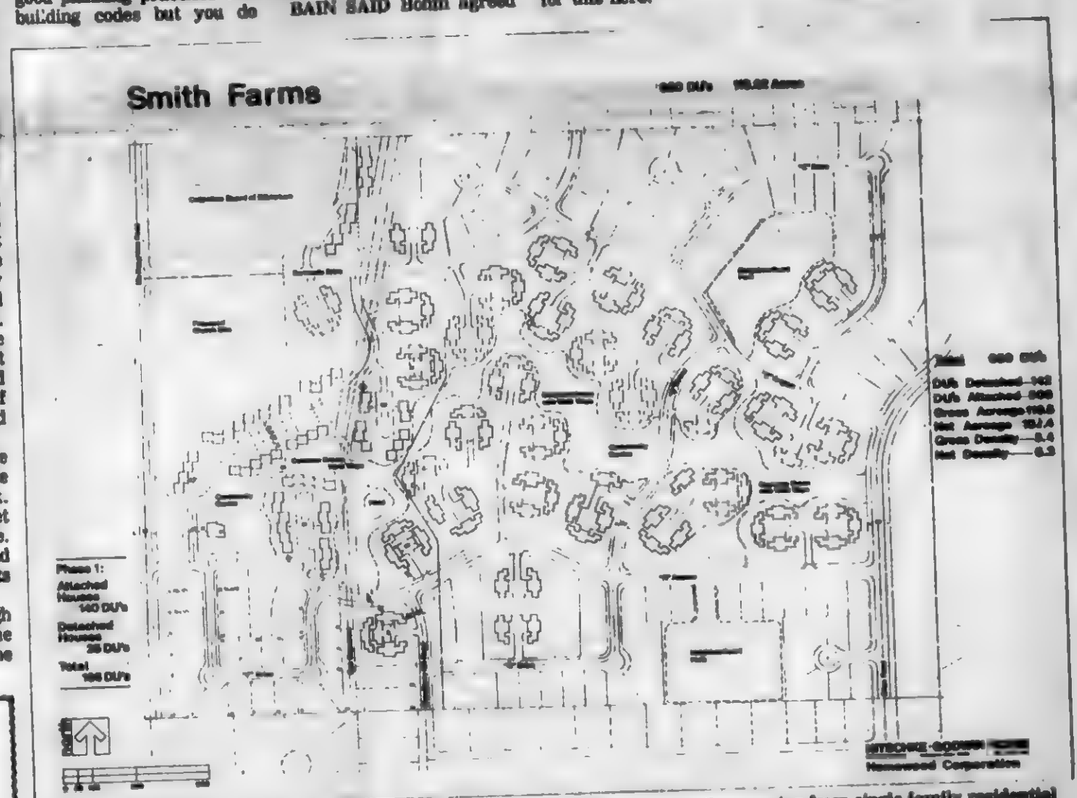
"There just isn't a demand for the single family unit as there has been," Bohm said. "We were told by the man who developed the Olde Orchard addition that he would not build another like it."

Bohm said the final section of that area was completed in 1966 and there were still lots available.

"WE COULD GO in there and put in more single family units, two to an acre but we don't feel there's a demand for this here."

Based on building costs today, Bain said the single family homes (of three and four bedroom) might range from $30,000 to $45,000 and the condominums from $25,000 to $35,000.

"We don't feel going to PUD four is feasible. This would give us too much open space which would have to be maintained. This would drive the price of the units too high," Bain said.



BAIN SAID his company had no further plans for any other developments in the area.

The residents had been concerned that if a PUD eight was allowed on the 120 acres it might also be allowed on other undeveloped land on McNaughten.

The Triple R association has been gathering signatures on petitions opposing the rezoning and they are planning to take the petitions to the council meeting.

THE ATTORNEY representing Triple R, James Fiebel, said the residents considered the project bad planning said other groups were in sympathy with them.

The Triple R represents Olde Orchard Civic Association, Ravenwood, Laurel Canyon, Yorkshire East and three Greenbriar associations.

THE DRAWING outlines the proposed PUD project proposed by the Homewood Corporation. The project calls for a combination of single family homes and condominiums on the 120 acre site on McNaughton Road between Main and Board Streets. Residents in the area are seeking to stop the rezoning from single family residential to milti-family residential which would allow the project to go ahead. City Council will decide the issue at their July 19 meeting.

Mayor Entreats Board To Back Bond Issue

By JANE ROBINSON
Spectater Staff Writer

Mayor Tom Moody pled with the members of the Columbus Public School Board yesterday to forget their differences and support unanimously and without devisiveness a construction bond issue.

The mayor's unannounced and unprecedented visit may have come at an opportune time.

Although the agenda for the meeting of the Committee of the Whole was headed by "Possible Difcussion of Bond Issue" (which had been tabled last week), short shrift was made of the matter.

As the meeting opened, an exception was made to the rule against audience participation and a member of the Black Caucus, at the request of Mrs. Marie Castleman of the Board, had been given the floor.

She made a statement endorsing the position of the black members of the board who have indicated they will not support a bond issue without certain concessions toward integrated education.

Boardman Paul Langdon then spoke briefly of the need for construction and the meeting was well into the other item on the agenda (Staff Development Proposal) when Moody made his appearance.

Moody stated that he had come to the board because he is convinced that education is the most important business in which the city engages.

He further stated that Columbus Development Director Jack Huddle contends education is the city's most pressing need.

Huddle, apparently, is speaking from a development point of view. Moody stated that Huddle was recently in a difficult situation when a New York-based firm considered moving to Columbus.

"The big sales point is education," Moody stated, implying that Huddle could not truthfully tell the prospect that all was well in Columbus.

Even conceding that the chief priority of the city lies outside of City Hall, the mayor stated he has ordered that no other money issue, originating with the city, shall clutter the November ballot.

Expressing his concern with the urgent financial needs of the city and of COTA, he stated that priority must be given to the schools, because the educational decisions of the next year or two will have long range effects on the future of the city as a whole.

He also stated that he believed every child must have the opportunity to become a sensitive, productive and law-abiding citizen, a goal he feels can be reached through quality education.

Admitting his political conservatism, Moody said he thinks the issues of racism, busing and difference of opinion must be subordinate to this goal.

Referring to the "dropouts and pushouts", the mayor stated that they are the individuals who "soak up the dollars."

"We chase your burglars; we house your drunks," he charged in his appeal to the board.

Although the mayor stated that he believes he has talked "one-to-one" with more people tman anyond else in Franklin County, and has seen their concern with education, he admits he does not know exactly what facilities and programs are needed.

"That's your business," he told the board.

But he did ask the members to "resolve your difference, as quietly as possible" and to make a commitment to the future.

Board President Tom Moody, Mrs. Virginia Prentice and Paul Langdon expressed their thanks to Moody for coming.

The same thanks were repeated by Dr. David Hamlar after he queried Moody on whether he believed the public would support a bond issue.

Moody replied tmat "With candor, I cannot say that the public is very enthusiastic about..(new taxes), but they are ready to accept responsibility."

His final challenge to the board was to make it perfectly clear to the public what was needed.

He left and the board returned to the matter of Staff Development.

Spectator Welcomes New York 'Sister'

Courtland Communications Corporation, the Cleveland-based multi-media chain which owns The Spectator Newspapers, has acquired the Rockland Independent-Leader – a suburban newspaper serving 31,000 households in Rockland County, N.Y.

The acquisition of the Independent-Leader brings the number of publications in the Courtland chain to 11.

ELDON C. Gensheimer, executive vice-president of Courtland Communications, stated: "We are enthusiastic about being in the Rockland County area and we consider the Independent-Leader to be a major step in the growth of Courtland Communications.

"The proximity of the papers to our papers located in adjacent counties in New Jersey will enhance our current newspaper operations. The acquisition will also provide printing and composition capabilities which will greatly improve our ability to serve the combined marketing areas."

Courtland president Harry H. Stone called the new acquisition "just another step in our planned expansion into the suburban community market and continued growth in the newspaper and radio communications industry."

BESIDES the Spectator newspapers, Courtland Communications also owns WFAS-AM and WWYD-FM in Westchester County, three publications in suburban Cleveland and weekly newspapers in Bergen County, N.J.

Gillespie Heads Cap Glee Club

Chicago conductor Avon Gillespie will join the Capital University faculty this fall as an assistant professor of music and director of the Men's Glee Club.

Gillespie, 34, holds a degree from Indiana State University and has done post-graduate study at Indiana State and the University of Toronto. Currently on the staff of the Chicago Latin School, he is well known for his work in choral conducting and has established "The Spirit of Soul," a large choral group for young people between the ages of 14-22, with a repertoire featuring the music of the Afro-American culture.

Board Okays Budget

Madison Local School Board members Monday night approved a $4,606,500 budget for the 1973 year. This is up approximately $200,000 over the 1972 budget.

According to figures in a study by school officials, expected expenditures for the year should run about $4,596,500. This is balanced against total recipts of the expected $4,606,500 in the general fund.

These are the funds used for operating the school district.

THE FIGURES were arrived at in a special statement prepared by the district's coordinator of business affairs, the clerk-treasurer and school superintendent Philip Williams.

The statement called the projected figures on income, expenses and enrollment "at best an estimate," but a study which would serve as a reasonable guide for the board.

The statement went on to say: "This study indicates that it whould be possible to continue the present educational program during the next two years without an increase in the tax rate for operation."

THE STUDY also listed three specific areas for consideration concerning future expenditures.

The first item on the list stated that "This study projects a continuation of the same rate of state support. Any reduction...would raise financial problems and should merit close attention.

"No funds have been included for improvement of salary schedules during the next two years.

"NO FUNDS have been included to operate additional educational facilities. Additional classroom units have been included to accommodate the expected enrollment increase."

In other action the Board approved two final resolutions which will place the $3,380,000 bond issue on the November 7th election ballot.

The issue is being sought to provide an additional middle or junior high school and possibly an elementary school.

THE BONDS are to be retired in 22 years and taxes to pay off the bonds will not start being collected until 1974.

Board member John Stout expressed a desire to have the site selection made prior to the November election and some idea of what the money will be used for in the building project.

Williams said this was the intention of the district, but that at present they were not ready to discuss sites publicly.

"WE WANT the site to be known and exact plans made, but this takes some time. If we were to talk about various sites now it might effect property values."

He also said the architects were aiding in the site selection. "As the time for the election gets closer we will know more and we will be sure that all the people are informed."

The board also approved an increase in the school lunch prices.

BEGINNING NEXT year the student lunches will go up five cents and the adult lunches 10 cents.

This would mean students in grades one through six will pay 40 cents while the students in grades seven through 12 will pay 45 cents.

Adults will now pay 60 cents.

ON THE A la carte lunch prices, all except ice cream will be increased for students in grades seven through 12 and adults.

Playground News

BEXLEY CASSINGHAM

Last week Cassingham worked diligently selling Kool-aid to raise money for the 4th of July float. Many hours of work paid off as the float received second place in the Humorous category of the parade. The theme of the float was "Superman".

Friday, June 30th we had a playground Pet Show with over 25 pets competing for ribbons. There was a wide range of animals - a pet ant belonging to Tim Gibboney, guinea pigs belonging to the Strang sisters, a pet frog whose home is with Rob Farquhar, and other pets including rabbits, cats, dogs and white mice.

The girls' softball team scored an overwhelming victory over Montrose by the score of 18-5. However, with work being done on the ball diamonds, further games had to be postponed at Cassingham and rescheduled at Maryland and Montrose. Boys' basketballers lost a game to Montrose on Wednesday, July 5th.

We had a scavenger hunt while delivering the playground newspaper "The Kassingham Krier", the hunt is an event always enjoyed by the Kids.

Next week's special activities include our participation in the Bicycle Rodeo in Commonwealth Park on Thursday, featuring competition between the three playgrounds. Also on tap on July 14th is our "Friday Night at the Movies" beginning at 7 p.m. with two surprise features and free popcorn. Parents are welcome to come to the movies with their Kassingham Kids!

MARYLAND

The playground had a pizza party last week featuring Pizza Supremes and grape drink with everything eaten and drunk and a lot of full stomaches. Special thanks to Si Dunkle, Susan Weber, Caroline Mees, Jon Schwartz, Kippy Salva and others who helped work on the recreation department float.

Maryland girl softballers, under the leadership of Cindy Conley, are taking shape. They are now divided into two teams, the ZIFFS and the ZAFFS. The girls are learning fielding, hitting, and knowledge about the game.

"Who were those funny-looking people at Maryland?" The neighbors were on their porches last Thursday for the clown contest. Cary Frederick took first prize as no one knew who was under all the garb and make-up. Second place went to Sue Weber who had a terrible time keeping her father's pants from falling down! Janet Priest took third place honors as her dainty ballet costume didn't quite match the clunky shoes she borrowed from her dad. Julie Kearns earned an honorable mention (due to a late entry) and Betsy Foley was also a winner, all of whom were treated to ice cream.

Next week's activities include a Hobo Convention, softball games and many other special events. Check with leaders Cindy, Jeff and Jack, and READ THE BULLETIN BOARD.

Whitehall Yearling variety cheerleaders recently attended a cheer leader camp and took first place in the competition.

Approximately 150 girls were there from Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Three Ohio State University cheerleaders were on hand to help the participants with routines, cheers and gymnastics.

A big privilege that the variety had was to be on television. They were selected to represent Ohio on the show which also featured the out-of-state squads.

The big day for our girls was Thursday, June 29. They were in competition against very hard cheerleading squads, but in the end Whitehall girls proved they had practiced hard by winning the first place trophy.

Members of the varsity squad are Nancy Bare, Becky Tarleton, Debbie Terrell, Carol Darlington, Deanna Spohn, Mary Stone, and "Ramsey" Sue Patterson.

A Time Of Reckoning

Ohio Legislators are back home from the battles of the State House and many will now wage their crusade for reelection.

The sword the campaigners wave will be emblazoned with their past accomplishments.

Even Gov. John Gilligan has had a few kind words for the General Assembly, giving it a "C" or "C plus" rating.

Although the Strip Mining bill and the Environmental Protection bills do not have as many teeth as ecologists hoped for, they do represent legislation which can chew into the problem of pollution and desecration of our natural resources.

However, it is easier for people to vote against something in a candidate's record than for it—and Assemblymen are also taking home with them some dragons of both commission and omission that will not be easily buried and forgotten.

One of these is the State Income Tax. Although the State Department of Education has apparently been working overtime to grind out reports on the benefits the income tax has brought to local schools, legislators cannot expect to gain accolades from many of their constituents whose resources have been nicked by a new tax. The word that Democratic control of the new legislature will be the forerunner of an increase of a higher level originally sought by the governor is another spectre that cannot be left behind in the State House.

Furthermore, pensioners are not apt to forget the inequity of private pensions being taxed with public pensions going Scot-free, and the legislature's failure to rectify this injustice.

Talking of the nursing home subsidy is another action that should do little to bring out the vote of the senior citizen.

Hundreds of Ohio nursing homes will close their doors without the proposed subsides for installation of the sprinklings systems made mandatory by federal law.

The cries that the state cannot afford the subsidy can be drowned out by the clang of the fire engine's sirens and the cries of the infirm entrapped by flames if tragedy strikes again.

And what about consumer protection legislation?

Voters can not be expected to see solons as mounted on white steeds of valor when they refused to end, once and for all, the practice of cognivit notes and to insure the buyer is not liable for payment of defective merchandise.

Also riding on the incumbents back as they hit the campaign trail is the albatross of the Constitutional amendments ruled off the ballot.

It is a valid proposition that Constitutional amendments could tend to confuse the voter when appearing on the same ballot as the issue of a Constitutional Convention. (By law, the question must be voted upon every 10 years, and will be an issue in November.)

But this factor does not erase the bungling which denied Ohio residents the opportunity to vote for Constitutional change long overdue—including the governor and lieutenent governor to run as a team, the proposed code of ethics, simplification of legislative procedures and reasonable expense allowance for Assemblymen.

It also has been shown by public polls that the matter of legalization of a state lottery is unfinished business on which the majority would prefer some action.

Democrats can alibi themselves with the fact they did not control the legislature, and Republicans can righteously point out they worked with a hostile administration.

But constituencies have a way of ignoring alibis and insisting their elected representatives maintain a reasonable responsiveness to their needs and demands.

It appears the incumbents seeking reelection may find the "folks back home" think Gov. Gilligan was a trifle generous in his appraisal of the 109th General Assembly.

The Homecoming

Justice Travestied

In a recent hearing held in a Mayor's Court in Franklin County, the defense attorney moved for dismissal after the evidence was heard from the prosecution.

The presiding mayor promptly denied the motion and declared the defendant "guilty as charged."

He, of course, withdrew the finding when the defense attorney protested that his client's case had not yet been presented.

This is but one instance of the glaring errors that can be made in a courtroom when judicial responsibility is placed in the hands of a mayor.

More often than not, he has no legal experience and his record of being successful in running for public office hardly qualifies him to assume the role of a judge.

Ohio had abolished the system of trial by Justices of the Peace, and it is high time that mayors be relieved of a judicial role.

Efforts to rectify the situation in the past have been stymied largely because of the dependency of many villages and smaller municipalities upon fines and costs imposed by their courts for the operation of their police departments.

But, something must be done to protect the rights of these people brought before administrative office holders, callow in jurisprudence—especially in a time when the most sophisticated judges find it difficult to keep abreast of Supreme Court rulings that invalidate precedent.

Some have suggested the establishment of branches of the Franklin County Courts, sited to be geographically convenient to the public.

However, such courts would not solve the problem of municipal finance.

The most feasible alternative to Mayor's Court advanced at this time is that of assigning fully-qualified judges to preside on a circuit basis, over the hearings now conducted by Franklin County mayors.

The plan involves a portion of fines and costs collected to be retained by the local government with the balance reserved to pay for the services of the judges.

One stumbling block is that the dockets of the Franklin County Courts are already filled to capacity.

This obstacle can be removed by creation of additional judicial posts. It has also been studied whether it would be feasible to assign retired judges to the circuit.

These are procedural problems that will undoubtedly not be worked out over night.

But the complexity of the issue should not allow it to be tabled indefinitely.

A darn fine mayor and administrator too often proves himself a lousy judge.

And lousy judges can make a travesty of justice.

Social Security

When Social Security was initiated in the thirties it was envisioned as a compulsory savings plan to insure the working man and woman of adequate retirement income.

Throughout the years, that vision has faded, and the person whose income is limited to Social Security is no better off than the person on Welfare roles. In fact, it is all too often necessary to supplement the retirement income with welfare subsidies.

Congress has now voted a 20 percent increase in benefits, effective Sept. 1, and insured the hike against a presidential veto by piggy-backing it to a bill providing debt limit extension which the president considered mandatory.

Undoubtedly, this action was politically astute with the fall checks predestined to put the 28 million recipients in a benevolent mood as they head for the polls in November.

Furthermore, by delaying a hike in payroll taxes to cover the raise until Jan. 1, Congressmen put off the indignation of 96 million workers who will find paying the piper less than a delight.

However, a great many other Social Security reforms are in the making, which Congress is side stepping until fall when a Social Security-Welfare Reform bill will be voted upon.

These include automatic escalation of benefits annually if cost of living has increased by at least three per cent, upping benefits due to widows and widowers to 100 percent of that due the deceased spouse, raising the ceiling on outside earnings and allowing recipients to retain $1 of each $2 earned above earning limitations, reduced waiting periods for disability benefits and extension of Medicare coverage.

Furthermore, decisions must be made on just how Social Security benefits shall be financed.

Statisticians have long declared the Social Security program actuarially unsound and certainly increased benefits will amplify this cry.

One of the relatively painless methods suggested is to tax upper levels of income.

However painless this might be, let's face facts. It would only add to the inequities of the plan, taking it further from a retirement plan financed by workers and their employers to a giveaway plan to the low-incomed, financed by the more affluent worker.

Already, at the upper limits of payroll deduction, Social Security is not much of a bargain for the employe. His same dollars could be used to buy private insurance which would better assure he'd be out of the poverty level upon retirement.

Social Security, with half its costs paid by the employer, is a God-send to the elderly without private resources.

But workers today must realize that if they want to reap the harvest tomorrow they must be willing to up the ante during their productive years.

Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that taxes are what we pay for civilized society.

If he were living today he might well observe that Social Security taxes are what we pay for freedom from want—and for self-respect.

No 'Wolf' Cry

In recent weeks disaster upon disaster has brought human tragedies to almost unbelieveable depths in the United States.

Catastrophic flooding, the backlash of Hurricane Agnes, dams and levees breaking and other malicious caprices of nature have left tens of thousands without food, clothing or shelter.

News of the disasters has been fed to the public in generous helpings, but one fact has been almost washed away in the torrent of words spoken and written about the resulting tragedies.

It involves the unvarnished and calamitous message from the Red Cross. Its financial well ran dry in the opening hours of the South Dakota catastrophe.

The Red Cross has been holding on grimly, through the generosity of persons currently contributing to the Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund.

But it is not enough.

For examples, in Pennsylvania alone during recent rampages of the Susquehanna the Red Cross sheltered 80,000 evacuees. It will take vast sums to help these people reestablish their homes.

The Red Cross is not crying "Wolf."

Through the American people, The Red Cross has become the symbol of humanity to those victimized by disaster.

And, as caring and responsible Americans, we must not allow that symbol to falter.

We must respond as the Croning brewer who switched from bottling beer to bottling water, the poultry association who furnished 6,000 dozen eggs and the North Dakotan who left a vacation spa to work day and night in his devastated city.

Don't Tip The Scales

They maintain that the working man's taxes support the $2.3 billion food stamp program, and that it is only just that when he is idled by a strike he should reap the benefits of his past contributions.

This premise has a ring of logic, until one reflects upon the role of government in labor disputes.

Although it may attempt to arbitrate such strikes, it certain cannot relinquish its neutrality.

When bargaining fails to conciliate the differences of management and labor, a walk-out results.

The loss of production places management under pressure to attempt to compromise.

On the other hand, the loss of wages exerts upon the working man similar pressure to negotiate with the employer.

Issuing of food stamps to the striker would obviously relieve his economic stress.

The government that pads strike funds with food stamps is no longer in an objective role.

It aids and abets the strikers as surely as it would aid industry if it were to underwrite loss of profit incurred during work stoppages.

Right Direction

With $20,000 a year men a dime a dozen around the State House these days, $60,000 isn't going to make or break the state government.

Yet when the legislature makes a move that will reduce a recurring expense by almost 85 per cent it is good news.

Last year to conform with outmoded law, the state published 2,000 bound volumes of laws written in the preceding session at a cost of $18 each.

These volumes are still gathering dust, six months before law publishing firms had a similar text on the market.

With the passage of H.B. 442 Secretary of State Ted Brown will publish a maximum of 900 such volumes at $12 each—and have them on the market within 60 days of adjournment of the Legislature.

No, cutting publishing costs from $70,000 to $10,800 isn't going to balance off Welfare costs or subsidize sprinkling systems in nursing homes.

But it certainly is a step in the right direction.

'Not Offering Equal Education'

To the Editor:

I would like to congratulate you on the editorial in the May 10 issue of the Spectator. This editorial labeled "Supply 'N Demand" spoke very forthright and articulately to the question "Should all of our students seek a four-year college degree?"

At the risk of misinterpreting your editorial comments. I would heartily applaud your contention that the four-year college degree is not best for all our students and that employment opportunities are not commensurate with the number of college graduates which are being produced by our colleges and universities.

I especially commend your editorial as very timely for distribution in the Worthington community. We all are grateful that the school patrons have seen fit to continue their fine support of the Worthington Public Schools by passing the recent bond issue for building of new high school facilities.

It is at this time that we must sincerely consider the type of facilities that are best suited for the students of the Worthington Public School District.

I know that we have prided ourselves upon the academic excellence and quality of our program, and I would never want to see this altered in the Worthington School District. However, I strongly contend that we can both achieve academic excellence and quality occupational preparation for our students.

I also submit that we are not, at this time, providing adequate quantity and quality of occupational preparation offerings for Worthington youth and in effect are not offering equal education to all. In fact, we are doing many a disservice by starting them down what you have aptly described in your editorial as a road of limited opportunities.

Major breakthroughs are being made in the total area of career education with emphasis on providing all students a high school education that will both provide them access to the four-year university, two-year community college or technical institute as well as provide them a useful work skill.

I hope that the patrons, the administrators and policy makers of the Worthington Schools will take into cognizance the need to clearly examine the needs of all our students in the Worthington Public Schools and provide a broad comprehensive high school offering which combines both academic and career preparation.

Thank you for your speaking out on this matter.

Is That Nice?

No company more zealously protects its name than Coca-Cola.

Ask any newspaper editor if this is not true.

Let a paper go to press with a reference to Coke without a capital letter and within 48 hours a polite but firm letter will be received reminding the editor that Coca-Cola and Coke are registered trade marks and cannot be abused.

Thus the suit filed by the Dr. Pepper Co. in the U.S. District Court in Memphis against the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. recalls the old adage of "Do as I say, not as I do."

Coca-Cola is marketing a new soft drink named "Peppo." The Dr . Pepper attorney charges the bottler has deliberately simulated the flavor of his client's beverage and the use of the trade mark "Peppo" is likely to cause confusion and "to mislead and decsive the consuming public."

Now, Mr. Coca-Cola, is that nice of a guy who treasures not only his name but his capital "C"?

Or of a guy who sings "It's the Real Thing"?

DISCUSS YOUR IDEAL CITY PARK. WHAT WOULD YOU INCLUDE AND HOW WOULD YOU SATISFY RESIDENTS OF ALL AGES?

This Week's Respondents: Worthington High School

The ideal city park would be to have some kind of interest for every group. The younger kids could have swings, slides, a small pool, and a merry-go-round. For ages 9-15 (or around there), there could be a pool, horseback riding, basketball, baseball, football, an indoor place where you could play ping-pong and basketball. For older people, you could have picnic benches and benches all over outside. There could be a place for them to play cards or any other thing. All ages would be admitted anywhere. Dogs would be allowed on the premises. There could be a snack bar. There should be a lot of land. There could be a quarry, woods, trails through the woods. There shouldn't be any privileges to anyone; everyone should be treated the same. It should be someplace where there are not a lot of rules and regulations. No confinement. A place where everyone could have fun and the freedom to do what they wanted. - PAT SPITZER

I guess an ideal city park would have a swimming pool, tennis courts, baseball and football facilities. It should be located some place not too far from the city but away from the noise. I guess it should be full of fountains and benches for older people to sit on and look at and it should be kept clean and be patrolled by police to insure safety. It should be located near or around a lake for fishing and it should include paved trails for bicycle riding. Swings, slides, see saws and the whole works for little kids and be open year around. - MIKE SHOST

I think that an ideal city park should include activities for people of all ages. It should have a park area including swings, teeter totters, slides, etc. for the younger children. For older kids it would have shuffle boards, basketball court, teether ball, etc. And for the older people benches to sit on, card playing tables etc. During the weekends it could have dances for the people - one weekend it could have a band for the teens and another weekend it would have a dance for the older people. Then on certain days, during the week, it would include arts and crafts for the kids. I feel that if there were an active park around, people would make use of it. - BECKY MARQUARDT

If I were given two square acres to build a park, and it was supposed to be for all people, first I would build a baseball field. People of all ages, sexes, shapes, play baseball. Even the older folks like to sit and watch the young ones play. This would satisfy most everyone. Secondly, a small pond with a few fish usually turns on a few people. They either fish or throw food to the ducks and stuff. There would also be some picnic facilities. A picnic on a cool summer day followed by a luxurious fishing experience will satisfy all no doubt. And last, mother natrure would be let loose to grow some big trees for everything from homes for animals, swings for kids and initial carving for lovers. This, combined with a few heartwarming sounds of children, would be the perfect ideal park. - JACK WILLIAMS.

First of all, I think a city park would be good for all residents. It would give people of all ages a place to go outside and have something to do. I think a swing set and other playground equipment should be there for the little kids. Games such as shuffle board, and outdoor games such as darts, horseshoe rings etc. For the older people, archery would be ideal as well as the other games. Many games could be thought up also. Picnic benches and fireplaces for eating lunch or dinner also. These are some of my ideas in having a city park. - GARY KREFT.

The ideal city park would have to include the things which would satisfy everyone. The park should have an area where people could just sit around and enjoy themselves, without being bothered by everyone. Swings, slides and other playground equipment should be in it so kids could play. A picnic area would be nice so families could go and just spend a day, The park should have running areas and and lots of trees. Maybe in the center of the park tennis courts could be located. The park should be located in an area where everyone can get to it easily. - CAROL FORREST

The most important ingredient in a park is nature. It should have lots of grass and big shade trees. Some kind of lake or pond should be included. Stylish benches should be situated around the pond. The main objective is to have a quiet place to sit and talk with other people. There should be fish in the pond and birds in the trees. Depending on how big the park is, some type of recreation should be put in. A golf course is a good idea, horseshoes, etc. Some type of outdoor theatre should be put in for live dramatic performances. But most of all, all commercialism should be eliminated. - PAUL HOLMES

I think a park should be a nice quiet place in the woods where all of us can let our tension float away with the breeze. It shouldn't be filled with idiotic, noise making objects for all of us to play on. We should be able to play on the trees or in a swimming hole or something of the sort. Just for a change of pace from our modern day society, it would be extraordinarily nice for a park to have a few outhouses, a few picnic tables, a few rope swings and meadows and forests to play in. How can we satisfy all residents? - BARB STUW

My idea of an ideal city park is one where people go freely through it without being bothered by motor vehicles and someone telling what to do. In this park you would walk where you want and not have to follow trails. You could climb the trees if you want to, and be able to have picnics and fires. And this park would be open to all groups. Most of all in this park you could be free. - GEORGE MORRISON.

Showing Up Those Young Whippersnappers

Just Listen To Those Melodicas Play

NOT BEING particularly for Women's Lib, Burdean Seibert didn't mind marching behind her husband who as Uncle Sam was at the front of the line. But, as the Statue of Liberty, she took a "back seat" to no one.

One of the privileges that come with age is freedom from routine.

Alarm clocks seldom ring in a Senior Citizens Center--and why not have a "Red, White and Blue" parade on the "Seventh of July?"

That is precisely what the senior citizens who frolic at McDowell Recreation Center did last week--with Maggie Kosleck of the staff in cahoots--and they had a ball.

The parade route wasn't strenuous,--just a few turns around the garden sidewalk, but the enthusiasm put to shame some of the rather luck-lustre parades the under-thirty crowd put on these days.

Competing with the Golden-Aires, the center's band which enjoys considerable renown, was the Kitchen Band.

Armed with pots and pans and spatulas, members banged their way to a first place recognition as the funniest entry.

Other winners selected by the judges who were treated with due respect by the paradeniers (no one was eligible without evidence of a minimum of 90 years of experience) were an Indian group (most colorful) and a one-woman float portraying Betsy Ross.

One emergency arose during the hoopla--and it didn't take a squad run to resuscitate the parade which was threatened to be drowned out.

Instead, the maintenance crew of Metropolitan Housing met the emergency--of a garden hose that "blew its top" and watered down the Golden Agers and their guests instead of the nearby flowers.

July Seventh was truly a day on which "the young and old came out to play"--and the McDowell troup have already promised an encore.

But don't count on it being on July Seventh.

As we said, alarm clocks don't ring too often in the Golden Age world and senior citizens kick up their heels whenever they feel like it.

Who knows? They may have a "Parade of the Green"-sometime around the first of April.

ROYALLY enconced in what was a cleverly disguised cleaning cart, Mrs. Josephine Galen, dressed as Betsy Ross, rode off to first prize in the "most colorful" category.

PORTRAYING "Red Riding Hood" was a natural to the members of the McDowell Puppeteers as the tale is in their repertoire of shows which they take from school to school. Behind the wolf's mask is Mrs. Edna Wallace while "grandma", better known as Mrs. Goldie Edwards, is pushed along her merry way be Mrs. Margaret Hopper, alias Little Red Riding Hood.

A Treat For Young And Old

LOOKING more like Uncle Sam than the grand old guy himself, Elvin Siebert was a dashing and colorful figure as he led the parade.

JULY 17th

Pari-Mutuel Betting

Thrills, Spills, Entertainment Highlight Fair

The Franklin County Fair opens at Hilliard Monday, July 17 and continues through Sunday, July 23.

Sonny James ("Young Love"), a Demolition Derby and the world champion Hurricane Hell Drivers are just a few of the attractions on the bill.

Pari-mutuel betting will be one of the highlights of the Franklin County Fair.

The "Speed Programs" start Monday, July 17 at 8 p.m. with additional racing Tuesday and Wednesday.

Purses range from $700 to $2,000.

The Trotters and Pacers will add much to the Fair as the sport of little kings gathers momentum.

Another highlight of the seven day event will be the many displays by organizations such as Campfire, Girl and Boy Scout and other organizations.

Craft displays, cattle, flowers and vegetables and other exhibits will attract many fairgoers.

Sonny James, who will appear Saturday, July 22, at 7 and 9 p.m., is billed as "A Million Dollars Worth of Country Talent".

He was the 1970-71 Billboard magazine and Record World's Number One Country singles artist.

Television show credits include Glen Campbell, Johnny Cash, Flip Wilson, Andy Williams, Mike Douglas, Hee-Haw, Jimmy Durante, and Kraft.

More than 100 local cars and drivers are expected to compete in the Demolition Derby, Sunday, July 23, beginning at 8 p.m.

The two-hour program is composed of qualifying heats and a feature event. The object of each car, and each driver, is to be the last one running.

Winners of the qualifying heats will be placed in the feature event, which will determine the champion. Prize money and trophies will be awarded.

Entry blanks are available from Fair Secretary Ted Kaltenbach, Box 6, Hilliard, Ohio 43026, or from Rush-Way, Inc., Plain City, Ohio 43064.

Fairgrounds will become a scene of calculated calamity Friday, July 21, when the world champion "Hurricane Hell Drivers" take over in front of the Grandstand with what one national magazine describes as "Automotive Fury and Motorcycle Insanity."

Dan Fleenor and his famed group of stunt drivers, together with the circus clowns, will defy death as they race, crash and smash their way through 28 events and two hours of thrills, chills and spills.

Show times are set for 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Franklin County Agricultural Society, 1972 membership tickets are now on sale, according to Fair Board Secretary Ted Kaltenbach. The price is $5.

In addition to the privilege to vote for Fair Board Members and attend meetings, the ticket admits the member and car at any time during the Franklin County Fair.

Memberships may be obtained by sending name, address and $5 to Post Office Box 6, Hilliard, Ohio 43026. Membership are limited to residents of Franklin County.

A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

"Faith" Proves Mountains Can Be Moved

By RAY ADAMS
Reynoldsburg Editor

More than 7,000 Jamaicans will reap a harvest the next several years.

The quality of that harvest will depend on the seed that Rev. Jim Sloan and his family (plus others) can sow.

Rev. Sloan is a minister to the deaf. He will have a mission in Kingston, Jamaica starting August 1.

He is an amazing man.

An experience of a lifetime became part of my life several weeks ago while listening and watching Rev. Sloan conduct a sermon in both sign language and oral recitation at the Grace Baptist Church in Westerville.

Strange to my way of thinking, however, his sermon was not directed to the deaf. It was directed to all the congregation as he told of his plans, his past and his present and future in the work of the church.

Rev. Sloan told how he was guided to speak to the deaf by what he termed "God's will".

"I was almost frustrated," he said. "I always got a bad case of nerves and shook like a leaf in the wind when I knew it was my turn to recite in school.

"Then, one day, as I was just ready to give up my career, I was steered by the hand of God into the opportunity to attend school in Chattanooga, Tennessee to learn the sign language necessary for me to speak to the deaf in sermons.

"One of the most difficult things about learning the deaf language," said Rev. Sloan, "is the finger spelling. If you can master that you can generally learn the rest in three years without too much difficulty - provided you have patience (and your teacher does.)"

The Wealth Street Baptist Church, Grand Rapids, Mich., is Rev. Sloan's home church at present.

His wife, Joyce, a registered nurse; and daughters Shirley, 10; Nancy, 7 and Linda, 18, will accompany him to Jamaica. Linda will finish her schooling there.

Another part of the service at Grace Baptist Church that impressed me was the congregational singing in sign language.

"I love church music and hymns," said Rev. Sloan and although I can hear the music, the deaf parishioners cannot. Music is a great part of the church. In services where only the deaf participate I will miss it."

Mrs. William Caslow, Harlem Road, New Albany, is one of the shining lights at Grace Baptist Church. She is the coordinator of the program there that includes invitations to anyone deaf to attend the services.

"I had a call to do something like this some years ago," Mrs. Caslow said. I spent 13 Sundays in a two and a half hour session each Sunday learning the basics of sign language. Since then our family, husband and three daughters, can converse in signs."

Rev. Sloan and Mrs. Caslow both gave words of advice to those persons who confront a deaf person for the first time.

Here's what they had to say.

"The person in front of you is just that - a person. He eats, sleeps, drives a car, works and probably has a family just like you.

Smiling is an international sign. Everybody understands a smile. The deaf people have a very keen eye. They have learned to 'read' people's faces. SMILE!

"You can learn the hand alphabet in several minutes. You can spell any word in the English language.

"Some simple rules are: Put your palm toward the person to whom you are speaking, keeping your hand about shoulder height. Do not jerk the hand as you spell. Do not keep your fingers, hand or arm rigid. The following ten words have all the letters of the alphabet: Quiz, cow, marp, box , sky, Dan, glove, far, hit, jet.

"Deaf people always carry a pencil and note pad. Do not be surprised if a deaf person does not write good English sentences. Remember he is writing as he thinks in signs. You should write, short, complete sentences. Do not use a big word if you know a small word."

Rev. Sloan needs help to complete his mission to Jamaica. The Baptist International Mission, Inc. address is P.O. Box 9215, Chattanooga, Tennessee, 37411.

His calling card has these words inscribed: "Behold I have set before thee an open door." - Revelation 3:8"

"LET'S ALL SING" is what Mrs. William Caslow is telling her students in sign language as the familiar hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" is sung at the Grace Baptist Church.

"YOU'RE TALKING too fast for me", is what Rev. Jim Sloan is telling Henry Cook and Paul Bryant as he asked them if they would like to become missionaries.

TELLING the story in sign language to the members of the congregation who are deaf are Mrs. William Caslow and Rev. Jim Sloan. Mrs. Caslow is doing part of the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers".

CPS Students Find Summer Employment

Despite what is generally recognized as a tight job market, Columbus Public School students have been finding jobs this summer at the rate of about 40 per day.

Under state law, students between the ages of 14 and 18 who find employment must obtain a work permit from the school district in which they live.

The Department of Pupil Personnel, which issues the permits for the Columbus schools, reported that 934 students obtained work permits in May and, while exact figures are not yet complete for June, permits issued during the month are expected to total about 1,500.

About half the students finding employment were provided jobs through the Neighborhood Youth Corps. The remaining students found jobs in a variety of local businesses, including many fast foods operations and several new restaurants which just recently opened.

Programs Receive Funding

The U. S. Department of Labor today announced funding $569,180 of eight Ohio Neighborhood Youth Corps Out of School Programs to provide jobs for 352 economically deprived youth.

The teenage (17 to 19 years old) school dropouts enrolled in the programs work at a variety of jobs for public or governmental employers and are motivated to return to school.

Each enrollee must agree to go back to night school or into a vocational training program in order to stay in the program, Mrs. Beatrice Veneable, head counselor of the Youngstown program said. Counselors make weekly visits to work sites to learn how the NYC enrollee is faring, she added.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Columbus, was granted $101,870 with 63 enrollees.

Returns

Marine Sgt. Thomas A. Firman of 827 Sunset Blvd., has returned to homebase at Jacksonville, N.C., after participation in the Nato exercise Operation Deep Furrow-71 in the Mediterranean.

Students To Live Overseas

Two Bexley High School students have been selected as participants in the American Field Service's American abroad program.

Jennifer Starr of 28 Bullitt Park Place will leave this month to spend a year in Norway.

The recent high school graduate will live with a family in Oppaker, Norway and will attend school at Nesgymnsa.

David Levoff of 2637 Fair Ave. will spend the summer with a family in Lohja, Finland.

While there he will attend a two week school seminar on world peace.

"Sing America" Is Float Winner

The parade was one of the many activities included in the big four day celebration.

Berwick Manor Civic Association won the Best Civic Float for their entry entitled "The Great Americans."

The Campfire Girls float won the Best Youth float title. Riding on the float were members of Hda-To-To from the Westview Leaders Association of the Southwest District Columbus Area Council.

East Main Street School had the Best School float and the Whitehall Fireman's Ladies Auxiliary had the Best Antique Firetruck.

The best church float was entered by St. Catherines. It was a hugh riverboat called the Mark Twain.

Eastmoor Earns Third Summer League Crown

Despite a hatful of frustrating experiences in the City League campaign this Spring, Eastmoor's Warriors came back like champs to roll up their third consecutive East Summer League title.

Ron Golden's troops raced to a 12-2 slate for league activity, and swept three 'unofficial' doubleheaders for an 18-2 overall mark–both losses being one-run affairs to runnerup Hartley.

RON WAS TICKLED pink with an offense that generated 143 runs in 14 loop outings, but even more enthusiastic about the development of some impressive pitching depth.

"Monty Corron, the guy we leaned on all Spring, only pitched three innings this summer," said Golden. "We used 11 kids on the mound altogether, and wound up with a 2.16 team earned run average– I'd have to say that's pretty encouraging for the future."

Versatile Monty Hannah not only led the club in hitting (.433 average, 12 extra-base hits and 13 RBI's)– he also posted a perfect 5-0 slate to pace the Warrior mound corps, striking out 39 enemy hitters in 35 innings and finishing all five starts.

PERHAPS THE MOST pleasant surprise of the summer season was Ed Shipp–a two-year outfield regular who suddenly emerged as a real "stopper" on the hill. Shipp hurled three complete game victories in as many starts, allowing a mere two earned runs in 18 innings for a staff-leading 0.78 ERA.

The strong-armed senior-to-be also hit .308, with four home runs and 20 RBI's.

He got plenty of help in the offensive hit parade from Brian Stertzer and burly Ron Ayers, among others. Stertzer smacked the ball at a .421 clip, and led the club with 30 runs batted in. Ayers continued his late-Spring hitting binge, belting four roundtrippers and finishing with an even .400 average along with 15 RBI's.

IN ALL, no fewer than 11 Eastmoor players wound up Summer League activity with averages of .300 or better. Besides those already mentioned, they included Mark Munsell (.384), Bill Courtney (.367), Tim Kauffman (.365), Barry Katz (.360), Joe Fryer (.350), Scott Stewart (.363) and varsity performers Monty Corron and Craig Passen at .333 each.

Passen earned special mention for his eagle eye and quick bat–the classy third sacker made 72 plate appearances without a single strike out.

The Warrior mound picture for '73 was further enhanced by Mark Williams, a righthander who blew down 20 opposing batsmen on strikes in 20 innings of work and posted a strong 2.10 ERA.

AMOND THE MOST promising newcomers, Ron listed outfielder-pitcher Jody Hurt and utility man Scott Stewart from Johnson Park and a pair of E-M Jr. High standouts; Larry Nordman and Eric Norris.

Glenn Bigga, Kevin Reed and Dave Reynolds combined to provide four more pitching victories–and an abundance of mound talent for Golden to sort through next Spring.

"With Mark Kraker back at shortstop (the All-City whiz missed his junior season with a slow-healing football injury), and the kind of pitching and hitting we got this summer–we should be real tough again next year," concluded the Warrior boss.

"THAT IS, with a little luck," he added.

Drexel Theatre beat Divine Realtors 3-1 last week, handing the Divine team its first loss and knotting the two clubs in second place behind league leading Eastern Kiwanis. Kiwanis won two games last week (18-8 over Bexley Lions and 11-8 over R.C. Cola) to push their record to 6-0.

The Lions kept the pressure on until the sixth inning when Kiwanis exploded for eleven runs to snap a 7-7 deadlock. Scott Edwards and Ed Benedetti lead the winners with two doubles each.

In the 11-8 win over RC Cola, Edwards and Benedetti each had doubles with the bases loaded, knocking in 3 runs each.

IN THE DREXEL-DEVINE game, Steve Gust and Craig Middlemus combined their pitching talents to fire a nifty two hitter. Drexel then defeated R.C. Cola 11-8, with Gust and Middlemus turning to hitting in this game (3 hits each) as John Sophos got the pitching win.

Divine bounced back from their loss to Drexel to hand Dollar Federal an 11-3 setback. Tom Kirker had a 3 run homer and Doug Divine had three hits. Dollar Federal got 3 strong relief innings from pitcher Rick Harris who struck out seven, and went two-for-two at the plate. Also with perfect plate appearances for the Federals were Doug Wiseman and Jesse Goldberger.

Hanna Paint hitters went wild in two wins, defeating Dollar Federal 19-2 as Scott Hanna and Andy Bowman each homered and Rex Elliott took the honors on the mound; then unleashing a powerful attack on A.O. Wing. In this win Rex Elliott, Scott Hanna and Fred Hadley each hit home runs and triples. Hadley was also the winning pitcher in a 30-9 romp.

BEXLEY LIONS nipped A.O. Wing 8-7, as Jim Acton went two-for-two with 3 RBI's. In their loss (18-8) to league leading Eastern Kiwanis, the Lions' Dan Roslovic hurled five good innings before the roof fell in on him in the sixth.

A.O. Wing and R.C. Cola both suffered two defeats last week, but continued to improve on their hitting. With a little consistency in their defenses they could both be teams to watch in the second round.

Buckeye Tennis Organizers

GETTING TOGETHER recently for a few sets of their favorite sport was this group of local net enthusiasts. Actually the conclave had a double purpose–because all are actively involved in planning the City National Buckeye Tennis Tournament, slated July 17-23 at Buckeye Boys' Ranch near Grove City. Many of the game's most famous names will be on hand for the international event–all proceeds from which go to help the Ranch care for Central Ohio youngsters. Planners include: (front row, from left) Mrs. Thomas Bogen, Mrs. John Pfahl, Mrs. Fred Bacon, Mrs. John Jundt, Mrs. Phillip Markwood, Mrs. John Heintz, Mrs. Howard Orth, and Mrs. George Renkert. Back row: Mrs. Raymond Bethel, Jack Kessler, John Russell, John McCoy, John Sandefur, Les Bostic, Chuck Winslow, Ken Keller, John Jundt, Doug Lake, Don Williams, Bob Whetzel, Grant Bowen and Dave Madison.

T.A.T., Rick's Capture '72 Milo-Roc Pennants

Despite suffering loss number one last week, T.A.T. Pizza nailed down its fifth consecutive Milo-Roc Mendel major league baseball crown; while Rick's Car Wash grabbed win number 12 without a setback to clinch the minor league pennant.

After stacking up 12 straight wins of their own, T.A.T. dropped a 7-3 overtime verdict to the major league Rick's entry last week after they had already earned the '72 title.

SCOTT SHAW of Rick's and Bobby Harrington of T.A.T. hooked up in a 1-1 pitchers' duel through the regulation six innings, then Tom Burnett capped a three-for-four day with a bases loaded triple to give Rick's a 7-3 verdict.

Harrington and Greg Thomas paced the T.A.T. pitching corps with perfect 4-0 records over the campaign. Lindy Borror led the champs in hitting with a terrific .571 average–followed closely by Harrington's .568 and Perry Passen's .559.

Tim Beck and Scott King were defensive standouts.

OTHER MAJOR LEAGUE contests reported last weeek found Beck Masonry topping Convenient Foods 5-3 and Liv-Moor slugging Tommy's Pizza 17-8.

RICK'S CAR WASH smacked Convenient Foods 11-7, then squeezed out a 6-5 thriller over Liv-Moor later last week to claim sole possession of the Minor League throne.

John Stricker got relief help from Tom Rickenbacker in the win over Convenient, while Scott Ireland, Joel Kellogg and Mike Phelps paced the offense.

Stricker came back against Liv-Moor with a three-run homer, to keep the club's slate unblemished in 12 league outings.

COACH JERRY JOCHEM had raves for pitchers Rickenbacker (6-0) Stricker (4-0) and Kellogg (2-0), and cited Ireland, Doug Gleckner, Mike Phelps, Steve Pheeler and Jerry Jochem for their stick-work over the campaign.

Coach Jochem's assistants included Randy Jochem, Duane Phelps and scorekeeper Jackie Kellogg.

"Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

Jo Kiser is back in town, and Lincoln Lodge has her. This is the fourth trip to the popular west side motel for this talented gal with a million dollar figure with a personality and talent to match.

Jo has been a big hit at the Lincoln Lodge ever since her first appearance.

And, rightly so. This gal has more talent and does more entertaining than any trio, quartet or quintet in the country. Jo is a single act. She plays piano and sings. Now, from the way that reads, Jo doesn't sound very exciting. But, wait until you see and hear her.

Her figure would put many of the Hollywood stars to shame. Add a beautiful face to this and you have a real looker.

Enough for the visual appeal. You would like this gal's talent, even if she were built like a Sherman Tank. Why? Talent is the name of the game, and talent is Jo's trademark. This gal has a voice that is rich and full. Fantastic control, style and the ability to sell a song with her vocal renditions makes you want to hear more and more.

Jo will give you more. This girl works. Not like most entertainers. Jo does not work by the clock. She just plays and plays taking very few breaks the entire evening.

Accompanying herself on the piano, which by the way, is as solid as her singing, makes Jo an extremely dynamic act.

While Jo is a sexy bundle of music, she has a warmth and cheerfulness about her that causes the women as well as the men to come back again and again. Believe me, if you are looking for good, high powered entertainment then Jo Kiser is a must for you. She is a hand clapping, foot stomping, good time act. She will be at Lincoln Lodge for two weeks.

Frequently people ask me where to go for some fine jazz music in Columbus. True, it is hard to find in this town. However, there is a group currently at the Marriott Inn Motel that do play some pretty cool music. The name of the trio is the Geoff Tyus Trio.

Featuring leader, Geoff Tyus, on piano, Greg Pearson at the drums and Larry Randolph with the electric bass, you have three true musicians.

Put them together and you have a strong trio that will set you right back in your seat with their musical stylings. While they may not play way out jazz very often, which they are capable of doing, they do lay down some fine sophisticated music.

These fellows, while they are each experts in their field, have welded themselves together into one solid unit. This is one of the secrets.

Geoff takes off at the black and whites like a 747. Musically speaking, he is just as big and powerful. This fellow puts out plenty of intricate chord structures. His keyboard harmonics will keep you on the edge of your seat. Add the rythum works of Greg and the bass harmonics of Larry to Geoff's works, gives you sounds that makes you purr like a kitten.

These boys are not showman, and don't pretend to be. If you are after some great musical sounds, the likes of which you don't have an opportunity to hear too often, then The Geoff Tyus Trio at the Marriott Inn Motel is a must for you.

They will grab your ears and hold on tight all the time you are there. The name of the game is MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC.

The next time a big name band come to Scot's Inn Motel, make sure you read the newspaper ads as well as listening to their spots on radio.

Last Saturday night, when Stan Kenton performed in the main ballroom at Scot's Inn, the General Manager of the Spectator Newspapers, Don Dorsten, planned to attend. He followed the information given over the radio and information received from the girl on the phone when Dorsten phoned in his reservations. However these proved rather incorrect.

After making reservations for dinner, and enjoying a rather delicious meal, Don attempted to make his way to the ballroom to catch his idol, Stan Kenton. It was then and only then, that he found out that you had to purchase a $5 ticket and have advance reservations for Kenton. The radio spots said nothing about this. Hence, his trip was all for nothing.

As both Dorsten and myself believe, $5 per person for an evening with Stan Kenton is a very reasonable price. Yet, it does appear that Scot's Inn radio advertisement was a little misleading on this particular affair.

Dorsten was not the only one in this situation. Many people were there with the same opinion as Dorsten's. Even one of the female employees stated that it was a shame about the confusion and the fact $5 admission charge was tacked on those who had dinner.

Let's all hope, that this problem will be corrected by the management for their next big band promotion.

By the way, if you were one of the many unfortunate people who did not catch Stan Kenton because of the mixup, Stan Kenton will be at Indian Lake, July 22. It is only a short drive. See you there.

As a service to you, my readers, let me tell you about a great dining place I found while on vacation last week. Its name is Guy Welliver's Smorgasbord, located in Hagerstown, Indiana.

Now this is only an 80 minute drive from Columbus. You just take I-70 east, to Richmond, then pick up route 38 - north from I-70.

The price is only $3.75 and believe me it is worth the trip. Close to a 150 items are available. First, you go through the salad line. Here, you build your own with choice of dressing, chopped egg and many, many other

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Dr. William A. McWhorter is a native of Cleveland who now lives in Columbus. He received his doctorate at Ohio State University where he is now an associate professor of mathmatics.

Why is this important to you, who are interested in theatre? Because, in his spare time, Willy (as he is known to me) is an actor.

As an active member of Players Club, Willy has had many roles, the most recent being in "Toys In the Attic," which won the regional OCTA competition. Now he is a featured actor in the Ohio Theatre Company, a repertory group in the purest sense of the word, formed to produce original plays with music for children at the Ohio Theatre.

They run on a Monday through Saturday basis at 2 p.m. and there is an 11 a.m. performance on Monday and Saturday through August 26. Admission is nominal so bring the kids to the Ohio Theatre. Here is a thumbnail sketch of the shows.

"Discovery 1492" is about the trouble Columbus had in getting backing for his venture. In this one, which can be seen again Saturday, July 15, Willy plays four parts - a Spanish crook, a Prior, a Spanish Lord and a commissioner.

In "Behalf of the Laugh" we see Willy as a Tiger who steals the Clown's smile to give to the lady ring master so she will be kind to him. This "Circus with a moral" appears Tuesday, July 18.

Willy acts as the narrator, as well as singing and dancing in "Black Legend," which is the dramatization of a particular black legend - the origin of man on Earth. Unless you are reading this before 2 p.m. this Wednesday afternoon, you will have to wait until next Thursday, July 20, to enjoy this beautiful story.

"Tea Party 1773" is about the Boston Tea Party, of course, and in it Willy plays an American businessman whose business is selling tea. Thursday, July 13 will be the next day to see how it turns out, and can you think of a better way to teach the children history? The basic facts have not been altered.

Monday, July 27, the group will present "Galaxy" an astronomical, astrological, ecological extravaganza. Seven adult actors portray the seven planets, with Willy as the wise old Saturn. Each planet has a personality of it's own and Earth has a reputation for not behaving itself.

The last one in the series is "Westward Woe," a melodrama about a mean thieving sheriff (Willy) and the hero who exposes and then replaces him. A real "pie in the face" comedy.

Other actors in the company are Holly Chapman, Bronwyn Hopton, David Hassler, Bill Morton, Ron Steelman and Carolyn O'Donnel. Clifford John Williams wrote most of the material and directs. David Chase does the musical direction and wrote most of the music.

There are many children from high school age on down involved in the action both on stage and behind the scenes, learning what it is like to produce a play.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

The way this weather has been the last few weeks, it is hard to believe that it is summer. Now, Bob and Dick's Place, is confusing things more: They are planning big Christmas in July Party, Friday, July 21. There will be a Christmas tree, cards, Christmas music and even a visit from that man from the north pole. It will all be happening at 2094 Sullivant Ave.... Just received word that Bob Wisebar, the genial manager of the Holiday Inn - East is being moved to Cleveland. This town is going to miss this fellow. He was a progressive, astute manager, who did more for the place than any other manager since it has been opened. The new one sure has a pair of big shoes to fill....Martha Potter has been held over at the Sheraton Airport Inn, according to the food and beverage manager, Scratch Pestano. This place is rapidly "the spot in Columbus, for food and entertainment....The two funniest and most talented guys in the business have been held over at the Olentangy Inn. That's none other than Glenn and Bill. They are fabulous. The OI is back to its old self of many years ago, nothing but fun, morning, noon and night. Poolside swings.

There are always lots of good looking, sharp gals around poolside on a nice afternoon....The Ramada Inn Motels continue to pack them at all three spots. At East you'll find Clyde and Hilda sharing the bill Thursday through Saturday with another fine outfit, Boys 'N' Ivy Quintet. Both of these groups are superior, in my book.

At Ramada Inn South, Sunny Norris and the Nashville Sound, have been held over and up North, Martin Edwards Quartet continue to please the crowds. You will always have a good time at one of the Ramadas. There is something for everyone....

Medic Units Average 3-5 'Saves' Per Month

A middle-aged man with a history of heart disease suddenly feels chest pains. Within a few minutes after a telephone call, one of Columbus' three medic units arrives to help him.

Fire Department squadsmen, trained in diagnosis and treatment of cardiovascular emergencies at OSU's College of Medicine, man the three medic units that rush to emergencies in an average of six minutes.

"COLUMBUS has one of the most sophisticated and extensive medical emergency systems in the world right now," believes Dr. Richard P. Lewis, who directs the squadsmen's training. He is acting director of the division of cardiology and an associate professor of medicine at Ohio State.

The three medic units are outfitted of the Heartmobile. The Heartmobile began 24-hour operations in April, 1969, partly through a federal grant. It was used in research on emergency vehicles, but now is a back-up unit.

One of the purposes of the medic units is to help reduce deaths among heart attack victims, about half of whom die within two hours of the onset of symptoms, Dr. Lewis said. The units also serve traffic accident victims and other whose lives are in immediate danger, and this emergency care may prove as valuable as cardiac care, he said.

THE SQUADSMEN provide life-preserving and resuscitative care, then after the patient's condition is stable, they take him to a hospital.

Currently, the firemen are saving an estimated three to five lives a month, Dr. Lewis said. The three vehicles serve more persons (now about 200 a month) and reach them faster then one vehicle could. "The squadsmen see about 30 to 40 percent of heat attack and sudden death victims in the city in a month," he said.

One medic unit was put into service last fall and the other two began service in February, 1972.

THE VEHICLES contain portable cardiac care equipment, which is carried into a home. The portable equipment, developed in the last few years, includes an electrocardiograph and oscilloscope and a defibrillator for application of electric shocks to correct serious disturbances in heart rhythms.

A study shows that the performance of the squadsmen, who serve as medics, matches that of physicians, Dr. Lewis said. "The squadsmen see many more emergency cases than most physicians, and their diagnostic acumen and technical skills in these cases are just as good," he believes.

Ohio State faculty have also trained firemen from Grandview, Newark, Franklin Township, Whitehall, Upper Arlington, and Dublin. Training is limited to central Ohio towns which have a vehicle and a supervising physician, Dr. Lewis said.

Here's A Pretty Float

THE COLUMBUS and Southern Ohio Electric Company float will appear in many events in Franklin County this year. The float has its own music system and is available without charge for parades and festivals from now through November. The newly redecorated float maintains the patriotic theme, with eagles, flags, and a life sized statue of George Washington. The other life sized model shown here is pretty Tomsy Rossetter, Columbus' winner in the 1971 Miss World contest. For additional scheduling information, contact the Public Relations Department, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Thunderbirds Feature At Lockbourne

Lockbourne Air Force Base will celebrate the Air Force's 25th anniversary Saturday, July 15th, with a "Silver Anniversary Open House" at the base.

The open house will feature a performance by the world famous Air Force Thunderbirds aerial demonstration team, preceded by a demonstration of close formation flying and paratroop drops by aircraft of Lockbourne's 302nd Tactical Airlift Wing (Air Forced Reserve) and 121st Tactical Fighter Group (Ohio Air National Guard).

At a joint press conference last week, Brig. Gen. Ben Mangina, commander of the 302nd, and Brig. Gen Paul E. Hoover, commander of the 121st, explained that Lockbourne's July 15th open house will be a joint effort staged by all three segments of the Air Force now represented by units stationed at Lockbourne; the Air Force Reserve, the Ohio Air National Guard, and the active Air Force represented by the 301st Air Refueling Wing (Strategic Air Command).

COLONEL Myron Forbes, project officer for the open house, said that Lockbourne's gates would open to the public at 9 a.m. July 15 and remain open until 5 p.m. that afternoon. He noted that the day-long event would be an ideal outing for the family with a day-long program of activities, plenty of airplanes, and concession and restroom facilities in abundance.

The open house program will begin at 10 a.m. with a march-in-review staged by 200 Air Force Reserve Training Cadets (ROTC) taking their summer training at Lockbourne. Music for the march and for a concert from 12 noon until 1 p.m. will be provided by the 83rd Army Reserve Command Band from Ft. Hayes Columbus.

The Thunderbirds will arrive at Lockbourne and land after a 15 minute aerial demonstration at 11 a.m.

At 1 p.m. aircraft and pilots of the 302nd TAW and the 160 the Air Refueling Group and 121st Tactical Fighter Wing will begin an hour's demonstration of precision formation flying, aerial refueling and troop and cargo drops.

One of the program's highlights will occur when 30 members of Company D, 11th Special Forces Group, Army Reserve, parachute from Lockbourne cargo planes and land within 1000 feet of the spectator area. Company D is a Columbus Army Reserve unit.

LOCKBOURNE'S patrol dog section will put on demonstrations of military dog handling at 11:30 and 2:30 during the open house. The Columbus Controlliners, a central Ohio model airplane group will conduct their Ohio model flying tournament on an area near the open house display area throughout the day.

In addition to an entertaining and educational program of aerial demonstrations and ground displays, Lockbourne's commanders said they hoped the open house would give central Ohioans an idea of Lockbourne's new role as a composite force base.

Since July 1971, Lockbourne has opened its doors to a growing number of diversified flying units. The base is controlled by the 301st Air Refueling Wing of the Strategic Air Command. The 301st is the only active duty Air Force unit presently stationed at Lockbourne.

The base is also home for the 121st TFG (ANG) and its F-100 Supersaber fighters. New to the base is the 302nd TAW (AFRES) and the 160th ARG (ANG).

In addition to Air Force units, Lockbourne also is the home of an Army ordnance disposal unit, the 71st Explosive Ordnance Disposal Detachment, and a Naval Reserve maintenance unit, the Naval Air Reserve Training Detachment.

EACH of these units, and many more from the Columbus area, will help Lockbokrne celebrate the Air Force's 25th year as a separate branch of the United States military.

AT 3 P.M. the Thunderbirds will present their demonstration of the capabilities of the F-4D Phantom, the Air Force's first line jet fighter. This will be the Thunderbird's only performance at a Strategic Air Command base this year and one of their few appearances in the Ohio area this year.

In addition to the aerial demonstrations, Lockbourne's open house will feature a variety of ground displays representing all branches of the military represented in the cedntral Ohio area. Over 25 different aircraft will be set up on Lockbourne's flightline for close public inspection.

All four military branch recruiters will have special displays set in Lockbourne's giant hanger complex as will North American Rockwell.

HANDCRAFT EVENT

One of the nation's largest expositions of historic handcrafts, the 10th annual National Festival of Craftsmen, will be held September 30 through October 15 at Silver Dollar City in the Missouri Ozarks.

CAP Test Begins Friday At Airport

The Ohio Civil Air Patrol will conduct its 1972 Search and Rescue Test Friday through Sunday with the mission command post stationed in wing headquarters at Port Columbus.

CAP, which was born in 1941 as the auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, today flies over 70 percent of the air-hours spent in looking for missing aircraft in the U.S., logging over 29,000 hours of flight time nationally last year.

COMMANDER of this year's CAP exercise will be Lt. Col. Frank Heselton of Columbus, commander of Group VIII.

His field operating bases will be at Montgomery Co. Airport (south of Dayton), Fairfield County Airport (northwest of Lancaster) and Kent State University Airport (west of Stow).

In addition to pilots, Lt. Col. Heselton will have numerous other persons under his command, many in supporting roles in communications, transportation, flight line supervisors etc.

A FEATURE to be included in the search aspect of the mission that will be of great interest to pilots in general, is that there will be electronic 'downed aircraft locator' beacons used to simulate a target.

These beacons have been strongly recommended by the Federal Aviation Agency to be installed in all aircraft. They are required in all new aircraft built starting on January 1, 1973.

One of the reasons for including the beacon is to familiarize the search pilots with the techniques required to pin down the location of the 'missing aircraft'. In this way, the time element in carrying out the rescue can be greatly reduced, thereby improving the probability of survival of people in the 'aircraft'.

ANYONE who may wish to observe how Civil Air Patrol does this job is welcome to come to Ohio Wing Headquarters at Port Columbus Saturday. Headquarters is located at 4900 Sawyer Rd., adjacent to the Columbus Fire Department station (northeast part of the airport).

Suggested visiting hours are between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Guides will be provided to conduct visitors through the operation.

Assets Hit Record High

Park Federal Savings & Loan Association has topped the $75 million assets mark, according to Jack W. Chilcote, President.

The amount was reached due to a $8.3 million net gain during the first half of 1972, reflecting a 12.42 percent growth rate over the $67 million assets at the beginning of the year, he said.

The 82 year old Columbus financial institution reported a first half savings increase of $7.6 million, for a 13.38 percent rate of growth and a net mortgage loan increase of $5.2 million - a 9 percent rate of growth.

'COMFORTABLE' MYTH

Is 'Liberty-Or-Death' Author's Fabrication?

"...Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?

Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"
—Patrick Henry.

Research by two Ohio State University professors and their graduate students strongly suggests that the familiar version of Patrick Henry's famous "liberty or death" speech was a biographer's fabrication.

The Revolutionary patriot did make a speech in Richmond, Va., on Mar. 23, 1775, and he may have used the "liberty or death" phrase.

BUT THE often-quoted words known to every schoolchild were never written until long after the orator's death, say the Ohio State researchers.

The historic version of the address was actually the work of Henry's first biographer, William Wirt of Richmond who published it 42 years after the speech was delivered.

"Wirt never met Henry and consequently never heard him speak," says Dr. Goodwin F. Berquist of the department of speech communication.

BERQUIST and Dr. Paul C. Bowers of the department of history conducted an interdepartmental seminar last year in an effort to trace the origin of Henry's famous speech.

Their findings show that the account of this address was a principal factor in establishing the reputations of both Henry and his biographer.

"Moreover," reports Berquist, "the liberty or death speech is one of the three best known addresses ever given in American history." (The others are Lincoln's Gettysburg address and the Kennedy inaugural.)

THE HENRY seminar took Berquist, Bowers and three of their graduate students to research libraries in Richmond and Williamsburg, where they used primary documents to reconstruct Wirt's procedure in preparing the Henry biography.

"We know that Henry delivered a version of this speech at a rump session of the second Virginia convention on March 23, 1775, shortly before the Battle of Lexington and Concord," Bowers noted.

"But Henry used no manuscript. Where, then, did Wirt's text come from?"

BERQUIST calls Wirt's research task a "rhetorical jigsaw puzzle." What he had to work with were fragmentary versions recalled by those who had heard Henry speak.

"Actually, our evidence indicates more support for the final 'liberty or death' phrase than for any other portion of the speech," he said.

The Ohio State scholars emphasize that their goal was not to debunk Henry or belittle his deserved reputation as the "voice" of the American Revolution. Rather, their interest stems from a desire for truth.

"WHEN WE have something that is the very essence of America's self-image," they point out, "it behooves us to see where it came from -- we wanted to find out what part was Henry, what part, Wirt."

William Wirt began his biography three years after Henry's death in 1799. He spent 15 years collecting material in Richmond.

The Ohio State researchers maintain that what Wirt published was a manuscript based partly on the piecemeal recollections of a handful of old men and partly on his own imagination. They conclude that the myth of authenticity remains firmly established "because it's comfortable."

LET'S TOUR OHIO

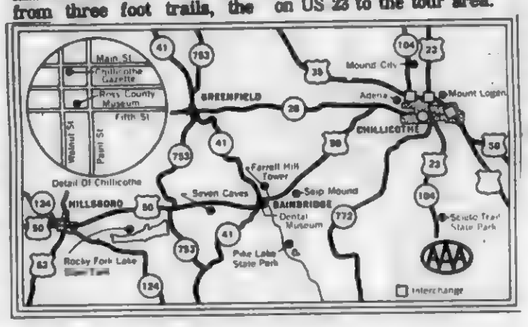
Seven Caves, Mansion Highlight Summer Tour

Southern Ohio, between Chillicothe and Hillsboro, offers a variety of attractions for an interesting family tour.

Adena, at Chillicothe, was built in 1806 for Thomas Worthington, U.S. Senator and later Governor of Ohio.

THE GEORGIAN mansion, its outbuildings and grounds have been restored by the Ohio Historical Society. The grounds provide a view to the east of Mt. Logan, which inspired Ohio's state seal.

Other Chillicothe attractions are the Ross County Museum, with four floors of exhibits including Ohio's consitiution table, a pioneer wagon and Indian relics, and the Chillicothe Gazette. The Gazette is the oldest newspaper west of the Alleghenies. Its building, a replica of the state's first capitol, houses a printing museum.



West of U.S. 50 is Seip Mound, built by the Hopwelll Indians. The mound is 30 feet high and up to 250 feet at the base. A pavilion displays interesting exhibits about the tribe's culture.

BAINBRIDGE is home for a Dental Museum in the building which housed the first dental school (1838-51). Exhibits of early dental technology are displayed.

Seven Caves, also on U.S. 50, is an outstanding attraction. Each cavern is electrically illuminated and has cement walks. Accessible from three foot trails, the caves can be toured without an escort in an hour.

Three excellent state parks in the area--Rocky Fork, near Hillsboro; Pike, south of Bainbridge, and Scioto Trail, south of Chillicothe--are very different in character, but offer a wide array of outdoor facilities.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Columbus, go south-west on I-71 to Jct. with I-270; east on I-270 to Jct. with US 23; south on US 23 to the tour area.

Hearing Tests Set

The Hearing and Speech Center of Columbus will sponsor free hearing screening tests at shopping center malls throughout the Columbus area beginning the week of July 16, and continuing through the end of August.

Here's the schedule for the hearing cruiser: July 20-21 - Eastland Mall; July 26-28 - Westland Mall; Aug. 3-4 - Northland; Aug. 17 - 18 - Great Southern; August 24-25 - Northern Lights. Tests will be conducted between noon until 9:30 p.m.

Legion Circus Opens July 17

The 12th District Council, American Legion will sponsor John Strong's 1869 Circus July 17-19 at the Great Western Shopping Center.

Performances are scheduled at 6 and 8 p.m. on July 17 and 18 and at 4 and 7 p.m. on July 19.

TICKETS ($2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children or $5. for entire family) are availabvie at the district office, 250 W. Broad St., or from any of the 26 local Legion posts.

The Legionaires will also hold a special matinee performance (2 p.m., July 18) for worthy and under-privileged children. Free tickets for that performance are also available at the above-mentioned locations.

Circus funds will go for Viet-Time Veterans Honor Day.

Tax Liabilities Listed

Working couples and individuals who have more than one job may not be having enough withheld from their paychecks to cover their 1972 Ohio income tax liability, it was reported today by Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar.

"In order to keep working couples and persons with more than one job from having additional tax liability at the end of the year in excess of tax withheld the Ohio Department of Taxation has issued a new form, IT-4, which will allow changes in withholding procedures," the commissioner said.

Form IT-4, which permits employees to request a fixed amount to be withheld from their paycheck or allows for a change in the number of exemptions claimed, is now available from most Ohio employers or the Ohio Department of Taxation, P.O. Box 2476, Columbus.

KOSYDAR asks working couples and taxpayers with more than one job to reassess their situations with regard to potential year-end tax liability and to boost the amount they are having withheld if necessary.

The following example of a working couple will show a potential problem of underwithholding:

A husband has an annual gross income of $11,000 and his wife earns an additional $6,000. The couple has two children giving the family a maximum of four $500 exemptions.

Both husband and wife each claim two exemptions and each plans to file a separate return. The exemptions lower the husband's taxable income to $10,000 on which the tax liability is $75.

The wife's taxable income less two exemptions, is $4,000 on which the tax liability is $20. Their joint tax liability, assuming each files a separate return, is $95.

HOWEVER, if the couple elects to file a joint Federal income tax return then they must by statute also file a joint Ohio income tax return. Their combined taxable income, less four exemptions, if $14,000.

The tax liability on $14,000 of taxable income is one-half of one per cent or $25 on the first $5,000; one per cent or $50 on the second $5,000; and two per cent or $80 on the remaining $4,000 for a total of $155 which is $80 more than the couple is having withheld.

Unlike the Federal law, Ohio law makes no provision for income-splitting or a separate tax table for working couples filing joint returns. This was done after due consideration by state legislators in drawing up the income tax bill holding with the "ability to pay" theory that the income tax should be higher for those with higher incomes.

MEDAL AWARDED

VA's highest research honor, the William S. Middleton Award, was presented recently to Dr. Marcus Rothschild for work on pathological biochemistry of the liver in alcoholism and other liver diseases.

CUBBYHOLE COOKING

By MYRNA MCCAULEY

So you're part of the apartment scene where most of your entertaining is spontaneous, or at least semi-so, and it's always good to have a few tricks up your sleeve. Okay, tuck these away for party day.

Say you invite a dozen or so for liquid refreshments. If there's time, freeze maraschino cherries, fresh fruits or olives in ice cubes to fancy up your beverages.

SERVING punch, but no punch bowl? Mix and serve from a coffee carafe, a large pitcher or even a perky coffee pot.

Fresh out of cocktail napkins? Cut pretty paper bathroom towels in half; fold each half in two again.

Need extra bowls for nibblers or snacks? Use coffee mugs, a crockery baking dish or a topless teapot.

THEN TO add a bit of pazzazz to a tray of crisp raw vegetable snacks, try these for a tasty surprise.

CHEESEY TOMATOES

1 pt. cherry tomatoes
4 oz. blue cheese
one-third cup walnuts, finely chopped
¼ cup mayonnaise

Take a scoop out of each cherry tomato with a grapefruit spoon, or a paring knife. Eat. Smash cheese and mix with mayonnaise; stir in nuts. Fill tomatoes and chill.

Or skip the relish and set out a basket of hard-cooked eggs – with salt, pepper and curry shakers for seasonings. Especially good served with beer or ale.

OR SET up your own popcorn stand. Buy the kind that comes ready for popping in its own pan. Or pop your own on top of the range using a skillet with a cover. Or buy it popped and doctor up, as follows:

POW-WOW POPCORN

11 oz. pkg. popcorn, already popped (about 24 cups)
Two ¼ lb. sticks of butter or margarine, melted
1 tbsp. onion or garlic powder or 4 tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese

Place popcorn in large baking pans or roasting pan. Sprinkle with seasoning. Pour on melted butter. Warm about 10 minutes in preheated 325 degree oven. Serve in large salad bowl, baskets lined with paper napkins – or pour into small plastic bags, seal with bag ties and serve individual portions. And don't spare the paper napkins!

Or when fruits are in season, impress your apartment buddies with snacks in self-made serving bowls. All you need is a tray underneath it all.

Scioto Downs' Cystic Fibrosis Night Is Scheduled For July 17

"Spend an evening at the Scioto Downs and help fight cystic fibrosis at the same time."

That's the invitation from Mrs. Jeanine Trautman, president of the Columbus Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The chapter has made arrangements with Scioto Downs management to sponsor a special evening at the track Monday, July 17.

Proceeds from ticket sales will go toward research of new techniques for combatting the disease.

"A telephone call to the Foundation (221-5920) will bring a volunteer with tickets to anyone's door," she said.

Save Money

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Special Assistant to President Nixon for Consumer Affairs

Unless you have a waterfall in your backyard with your own electric generating plant, you may be threatened with electrical shortages this summer. The Office of Emergency Preparedness has warned that several areas of the country could be affected and has urged everyone to conserve energy.

The conservation of energy means more than just turning off unused lights. It means using all of our electrical appliances and equipment more efficiently. And of course, this benefits us through savings on our utility bills--unless you do have that waterfall.

Here are some of the things you can do to conserve power and save your money:

Use only a little water to cook vegetables. You want to cook the vegetables, not heat water. And once the water is boiling, turn the heat down. Leaving the heat on high won't cook the vegetables any faster, and you may just burn the beans.

Don't open the oven door. Every time you do, you lose 20 percent of your heat.

If you have a refrigerator which needs to be defrosted, do it before the ice deposit is ¼ inch thick. Ice acts as an insulation and lessens the cooling power of the coils. More frequent defrosting will also lessen the chance of spoiled food from long defrosting periods.

If you are thinking of buying a refrigerator-freezer, keep in mind that a frost-free model uses approximately 50 percent more power than a frost type.

Check to make sure that your refrigerator is airtight. Closing the door on a piece of paper is a good check. If the paper is easy to pull out, you probably need to have the rubber gaskets around the door replaced.

Only run your dishwasher when you have a full load and preferably in the morning or late evening when the temperatures are lower and the demands on electricity not so high. Using the dishwasher only when necessary will not only save you power on its actual operation, but also on the cost of the hot water used.

Don't let hot water faucets leak. A leak which will fill an ordinary cup in ten minutes wastes 3,280 gallons per year, water you have to pay to heat.

Make sure your house is well insulated. This is equally important for both winter and summer as insulation works to keep out heat as well as cold.

Storm windows year round will help to cut your heating and cooling bills by as much as 15 percent.

Keep your windows closed. No matter how large your air conditioning unit, you can't cool the outdoors.

Do things which generate heat only during the cooler early morning or late evening hours to make less work for the airconditioner.

And do turn off those unused lights. They not only waste electricity, they generate heat. It is going to be hot enough without any added discomfort.

If you want more information on ways to save on heating or cooling, you might want to purchase 7 Ways to Reduce Fuel Consumption in Household Heating...Through Energy Conservation," (Stock No. 0303-0688; 25 cents and "11 Ways to Reduce Energy Consumption and Increase Comfort in Household Cooling" (Stock No. 0303-0676; 30 cents). place award for our "super" recreation fleet man. Thanks everyone for your help. Wednesday the 5th victory bells rang again for the boys basketball win over Cassingham.

Thursday the 6th was the playground Frisbee Contest with winners going to Jeffrey Park July 11th for the City Frisbee Championship. Montrose winners were the teams of: Jeff Crider and Mike Hertenstein (117 points) in first place; Dave Hertenstein and Kraig Kurucz in second with 100 points; Craig Kern and Larry Woods took third place with 91 points.

Thursday was also the day of the second playground car wash. Everyone loves this event, and the proceeds are used for special activities.

The day's activities ended with a kickball game against Cassingham. Our team did their usual fine job of kicking and scoring, with the final score 19-12 our favor.

Friday morning was the day of the playground Hula Hoop Contest, and hips were really swinging at Montrose.

Promoted

..George A. Gummer has been promoted to Senior Investment Officer of The City National Bank and Trust Co. of Columbus, it was announced by John G. McCoy, bank chairman. Gummer has been an Investment Officer and had joined City National as an Investment Administratior in 1970. Prior to that, Gummer was with Newark Trust Company, where he was a Trust Officer managing investment of the Trust department and portfolio of that Bank. He graduated from Ohio State University in 1967, with a major in Finance. He is a member of the Financial Analysts Society of Columbus and the Columbus Stock and Bond Club. Gummer, who is married and has two sons, resides at 104 South Kellner Rd.

Our winners were Barb Lavine and Debbie Eggleston (TIE).

Friday night the boys from Montrose (most of them anyway) were at Jeffrey Park for the annual Father-Son Campout. They met the Columbus Bucks; rode a pony, had free pop, saw the movie "Incredible Journey" and really had a ball! We missed them! The girls had a hat decorating contest (with ice cream cone prizes) and a bake sale (also featuring lemonade), so they had their fun, too.

Monday, July 10th was Sharing Day at Montrose and each child was given the chance to share any type of talent with his or her friends. This was fun and enjoyed by all, as was the Animal Fair also held on Monday. You name it and we had it at Montrose.

Wednesday at 5 p.m. there will be a Costume Fair and contest. All kinds of faces and costumes will be seen on the playground. There will be two contests to include the most conspicuous and the most original.

Our new "developing" playground is fantastic. Construction is coming right along. Come and see for yourself. We're keeping busy this summer and we want you to share the fun with us. See you at Montrose!

SHOW CANCELLED

The Eastmoor South Garden Club Flower Show, which had been scheduled for July 22 at the Eastview Methodist Church, has been cancelled.

Day Care Contracts To Help Residents

Thirteen contracts to provide a maximum of $122,275 in day care services to all eligible residents of Franklin County has been approved, Gov. John J. Gilligan and a Acting State Welfare Director Robert B. Canary said this week.

Canary said the contracts were between the Franklin County Welfare Department and 13 public and private providers of day care services located in the Franklin County area. A minimum of 220 youngsters will receive services during the period of the contracts, he said.

Canary said day care services provide protection, care and developmental experience for children of pre-school and school age whose parents need child care arrangements.

The care is provided for part of a 24-hour day when parents are incapacitated or must be away from the home working full time or in training for full time employment, he said.

Canary said day care also may be provided for children with special needs, such as disadvantaged, mentally retarded, or emotionally disturbed children.

He said the services were available to all former, present and potential recipients of Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

SUNDAY, Larry Fresch marked the third anniversary of The Fresch Music Company in Westland Shopping Center at 4176 W. Broad St. When Fresch came to Columbus in 1969 from Sandusky 14 years ago, he brought with him 14 years of experience in the music merchandising world. The store which is a delight to both musicians and simply those who appreciate good music is open from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, for browsing, for sales and for music lessons. The latchstring is always out, according to Fresch, who is more than happy to show the community why, in three short years, the mart has become one of the most respected music establishments in Central Ohio.

Fresch - The Music Man

No one at Fresch's Music Company in Westland Shopping Center is in a hurry - except to please the customers.

The reason for the leisurely pace is a simple one.

Larry Fresch, owner and manager, and his sales personnel realize that most families buy only a single piano or organ in a lifetime—and it is a purchase that must be approached throughtfully and with careful investigation.

Striving to make his business the "home of all your musical needs," Fresch stocks everything from concert grand pianos to violin strings.

The Wurlitzer organs come in spinet, console and concert series with a wide selection of wood and both Wurlitzer and Knabe pianos are sold in four series—spinet, console, baby grand and concert grand.

A complete line of band instruments and orchestra instruments with all accessories are available including mutes and reeds.

Almost a dozen teachers most of whom are degreed in music and none of whom have less than two years college training are on tap to give lessons on all instruments including the accordian. Beautiful private studios are part of the store.

And the customer who invests in an organ is offered the bonus of eight free lessons, unless the instrument is sold at a discounted price.

Other nationally-advertised products include amplifiers of all sizes, guitars, and optagons with their built-in rhythms.

The walls of the richly carpeted and tastefully decorated store are lined with the sheet music in which Fresch specializes and a broad selection of books on pianos and organ is available.

Yet another answer to one's musical needs offered is expert repair to all musical instruments.

With the average person—for example, the parent buying a piano for his child—relatively "a babe in the woods" the matter of price and quality on an instrument which represents a major investment, Fresch believes it of utmost importance that a customer can buy from him with complete confidence.

To build this confidence, he sells only merchandise of the highest quality—and then he stands fully behind every instrument sold.

Fresch truly has everything, except dissatisfied customers.

Just Some Good, 'Clean' Fun?

NO ONE WENT away mad, but everyone went away muddy at the Second Annual Dunk-In-The-Mud day at Whitney Park, Worthington, last week. Two contestants faced each other in a pillow-fighting contest on a free-rolling pole over a pit of mud. People and pillows alike vanished in the goocy muck, but most came up smiling as witnessed by the girl above who obviously enjoyed cooling off in the water. Spectator photo by Jo Goode.

BATTLE LINES DRAWN

McNaughton Rezoning Faces Council Tonight

By LYNN WILLIAMS

The lines have been drawn, sides taken and now the final decision rest with Columbus city councilmen who must decide whether or not a 120 acre tract of land on McNaughton Road will be rezoned to allow for multi-family units.

The council is expected to make that decision tonight at their meeting.

BOTH THE opponents and proponents plan to attend the meeting well armed for the battle.

Homewood Corporation, a private development company, is seeking to have the land rezoned Planned Unit Development (PUD 8).

The firm plans to build a 650 unit complex consisting of some single family homes and the remainder condominiums on the land if the rezoning goes through.

RESIDENTS IN the Triple R Association, a group made up of members of seven civic associations in the area, are fighting the rezoning in order to keep the area developing in single family homes.

James Feibel, attorney representing Triple R, said the residents want the area to remain as it is now, a kind of rural atmosphere.

"Several years ago the city planners drew up a plan for the Triple R area," Feibel said. "It was to be a kind of guideline for us as to how the area should develop."

HE SAID ACCORDING to the plan future subdivision development should maintain the same low densities as exits in the area now.

Under the section on land use the report states:

"Some multifamily development should be encouraged near Broad and Main Streets. Low density multifamily developments, such as townhouses are being developed along the north side of Main Street. This is an ideal use for this land, for it provides a buffer between the highway and the single-family subdivision."

FEIBEL SAID Homewood had built a complex near Broad Street on McNaughton.

"We were afraid at that time they would try and come south because there are large single family homes to the south of the complex. But instead they came to the very center of the area to develop."

Feibel said residents in the area object to apartments or condominiums in that area.

FEIBEL SAID residents objected to putting a complex developed 5.4 gross units per acre next to areas with 1.7 in Olde Orchard, 1.8 in Ravenwood and 1.7 in Laurel Canyon.

He said Homewood had argued that land to the east in Reynoldsburg was developed to a higher density but Feibel said the highest gross density they was 3.1 gross units per acre.

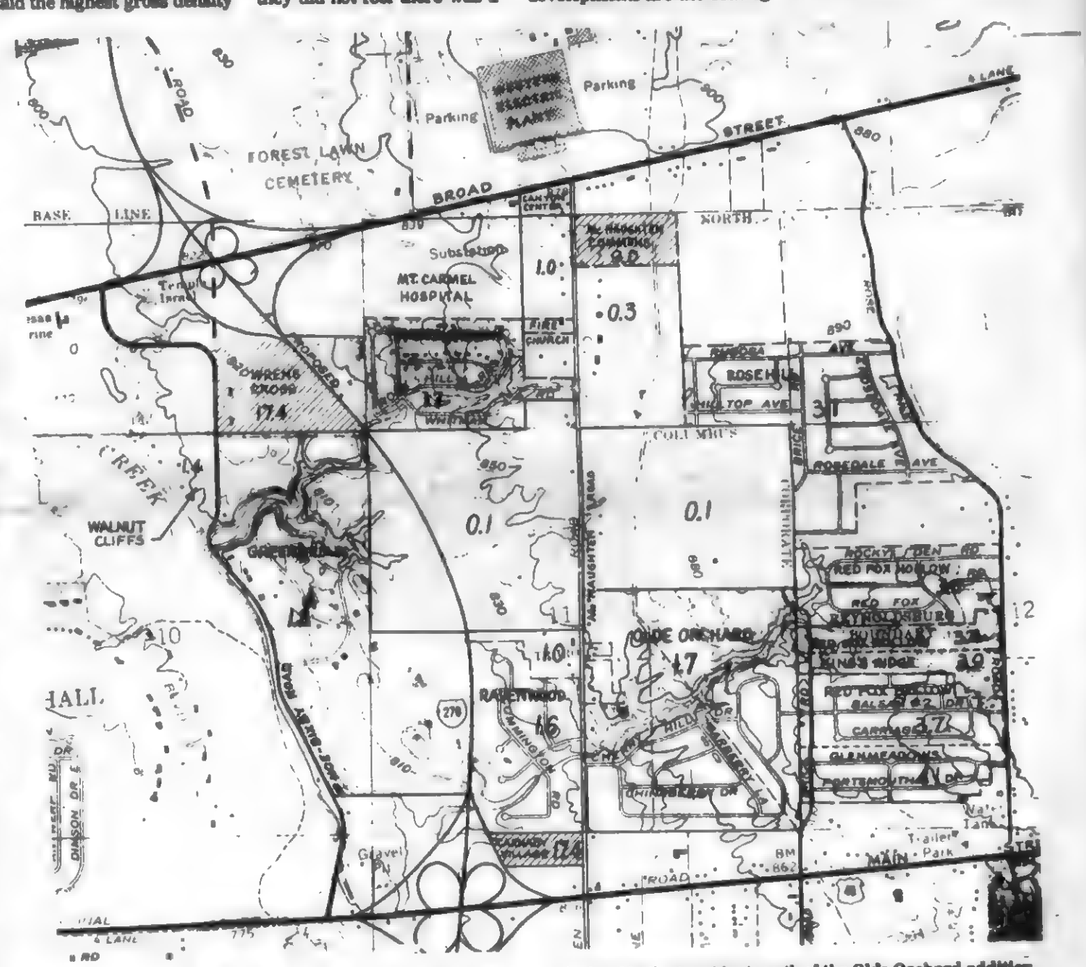
John Bain, executive vice president pf Homewood, said that the density they were asking was not considered high density. "High density would be 30 units to the acre."

BAIN EXPLAINED that single family homes were going to be built along the boundaries where complex backed up to other additions such as Olde Orchard.

Architect Friedrich Bohm, said this meant the property owners in that addition would look out the back and see more of the same.

Bain and Bohm also said they did not feel there was a great enough demand for more single family units in the area.

BAIN SAID the man who developed Olde Orchard still had lots available and had indicated he would not put in another single family development like Olde Orchard.



Feibel said there was a demand for more single family homes and pointed to the fact that many homes were still being built in that area. He also said only about 26 lots out of more than 300 were undeveloped and that several were near a bad ravine.

Bohm said PUD developments are the coming thing because they give an area some variety.

"THIS TYPE of complex is designed to give as much privacy as possible but still provide some common facilities. We are going to make use of the natural assets of the area."

The Columbus Development Commission last month recommended the rezoning be approved over objections from the staff of the city planning department.

Approximately 150 residents were on hand to protest the move. Feibel said he expects many more to be in attendance at tonight's meeting.

THE MAP OF THE Triple R area shows the gross density per acre of each of the additions in the McNaughton Road vicinity. This map is one of the weapons the Triple R Association plans to use in the fight to stop the rezoning of the land in the tract just north of the Olde Orchard addition. The rezoning would change the land from single family residential to planned unit development eight.

Board Unifies To Okay Bonding

By JANE ROBINSON
Spectator Staff Writer

A poker-faced board of education yesterday dealt Columbus voters the opportunity to approve a $89,500 construction bond issue in November.

The action leading to the unanimous approval of placing the issue on the ballot was anticlimatic to the turmoil that has led many to believe construction was a dead issue as far as the 1972 General Election went.

The break-through of the impasse built between the white and black blocs on the board came after wading through a lengthy, but relatively routine, agenda.

Tom Moyer, as president of the board, turned the gavel over to his vice-president, Mrs. Virginia Prentice, to clear the way for him to make a motion.

The motion was for the adoption of a policy statement he had prepared.

It read:

"It shall be the goal and the policy of the Columbus Public Schools to prepare every student for life in an integrated society by giving each student the opportunity of integrated educational experiences. Such a goal does not imply the mandatory or forced transportation of students to achieve a racial balance in any or all schools.

"The Superintendent of Schools shall implement this policy by the development of proposals for the approval of the Board of Education. The first priority of the Superintendent shall be the development of special programs that attract students from all schools and the development of a plan to provide the transportation necessary to give all students access to vocational and career facilities and all special programs or courses offered by the Columbus Public Schools."

Moyer described the document as one which, in essence, stated what the individuals had been trying to say, but had been unable to clarify.

Following a second by Paul Langdon, Dr. Watson Walker, admittedly speaking for himself and the other two blacks on the board (Mrs. Marie Castleman and Dr. David Hamlar) stated he did not think the words themselves meant a lot.

He stated that all he and his colleagues had wanted was a "sincere" policy statement on whether integrated education was good or bad.

He also referred to the extant statement endorsing integrated education, saying the board had changed somewhat since its passage.

Walker clarified that the policy does not mean that a black must sit by a white to learn, nor vice versa.

He also stated that no quota system for integration had ever been mentioned--and neither had mandatory or forced busing. He then, with a jibe at the emotionalism that the word "busing" arouses, stated "What we need is trains."

At the motion of Mrs. Prentice, the bond issue was then reconsidered and unanimously endorsed.

With the wording of the policy statement varying only slightly from that introduced by Supt. John Ellis last month, some viewed Tuesday's action as capitulation on the part of those endorsing integration.

However, it could be pointed out that an element of compromise was evident.

True, the more conservative members of the board were successful in their adamancy that involuntary busing should not be implemented. However, it was not too many months ago these same members would have rejected the concept of board-paid transportation for any reason other than to special school.

Furthermore, it remains in doubt whether the program for Staff Development and Human Relations recommended by Dr. Ellis last week would have been so speedily approved if the fracas over the bond issue had not been on hand.

Approved during the regular part of Tuesday's meeting, the $180,000 program is now ready for implementation--and it has a heavy emphasis on human relations.

In informal conversation following the board meeting, both blacks and whites endorsed their unified action and exhibited considerable confidence that the public will approve the bonding in November.

The opinion was also expressed that the appearance last week of Mayor Tom Moody and the pressures from the business community exerted in the last week had led board members to move from their recalcicrant positions.

If any overt sign of discontent with the board action was seen it was with the rather abrupt departure after the decision of several blacks who had appeared apparently to question the temporary budget that had been adopted at the beginning of the meeting.

In contrast those in the audience known to favor construction but strongly opposed to mandatory busing left with broad smiles.

SIGNS SUCH AS THIS one giving details on the rezoning meeting scheduled for city council tonight, were seen along McNaughten Road between Main and Broad Streets. The Triple R Association is urging residents to attend the meeting to protest the rezoning request for a tract of land just north of Olde Orchard addition. The request is being made by Homewood Corporation to allow for a 650 unit residential complex.

WORD PROCESSING LAB

Eastmoor Program First Of A Kind

By ANN MYERS
Special Staff Writer

Eastmoor High School next fall will be the only high school in the nation to have a word-processing laboratory to train future office workers.

Eastmoor will have a pilot program in word processing, funded by the State Board of Education, using dictation equipment and magnetic tape and card IBM Selectric typewriters.

STUDENTS IN the correspondence clerk curriculum, as the new program is called, will transcribe information from dictation machines on magnetic tape of card on the Selectric typewriters.

Don List, supervisor of business education for the Columbus Public Schools, pointed out that corrections can be made easily on materials transcribed on magetic tape and cards.

Paperwork can be much more easily recorded, corrected and stored on the magnetic tape and cards, making the word-processing concept very attractive to businesses, he said.

THE HIGH school program will be equipped with two magnetic tape machines and three that record on magnetic cards. List explained that the cards, about the size of index cards, can be more easily sorted and stored than tapes.

Students will be required to have a year of typewriting and one other business education course to enter the two-year correspondence clerk course.

In the junior year, students will study communication skills, the use of electric typewriters and the Selectric machines, and other office machines, such as calculators and duplicating machines.

IN THE SENIOR year, students will use simulation materials with the word processing equipment. List said that program planners hope to set up a program that simulates an actual office situation, so the students can get accustomed to work flow.

During the second semester, students may be placed in local business that have word processing laboratories, for on-the-job experience, List said.

About 350 magnetic tape Selectrics and about 225 using magnetic cards were in use by Columbus businesses in November, 1971, List reported. State government, insurance companies, and law offices are major users of word processing systems, he said.

"WITH THE paperwork explosion, we must find ways to make people more efficient," List stated.

A more efficient processing of paperwork will change secretaries from highly skilled typists and stenographers to administrative assistants, he pointed out. Schools will have to change their emphasis from producing typists and stenographers to training office workers in administrative skills, he said.

Eastland Receives Veteran Approval

The Adult Education Division of the Eastland Vocational Center has received Veterans Administration approval on three programs to be offered at the Center during the coming Fall term beginning September 25th.
